DEMOCRATIC NOMINEES FOR CONGRESS IN THE FOURTH AND FIFTH DISTRICTS WHO ADDRESSED A LARGE AND ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCE AT THE BIG RALLY OF THE PARTY IN THE ALHAMBRA LAST NIGHT.

Congressman Edward J. Livernash and William J. Wynn, candidates for re-election to the House of Representatives from the Fourth and Fifth districts respectively, were the principal speakers last evening at a mass meeting held in the Alhambra Theater under the direction of the Iroquois Club. The house was well filled and enthusiasm was not lacking.

John H. Kline, grand sache of the Iroquois Club, announced the purpose of the meeting and then introduced William M. Cannon, a past sache of the club, as chairman of the evening. Mr. Cannon said that considering the inclemency of the weather the Iroquois Club and the candidates it supported had reason to be proud that the announcement of its meeting had called out such a large and representative audience. He then briefly analyzed the issues of the campaign and concluded by urging all to lend their aid in placing in the Presidential chair Alton B. Parker. The name of the Democratic standard bearer was greeted with cheers.

A song by the Iroquois Club quartet, excellently rendered, met with an encore and this concluded, the chairman introduced Mr. Wynn. Wynn met with a cordial reception, for which he expressed appreciation. In part Mr. Wynn said:

This demonstration reminds me of two years ago when I stood before you, my shopmates and friends, and asked for your support. When I appeared before you at that time I told you that if I were elected I would be honest and faithful and would serve your interests. I ask you to-night if I have kept my promise. Several calls of "You bet" encouraged Mr. Wynn at this point to further effort.

If during my public life I have made any mistakes they have not been intentional, and one thing I can say is that no man in this nation can say that I have betrayed the people that I sprang from.

COMMENDS LIVERNASH.

In conclusion Mr. Wynn paid a tribute to his colleague, Edward J. Livernash, and said that they had agreed to fight their battles together to victory or defeat, but if victory were theirs he could assure the people that they would serve them as they have in the past.

Mr. Wynn was followed by William T. White, candidate for Superior Judge, who spoke at some length on the issues of the campaign. Two more songs by the quartet were enjoyed and then Judge Frank J. Murasky, candidate for re-election to the Superior bench, was introduced. Judge Murasky impressed his audience by saying that it would embarrass him to make a political speech while a candidate for the bench and therefore he would simply say to the audience that if re-elected he would do as he had done in the past—give equal justice to rich and poor alike—which, he believed, was all that any honest person could ask of a court. His remarks were warmly applauded.

Charles A. Sweigert was called upon to make a speech and then Chairman Cannon called upon Livernash, and he was greeted with cheers. Mr. Livernash delivered the most effective speech of the evening. While he was speaking of the great question that confronts the South—the question of the negro—he stopped suddenly and called upon the quartet to sing "My Old Kentucky Home." The audience caught the sentiment and the speaker's point was won. This, said Livernash, was to let the people know that the race from which this song sprang was a race with a heart and through its heart would come the light of civilization, not through strife and bitter hope. Mr. Livernash's speech in part was as follows:

I would indeed be made of callous stuff were I not deeply affected by the kind things that have been said of me here to-night by the speaker that I have just heard. I am especially touched by the commendation of my friend Wynn, and here I want to speak of him. I would not wish to say that I know that in public life he has kept the faith. I had abundant opportunity to watch his career, and I can say that he has done his duty without fear or favor.

REFERS TO NIGHT BEFORE.

I was much amused in this hall last night by a prodigiously impassioned and deafening attack upon me by a gentleman I have not the felicity of knowing, but who happens to be a candidate for a seat upon the Superior bench of this city and county. The worthy Don Quixote de la Mancha surely was not more delighted in his famous charge upon the windmill than was my well-intending critic in his furious onslaught upon me for what he conceived to be my views of President Roosevelt.

I looked up the estimate of Mr. Roosevelt up and down and across and over and, clearly perceiving that I was terribly wrong in that estimate, and feeling myself so much the better informed concerning the subject he bore down upon me in a fashion very comforting, though doubtless very wearying to him and affording to me a very grateful sense of easiness in a campaign too much affected with gravity.

But now that the gentleman has eased his immortal soul, may I emerge cautiously from the wood of his aggression and observe that I never for an instant entertained the slightest view he was generous enough to attribute to me in tones which must have reached the ears of the Farallones? The gentleman's point of view was somewhat unfortunate, though his heart was right.

