

DIRECTOR MUST ANSWER CHARGE Wendell Easton Is Arrested for a Misdemeanor Under a Section of Penal Code WOMAN IS COMPLAINANT

Alleges Misconduct in Transferring Assets of Pacific Coast Savings Society

Mrs. Annie Henwood, 847 Oak street, a stockholder in the Pacific Coast Savings Society, now in liquidation, obtained a warrant from Police Judge Fritz yesterday for the arrest of Wendell Easton, real estate agent, on a charge of violating section 560 of the Penal Code. The section reads:

"Every director of any stock corporation who concurs in any vote or act of the directors of such corporation, or any of them by which it is intended to receive from any other stock corporation in exchange for the shares, notes, bonds or other evidences of debt of their own corporation, shares of the capital stock of such corporation or notes, bonds or other evidences of debt issued by such other corporation is guilty of a misdemeanor."

It is alleged in the complaint that Easton, while a director of the savings society and also a director of the Guaranty Trust Company, concurred in a resolution passed by the directors of the savings society on September 6, 1904, authorizing the president and secretary to execute, issue and deliver such securities as were then owned by the society to the Guaranty Trust Company, such securities having been transferred for 200 shares of the capital stock and certain moneys and guarantees of the trust company as voted by its directors and exchanged with the savings society.

Easton was arrested by Policeman Engel, and, after being booked at the City Prison, was released on $25 cash bail. He says the transaction between the savings society and the trust company was perfectly legitimate and was done in the regular order of business. Mrs. Henwood's attorney had been endeavoring to get him to pay her the value of her shares for two or three months, under threat of arrest, and this was the result. He had consulted his attorney when the first demand was made upon him and was told that he had nothing to fear from a prosecution.

RAILROAD COLLISION DUE TO REVERIE OF ENGINEER Lawyer Van Ness Declares He Will Prove That All Precautions Were Taken Before Accident.

In his opening statement for the defendant yesterday afternoon in the United States Circuit Court in the case of Charles A. Sessions versus Southern Pacific Company, T. C. Van Ness announced that he proposed to prove that Sessions was not a passenger at the time of the accident, but that he was riding on the train by courtesy of a conductor free of charge.

Mr. Van Ness said he would prove also that the collision between the Owl train and the Stockton flyer at Byron switch on December 20, 1902, was not the fault of the company, but due to the absent-mindedness of the engineer on the Stockton flyer. He would prove, also, he added, that the flyer was properly flagged five miles from the point of collision and that the engineer responded with the whistle, but that he did not put on the emergency brakes in time to avoid the collision.

Brings Suit Against Theater. George E. Osterfelt brought suit yesterday against the firm of Belasco & Mayer, managers of the Central Theater, for $10,000 damages, alleged to have been sustained during a fire panic at the playhouse on July 17 last.

Osterfelt claims that the fuse of a moving picture machine blew out and started a panic. He alleges that the exits were too small and that he was thrown down and trampled on, causing permanent injuries.

HIS WATCH STOLEN—Martin Ryan, 1619 Leavenworth street, reported to the police yesterday that a gold watch, valued at $10, had been stolen from him on Tuesday night. He missed it after he left a car at Ninth and Bryant streets.

POLITICS AND CLARET LEAD TO QUARREL

Portuguese Chums of Long Standing Batter Each Other in a "Wine Joint." One of Them Refuses to Drink to Health of Leader Beaten at Primaries.

BY JAMES C. CRAWFORD.

"Da Aba Ruef da gooda man—here's to da Aba Ruef!" shouted Pedro Velaco, holding aloft a glass of inky vintage that retails at five cents per quart.

"Da Aba Ruef no gooda for da Portuguese—down widda Aba Ruef!" was Mario Soldini's response to the toast proposal, and he emphasized it by dashing his parel, including a white hat with wide brim bending beneath a burden of artificial roses, denied (first) that she was intoxicated when arrested, and (second) that she was a vagrant.

"On the Barbary Coast," averred the complaining policeman, "she is notorious as a vagrant and a mischief-maker."

