

ROWDYISM IN THEATERS DISCOURAGED IN COURT Police Judges Fritz and Mogan Frown Upon Defendants Who Express Dislike of Stage Performances in a Rough Way

Among the British customs which this comparatively uncivilized land of ours has resolutely declined to adopt is the time-honored one of transforming a theater into a bedlam when the performance fails to please. In good old London even the most genteel audience expresses disapproval of an actor or an actor by moaning "Boo" and pelting the stage with orange peel, nuts and other convenient missiles, but the most rabid of this country's Anglo-Americans who has not entirely relinquished claim to respectability would never descend to such rowdiness as that.

Two of them, John Fraser and Eddie Ferris, were sentenced to twenty-four hours imprisonment yesterday by Judge Fritz, and at the end of that period they are to reappear for additional punishment if it can legally be ordered. They endeavored to make "rough house" as the prosecuting policeman termed it, in a Market street home of melodrama, and their behavior was so offensive to the less exacting folk in the audience that their arrest was effected in the interest of law and order. It was the way in which the villain of the play maltreated the heroine that stirred up their latent rowdiness, they declared in defense, but the Judge scouted the plea on the ground that the hero was amply able to protect the lady.

Louis Delnardi was before Judge Mogan on the charge of disturbing the peace in a Broadway theatre, and his case was continued until today to enable the prosecution to obtain testimony sufficient to convict. The police have been in pursuit of Mr. Delnardi ever since his offense was committed, several weeks ago, when one of his companions, Emil Devin, was arrested and found guilty. At the time the peace was disturbed a dashing sourette was singing "Save My Mother's Slipper From the Sale," and it is understood that Mr. Delnardi's attorney will ask for dismissal of his client on the ground that the sentiment of the song was irreverent and unbecoming to the vocalism defective and the performance generally provocative of protest.

William Nolan, alias William Bray, charged with assaulting and attempting to rob two women in the tenderloin district one evening about a week ago, had a hearing before Judge Mogan and will be told to-day whether he is guilty or not. He is 18 years of age, a native of Calaveras County and equipped with precocious self-possession. The two women positively identified him as their assailant, but he never flinched under their scrutiny, and when on the witness stand he loudly answered all questions before they were half-uttered. No attempt was made to deny the assault, but it is doubtful that he can be held for attempt to rob, as the testimony of the complainants on that point was rather equivocal.

Edward Clifford alias "Toughy," who for half a dozen years has held undisputed sway as the boss black-guard of the Barbary Coast, will be sentenced to-day for vagrancy and disturbing the peace. With him on Judge Mogan's calendar is Ruth Clifford, a flashy attired danseuse, who also disturbed the peace and will be punished for it. Clifford accosted her on the street with a request that she give him $5, which she declined to do, so he struck her and she struck back. Then they clinched and fell and were thumping each other right merrily when a policeman arrived.

"Without attempting to undertake the purification of the Barbary Coast I will send you to the County Jail to-morrow," said the Judge to the male defendant, and "Toughy" acquiesced, but discreetly refrained from expressing his feelings.

Mary Worth, nineteen years of age and comely, was arrested for smoking a cigarette and otherwise making an unruly exhibition of herself on Kearny street. She told Judge Mogan that she recently ran away from a happy home in Riverside and came here to tread the rosy paths which she understood, awaited unscrupulous rural maidens.

"And you're sorry you came, I hope?" the Judge inquired.

Mary tried to look penitent, but the effort failed. A moment later she turned around and winked deliberately at an older female who sat among the spectators.

"Well, I suppose you'll have your fling," said the court, sorrowfully, "I'll defer sentence till to-morrow."

While attempting to escort a crowd of baggy-troused compatriots from the ferry station to a hotel, Antonio Esola ran afoul of a number of hackmen and bus drivers and boarding-house runners and was protecting his charges when a policeman arrested him.

"He was slugging right and left and the other dagoes were hopping and shouting like song-and-dance men," said the complaining officer.

"We no make da trouble," exclaimed the defendant. "Dese ronnars trya ta steala ma men. They are da geealty. Why notta dey arresta? Eh?"

"That's how it looks to me," was the court's decision. "Go home."

