SEEK RICH GUANO BEDS

Underwood and Brown Will Work Deposits if They
Prove of Sufficient Promise

Special Correspondence of The Call.

HONOLULU, Feb. 22.—Johnston Island, a small isle about 600 miles southwest of Honolulu, is the destination of the steamer Iwalani, with Messrs. Underwood and Brown, who chartered the vessel from the Interisland Steam Navigation Company for a trip under "sealed orders." They go to Johnston Island for the purpose of investigating the guano beds of that place.

Underwood and Brown have secured authority from the State Department to exploit the guano deposits of Johnston Island, and will make preliminary surveys. They took with them a quantity of tins and several testing rods. The tins will be utilized as receptacles for the samples of guano. The rods will be used to determine the depth of the deposits. The present trip is entirely preliminary in character, as the explorers would ascertain the extent of the guano deposits on Johnston Island before investing the capital necessary to exploit the fields.

The details of the trip were made known to Captain Hamlet of the revenue cutter Bear. Collector Stackpole notified Captain Hamlet of various rumors concerning the trip and requested Captain Hamlet to ascertain from the leaders of the expedition its nature. Johnston Island was annexed to the Hawaiian group in 1822. About thirty-five years ago the late Sam Allen and some other local capitalists sent a schooner to Johnston Island for the purpose of working the guano beds of that island. A wharf and several buildings were constructed. Some of the aluvial guano was taken off, but the stuff was found to be of such low grade that it was considered unprofitable.

In 1859 a whaling vessel was wrecked on Johnston Island. A cargo of guano was scattered about the island. The guano was a cooper aboard the vessel at the time. Valuable supplies for trading were on the whaling craft, and most of them were landed by the crews. Some boats and other parts of the wrecked craft were landed. Subsequently the crew was picked up by another whaler and brought to Oahu, being placed aboard the old steamer Kaala off Barber's Point and brought to Honolulu by the steamer.

In 1892 a British man-of-war went from here to Johnston Island and formally annexed it to the British empire. The proclamation of such annexation was published in the Honolulu newspapers by the commander of the vessel. Apparently nothing has been done with the island by local people, although it is understood that the American Guano Company worked the guano beds of the island some years ago.

VERY FEW PEOPLE

Are Free From Some Form of Indigestion.

Very few people are free from some form of indigestion, but scarcely two will have the same symptoms.

Some suffer most directly after eating, bloating from gas in stomach and bowels, others suffer from nervousness, heart, headaches, sleeplessness, pains in chest and under shoulder blades, some have extreme nervousness, as in neuritis dyspepsia.

But whatever the symptoms may be, the cause in all cases of indigestion is the same, that is the stomach for some reason fails to properly and promptly digest what is eaten.

This is the whole story of stomach troubles in three and four words. The stomach must have rest and assistance and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets give it both by supplying those natural digests, which every weak stomach lacks, over-coming the failure of the stomach to secrete sufficient acid and pepsin to thoroughly digest and assimilate the food eaten.

One grain of the active principle in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 3000 grains of meat, eggs or other wholesome food, and this claim has been proven by actual experiment, which any one can perform for himself in the following manner: Cut a hard-boiled egg into very small pieces, if it would be if masticated; place the egg and two or three of the tablets in a bottle or jar containing warm water heated to 98 degrees (the temperature of the body) and keep it at this temperature for three and one-half hours, at the end of which time the egg will be as completely digested as it would have been in the healthy stomach of a hungry boy.

The point of this experiment is that what Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will do to the egg in the bottle they will do to the egg or meat in the stomach and nothing else will rest and invigorate the stomach so safely and effectually. Even a little child can take Stuart's Tablets with safety and benefit if its digestion is weak, and the thousands of cures accomplished by their regular daily use are easily explained when it is understood that they are composed of vegetable essence, asptic, pepsin, diastase and Golden Seal, which mingle with the food and digest it thoroughly, giving the overworked stomach a chance to recuperate.

Neither do pills or cathartic medicines, which simply irritate and inflame the intestines.

When enough food is eaten and promptly digested, there can be no constipation, nor in fact will there be disease of any kind because good digestion means good health in every organ.

The merit and success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are world-wide and they are sold at the moderate price of 50 cents for full-sized package in every drug store in the United States and Canada, as well as in Europe.

MUST PAY STIFF FINE

Stuffing From Mrs. Jacobson's
Pillows Will Yield
Uncle Sam Rich Harvest

Special Correspondence of The Call.

HONOLULU, Feb. 22.—Yards and yards of lace, bolts of beautiful silks, exquisite dollies and many other handsome fabrics from the Orient have been seized by the custom-house authorities here. The property was in the possession of Mrs. Jacobson, the only cabin passenger on the steamship Siberia for Honolulu. Mrs. Jacobson made a round-trip from Hawaii to the Orient, taking in Manila on the trip.