"De Bah'by Coas!" exclaimed Miss Jarmain, with great indignation. "Am dat wiah' yo' go chuse up a pusson's cha'ctah? Does yo' know ob enny pusson on de Bah'by Coas' wot hain't got a bad cha'ctah? Ef yo' wanteh fine out jes' wot my rep'tashun am why doan yo' go teh Post street? Dah am folks up dah wot kin tell yo' how much ob a lady Ah am. Yo' en yo' Bah'by Coas! Fo' shame on yo'."

A section of Post street has been subpoenaed to appear before Judge Conlan to-day and testify as to Miss Jarmain's character.

In the house of Chin Len, 1516 Jackson street, an evening social party in progress and good-will was prevalent when Chin Jack entered without having been invited to do so.

"Oh, Chin Jack," said Chin Len, "it is not well that you should be here, for only my cousins did I invite to come, and to me that relationship you do not bear, even remotely."

"Most excellent Chin Len," said Chin Jack, "your cousin most unfortunately I am not, nor do I seek to participate in this counsily reunion. My object in visiting you, oh, most generous benefactor of the deserving needy, is some cash to borrow. Knowing that you would not refuse me to my I came first to obtain the money. May you and your fifty-eight cousins in this devilish land live to make the old-age record-holder of our own land appear infatigable by comparison.

"Most worthy Chin Jack," said Chin Len, "by coming to me first my house you have greatly honored; but, alas! the sum you seek is not now in my possession. My grief at being unable to accommodate you is most profound."

"Then, oh, sincere helper of the poverty-stricken," said Chin Jack, "may be able to meet from you assembled cousins the desired sum."

"My sorrow you greatly augment by voicing that suggestion, oh, Chin Jack," said Chin Len, "for it is against the laws of our superb code of social etiquette for a host to borrow money from his guests."

The subsequent proceedings were variously narrated to Judge Conlan by Chin Len and a benchful of his cousins. They all averred, however, that Chin Len's final refusal to satisfy Chin Jack's request was abruptly followed by Chin Jack's producing a revolver and a large knife, both of which he brandished so menacingly that the party dispersed in great disorder.

Chin Len found safety by fleeing to an inner chamber, barricading the door, escaping through a window and notifying the police, who caught Chin Jack with the weapons in his hands and rage in his heart.

"What did you mean by it?" the Judge asked Chin Jack.

"Me no ty shootee, no ty stabbee," was the answer, smilingly delivered. "Chin rule of our sister, too quickie. Him klousins ley fighten too quickie. Me take knife to cuttee fingah nail, shabee? Me take pistol to puttee in olla pocket, shabee? Me no ty stabbee, no ty shootee, shabee? He will be sentenced to-day."

Mrs. Annie Karlo of 1211 Kearny street stroked her gown with toll-cauloned hands as she told Judge Fritz of how her 20-year-old son had been deprived of two front teeth by Luis Cadamatori cruelly pressing a raw potato against the tender little mouth.

She was employed in a cannery, and regretted that she was compelled to leave the child at home in an order to appear in court. To that her husband, who worked less steadily than she did, would not suffice to prosecute her boy's assailant. But she would rather lose the half a day's wages than have the defendant go free.

A bright nine-year-old girl testified she saw Signor Cadamatori, who keeps a vegetable store, take two potatoes from the Karlo boy's hands, strike his forehead with a heavy flat and then press one of the tubers against his lips, saying, "Eat it," until the child expectorated two teeth and much blood.

A badly frightened boy told the court a similar story.

Signor Cadamatori, heavy of frame and with a neck that would discount John L. Sullivan's in "bullshitness," growled that he did not assault the boy, who had stolen the potatoes, but merely chased him until he fell upon the sidewalk, his mouth being cut and his nose and forehead miraculously escaping injury.

A Turkish gentleman baffled the corps of interpreters and finally convinced the court that he knew little or nothing about the case. Then a continuance till Saturday was given the defense.