Certainly the Democratic party and its candidates are not, as the gentleman last night believed, engaged in the operations of the glory of our great soldiers or the courage and patriotism of Theodore Roosevelt. One may, however, without disrespect to the President and without forgetting his valor in Cuba, doubt the wisdom of having in the White House a citizen whose only qualification for the office is that he is a member of the most thoughtful statesmen of the Republican party.

ROOSEVELT IS FORCEFUL.

The aggressiveness of the President makes him unsafe, but I do not mean to intimate that his aggressiveness is not rooted in an admirable nature. I very much admire many of the qualities of Theodore Roosevelt. He is a foremost and a true statesman. The trouble is, one cannot say what his foresight is worth. I think he cannot say himself. "Oh, mamma," cried a little girl, "I started to make my doll a bonnet and it's come out a pair of pants." His own party never can tell what is ahead when Mr. Roosevelt starts to make a bonnet.

Peculiarly unfortunate has been his aggressiveness, especially with the South. I have never doubted that he has all along intended well by all the people, black and white, who live in Dixie, but of what avail his intent when the actual results of his aggressiveness have been disastrous? He has turned from the Southern people to deal with the black race just as he has concluded they ought to deal with it. At Washington the strongest Republican statesmen are of one mind with the strongest Democratic statesmen in regarding the negro question as something to be left free of the sphere of partisan politics to be left, so far as may be, to be settled by the men and women, black and white, who best understand it and are most affected by it. The black people are not afraid of the Southern whites. They know the Southern whites are their best friends. Together the Southerners of our own race and the negroes who have not been cast with them, work out the remedial problem, peacefully and conservatively, as God wills. The intervention of Mr. Roosevelt has been productive of harm. It ought to be discouraged. Important though the personality of Mr.

Nominees for Judiciary Indorsed

The Republicans will formally open the Congressional campaign in the Fourth and Fifth districts with a rousing meeting at the Alhambra Theater this evening.

Colonel George H. Pippy, nominee for Presidential Elector, will preside. Hon. Frank P. Flint of Los Angeles, Julius Kahn, Republican candidate for Congress in the Fourth, and E. A. Hayes, the nominee of the party in the Fifth district, will address the audience. Aside from the inspiring speeches there will be music by the band and singing by the Stanford University quartet. It is the judgment of well-posted politicians that Kahn and Hayes will be elected to Congress. As election day approaches the signs of victory for the Republicans in every Congressional district of the State grow brighter.

SUPREME COURT.

Louis Ferrari will receive no aid from the Supreme Court in his fight to compel the Election Commission to place his name on the official ballot as a candidate for Justice of the Peace. He may commence an action in some tribunal of inferior jurisdiction, but the contest will probably not be ended until long after the approaching election. The Supreme Court in denying Ferrari's petition says: "Writ denied without prejudice upon the ground that this court cannot entertain as original proceedings controversies of this character of purely local interest and affecting only candidates for county or municipal offices."

Ferrari petitioned the Superior Court yesterday afternoon for a writ of mandamus compelling the Election Commissioners to place his name as Democratic candidate for Justice of the Peace on the official ballot.

MASON THOMAS DECLINES.

Mason Thomas declined the Democratic nomination for State Senator. The following letter explains his position:

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13. Senatorial District of the Twenty-fifth District, Democratic Convention for the office of State Senator for said district.

To H. Petch, Chairman of the Twenty-fifth Senatorial District Convention: Dear Sir: I hereby tender my resignation as the nominee of the Twenty-fifth Senatorial District Democratic Convention for the office of State Senator for said district.

In so doing I desire to express my sincere thanks to the gentlemen who have supported me and my many loyal friends and supporters for the honor conferred upon me and the support of my candidacy.

The present disorganized condition of the Democratic party of the city and county, and the fact that the party in this district known as the county committee or McNab faction, many of whose members are my Republican opponents, convinces me that success of my candidacy is an impossibility, and I decline to allow myself and friends to be sacrificed. Very respectfully yours, MASON THOMAS.

The letter to the convention is supplemented by this request to the Registrar:

To the Registrar of Voters of the City and County of San Francisco, State of California—Sir: My name has been presented as a candidate for State Senator of the Twenty-fifth Senatorial District upon the Democratic ticket. I hereby request you to cause my name to be withdrawn from said nomination and request that it be not printed on the ballot.

MASON THOMAS.

JUNK DEALER HAS HIS ASHES

Remains of Robert Hauptstuck of Alameda Offered at Auction in Omaha Shop

Special Dispatch to The Call.

OMAHA, Oct. 14.—Though he has been dead for ten months, the ashes of Robert Hauptstuck, late of Alameda, Cal., are not permitted to rest in peace. They are now in the hands of a junk dealer here, who refuses to part with them.

