

ENCAMPMENT WEEK ENDS AND NAUGHT BUT CONGRATULATIONS HEARD

PROGRAMME BRILLIANTLY CONCLUDED

Grand Ball at Pavilion Closes the Official Function.

Odd Fellows Make Splendid Showing in the Parade.

Sovereign Grand Lodge week of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows has passed and the story of another noteworthy gathering is entered on the pages of San Francisco's history. The city has kept up its reputation for hospitality and this hospitality has been appreciated by all who accepted it.

Yesterday was the busiest since the opening of the encampment. The fact that the delegates to the Grand Encampment of California and the officers of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the United States and Canada were weary after the parade did not deter them from going on with their business meetings in the afternoon, at which they completed much work. But one thing remains to be done by the Sovereign Grand Lodge—the appointment of five officers, which duty is in the hands of the grand officers heretofore elected.

The fact that the weather yesterday morning permitted the holding of the grand parade was a cause for congratulation. Early in the morning the weather prophets of the order were scanning the skies and many opinions were offered as to the chances for the long march. The theory that no rain would fall in the morning was generally accepted, so preparations for the march were made and the route was covered. That the order made a splendid showing every one admitted, though the fear of rain kept out of line many who otherwise would have participated.

The grand ball at Mechanics' Pavilion last night was the crowning event of the encampment. Though the rain made the wearing of light gowns a precarious undertaking many risked the danger and were cheered repeatedly during the dance. They were rewarded for their courage and spent several pleasant hours unmindful of the storm.

MAKE SPLENDID SHOWING.

Odd Fellows appear to good advantage in the Grand Parade.

Whether Local Weather Forecaster G. H. Wilson, who was temporarily in charge of the glorious climate of California yesterday in the absence of Forecaster McAdie, made special arrangements with the cloud banks to keep away from San Francisco during the Odd Fellows' parade, or whether the Odd Fellows themselves have a knack of stopping downpours with word of command, is hard to determine.

The good people of the city know that hardly a drop of rain fell during the three hours that the procession was in process of formation and in line of march, and yet it would have been a very easy matter to have found any number of persons who would have waded that something akin to a deluge would occur before the gorgeously arrayed patriarchs and daintily costumed women, the regaled legions and pretty floats had passed from the streets to shelter.

The rain did not come, but the clouds were there. Occasionally a drop fell before the procession was ready to fall in the rain of the early morning had washed away the dust and rendered the streets clear for the long march and countermarch. The cantons were at their posts and even the ladies were not mindful of the threatening skies. They wore dresses that would have been turned to sorry shreds had the showers that followed in the afternoon happened in the forenoon, as Forecaster Willson said they would. It is sufficient to say that Jupiter Pluvius must have had an understanding with Grand Marshal E. H. Black and his aids met at Battery and Market streets, where they, with a detail of police headed by Chief Wittman, assembled to act as escort to Past Grand Master John E. Goodwin. At 10 o'clock whistles announced that the procession was ready to start and half an hour later the head of the parade wheeled into the center of Market street and moved forward.

SCENES DURING GRAND PARADE YESTERDAY OF THE INDEPENDENT ORDER OF ODD FELLOWS.

SCENES DURING GRAND PARADE YESTERDAY OF THE INDEPENDENT ORDER OF ODD FELLOWS.

Three Sovereign Lodge Officers Will Be Installed This Morning With Dignified Ceremony and Minor Positions Will Be Filled by Appointment.

Washington (D. C.) Canton was given the place of honor in the line, at the head of the column, after the police and general staff. The patriarchs executed many drill maneuvers on the march and were cheered repeatedly. All of the crack drill corps that took part in the recent contests at Mechanics' Pavilion were recognized by the crowds and cheered as they marched steadily forward with the quick, firm step of the soldier.

While Washington Canton was almost at the end of the line of march, and the countermarch of the procession was almost completed an unfortunate incident occurred at the turning point of the parade at Van Ness avenue and Pine street. E. A. Bauber, who was marching with one of the lodges from the interior of the State, dropped to the street. His comrades rushed to his assistance. An ambulance was summoned for the patient and driven rapidly to the Central Emergency Hospital. Medical help was of no avail, for Frater Bauber had expired before he reached the hospital. Death was due to heart disease.