She was registered as Annie Wilson, but blushing confessed to Judge Conlan that her proper name was Mrs. Manning, that she was a trained nurse employed at the Hotel Metropole, Oakland, and that she was waiting for her

East Sending Goods to Panama Markets Since Government Took Railroad EVANS MAKES REPORT

Tells of Cargo Landing Difficulties and Says Houses Are Canceling Orders

A report of the greatest moment to the commercial interests of the Pacific Coast was received yesterday by the Pacific Commercial Museum from J. Wilson Evans, its director, who is in Panama in the interest of the coast's export trade.

Evans' report is dated July 25 and is as follows:

Generally speaking matters are very bad here, so far business is concerned, and the difficulties of landing cargo are causing a block up here, ever since the United States took over the railroad matters have been growing worse, and houses here have called for numerous cancellations orders during the last few days.

Then again, the reduced railroad rates have opened the market to the East, since importations from the Pacific Coast are falling off in consequence.

On receipt of the report members of the board of the Pacific Commercial Museum were immediately apprised and authorized Acting Director W. Furlong to confer with various commercial interests concerned that some action might be taken to untangle the present embarrassing situation.

After discussing the matter with Secretary Fry of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, Furlong was shown the following cable to the company, just received, and corroborating the report of Director Evans:

Shonts has been given orders to give preference to canal material. La Boca wharf set aside for its reception.

T. P. Shonts, named in the cable, is the Isthmian Canal Commissioner and president of the Panama Railroad Company.

TELLS OF DIFFICULTIES. Furlong when seen said:

The result of the order is that all commercial freight will have to be handled by lighters between ship and shore, a method that must seriously affect the gravity of the situation as the Panama Railroad Company, since the completion of its docking facilities, has allowed lighters to handle its cargo.

All of the steamers from Panama to San Francisco are consequently from two to eight days late. The Pacific Mail steamship due to leave here on August 19 will probably not have arrived in port by that date.

The situation here creates great loss to the Pacific Coast merchant at both ends. Not only are his orders for export shipments canceled, but he is unable to fill domestic orders because of the non-arrival of goods.

With regard to that part of Evans' report which states that the reduced railroad rates has opened the market to the East and importations from the Pacific Coast are falling off, a representative of The Call interviewed F. R. Peake, local agent of the Panama Railroad.

Peake said that on May 23 the Panama Railroad steamship line established a rate of $5 per 2240 pounds from New York to Colon on all ordinary freight, irrespective of its weight or measurement, assigned to the Isthmian Canal Commission.

Peake said that President Shonts is at Panama at present with the object of remedying any evils that may exist.

At the Pacific Mail Steamship Company's office it was learned that a very bad blockade of freight on the isthmus—so much so that steamships of the company have for some months past been unable to maintain the schedule.

ROLLING STOCK TIED UP. This condition is attributed to the large quantity of canal material shipped to the isthmus for the rolling stock of the railroad and preventing its use for the prompt transferring of commercial freight between Panama and Colon.

It was admitted that sometimes as much as fifty and sixty days and even more are consumed in transit between New York and San Francisco via Panama, where formerly the time was from thirty-six to forty-two days.

With regard to the Panama Railroad Company's $5 rate for a 1981-mile service was getting a far better revenue on the service than the Pacific Mail with the carriage of 3073 miles and a rate of from $1 to $2 per ton.

When asked whether the Pacific Mail was going to establish a rate to compete with the $5 per 2240 pounds established by the Panama Railroad Company from New York to Colon, the Pacific Mail people declined to do so in view of the great difference in the time and distance of transportation.

Wise Wanted in Cloverdale. Harry E. Wise, son of the ex-Collector of Customs, was arrested yesterday by Detectives Burnett and Frelon on a warrant from Cloverdale charging him with defrauding an innkeeper. The complaining witness is M. Minihan, proprietor of the United States Hotel there. Wise was very indignant over the matter, saying it was a paltry $3 that was due the hotel people. He was released on $10 cash bail. Some months ago Wise was arrested on complaint of Henry Kramer, ladies' tailor, 20 Sanson street, for obtaining a dress for his wife, valued at $30, under false pretenses. The case was dismissed, the bill having been paid.

