

BULLETS FELL THREE VICTIMS

Street Fight between Soldiers in Monterey Results Fatally to White Sergeant

NEGROES USE WEAPONS Efforts of Colored Troopers to Force Entrance to a Resort Cause Bloody Battle

MONTEREY, Oct. 20. — Early last evening about 250 members of the Fourth Cavalry, which is to relieve the Ninth Cavalry stationed here, arrived by train. Citizens present at the depot stated that some of the men were under the influence of liquor when they got off the cars. The new arrivals were given a supper and reception which added to their hilarity. The soldiers thronged the streets all the evening and engaged in frolics. The colored soldiers were detailed to arrest the offenders.

Shortly after 11 o'clock several members of the Ninth Cavalry (colored) attempted to force their way into a notorious resort known as "The Adobey." Members of the Fourth Cavalry and Fifth Infantry who were in the place resented the intrusion of the colored men and a fierce fight followed. The men quarreled for some time, and a large crowd gathered in the street in front of the resort. The efforts of the guard to subdue the rioters failed. Finally three negroes left the house and deliberately fired into the crowd. One shot killed Sergeant Tooley of the Fourth Cavalry and a second fatally injured another member of the same regiment. Other shots were fired, but fortunately no one else was hit.

Members of the Fourth Cavalry became so incensed over the killing of their comrade that it is alleged they set the house afire. The flames spread to the adjoining house and both were destroyed, the inmates barely escaping with their lives. The whole town was in an uproar until daylight, further rioting and arson being feared.

The second soldier shot in the affray, Private Moore of Company K, Fifth Infantry, cannot live through the night. A third soldier was shot through the wrist. A colored trooper named Allen, a member of the First Squadron of the Ninth Cavalry, is one of the men who did the shooting. Deputy Sheriff Davis arrested Allen and three other negro cavalymen in the hills on their way south. They are now in the guardhouse at Monterey Presidio. A double guard has been posted for the men who did the shooting. It is feared an attempt will be made by the white soldiers to lynch them before morning.

HELENA, Mont., Oct. 20.—The State Supreme Court today affirmed judgment of the District Court, Judge J. N. Clements of Helena, in holding that the city of Helena had no legal right to sue for the damages caused by water mains when the city had already exceeded legal limit of indebtedness.

REORGANIZATION SCHEME. In the meantime the Amalgamated Copper Company, with 24 years of experience, with Daly in it, and the campaign, aside from vindication, took on an anti-corporation phase, which made Heinze a powerful ally of Clark in this fight. The Daily element lost control of the Democratic party, which election over to Clark, and an Independent Democratic party was organized. Clark and Heinze then began this trick of organizing the Populist and Labor parties, which they fused with the regular Democratic party, and carried the State with an overwhelming majority, capturing all the State offices and both branches of the Legislature. Soon thereafter Clark and Heinze turned away from Clark, tried to get control of the Legislature and to hold up the election of Clark by keeping members of the Labor party in the Legislature out of the caucus. Heinze, however, between the election and the assembling of the Legislature, Marcus Daly died. The old personal following of Daly accepted the leadership of Clark as head of the regular Democratic party. He was elected Governor in 1901 for the long term, succeeding Carter.

STRENUOUS SESSION. Paris Gibson, founder of Great Falls, was elected at the same session. H. L. Frank of Butte, a millionaire miner; W. G. Conrad of Great Falls, a banker; and Walter Cooper of Bozeman, a prominent lawyer, were the principal candidates. Gibson was a dark horse all through. The Labor party, controlled by Heinze, went solid for Maginnis, vice president of the Heinze Company and general manager of the Great Falls mill, but the Legislature met in the old Merchants' Hotel, formerly Daly's headquarters.

On the last day they met in joint session and as they convened the Lieutenant Governor instructed the sergeant-at-arms to stop the clock. The clock was on the Republican side, on the wall. Nathan Godfrey, an athletic cattleman, six feet tall started the fight, and when it looked as though every man was engaged a Democrat hurled a milk bottle which lodged in the works of the clock, and the business of the session was presently resumed. The hall was with-out ventilation, had a low ceiling, was packed to suffocation and the only means of ingress or egress was through a window.