OFFICIALS IN CARRIAGES.

All of the officials of the Sovereign Grand Lodge were in carriages, as were the ladies who participated in the decoration of chivalry ceremonies that took place at the Pavilion Wednesday and Thursday evenings. The officers of the Grand Encampment did not ride with the first division, but were with the tenth division. Shields with the names of the States and Territories of the United States and foreign countries represented were attached to each carriage of the Grand Encampment section. The flags of British Columbia, Ontario and many other of the British possessions were displayed frequently with, of course, the Stars and Stripes.

Many of the floats were very elaborately designed. The model of the Orphans' Home of the I. O. F., drawn by four horses, was an exceptionally good feature. The Oriental float attracted a great deal of attention, as did the float "Rebekah at the Well." There were at least a score of floats with women of the Rebekah lodges dressed in white seated on tiers of seats, forming pyramids of pretty faces and sumptuous costumes. The "Hayseed" float

CROWDS ON STREETS.

Market street was crowded with people, but the grand stands were not very well patronized. Van Ness avenue was well lined on both sides with lookers on, but there were not so many of them as when the Knights Templar paraded. The threatening weather kept many away. The stands were deserted for the sidewalks, for the ladies wanted to be near convenient doorways in case the storm developed. Small boys, who reaped a harvest of dimes and nickels during the Templar parade from selling cracker boxes to stand on were not so successful in disposing of their "box seats," as one youngster called them. There was, however, a deal of enthusiasm among those who stood at the curbs, and every handsome float and every well drilled canton was given its full share of applause.

One of the most striking features of the parade was the "Chariot of Apollo," drawn by four splendid white horses. "Friendship, Love and Truth" float, and that with a score of little boys and girls from the Odd Fellows' Orphans' Home were well received.

The last division of the parade, the fourteenth, was made up of carriages containing officers of the Odd Fellows' Home at Thermalito, residents of the home and officers and past grand officers of the Rebekah lodge.

HEAD OF COLUMN.

At the head of the long column that showed only a small proportion of the membership of Odd Fellows throughout the State, came the platoon of police under the leadership of Chief of Police George W. Wittman. In command of this splendid body of men that well represent the police force of the city was Captain Henry Gleason. Along the entire line of march the appearance of the police was heartily applauded by the gathered thousands.

Following the mounted police came the handsome uniformed Grand Marshal E. H. Black and his staff. They were all mounted on gorgeously caparisoned horses, and made an imposing sight. Behind them came the uniformed infantry of the Patriarchs Militant, marching rhythmic time and swinging along with military precision. Throughout the line of march they performed many evolutions with a snap that showed the result of many a hard drill. The officers of the Patriarchs Militant were to have been in the escort of Grand Sire John E. Goodwin, but he was summoned East last night and did not participate in the parade.

At the head of the Patriarchs Militant came the commanding general of the Army of Patriarchs Militant, General M. A. Raney, accompanied by his staff. Following them came Brigadier General H. O. Brown, and many other of the departments of California, and his staff. Then came the three regiments of marching Patriarchs Militant. The first regiment was headed by Colonel W. H. Sherburn and his staff. Among those in the first regiment were cantons from Sacramento and Fresno. The second regiment was headed by Colonel C. H. Wever and his staff, and was composed of cantons from San Jose, Vallejo and Watsonville. In the third regiment were cantons from Alameda County, and among the number were the following: Evening Star, Porter, Fountain, Enterprise, Niles, Livermore, Columbia, Berkeley, Elmhurst, Harbor and old brothers from Niles in carriages.

Second division—The entire second division was devoted to Sacramento, and they worthily filled their place in the line. At their head came the Platt band and Charles D. Bliss, the marshal commanding, and his aids. A Sacramento float handsomely decorated in green and gold and bearing a camper's tent and gold digging outfit was a feature of the division.

PARADE BY DIVISIONS.

First division—At the head of the first division, immediately following the band, came W. M. Simpson, the marshal commanding, and his aids. The entire division consisted of lodges from Alameda County, and among the number were the following: Evening Star, Porter, Fountain, Enterprise, Niles, Livermore, Columbia, Berkeley, Elmhurst, Harbor and old brothers from Niles in carriages.