On arrival here she declared on the customs blanks that she had $150 worth of goods. When the inspectors searched her baggage there was at first glance nothing beyond the declared stuff. There were bags presumed to be filled with soiled linen. On the top were numerous pieces of unwashed garments; beneath this dirt exterior the inspectors discovered the smuggled stuff. In Mrs. Jacobson's trunks were found stockings tied into knots and carelessly tossed or stuffed into corners, and when the knots were unbound the interior of the stockings were found filled with laces. Pillows were also stuffed with valuable fabrics.

When Mrs. Jacobson's attention was called to the matter she at first stated that the trunks had been packed for her by other persons. Then she said she had bought them in Japan and had landed them in Manila, at first intending to stay there, but she changed her mind and continued the voyage on the Siberia.

The foreign value of the goods was probably about $300. The duty added, the value was about $550. The law provides the penalty for smuggling shall be treble the appraised value, which would be in the neighborhood of $1650, and the goods also confiscated.

JUDGE REVOKES SENTENCE
IN CASE OF SYLVESTER

Seventeen-Year-Old Boy Will Not
Have to Serve Term in San Quentin.

It is seldom that a Judge reverses himself to the extent of revoking sentence passed upon a criminal and imposing a less severe penalty, but this almost unprecedented action was taken by United States District Judge F. J. Murnaghan in the case of Frank Sylvester, who on the previous day had been sentenced to imprisonment in the penitentiary at San Quentin on a charge of stealing a watch for having stolen a 50-cent handkerchief from the top of a rural delivery box at San Lorenzo. Sylvester is only 17 years old. Not having any counsel, he pleaded guilty upon the indictment.

On Monday afternoon after the Judge had reached home he was informed of the facts in the case and realized that he had imposed a severe sentence.

Just before sentence was pronounced Assistant United States Attorney Ben L. McKinley stated to the court that the Government would be satisfied with a light punishment, but he failed to mention the fact that the prisoner was a boy of only 17 years and that the article stolen was valued at but 50 cents.

Popular Manager Surprised.

J. F. Adams, the popular manager of the South District of the Pacific States Telephone Company, was the recipient of a pleasant surprise yesterday morning at the South office, the occasion being the presentation to him of a handsome gold watch and chain on the eve of his accepting a more responsible position at the Bush street office of the company. Mr. Adams, who is well-known personally to many of the subscribers of his district, has been with the telephone company for eight years, and his promotion came as a well-earned reward for earnest application to work and a thorough understanding of the intricate details of the system under his charge.

Secretary Furness Will Remain.

An inaccurate report was circulated to the water front a few days ago to the effect that Secretary Andrew Furness of the Sailors' Union would resign and leave San Francisco for New York. This statement has been denied by Furness. He will remain here, and be clothed with additional power and authority. This additional power comes to him from the late International Seamen's convention from which body he was elected secretary-treasurer of the general organization. The only change that this will make will be that of his giving up the office of the local union as its secretary.

Skepticism Supplants Faith

BY JAMES C. CRAWFORD.

Miss Lulu Alexander, of willowy figure and sable complexion, informed Police Judge Mogan that her faith in the genuineness of voodooism was severely shaken, if not irreparably shattered, by the manner in which she had been treated by one of its professors, Quon Rafael by name, whom she specifically accused of having disturbed the peace of her abode in Pinckney place. Until her experience with Professor Quon, she averred, none was less skeptical of Ethiopian mysticism than she.

The evidence failed to agree and was dismissed. The principal prosecuting witness was Mrs. Anderson, who swore that Han Lou felt her pulse and then sold to her some herbs, but Han Lou avowedly averred that the pulse-feeling did not convict him of having made a physical examination, but was performed solely and solely to enable him to determine the quality of the herbs which he should prescribe.

Alexander Schwartz, who was recently dismissed by Judge Mogan for lack of evidence sufficient to convict him of having kept a place where pools were sold, was rearrested on a similar charge, and is now on Judge Conlan's calendar. Schwartz keeps a notion and stationery store at 217 Polk street, and when the place was first raided about half a dozen housewives were arrested for betting.

James Moran of 1228 Fillmore street is also before Judge Conlan on the charge of pool-selling.

Patrick J. Smith is one of three men who are alleged to have entered the laundry of E. Asplund, at 340 Eleventh street, last Monday afternoon, smashed the telephone and assaulted Asplund when he returned. Smith is the only one of the trio that has been arrested, and Judge Cabanis has continued his case until the police have captured his companions. Asplund says one of the men struck him a severe blow on his right arm with a short piece of iron pipe.

