DISSENT IN JAPAN OVER TREATY MAY LEAD TO A REVOLUTION.

Special Cable to La Prensa of Buenos Ayres, Transmitted to The Call and the New York Herald for Simultaneous Publication.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—It is reported from Tientsin that the discontent in Japan over concessions granted to Russia in the peace treaty is so deep that it is feared a revolution will break out throughout the empire. This movement, it is said, has manifested itself in Tokio. All cables are cut. ROME, Sept. 3.—The newspapers here announce that Tokio is displaying discontent with the result of the peace conference and that several cables connecting Japan with the continent have been cut.

To your disinterested and unrelenting efforts in the interests of peace and humanity I attach the high value which is their due and assure you of my grateful appreciation of the distinguished part you have taken in the establishment of peace based upon principles essential to the permanent welfare and tranquillity of the Far East.

OSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 2.—President Roosevelt to-day received at 12:40 o'clock from the Emperor of Japan warm thanks for his "disinterested and unrelenting efforts in the interests of peace and humanity," and an expression of the Japanese Emperor's "grateful appreciation of the distinguished part" the President has taken in the establishment of peace in the Far East. The cablegram, which was received from the Emperor personally, follows: TOKIO, Sept. 3.—The President: I have received with gratification your message of congratulations, conveyed through our plenipotentiaries, and thank you warmly for it. To your disinterested and unrelenting efforts in the interests of peace and humanity I attach the high value which is their due and assure you of my grateful appreciation of the distinguished part you have taken in the establishment of peace based upon principles essential to the permanent welfare and tranquillity of the Far East.

stronger than Persia. England at most would remain passive. Still, the conquest of the Bosphorus would be the best Russia could do, as to reach the Persian Gulf would necessitate forcing a way several thousand miles—it would not be dissimilar to the index which took her to Port Arthur. She would advance between two rivals. On the other hand, if she directed her efforts toward the Bosphorus and offered some facilities to England in the south of Persia, she could be trusted. She would be in a position to protect the Slav cause against German influence, which is growing every day. She would prevent Germany from being paramount in Europe. Finally, there is another reason for which it is time that Russia should understand that she must rely on England and not on Germany. Germany is the power of to-day and is putting forward every effort to make England the power of yesterday and prevent the rising of the power of to-morrow—Russia, at the head of a great and confident France, which is undoubtedly the power of yesterday, has realized that and has entered into an understanding with England, while still an ally of Russia.

Alexander III realized it when he joined hands with France, but after him a clear political object on the part of Russia was lost. The duty of Russia toward her Slav brothers was abandoned, was forgotten, and the country, with eyes closed, threw herself into the hazardous game which naturally ended in a catastrophe. If now Germany succeeds in pushing Russia into the Persian Gulf, the adventure will result in a quarrel with England, contempt toward France and the sacrifice of the Slavs of Austria and Turkey on the altar of German ambition. It will finally mean a new conflagration, with Japan and England combined, and Germany, looking for her own interest, at a neutral.

If, on the contrary, a quadruple understanding could be reached between the two dual alliances, France and Russia on one side and England and Japan on the other, having as an object the protection of their Asiatic African and Australian possessions, Russia might easily reach her object on the Bosphorus and support Italy and the Slavs when the inevitable question of Austrian succession arises. In this way the threatening imperialism of Germany would be quenched and the European equilibrium would be safeguarded, a thing which is necessary for the influence with the United States in the Pacific. However, to direct the Russian policy to these far distant, but natural and possible, objects, the company can now operate only at La Guayra and New York. Communication with the interior by the national telegraph costs one bolivian a word.

The government says this decision is provisional, pending the arrival of the cable administrator, M. Bosquet, who is expected on September 27. The company's representative here, M. Brun, requested a delay till the arrival of M. Bosquet, without avail. He has communicated with the French Government and the legation and it is feared serious complications will result.

Special Cable to The Call and New York Herald. Copyright, 1905, by the New York Herald Publishing Company. TOLEDO, Ohio, Sept. 3.—Herman W. Metzger of this city, after years of study over his miscellaneous relationship to himself, had discovered he was his own brother-in-law, and was going to give his troubled mind a vacation, when yesterday his genealogical tree suddenly sprouted up again in a most acrobatic manner. Metzger had three sons. He married Mrs. Mary Miller, who had three daughters. Mrs. Miller's daughters' first stepfather was Metzger's brother. By marrying his sister-in-law Metzger found that he was his own brother-in-law and that the three girls and his own boys were, in the way of relatives, a perpetual puzzle and conglomeration of relationship.

Special Cable to The Call. TACOMA, Sept. 3.—Disappointed in the game laws of Alaska, Captain C. G. Cowan of Londonderry, England, late of his Majesty's Irish Horse, will go to Washington this winter and lobby for a bill to be introduced in Congress permitting hunters to take away from Alaska the spoils of the chase. "A man can hunt there now all he wants to, but the 'bloody' laws won't allow him to take out a hide or pair of horns or any trophies of his skill," says the captain. "You see, I promised to bring a walrus head to Walter Rothschild, and I had hopes of a moose head for my own collection. My word, I think there's too much government in the United States."

Special Cable to The Call. PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—Harry Pratt Jones and James Madison Thompson of Baltimore, widely known in club and social circles, engaged a special train on the Pennsylvania Railroad early this morning and made a new speed record to Atlantic City, all for the avowed purpose of taking a bath. The special train shot out of the station at eight minutes to 1 o'clock this morning. There was only one car and the locomotive, and Mr. Jones and his friend were whirled into the Atlantic City station at just 2 o'clock, having traversed seventy-six miles in sixty-eight minutes.

Special Cable to The Call. SEATTLE, Sept. 3.—There are now 120 cases of typhoid fever in the city as against eighty-five the first of last week. During August there were seven deaths from the disease. Dr. J. E. McGillivray of San Francisco, referee for the Mutual Life Insurance Company, today made an investigation. In his opinion the trouble is caused by gases emitted from the earth during street improvements. He says: "San Francisco had the same trouble when improvement work was ordered on Sansome and a number of other streets."

Special Dispatch to The Call. LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3.—It was learned here to-day from passengers that Saturday's Owl train from San Francisco escaped destruction by the narrow margin at 11:50 o'clock last night at Kingsburg, Fresno County. While running fifty miles an hour the train took an open switch and entered siding on which stood a string of empty freight cars. Engineer Walter Cole of Kern City saw the red lamp danger signal as he dashed into the switch and applied the air. His quickness of action retarded the speed of the train to ten miles before the collision came and the shock of the impact was so slight that the passengers did not learn the nature of their close call until they had "piled out" of the coaches.

Three people were badly injured, two women and Berry Shouse, the driver of the bus. Mrs. J. E. Murphy, wife of Carpenter Murphy of the United States navy, was injured internally and Miss Mary Moran's shoulder blade was broken. Special Dispatch to The Call. SEATTLE, Sept. 3.—Herbert Taylor, the bass, whose engagement to marry Miss Isabelle Johnson, a young society woman of Seattle and a relative of the Gearys of San Francisco, was broken because he could not satisfy her that he was not already a married man. It was not until the day of the Plymouth Congregational Church. His dismissal by the trustees of the church followed the publication of the story involving himself and Miss Johnson. Taylor is still in the city, but it is said that he will leave Seattle for New York, where his former fiancée has gone, presumably to await his coming.