Second division—The entire second division was devoted to Sacramento, and they worthily filled their place in the line. At their head came the Platt band and Charles D. Bliss, the marshal commanding, and his aids. A Sacramento float handsomely decorated in green and gold and bearing a camper's tent and gold digging outfit was a feature of the division.

THIRD DIVISION—SANTA CLARA COUNTY

was given the third division to take care of. Headed by the Santa Clara band and the Santa Clara Lodge No. 338 came one of the most picturesque floats of the parade. Pretty little boys and girls from the Rebekah Orphans' Home at Gilroy seated in triple tiers on a large float draped in white and purple and trimmed with green bows, evoked exclamations of admiration along the line of march.

Fourth division—Then came the local lodges forming the largest division of the parade. The division was led by the California Lodge band and T. W. B. Leland, the marshal commanding, and his aids. The lodges in line were: California No. 1, San Francisco No. 3, Templar No. 17 in uniform, and Magnolia No. 29 headed by a little girl dressed in white on a float trimmed with magnolia leaves.

At the head of the long column that showed only a small proportion of the membership of Odd Fellows throughout the State, came the platoon of police under the leadership of Chief of Police George W. Wittman. In command of this splendid body of men that well represent the police force of the city was Captain Henry Gleason. Along the entire line of march the appearance of the police was heartily applauded by the gathered thousands.

Following the mounted police came the handsome uniformed Grand Marshal E. H. Black and his staff. They were all mounted on gorgeously caparisoned horses, and made an imposing sight. Behind them came the uniformed infantry of the Patriarchs Militant, marching rhythmic time and swinging along with military precision. Throughout the line of march they performed many evolutions with a snap that showed the result of many a hard drill. The officers of the Patriarchs Militant were to have been in the escort of Grand Sire John E. Goodwin, but he was summoned East last night and did not participate in the parade.

At the head of the Patriarchs Militant came the commanding general of the Army of Patriarchs Militant, General M. A. Raney, accompanied by his staff. Following them came Brigadier General H. O. Brown, and many other of the departments of California, and his staff. Then came the three regiments of marching Patriarchs Militant. The first regiment was headed by Colonel W. H. Sherburn and his staff. Among those in the first regiment were cantons from Sacramento and Fresno. The second regiment was headed by Colonel C. H. Wever and his staff, and was composed of cantons from San Jose, Vallejo and Watsonville. In the third regiment were cantons from Alameda County, and among the number were the following: Evening Star, Porter, Fountain, Enterprise, Niles, Livermore, Columbia, Berkeley, Elmhurst, Harbor and old brothers from Niles in carriages.

AN ATTRACTIVE SHOWING.

FIFTH DIVISION—G. L. Perham, marshal, commanded this division, which made a most attractive showing. It was headed by a splendid band, followed by a long line of carriages containing members of Yerba Buena Lodge No. 15, Harmony Lodge No. 13, Concord Lodge No. 142, Hermatic Lodge No. 145 and Franco-American Lodge No. 297. In the second carriage were four members of Yerba Buena Lodge No. 15 who have been members of the order for over fifty years. They were J. S. Reed, J. J. Grady, Frank Miller and N. B. Cook. Two handsome four-in-hand coaches added much to the beauty of this portion of the parade. One was occupied by Rebekah Lodge No. 90. They were in a handsome coach, drawn by four prancing blacks.

The other was occupied by Golden Star Lodge from San Rafael. It was elaborately decorated with pink dahlias. The ladies were all attired in light colored dresses, and many carried sunshades made of pink and green.

SIXTH DIVISION—H. D. Saville, marshal, commanding. This was one of the most elaborate portions of the parade. In the lead was an open carriage drawn by four magnificent bay chargers. In it were the four remaining charter members of Apollo Lodge No. 123; W. F. Norcross, P. G. A. D. Grimwood, F. G. B. Densmore and G. G. Burnett, P. G.

A BEAUTIFUL FEATURE.