Nicolas von Ruben, a meek little man with scraggly mustache and sandy hue, told of his misplaced confidence in the integrity of Lillie Baker, middle aged, corpulent and aggressive of manner, and Judge Fritz patiently listened to the pathetic recital. But his pathos was lost upon the woman, who chuckled silently and pressed her sides, as if Jack Falstaff, as the man confessed the truthfulness that had been so systematically preyed upon.

Their first meeting was in a Pacific-street room for seafaring men, Herr von Ruben said, and he was impressed by the lady's ample physical charms and demureness of demeanor. She told him she was a poor, lone spinster, with no one to cherish or protect her, and gazing at his diminutive figure she sighed and said how happy is the lot of a woman who has a strong masculine arm to lean upon. Then she artlessly remarked that she had in her mind's eye a business opportunity which a man with ordinary pecuniary means could utilize to advantage. That was the beginning of a course of chicanery by which Mr. von Ruben says he was wheeled out of about $100. The money was obtained for the ostensible purpose of establishing the defendant in the saloon business, and $300 it was to be invested in the purchase of a piano. After his money was gone the complainant ascertained that he had been taken in and done for by a married woman who bore the sobriquet of "the Queen of Pacific street."

The case is still on hearing.

Ethel Somers became disgruntled because of fancied grievances, and instead of finding the solace which she sought in strong waters, she waxed fierce and malicious. While in that mood she smashed sundry articles of furniture in her rented apartment at 238 Kearny street, and now she is convicted of vagrancy and awaiting sentence by Judge Mogan.

Complete vindication was awarded to Madge Wells by Judge Cabanis, and at the same time and by the same authority Gus Holmgren, an East-street dealer in cigars, was given to understand that he had acted with undue precipitancy in getting the woman arrested and charged with grand larceny.

Honorary was "doin'" Dupont street one evening not long ago, and in the course of his peregrinations he absorbed considerable liquor. During a lucid interval he deposited for safe keeping with a saloon-keeping friend of his an indorsed check for $50 and cash to the amount of $20, and then he resumed his tour of inspection. It was Madge Wells' unlucky star that guided him into her company, for soon afterward she was arrested for stealing from him the money which he had deposited as afore described. After the arrest the saloon man who held the cash and check was heard from, and Gus was as much surprised as pleased to learn that his wealth had not been lost.

He apologized to Madge for his alcoholic lapse of memory.

William Casey was dismissed on the charge of murder by Judge Cabanis, who declared that the prosecuting testimony alone sufficed to warrant that decision. It was clearly proved that when Casey shot William McNamee in the former's grocery, on Bernal Heights, he acted purely in self-defense. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide, and Judge Cabanis heard only one witness for the defense. McNamee was killed the night of Saturday, April 9.

Louey Sing and Louey Lee were held in surety of $2000 apiece to answer in the Superior Court the charge of attempting to murder Louey Poy and Lin Chun one night last week in Sullivan alley. They were examined before Judge Cabanis.

For stealing a canary Fred Pierce, a respectable looking man, will be examined to-day by Judge Mogan. The warbler was taken from a Kearny-street bird store night before last and thrust in a pocket of the defendant's coat, where it was almost smothered when rescued.

ALEXANDER BRIBERY CASE IS DRAWING TO A CLOSE

Prosecution Rests and Witnesses Are Called to Testify on Behalf of the Defendant.

The second trial of Ernest Alexander, charged with accepting a bribe while a police officer from Lulu Wilson, alias Mamie Linn, was continued before a jury in Judge Lawlor's court yesterday. Most of the time was occupied in the cross-examination of the woman. She testified that only once before giving the marked coin to Alexander had she handed him coin personally, as she had always been in the habit of giving it to the landlady of the Queen lodgings house, 15 Mason street, to deliver to Alexander. More than once he had met her on the street and asked her if she had paid up.

The prosecution wanted to introduce the testimony of Rose Everett given at the previous trial, as she had disappeared, but only part of it was read, the remainder being objected to.

Rose Lavern testified for the defense that she had never given any money to Alexander and that Lulu Wilson had asked her to testify against Alexander, and there would be money in it for her. Mrs. Thomas Powell, formerly landlady of the Queen lodgings-house, denied that Lulu Wilson had ever given her any money to deliver to Alexander.

NEW YORK, April 21.—The United States Rubber Company declared to-day a dividend of 34 1/2 per cent on the preferred stock. This is the first dividend on this stock in several years.

