

SOCIETY WAR IN HONOLULU

Mrs. Robert Wilcox, Formerly a Princess, Endeavors to Lead the Island Smart Set

SHE MEETS OPPOSITION

Claim That She Entertained an Italian Prince Brings Forth an Official Denial

Special Dispatch to The Call.

HONOLULU, Oct. 24.—One of the amusing incidents of the visit of Prince Ferdinand of Savoy on the Italian steamer Calabria was the rivalry between the Italian society of Honolulu and one of the Princesses of Hawaii under the monarchy. It has led to a semi-official denial by Italian Consul Lutz that Prince Ferdinand called upon or accepted the hospitality of the Princess Theresa (Mrs. Robert Wilcox) and warm assertions by the lady that she not only received the Prince at her Kapaeha place, but was presented by him with a locket with his picture in it and a fine bracelet.

In response to this Count Merloni is said to be authority for the story that the man entertained by Princess Theresa was a petty officer of the Calabria.

It seems that the Princess did entertain a "Prince," whom she introduced with much éclat to many Honolulu people as Prince Ferdinand. The functions which this "Prince" attended were duly reported to the papers and in one instance the account was printed, with the result that the Italian Consul denied that such had been the case.

Princess Theresa was prominent in the reception of Mr. and Mrs. William Jennings Bryan when they were here and has excited a good deal of comment by her assumption of the social leadership of a certain set.

SHERIFF MUST NOT OBSTRUCT STREETS

Long Says City Official Is Liable to Arrest in Eviction Cases.

City Attorney Long yesterday advised the Board of Public Works in an opinion to the effect that the Sheriff is amenable to the law prohibiting the obstruction of public streets just the same as an ordinary citizen. The opinion was in answer to a communication from the board named as to whether the Sheriff could not be proceeded against when he places household furniture on the sidewalk while evicting tenants who fail to pay their rent. The furniture of a Mrs. O'Day was allowed to remain on the sidewalk on "Behauna street, near Third," and complaints were filed regarding the danger from the obstructions. Long's opinion says:

I have been unable to find any law or decision of the courts which gives the Sheriff the right to use the public streets as a place of storage in eviction proceedings. If the dispossessed tenant does not receive his personal property on the sidewalk the Sheriff may not permit it to remain there and become an obstruction to the sidewalk. (Cases vs. Bues, 109 Wis. 169; Commonwealth vs. Millman, 13 S. & R. Reports, 493.)

It is accordingly the duty of the Sheriff to give proper notice to the owner and occupant of the house and the Sheriff to remove the obstructions from the sidewalk, and that if after the said notice is given said obstructions are not removed within the time specified in the notice, and you proceed to remove the same, and you proceed against the Sheriff in order to do the clothing business of San Francisco. He will sell high grade goods for less money than any other storekeeper can afford to sell. The volume of business is what he is after, therefore he is selling all this week men's all wool stylish tailor made suits that cost $15 for $8.50. They go like hot cakes. Every week something new in the line of clothing at 1057 Market street.

ANOTHER TREAT OF FUNMAKING

Ade's "Peggy From Paris" to Be Given Twice at Grand Opera-House Next Sunday

George Ade's merry musical play, "Peggy From Paris," which has scored distinct hits and achieved long runs in New York, Boston and Chicago, will be presented at the Grand Opera House next Sunday, matinee and night only. The cast which will interpret it will be the one that made the play famous in the East. It includes Arthur Deacy, Julia West, Clara Martini, Herbert Hayes, Bennett, E. H. O'Connor, Percy Bronson, Minnie Olton, Thomas L. Burton, Thomas Drew and the famous Emmaline Chorus.

In "Peggy From Paris" there are fifteen changes of costume for the chorus alone. Of course not all the girls have to change fifteen times, for different ones appear at the various musical numbers. It is distinctly impressed upon the public that the two performances of "Peggy From Paris" announced for next Sunday can be the only ones given, as "Ben Hur" opens the following night.

JAPAN'S PLANS IN THE ORIENT

Secretary Hioki of Legation at Washington Says America Has Nothing to Fear

TALKS OF IMMIGRATION

Believes That Discharged Soldiers Will Not Seek Entrance to United States

CLEVELAND, Oct. 24.—Eiki Hioki, First Secretary of the Japanese Legation at Washington, delivered an address to the members of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce this evening, his subject being "Japan, America and the Orient." In view of the fact that Hioki's address was practically the first official utterance from a Japanese source concerning the situation in the Far East since the close of the war, it was considered as significant, and attracted much attention. Hioki said in part:

Seeing that certain questions are receiving more or less attention of the thinking class of people in this and other countries it may not be without value to express this opportunity my humble views on them. First—The yellow peril. In spite of the influence which once gained the doctrine of the yellow peril seems to have lost its hold on men's minds, at least in America. Second—Japan has no designs on the Philippines. If a bona fide statement of responsible parties fails to convince, let us try a brief argument. Hioki said that at the moment, for the sake of argument, the consideration of the motive of Japan regarding the present subject, let me ask you a question. Can you believe that this great American people who glory in their national spirit, in their gigantic stature, in their pride of wealth, in their marvelous development and who look forth with proud and confident anticipation to the time when they shall be the first in the race civilization has set for man to run, would allow their flag to be lowered by it in the Philippines or any other place which legitimately belongs to her, by any hands but their own? No, most emphatically no. That is the spirit with which you cling to your new possessions in the Pacific and that is the spirit of the Americans than the Japanese. Therefore, if Japan harbored such a sinister design as is attributed to her, she must be prepared to plunge in a war far more gigantic than the one just ended, against a nation to which she owes much that she is today, and whose people she owes that moral and financial support so unreservedly given at the most critical period in her history. No, the Philippines are not worth the sacrifice of such a valuable friendship as that of America and the enormous losses and money which such a war would necessarily entail.