Then came other members of that lodge, walking, followed by one of the most beautiful features of the parade. It was a chariot drawn by four magnificent pure white Arabian steeds, driven by Apollo in gorgeous robes of white. Behind the chariot were the words on the sides: "Our elder brothers," contained some elderly members of Apollo Lodge. Little Blown May Jones, in Grecian costume, rode a small pony, led by her father, H. Jones, much Nyren. Bay City No. 71 drove in four splendid turnout, which were superbly decorated with a lavish floral display and a wealth of gay ribbons.

Oriental Lodge No. 90 were on a number of beautifully decorated floats. Loyal No. 15 occupied six automobiles. The ladies were all dressed in white.

SEVENTH DIVISION—E. L. Marshall commanded this division, which included Unity Lodge No. 131, Pacific Lodge No. 155, Alta Lodge No. 205, Golden West Lodge No. 322, Farnsworth Lodge No. 95, Odin Lodge No. 393 and visiting lodges, followed by Templar Rebekah Lodge No. 19 and Mission Rebekah Lodge No. 225 in front and carriages. Mission Rebekah Lodge had a genuine hayseed float. It was finely arranged, and laden with its wealth of lovely women, their costumes decorated with bunches of barley and oat heads, attracted much favorable comment. Templar Rebekah No. 19 made a pleasing picture in a big float decked with pink and green bunting.

EIGHTH DIVISION—This division was commanded by Louis Kragen and included Fidelity Lodge No. 222, Spartan Lodge No. 125, Occidental Lodge No. 179, Golden Gate Lodge No. 204, Sargent Lodge No. 368 and visiting lodges, followed by Jubilee Rebekah

COUNTERMARCHING ON VAN NESS AVENUE

Supreme Body of California Elects Men That Are to Handle Its Affairs for Current Term.

Lodge No. 239 in float and carriages, which were praised for their elaborate decorations. Little Dewey Anderson dressed as a regulation cowboy and riding a Shetland pony attracted attention all along the line of march.

NINTH DIVISION—W. H. Sharpe, marshal, commanded this division, which was made up of Morse Lodge No. 257, Western Addition Lodge No. 285, Presidio Lodge No. 334 and visiting lodges, followed by Walhalla Rebekah Lodge No. 130 in float and carriages.

The same beautiful floral embellishments were in evidence that prevailed in the preceding division.

REBEKAHS IN TALLY-HOS.

TENTH DIVISION—The tenth division formed on Bush street, with the right resting on Battery. The division was under command of Charles Stallman, ably assisted by W. H. Manul, J. Phillips, B. F. Tolford, M. D. Mayer and W. F. Harris. Prominent in the division were the members of Wilder Encampment, who, besides the regalia of the order, wore purple hats. The division consisted of Golden Gate Encampment, Walhalla Encampment, Wilder Encampment, Unity Encampment and Oriental Encampment. Amity Rebekah Lodge in gayly decorated tally-hos and the officers of the Grand Encampment in carriages followed.

ELEVENTH DIVISION—The Contra Costa County Odd Fellows, who made up the eleventh division, introduced a novelty in the way of aids. Two charming ladies, Miss Ada Miller and Mrs. Vita Roberts, appropriately costumed, acted as aids to Marshal Glass. The other aids were Frank Critchett and J. Wallace de Witt. A handsome float had been arranged by the Rebekahs, but owing to the forbidding aspect of the parade it was left on the other side of the bay. In the line were the following lodges: Pacheco 117, Twilight 119, San Joaquin 151, Martinez 297, Crockett 329, Byron 335, and Danville 375, followed by the Rebekahs in carriages.

TWELFTH DIVISION—Solano and Napa counties were well represented in the twelfth division, under command of George Weniger, assisted by A. H. Shepard. The members turned out in full regalia and were followed by the Rebekahs in handsomely decorated floats and carriages. In the line were representatives of Golden State, Napa and Mount Moriah lodges and Camp Vallejo.

LODGES OF SAN MATEO.

THIRTEENTH DIVISION—A good showing was made by the lodges from San Mateo County. L. P. Behrens was marshal, commanding the division, and he was assisted by Frank Granger, W. C. McLain and H. A. Stage. In the line were lodges from Bay View, San Mateo, Mayfield, Mountain View, Pescadero and Ocean View. The Rebekahs of Olive Branch and San Mateo lodges followed in carriages, prettily decorated with floral decorations along the line.