ASK FOR RELIEF FROM NUISANCE Precita Valley Club Begs Board of Health to Take Some Action Immediately

Barber Shops Are to Be Inspected and Rules for Their Control Prepared

Members of the Precita Valley Improvement Club say they have waited for years to have a nuisance in their locality abated, and have even gone into politics to carry their point. Yesterday another appeal was made to the Board of Health and the facts in the case cited in a communication sent in by James M. Foley, secretary of the club. This time the chances are the request will not be in vain, for a special committee, consisting of the Health Officer and Dr. Hassler, was appointed during the session held yesterday to investigate and take action.

The communication from Secretary Foley gave the history of the nuisance from the description of the odors to the children of the neighborhood catching frogs. The sore spot is an undrained depression on Army street, between Harrison street and San Bruno road and within one block of the Columbia Grammar School.

CLUB STATES POSITION.

This club has been fighting this proposition for years, but on account of the principal owner of this property being on the bond of a prominent official, we were always defeated. During the past few campaigns for Mayor the residents made this an issue, that a new Board of Health might be appointed. Now that you gentlemen are installed in their places we expect better treatment and that the relief so long prayed for be granted.

The dilapidated condition of Chinatown was considered by the board to the extent of passing a resolution requesting the Board of Supervisors to add $10,800 to the budget for the Health Department for the fiscal year 1904-05 for the continuation of the work of sanitary improvement in the Chinese district.

E. B. O'Connor was appointed dairy inspector at a salary of $90 per month from May 1, and the resignation of Mrs. R. E. Shelton as clerk in the Emergency Hospital was accepted.

REPORTS ARE FILED.

The report of the superintendent of the City and County Hospital for the month of March was placed on file.

The report of the Health Officer on the subject of adulterated drugs was filed, and the secretary informed the board that the chemical laboratory was at work on articles in that line and would be ready to file a report in a few days.

Owing to the fact that the Health Officer filed a report regarding the sanitary condition of barber shops which was not very flattering to the tonsorial artists, Drs. Pohlman and Hughes were appointed a special committee to look into the matter and formulate a set of rules to govern all the barber shops of the city.

Chief Inspector Hassler reported that the sewer on Bryant street, at the intersection of Circular avenue and Alameda street, was in a bad condition, and recommended that Bartlett be remedied at once. The proposition was ordered forwarded to the Board of Supervisors, with a request that the proposed improvement be considered when the budget is being made up.

OTHER MATTERS SETTLED.

Drs. Smith and Riddon were appointed consultants for the Almshouse at the request of the faculty of Cooper Medical College.

The Lick Wandering Improvement Club complained of a nuisance in the Petrosi district produced by a drain having been filled up and a stagnant pool created. The matter was referred to the Health Officer and Dr. Hassler to take some action.

A communication requesting the Health Board to prepare an exhibit for the "Model City" at St. Louis was turned over to Drs. Harvey and Pohlman to report at the next meeting.

Thomas Flynn of 3187 Mission street was given one week's time to put his premises in sanitary condition or take the consequences. Flynn was arrested before on complaint of the Health Officer, but his case is still pending.

HAYWOOD IS SEVERELY BEATEN BY SOLDIERY Labor Leader, Denied an Interview With Charles Moyer, Strikes Captain Wells and Arouses Angry Passions of Troopers

DENVER, April 21.—Defying the detachment of cavalry which brought Charles H. Moyer from Telluride to appear before the Supreme Court, W. D. Haywood, secretary-treasurer of the Federation of Miners, attempted to hold a conversation with the prisoner while he was being taken from the train at the Union station this morning. Ordered to stand back by Captain Wells, commanding the guard, Haywood struck the officer in the face. In a second he was surrounded by a cordon of angry troopers, who struck at him with the butts of their carbines and beat him with their six-shooters. That he was not killed by the excited soldiery is due to the action of Bert Glens, the orderly of Captain Wells, who struck up the muzzle of a gun aimed at Haywood and rescued him from his position between two cars, where the guardsmen had him cornered. Placed under arrest, he was put in the middle of a hollow square of militiamen and marched to the Oxford Hotel, near the depot. Here he again showed fight and was beaten into submission. His injuries consisted of a deep cut on the left side of the head and one on the right side of his head, which almost severed the lower lobe of his right ear.