Detective Mathewson said he had thirteen separate charges of room-rifling against Edward Williams, an ex-convict, but had entered upon the opposite sex. Therefore when the information was filed in the event that one miscarrying. When the information was imparted to Mr. Smith he hinted that he may plead guilty to the first charge and thus save trouble for everybody. He was arrested on the spot, and thirteen has always been an unlucky number for him. Charge No. 1 alleges that he burglariously entered the apartment of Miss Clara B. Harrison at 344 Bush street, and stole therefrom quite a quantity of jewelry. He is on Judge Mogan's calendar.

When the case of the people vs. Pence Czerki, disturbing the peace, was called in Judge Fritz's court the defendant pleaded inability to either speak or understand English and said he was a Russian. So the Russian interpreter was summoned, but he, although conversant with several kinds of Slavonic language, gave up.

He told me that that part of the deck was reserved for the officers and their friends. He spoke to me as no man ever did before and as he would not have dared to do had not I been a lone woman and he in a position of absolute authority. I did not care especially for that part of the deck, but it was humiliating to me as a woman and as an American to be barred from crossing an imaginary line because my social standing did not come up to Mr. Knapp's standard. The other women went where they pleased. I felt like a leper. Even my little boy saw that the other people thought there was something wrong about his mother. He's a little chap, but he noticed it and that hurt my pride more than anything else. Other wives of civilians who are not in society will have occasion to travel on the Solace and I am going to do what I can to save them from the bitter experience that has been mine on this ship. I intend to prefer charges against Mr. Knapp with the Secretary of the Navy.

Re-elect Seven Trustees.
The annual election of seven trustees to fill half the board of the Mechanics' Institute took place yesterday in the library at 81 Post street. The total vote cast was 649 and the interesting feature of the day was the close race between Edward T. Hewitt of the Lick School and Alpheus Bull, who was up for re-election. The seven re-elected trustees are Alpheus Bull, T. H. Ford, Byron Mauzy, Robert W. Neal, James G. Spaulding, Otto von Geldern and Luther Wagoner.

Thomas Noonan, who was registered as a peddler, was sentenced to-day for battery and having failed to properly provide for the maintenance of his infant child, the charge having been proved before Judge Mogan. The man's wife testified that if he peddled he apparently made no money, for he sat at home all day and bullied her while she washed other people's clothing in order to keep the wolf from the door of 4330 Army street, the family dwelling. When she resented his tyranny and mildly suggested that it would be more manly on his part if he were to contribute to defrayal of the household expenses he struck her. "I will sentence him to-morrow," said the Judge to the wife, "and the severity of the sentence rests entirely with you."

"I don't care how severe you make it," was the response. "So you say to-day," quoth the wise magistrate, "but to-morrow you may have undergone a change of sentiment. Ladies in your position usually will prove an exception to the rule, for this brute has treated you shamefully and it would give me pleasure to punish him severely for it."

Mrs. Noonan confidently declared that she shall not change her mind today or at any time in the matter of Mr. Noonan's punishment.

BOETJGER CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER.—In the Coroner's inquest on the body of Lawrence yesterday the jury returned a verdict charging Charles Boetjger with manslaughter. The verdict contained the finding that the act required by the Judge was entirely insufficient. The testimony showed that Lawrence was drunk and was fatally injured by Boetjger from his saloon. Lawrence fractured his skull on the sidewalk.

BREACH OF CONTRACT.—Herman Bloom yesterday sued M. Marsh & Co. for $4600 damages for breach of contract. He alleges that he was employed in October, 1902, for five years as manager of the concern at a salary of $100 a month and was discharged without reason on December 15 last.

Special Dispatch to The Call.

CHICAGO, Ills., Feb. 28.—While a cordon of policemen surrounded the mansion at 4319 Drexel boulevard, and detectives in dress suits hovered behind the waiting bridesmaids, Miss Mary Louise Blair stood at the bedside of Sidney O. Blair, her father, in the Streeter Hospital and Bishop Chesney privately said the words that made her the wife of Russell Sly Burke of New York City.

The marriage took place in defiance of a chain of blackmailing letters which are said to have threatened to blow up the bride's home and expose facts that might prevent the wedding. The marriage took place in the hospital at 6 o'clock. An hour and a half later Mr. and Mrs. Burke were hurried into the house where the wedding party was waiting, and by a rear staircase reached the third floor, where the bridesmaids, groomsmen and the detectives were waiting. In exactly the order in which Episcopal communicants leave the chancel at a wedding the party marched down stairs to meet the guests.

The newly wedded couple soon after boarded a train for Palm Beach, Fla. Their departure was the climax of a day that had set South Side society and the Hyde Park police in a flutter of interest and excitement. At least two mysterious letters are known to have been received by the bride. These letters are said to have demanded $5000 and declared that if it was not paid the Clark mansion would be blown up by dynamite.