FOURTEENTH DIVISION—A feature of the parade was the float of the general relief committee, illustrative of the good work done by the order. It represented a home in which aid is being offered to the suffering. E. E. Drees was marshal commanding the division and J. F. Coffman and O. M. Tuttle acted as aids. In the line were the officers of the Grand Lodge in carriages, followed by the members of the Veteran Odd Fellows' Association, residents of the Odd Fellows' Home at Thermalito, grand officers and past grand officers of the Rebekah Assembly and the Rebekah Veteran Association.

PRIZES AWARDED WINNERS.

Drill Corps and Lodges Receive Checks After Dress Parade.

Washington (D. C.) Canton won the first prize in Class A and was last night handed a check for $1000 by Grand Scribe Barnes, who made the presentation speeches in awarding the prizes to the successful drill corps. Sacramento was second and received $150. Vallejo won the first prize in Class B and received $150, with Watsonville a close second. The latter canton received $100. Santa Barbara won in Class C, $100 and San Jose got the second prize of $50.

The awarding of prizes was preceded by a dress parade in which all of the cantons that appeared in the parade took part. After the drill was over the Grand Encampment. The presentation speech was made by Grand Scribe William H. Barnes and was fittingly responded to by Mr. Woodbridge, who expressed his gratitude for the favor shown him.

Following the presentation brief re-

winning cantons and said he hoped that all were satisfied with the fairness shown in distributing the awards. The cantons answered approvingly with cheers.

A number of cash prizes were awarded lodges that made a good showing in the grand parade. A special prize of $75 was awarded the Rebekah drill corps that has done such good work during the encampment. The following were the parade prizes:

To the San Francisco lodges having the greatest number of members in line—First prize, won by Yerba Buena Lodge, $75; second prize, Fidelity Lodge, $50; third prize, Templar Lodge, $25.

To the encampment outside of San Francisco having the greatest number of members in line—First prize, Mission Lodge, $75; second prize, Golden State Lodge, $50; third prize, Harbor Lodge, $25.

To the San Francisco lodges having the largest percentage of members in line—First prize, Odin Lodge, $75; second prize, Farnsworth Lodge, $50; third prize, California Lodge, $25.

To the lodge or encampment outside of San Francisco having the largest percentage of members in line—First prize, Bay View Lodge, $75; second prize, Crusade Lodge, $50; third prize, Santa Clara Lodge, $25.

To the lodge or encampment making the best appearance—Wilder Lodge won the $75 prize.

Lodge or encampment presenting the best special feature—Prize of $75 won by Apollo Lodge.

To the lodge or encampment coming the greatest distance, computed by miles and members—First prize, Sacramento Lodge, $75; second prize, Contra Costa Lodge, $50; third prize, Contra Costa Lodge, $50.

To the Rebekah Lodge of San Francisco making the best general appearance—First prize, Mission Lodge, $50; second prize, Oriental Lodge, $25.

To the Rebekah lodge outside of San Francisco making the best general appearance—First prize, Olive Branch Lodge, $75; second prize, Golden Star Lodge, $50; third prize, Santa Clara Lodge, $25.

OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED.

Grand Encampment Adjourns to Meet in San Diego Next Year.

After the newly elected officers had been installed by the retiring grand patriarch, W. H. Woodbridge, the Grand Encampment of Odd Fellows adjourned yesterday afternoon to meet in San Diego on the first Tuesday in October, 1905.

Grand Patriarch S. A. Smith announced the following appointments: F. E. Chappelle of Vallejo, grand marshal; W. C. Baker of Hanford, grand sentinel; H. Dow of San Francisco, deputy grand sentinel.

A pleasant feature of the afternoon's session was the presentation to the retiring grand patriarch, W. H. Woodbridge, of the jewel of the Grand Encampment. The presentation speech was made by Grand Scribe William H. Barnes and was fittingly responded to by Mr. Woodbridge, who expressed his gratitude for the favor shown him.

Following the presentation brief re-

WASHINGTON DRILL TEAM SUCCESSFUL

Sacramento Wins Second Place in Class A Competition.

Sire Takes the Oath at His Home City in the East.

marks were made by Grand Patriarch S. A. Smith, Grand High Priest George Jessen, Senior Warden C. H. Burden, Junior Warden F. E. Pierce, Secretary William H. Barnes and Treasurer C. E. Benedict.

