Talesmen Rigidly Questioned Regarding Possible Connections With Local Banks

Goldwin McAvoy, retail shoe merchant, 1516 1/2 Vallejo street; William Pilger, pleater, 2416 Van Ness avenue; John Manning, retired policeman, 1329 Union street; John F. Plumb, real estate dealer, 1402 Valencia street; John E. Sills, pumping machinery dealer, 1824 Page street; John G. Hasshagen, retired grocer, 2300 Grove street; Henry Muus, grocer, Powell and Clay streets; John Blake, carpenter and builder, 131 Page street; Peter Shannon, retired non-commissioned army officer, 1228 Union street; James Gibney, insurance agent, 1339 Laguna street; Julian R. Fairweather, carpenter, 407 Steiner street; Bernard Gallagher, retired ship chandler, 1179 Ellis street.

These twelve men will sit in judgment upon Jacob Eppinger, the erstwhile grain king, who is charged by the International Banking Company with obtaining money under false pretenses. The trial on a criminal charge is the outgrowth of the failure of the firm of Eppinger & Co. about one year ago.

The work of selecting the jury has proceeded very slowly, occupying the court for three days. Attorneys Ach, Shortridge and Dunne for the defense fought hard to have the entire panel dismissed on technical grounds, but the court overruled their objections and the work of selecting talesmen was begun.

The defense was particularly careful to keep men out of the jury box who were connected in any manner with the banking institutions of the city and might thus be prejudiced against the defendant. The question was repeatedly asked: "If you knew the banks of this city had combined to prosecute this defendant, would it influence you in any manner?"

Now's the Time to Save Piano Money

We're Getting Ready for Summer, Everything in the Way of Used and Slightly Shopworn Pianos to Be Closed Out.

It is indeed surprising how many used Pianos of other makes come to us almost daily in part payment for our fine new Hazelton, and Decker, and Lester, and Kimball Upright Pianos.

Most of them are really excellent instruments, though possibly a trifle out of date when compared with modern catalogue styles.

Times are very prosperous. New houses are being built everywhere, and when they are occupied a fine new Piano is essential in the new environments.

That is how most of the instruments enumerated in the list came to the Pommer-Eilers.

Then there are also a number of very fine new Pianos that may have been consigned or placed on sale with country dealers, who could not find ready sale for such expensive instruments, and returned them at a discount.

Again, there are also some really new instruments which have suffered slight marring or bruises in an overcrowded warehouse. These have also been thrown into this sale to make it one of general and extensive interest.

The prices named are on a strictly cash basis. Any instrument in the sale may be obtained on time payments, however, by paying simple interest on deferred payments at eight per cent per annum.

Payments as low as $5 a month, or at other stated periods agreeable to the purchaser, may be arranged for.

Instruments ordered by telegram will be reserved only until letter can arrive, and will be shipped anywhere subject to examination and trial.

Every instrument has been placed in the best possible condition, and we guarantee each one to represent a positive value to the buyer.

Remember our agreement, "Money back if not satisfactory," goes with every instrument in this sale.

Our office is at 653 Market Street, San Francisco.

Accompanying Selby's notice that he will move to set aside the decree of divorce is a long statement in his own handwriting of the facts that led up to the difference between himself and his wife. It contains many reflections on American courts and laws, and sets forth that the petitioner does not think it a crime to be poor.