Excursion to Lake Tahoe. Friday, August 11th, an excursion will be run from San Francisco to Lake Tahoe. Return may be made on or before Monday, August 14th. The trip, including a seventy-mile steamer ride around the Lake, will cost only $25.

This is an excellent opportunity for devotees of the fish and reel, as fishing is unusually good at Tahoe just now. See Southern Pacific Agent for full particulars.

Fires Shot at Two Youths. Albert L. Benson, 2535 Folsom street, saw two boys climbing over his back fence late Tuesday night, and, as his place had been entered and robbed recently, he fired a shot at the boys and they disappeared. Benson notified Policeman J. J. Clancy and he arrested Solomon Sanchez, 15 years of age, who was booked for a public institution and taken to the Detention Home.

Later Albert Quijada, 20 years of age, was arrested and booked on a charge of vagrancy. Benson is satisfied they are the two boys who were climbing over his fence.

Hale's Building Sale NOW

Is Making History

Surely and steadily these great stocks that represent thousands of dollars are moving out under the impetus of their new low building prices.

In many cases the buying power of your money has been doubled. To-day new items will be out to make new interest in every department.

Towels, Sheets, Wash Goods, Laces, Dress Goods, Underwear, all marked down. And a great sale Fancy Stockings, 29c and 35c pair, starts this morning.

Suits, Hats, Waists, Curtains. Look at the new prices they are marked on the second floor.

Among the house helps in the downstairs store are Family Scales at 96c that will weigh 24 pounds accurately by ounces; good Bissell's Carpet Sweepers at $1.68. We have never seen them so low before.

19c is just one of the price surprises in Chinaware on the third floor. It stands for Cups and Saucers, Creamers, Salad Bowls, prettily decorated.

Boys' Baseball Mitts, 35c, instead of 45c; Doll's Trunk, 35c; Printing Press and outfit, 35c—all on the third floor.

Men are concerned, too—Socks, Underwear, Handkerchiefs, Shirts. But the goods themselves tell their own story better than we can here.

"Only new goods for the new Hale store," the slogan of this building sale.

AVERS SHE IS WIDOW OF DECEASED SAILOR

New Jersey Woman Seeks to Establish Proof of Marriage to R. J. Holden.

A romance beginning on the seas and ending in Boston, Mass., came to light yesterday in the County Clerk's office when the affidavit of Mrs. Sarah R. Saltus of East Rutherford, N. J., was filed. The woman alleges that she is the widow of Robert J. Holden, who died on the schooner Vine on the high seas between Washington and San Francisco.

Mrs. Saltus alleges that she married Holden in the Bermuda in April, 1890, when he was a steward on a passenger steamer. From the time of her marriage until almost the time of his death she accompanied her husband on his travels and visited almost every part of the world. During that time three children were born in different parts of the world.

The affidavit declares that the last time she saw Holden was in San Francisco, in December, 1899, when she left him to go to Boston. In 1902 she received a letter from him saying that he was in a hospital in Washington State, and two days thereafter a telegram from the skipper of the Vine saying that he had died at sea. The estate was duly executed and a balance of $12 58 was placed in the Hibernia Bank.

No mention of the money is made in the affidavit, which also alleges that the former Mrs. Holden is now the wife of Charles L. Saltus. The marriage certificate of the Holdens was destroyed by fire, but Mrs. Saltus offers three letters in evidence to establish her claim of being Holden's wife. The letters are from Oakland and Honolulu and the last one is dated 1901. They refer affectionately to her as his wife.

WILL CARE FOR PUPILS OF CROCKER GRAMMAR SCHOOL

Outside Quarters Have Been Seized by Board of Education for Opening of Term Next Monday.

C. W. Mark, principal of the Crocker Grammar School, formally notified the Board of Education yesterday that the necessary outside quarters have been secured, pending the construction of the additions to the building on Page street. The pupils applying for admittance will be accommodated next Monday, when the public schools will open.

The quarters include the big market on Oak street, near Devisadero, in which six classrooms will be fitted up; two stores on Devisadero street, between Oak and Fell, and a room adjoining the school building on Page street, where Principal Mark will have his office.