The report of the committee of appeals was one of the most gratifying received during the session of the encampment. This year, as for the last four years, not a case has been referred to it. This is considered an extraordinary record and one of which the grand officers are justly proud.

Other business of the afternoon session consisted of reducing the general per capita from 60 to 50 cents. As the next encampment will be held in the extreme southern end of the State the mileage assessment was increased from 25 to 30 cents per capita. The encampment adjourned with a general hand-shaking and expressions of good will among its members, who hope to meet in San Diego next year.

INSTALL GRAND SIRE-ELECT.

Ceremony is Performed at Allentown, Pa., and R. E. Wright is Leader.

Immediately following the parade the grand representatives of the Sovereign Grand Lodge met at Native Sons' Hall and immediately went into secret session. The only business transacted by the Grand Lodge was the hearing of reports and the passing of work done by the grand sire and his assistants. The other routine business before the meeting was the hearing of reports from the States and jurisdictions.

Owing to the departure of Grand Sire John E. Goodwin, Past Grand Sire A. C. Cable of Ohio occupied the chair. Mr. Cable is the junior past grand sire, having served in that capacity before the election of Grand Sire John E. Goodwin.

A telegram was received from Allentown, Pa., saying that the ceremony of installation of the grand sire-elect, Robert E. Wright, had taken place. A list of those to be appointed as officers in the lodge was also sent and will be announced tomorrow, when the installation of officers takes place. At 5 o'clock the meeting adjourned until 9 o'clock this morning.

BROTHER BAUBER DIES.

Odd Fellow Takes Sick in Parade and Dies in an Ambulance.

E. A. Bauber, a member of Golden State Lodge No. 216, I. O. F., died suddenly at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon in an ambulance that was taking him to the Central Emergency Hospital for treatment. Mr. Bauber fell out of the line of parade on Van Ness avenue, near Sacramento street, complaining that he was sick. He was placed in an ambulance, but died before reaching the hospital. Heart failure is given as the cause of death.

Mr. Bauber was paymaster's clerk at the Mare Island navy yard. He was 58 years old and a native of Connecticut.

Injured at Close of Procession.

A. W. Werner, a tailor of 353 Market street, in attempting to get over the wire ropes on Market street after the procession yesterday turned a complete somersault and fell heavily. He was taken to the Emergency Hospital, where he was found to be suffering from shock and partial concussion of the brain.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

LITTLE BOY BURIED BY CAVING BANK

William Foley's Playmates Unable to Dig Him Out With Their Toy Shovels.

William Foley, 6 years old, whose parents live at 4025 Army street, was suffocated shortly after noon yesterday by a bank of gravel caving upon him in a vacant lot at the intersection of Clipper and Douglas streets. His two companions, Melvin Weaver and George Holgesson, 8 and 9 years old, vainly tried to dig him out with their toy shovels they had been playing with and then raised an alarm, but when the body was extricated life had departed.

When the bank caved in young Foley was completely covered and Weaver only partly. Holgesson dug out Weaver and the two went to work to dig out their little playmate. Michael McDermitt and R. H. Maher responded to the cries for help, but were too late to save the victim.

Boiled Leg of Mutton.

MATERIALS:—A leg of mutton; boiling water sufficient to cover; one heaping tablespoonful of salt.

Lea & Perrins' Sauce

THE ORIGINAL WORCESTERSHIRE

Seasoning:—Many persons are apt to consider boiled mutton insipid. Their objections will be speedily removed if two or three spoonfuls of Lea & Perrins' Sauce be added to the gravy that is served with the meat.

JOHN DUNCAN'S SONS, Agents, NEW YORK.

"For it's always fair weather When good fellows get together, With a Stein on the table And a good song ringing clear."

See Our Stein Room

With its thousand-and-one novelties. Musical and Decorative Steins in new designs and colorings.

We announce the Arrival of the new shipment of the Famous Mettlach Steins

the "king-pin" of German Steins,

$1.00 to $5.00

Mettlach Novelty Tumblers, 35c ea

Nathan Donrnan Co

122-132 SUTTER ST.