When a demand was made by Police Captain Frank L. Pierce for the release of Haywood on the ground that the military rule did not extend to Denver, General Bell replied that he intended to hold Haywood as a military prisoner and would shoot any one who attempted to take him, but nevertheless, under orders from Governor Peabody, Haywood was surrendered to Sheriff Armstrong and placed in the county jail this afternoon.

COPLEY SUMMONED.

A telegram was sent to D. C. Copley, a member of the executive board of the Western Federation of Miners, who is in Kansas, requesting him to come to Denver and take charge at federation headquarters.

The president of the Western Federation of Miners, who arrived in Denver to-day in custody of State troops after several weeks' incarceration at Telluride, where martial law is in force in consequence of labor troubles, was taken before the State Supreme Court this afternoon under a writ of habeas corpus which had been issued in his case. At the Oxford Hotel he entered a hack with General Sherman M. Bell and Captain Bulkeley Wells, the respondents to the writ, and the vehicle was driven rapidly to the State House, followed by thirty-two armed soldiers, who guarded the entrances to the courtroom while the habeas corpus proceedings were in progress.

Attorney General Miller and Attorney John M. Waldron appeared in the court for the Governor and military authority, and Attorney E. Richardson in behalf of Mr. Bell. Chief Justice Gilbert and Justice Steele were on the bench. Justice Campbell being absent. The return to the writ presented by Attorney General Miller sets forth that the petitioner, Moyer, is lawfully restrained of his liberty under and pursuant to the express command of the Governor and commander in chief of the military forces of the State of Colorado as a military necessity in the course of the suppression of an existing state of insurrection and rebellion in the county of San Miguel, and that this honorable court is not lawfully vested with jurisdiction to make or render any further order whatsoever in said proceedings except to dismiss and quash said writ, and that the production of the body of the said Moyer before this honorable court in this, the return day of said writ, is not by way of recognition of the said court to order the release of said petitioner, but solely as an act of courtesy on the part of the chief executive of the State and out of respect to this honorable court to conform to the mandate of said writ to the extent only of duly advising the court of the cause of the detention of said petitioner, CHARLES H. MOYER.

BELL FILES ANSWER.

General Bell's answer, in which he represented that all acts of the other respondent, Captain Bulkeley Wells, were performed under commands of his superior officer (Bell), declared that Moyer was an active participant in the fighting and looting of the insurrection and rebellion in San Miguel County, and that it was necessary to restrain him for some time to come. Bell further represented that he had been ordered by the Governor not to release Moyer, either upon writ of habeas corpus or otherwise, until so commanded by the Governor.

The court heard the arguments on a motion of the petitioner to be admitted to bail pending a decision on the question of the court's jurisdiction, and took the matter under advisement.

Moyer was then removed to the hotel in custody of the military.

APPROVE OF HITT BILL.

American Federation of Labor Adopts Resolution Concerning Exclusion.

DENVER, April 21.—The principal action taken at to-day's meeting of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor was the adoption of a resolution requesting the adoption of the Hitt bill on Chinese exclusion now pending before Congress. The action came in the shape of the unanimous adoption of the report of the sub-committee appointed to consider the status of the exclusion law. Referring to the Hitt bill, the report says it would, "if enacted, not only maintain that which has been secured so far upon the subject of Chinese exclusion, but would also be more effective."

The resolution follows:

Resolved, That the executive council of the American Federation of Labor in the interests of the working people and all the people of our country view with apprehension any failure on the part of the Congress of the United States to effectually provide, before the adjournment of this present session of Congress, for an effective law that shall exclude Chinese immigration into our country and its possessions, and we furthermore urgently request that the bill introduced by the Hon. Robert Hitt (H. R. 15167) be enacted into law.

JURY REJECTS STORY TOLD BY EX-CONVICT

Charge of Grand Larceny Against a Man at Redwood City Declared Groundless.

REDWOOD CITY, April 21.—In the court here to-day a jury refused to believe the testimony of John Meyer, an ex-convict, and acquitted McLellan Gilmore of a charge of grand larceny. On December 16 of last year Meyer entered the barn of James Curran, near here, and stole two valuable horses. These he took to San Francisco and sold to Gilmore. Meyer told the officers, and later the jury, that he was sent out by Gilmore for the purpose of stealing two horses for the latter, being promised for his labor $200. The charge subsequently placed against Gilmore was based upon the testimony of Meyer.