After his cremation in Oakland, Cal., the wife started overland last December, intending to carry the urn to his former home in Germany. On the way she was taken sick and died in an Omaha hospital. Papers found in her possession indicated that she was accompanying her dead husband's body and a search was promptly inaugurated for the corpse. Telegrams were sent forward to Chicago and New York, but no stray coffin could be discovered. Meantime an administrator was appointed in Omaha to take charge of the personal effects of Mrs. Hauptstuck, and eventually these were sold at auction to a local junk dealer for $3.

Inadvertently the urn containing Hauptstuck's remains were included in the sale. All that time the relatives in Germany manifested little interest in the search for the corpse, and it was finally abandoned. The ashes were not discovered until a month later. To-day they were offered for auction and a stranger bid $200. The second-hand dealer believes this came from the German relatives and expects a much larger amount to be offered.

Ever notice how people react over the preserves after the pickles? And how they insist on passing pickles instead of preserves to others?

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 14.—A steady rainfall kept most people indoors this morning, but it had little effect on the canvass of Duncan E. McKinlay, the candidate for Congress, who put in the time to good effect in meeting the business men and their employees.

McKinlay met hundreds of Sacramento business men during the day and made friends as rapidly as he was introduced. At noon McKinlay made his second address to the men at the railroad shops. He spoke of the certainty of success for President Roosevelt, who will, he said, carry California by 60,000 majority. The voters were warned, however, of the effort being made by the Democrats to secure sixteen additional votes in the House of Representatives, to control that body and hamper the administration of President Roosevelt. The differences between the two great parties, as applied to the working men, were fully explained, the speaker showing how the millions of unemployed men under Cleveland's administration have found profitable work under Republican rule. Local coloring was given this point when McKinlay cited instances within the personal knowledge of his hearers. McKinlay spoke of his own experience as a workman and promised, if elected to Congress, to make his first duty the conservation of policies that will work to the best advantage of the wage earners. He eulogized President Roosevelt as an earnest, consistent friend of labor and quoted figures to show that in this respect he is fully in touch with the party during its entire history.

Two hundred men gathered about the speaker during his remarks, while as many more reached the spot in time to hear a portion of his remarks. At the close he greeted many of the men whom he knew. He received many assurances of support, not only from old acquaintances, but from those whom he met for the first time.

CHEERS FOR MCKINLAY.

Name of Congressional Nominee Arouses Santa Rosa Voters.

SANTA ROSA, Oct. 14.—The Republican campaign was opened in Santa Rosa this evening when Congressman James McLachlan of Los Angeles and Judge Frank H. Short of Fresno spoke at the Athenaeum. One thousand people were present and much enthusiasm prevailed. Chairman C. H. Pond of the Republican County Central Committee called the meeting to order. After reading the list of vice presidents for the evening he introduced Judge R. F. Crawford as chairman of the meeting. The latter made a short address before introducing Judge Short. Short opened his address by saying that he always liked to talk on Republican principles. He spoke of the two recent national conventions, being a member of one and a spectator at the other. He was instructed and entertained at the Republican convention, he said, and amused at the Democratic convention. He took up the Democratic charge that President Roosevelt is a dangerous man and told of Congressman Livernash in a recent speech picturing the President with spurs and sword. Colonel Roosevelt, said Short, wore both sword and spurs at San Juan Hill and did not disgrace either.

He called attention to the fact that George Washington, U. S. Grant, R. B. Hayes, J. A. Garfield and William McKinley were all military men and soldiers.

Congressman McLachlan talked with a good, clear voice and held the audience to the end. He called attention to the campaign of 1892, and said that this campaign is like it. Then, he said, the Democrats said to the voter: "But you are in power and we will tear down this Republican protection, and then you can buy a suit of clothes for one-half what you are now paying." "You can remember," he said, "what happened after the election of 1892, when we found Cleveland in the President's chair and a Democratic Congress. You know what hard times the country had during Cleveland's administration."

McLachlan recalled how the administration of Harrison paid off more than a quarter of a billion of the national debt, and how under the next Democratic administration the nation went over a quarter of a billion in debt. When McKinlay assumed the reins, said the speaker, and a protective tariff was established, immediately the prosperity returned.

McLachlan then described the efforts to defeat the Dingley bill. He said he was employed by the Chamber of Commerce of Los Angeles County to stay in Washington to look after the interests of the producers of Barlow's district when the Dingley bill was framed. The bill was passed, said McLachlan, but he had to sit up in the gallery in the House of Representatives when it came up and see his Congressman vote against it. He then urged the voters of this district to stand by Duncan McKinlay and see that he is sent to Washington, or they might find themselves in just the same position as the voters in the old Sixth during the tariff revision.