GIBSON FINALLY CHOSEN. The balloting opened with Frank in the lead, but he never came within five of the goal. After midnight the Republicans declined to vote, holding that the session had expired of limitation. After passing several ballots an independent Democrat, expectedly voted for Carter. Instantly there was great enthusiasm on the Republican side, and they came in again in a body. But they were not enough. At 3 o'clock in the morning, after motions to adjourn had been repeatedly defeated but by decreasing majority, Maginnis suggested to Frank that they draw straws to decide before the whole assembly which should go to the United States Senate. Frank declined, saying his friends had supported him voluntarily, he could not make such a deal for such an office and ended by proposing that on the next ballot his friends should vote for Paris Gibson. When the roll was called no one suspected that Gibson was elected. The announcement, however, was greeted with a cheer, and the building was quickly emptied of a very tired and befuddled Legislature. Gibson had been attending the session for a few days, and there had been attempts to stampede on his name before, but they failed. He had gone to his hotel, and was sound asleep when a friend roused him to tell him he was a United States Senator.

Hain Benefits Prussian Crops. BERLIN, Oct. 20.—On a scale of two signifying good and three meaning the Prussian crop report for the middle of October shows the condition of winter wheat to be 2.5 and of winter corn 2. Much-needed general rains benefited all crops, but cold weather is retarding their progress.

Town of Foster Has Narrow Escape From Flames That Sweep Down the Mountains

LUCKY SHIFT OF WIND Dynamite Stored in Path of Blaze Adds to Danger of Residents of District

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 20. — Mountain fires have filled the air with smoke for the past two days. To-night there are fires upon the mountains in several directions, and considerable anxiety is felt by those who have friends or relatives living in the timber or brush regions. For a time this morning the citizens of Foster, a town at the end of the Cuyamaca Railroad, were forced to abandon everything and form themselves into a fire fighting brigade to combat fires which threatened the destruction of the town. A strong east wind carried the fire, which had been burning upon the east side of the mountain, over the top toward the town. No one was anticipated until shortly after daylight, when the fire had approached to within half a mile of the place. Plans were quickly formed for fighting the fire. Every citizen turned out and was soon hard at work battling with the flames. For some time no visible progress was made in the efforts to stamp out the fire, and it seemed as though the flying sparks would ignite Foster's hotel and depot. Another source of danger to the town was the fact that more than a ton and a half of dynamite was stored in the powerhouse near the town. The dynamite was being used for blasting purposes in the quarry near by. The fight was kept up until the flames were within 200 feet of the town, when the wind fortunately shifted and the danger was averted.

MONTANA A POLITICAL STORM SPOT Continued From Page 2, Column 7. The seat. Clark returned and immediately organized for a campaign of vindication. Clark had not stamped the State since he ran for Congress in 1888. He had been now widely advertised. He made a complete tour of the State and was a great card. People traveled long distances to see and hear him and he made a hit with them.

GERMAN VETERAN PUTS AN END TO HIS GRIEF. Officer, Inconsoled Over Loss of Son and an Exile From Home, Kills Himself. NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Inconsoled over the loss of his favorite son and an exile from the fatherland, because he had shot and wounded a German officer who, he believed, intentionally caused his son's death, Adam Englehart, a veteran of the Franco-Prussian war, to-day shot himself dead in the hallway of an East Side tenement house where he lived. Englehart was 57 years old. He left a large family and, it is said, a prosperous business in Germany when he fled to this country. Before taking his life, Englehart had pinned on his breast all of his five medals received for bravery during the Franco-Prussian war, including one given him for his services at Sedan. In Englehart's room were found ten letters sealed and addressed, some to the police and others to his relatives in Germany. One bore the address "Oh, miser murderer," which translated, means "Oh, that murderer."

CLAIMS HE WAS BRANDED BY MEMBERS OF LODGE. Iowa Man Sues Secret Society for Damages as a Result of Joyous Initiation. BOONE, Iowa, Oct. 20.—Claiming that he was branded with a red hot iron while being initiated into the order, Roland Hunnewell of this city today filed suit for $5000 damages against the Modern Woodmen of America. The suit is brought against the members of Peterson Lodge of this city. The suit has attracted wide attention throughout this section, the Modern Woodmen being one of the strongest orders in Iowa. It is generally understood that the branding irons said to have been used in initiations were unintentionally made too hot and that the branding was accidental.