Marks Will Not Be Extradited. Captain Burnett received a dispatch yesterday from Detective Ed Gibson from Chicago that Governor Deneen had refused to issue papers for the extradition of H. M. Marks on the ground that it was a civil case and not a criminal matter. Gibson left for home yesterday morning. Marks was wanted here on a charge of obtaining money by false pretenses. He represented to Benjamin Schiff of Schiff & Dow, Press cafe, that he was president of the National Loan and Investment Company of Chicago and got $400 from Schiff, giving Schiff a draft on a bank in Chicago. The draft was dishonored and it was learned that the National Company was defunct.

SUES CONTRACTOR AND CITY FOR DAMAGES

Morie Garguilo, Hurt in Collapse of Building, Seeks $5000 Redress.

The first of the damage suits that will be the inevitable outcome of the collapse of the four-story frame building at the corner of Ninth and Tehama streets on July 8 last was filed yesterday morning, when Morie Garguilo brought suit against the contractor and city officials for $5000 and costs. Garguilo was injured at the time of the collapse, which Samuel Cowap was killed, and the verdict of the Coroner's jury held that insufficient bracing was the cause of the accident and recommended a new system of building inspection for the city.

Charles Stockholm, the contractor, is made defendant, together with Public Works Commissioners Maestretti, Egan and Algetinger and the bondsmen, including the Aetna Indemnity Company. The inclusion of the Board of Public Works is the result of the jury's report, and the testimony of a building inspector, who testified at the inquest that the system of inspecting buildings was practically a farce.

Garguilo was working as a plumber on the first floor of the building, along with Samuel Cowap. At the first sound of danger both men ran for shelter, and Cowap was caught beneath an avalanche of boards and beams and died on the way to the Central Emergency Hospital. Garguilo was more fortunate and escaped with injuries to his right foot and leg. The injuries have since incapacitated him from work.

SUES TO HAVE AUDITOR BAHR STOPPED FROM PAYING DEMANDS

Owen McHugh Alleges That C. S. Harney Has No Right to Sell Sprinkling and Sand Carts to City.

Owen McHugh, a contractor, yesterday applied for an injunction restraining Harry Baehr, City Auditor, from paying the demands of C. S. Harney for the purchase of sprinkling carts and sand wagons by the city. McHugh alleges that he holds one-half interest in the apparatus; that Harney is incompetent to receive money and that payment to the Auditor would be detrimental to his (McHugh's) interests.

The petition alleges that Harney has no right to dispose of the carts to the Board of Public Works and that the demands, which aggregate $2500, should not be paid. Judge Muray will hear the petition.

MORE INHERITANCE TAX FEES TURNED OVER TO CITY

Money Formerly Claimed by ex-Treasurer Brooks is Surrendered and Placed in Unappropriated Fund.

Upon the order of Judge Carroll Cook the sum of $297 37 was transferred by Treasurer McDougald to the unappropriated fee fund. The money was deposited in court by ex-Treasurer S. H. Brooks, who sued to recover it as fees for the collection of collateral inheritance taxes. With the $650 turned into the treasury by McDougald the city has been enriched by nearly $10,000.

The City Treasurer cashed a demand for $55,000, drawn in favor of the City Realty Company, as the purchase price of a lot on Frederik street as a site for the Polytechnic High School.

Will Give Cantata. "The Holy City," a sacred cantata by A. R. Gaul, will be given in the Central Methodist Episcopal Church, Mission street, between Sixth and Seventh, Sunday evening, August 12. A choir of fifty voices, accompanied by an orchestra, will take part in the performance. The solos will be rendered by Mrs. Otis Giffen, soprano; Mrs. R. L. Farrington, contralto; Hiram Gould, tenor; Walter B. Anthony, tenor; H. R. Bassford, bass. Misses Morgan and Ford will assist in the trio and sextet. The offertory solo between 7 and 8 p. m. will be given by Mrs. Farrington, who will sing a composition by Fletcher Husband, the organist of the choir, entitled "Abide With Us."