The meeting was closed by three rousing cheers for Roosevelt and Fairbanks and Duncan E. McKinlay.

SACRAMENTO FOR MCKINLAY.

Strength of Congressional Nominee Revealed by an Excursion.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 14.—The political sentiment of Sacramento voters was shown to-night by rival excursions, the Democrats running an excursion to Woodland and the Republicans an excursion to Folsom. The latter excursion was given as a demonstration in favor of Duncan E. McKinlay. The relative size of the excursions justified the claim of the Republican managers that the capital city is in line for McKinlay. The Folsom train was crowded, fully 350 enthusiasts filling the coaches, while but 200 Sacramentoans made the trip to Woodland to hear the Democratic nominee.

The "Rough Riders" headed by the Native Sons' band paraded to the McKinlay train and raised the enthusiasm to a high pitch and an immense crowd at Folsom accorded the party leaders an ovation. Addresses were made by the local candidate, the speech of the evening being a splendid effort by McKinlay. Senator R. T. Devin also spoke.

Republican Rally at Salinas.

SALINAS, Oct. 14.—The Republican campaign was opened in this city to-night with a well attended meeting under the auspices of the County Central Committee. The principal speakers were M. B. Harris, one of the Republican nominees for Presidential elector, and former Congressman J. A. Barham.

Pardee at Riverside.

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 14.—Governor Pardee arrived here unannounced this morning. The Republican State Committee made a mistake in the date of the big rally here and the Governor came a day early.

DAVIS LOSES HIS VOICE.

Speechmaking Begins to Tell on Democratic Vice Presidential Candidate.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 14. Four days of continuous speechmaking is beginning to tell on the vocal powers of Henry G. Davis, Democratic Vice Presidential candidate. Aside from hoarseness, however, Davis seems as fit as when he began his continuous performance tour of his own State.

"I am sure that if Alton B. Parker shall be elected President he will endeavor to have the Department of Commerce and Labor divided and see to it that a practical labor man, a genuine and intelligent representative of labor interests, will have the place devoted to labor interests, as was originally intended, and a man devoted to the interests of commerce at the head of the commerce department."

This was David B. Hill's contribution to the campaign to-day. To it he added: "Our candidate for President, while always impartially enforcing the laws, has always been friendly to the interests of those who work."

BRYAN IN GOOD TRIM.

Delivers Seven Speeches From Car While En Route to Richmond.

RICHMOND, Ind., Oct. 14.—In excellent physical condition, notwithstanding that he delivered seven speeches, some of which occupied more than an hour's time, en route from Fort Wayne to this city, William J. Bryan closed the third day of his Indiana tour to-night with an address at a political meeting in this city. The hall was so crowded that it was necessary to hold an overflow meeting in the open air.

Bryan's speech to-night was much the same as other speeches delivered en route to this city. He spoke especially to the advocates of free silver, saying that the Republican party was depending upon them for victory in November. Bryan said he would more appreciate their support of the Democratic ticket this year than in the campaign of 1896 or 1900.

Light Registration in New York City.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—This was the first day of registration in New York city. At a late hour the returns from Manhattan and The Bronx showed a smaller number of voters for the first day than registered on the opening day in 1900. Returns from fourteen districts out of thirty-six showed that 44,401 names had been placed on the list against 46,304 on the first day in 1900. Complete returns from Brooklyn show to-day's registration in the twenty-one districts to have been 92,855 as compared with 92,433 in 1900.

Judge Parker Registers.

ESOPUS, N. Y., Oct. 14.—Judge Parker went to Kingston to-day and registered to vote in the Second Election District of the Ninth Ward. He makes his voting residence at the home of his son-in-law, Rev. Charles Mercer Hall.

The back aches at times with a dull, indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless, piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the loins are so lame to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back in this condition. You cannot reach the cause. Exchange the bad back for a new and strong one—follow the example of this San Francisco citizen:

John P. Bryson, cook, of 537 Natoma street, says: "I had pain in the kidneys for eight months before I used Doan's Kidney Pills. Sometimes it was worse than others and sometimes of longer duration, but as the area affected was right across the small of the back, over the kidneys, I knew those organs were the cause of the entire trouble. A short time after I used Doan's Kidney Pills the aching disappeared, and what to me is of considerable more importance is the fact I have had complete immunity from pain during the last six months."