Third—The open door policy in China. This increased prestige of Japan turned the tide of the world toward the problem of what influence Japan will wield over China. With out questioning the principle contained in the so-called Monroe doctrine of its applicability to the western hemisphere at present, I can simply say that such an idea has not entered into Japanese minds. Fourth—Japanese influence in China. In China are beneficial to the whole world. It is a matter for congratulation for Japan, as well as for the rest of the world, that the commercial prospect of the increase of Japanese influence in China as a result of her increased prestige. Fifth—The industrial and commercial development of Japan. The last war with Russia has increased the national debt of Japan in the amount of $1,000,000,000, the interest on which alone requires nearly $15,000,000 annually. It is indeed a heavy, an enormous burden and every dollar of it, interest and principal, must be paid.

Sixth—Japanese immigration into the United States. It is a frequent question in newspapers that when the war with Russia is over and the army of 700,000 men in Manchuria is disbanded, the Pacific Coast will be flooded with Japanese immigrants. Such a statement cannot be regarded as an expression of a serious opinion, because, unless that enormous army of Japanese had at once decided to leave the Far East, there would have been no reason why its disbandment should cause any increase of immigration to the United States or anywhere else. There is every reason to believe that Japanese immigration to the United States will considerably decrease.

Seventh—The future of the Orient. The Orient, with more than half the population of the world, and with a commerce amounting only to $3,000,000,000 annually, that is only a little over one-seventh of the total trade of the world, offers almost unlimited possibilities for future development.

Bowen Arraigned for Murder. Chilton Bowen was arraigned before Judge Lawlor yesterday on a charge of murder under the indictment of the Grand Jury and the case was continued till to-morrow for the defendant to plead. The matter was laid before the Grand Jury because the attorneys for the defendant raised some technical points regarding the indictment of the Police courts. Bowen shot and killed W. W. Stephenson of Washoe, Nev., in a lodging-house on Larkin street, where he had been conversing with Stephenson's wife.

Ask the man who knows. The American Cigar, made by Regensburg, is the best.

Sneak Thieves at Work. J. H. Williams reported to the police yesterday that 150 feet of hose had been stolen from his house at 103 Webster street.

A. Wallen, a contractor, reported that seven window sashes had been stolen from a new building on Pacific street, between Leavenworth and Jones.

The Electrical Inspection Company, 11 Eighth street, reported that some boys had stolen articles from its warehouse, valued at $650.

Conrad W. Fuhrer, 1676 Page street, reported that he had either lost or had stolen from him a violin, valued at $100, at Haight and Fillmore streets.

HISTORY MADE BY M'KINLEY

First Conviction Scored in New Government Building, Dr. Sherrod the Victim

THIRD CRIMINAL TRIAL

Devlin and Black Unlucky in the First and Second by No Fault of Theirs

The first conviction by a trial jury in the new Government building was recorded yesterday, and Assistant United States District Attorney Ben L. McKinley is credited with whatever of glory is due to that historical achievement. The victim who thus unwillingly became the shining example for the exigencies of history was Dr. Lawrence Llewellyn Sherrod, alias C. Backus, alias J. N. Brown, alias L. Llewellyn, alias Health Appliance Company, alias Vacuum Appliance Company, alias Vacuum Medical Company, alias Vacuum Dispensary Company.

Each of the aliases had been indicted for sending obscene pamphlets through the mails, his nemesis being Postoffice Inspector James O'Connell, alias Dillingham. O'Connell, under the alias of Dillingham, wrote to Dr. Sherrod, referring to his advertisement in the daily papers and asking for one of his pamphlets. He got it by mail and forthwith arrested his would-be benefactor. Sherrod was ordered to appear for sentence at 10 a. m. to-day. The jury, on account of his genteel and distinguished appearance, recommended him to the clemency of the court.

Sherrod has been in trouble before. Under the names of Dr. Lawrence and C. Backus he was arrested on March 23, 1904, by Policemen W. H. Cannon and E. H. Mills for having obscene literature in his possession. He gave his name in the Police Court as J. N. Brown. He was convicted on the following day and paid a fine of $50. This was the third jury criminal trial held in the United States District Court room, the first being that of Cross Unger, in which the jury disagreed, and the second that of George Wright, who was acquitted. These two cases were vigorously prosecuted by United States District Attorney Robert T. Devlin and Assistant United States District Attorney A. P. Black.

DENIS O'SULLIVAN'S SUCCESS IN SONG RECITAL. Denis O'Sullivan gave a song recital last night in the Alhambra Theater, delighting his audience with gems which might be termed songs cosmopolitan, for they represented the composers of several nationalities.

Among them were good and quaint old English songs, such as Purcell's "I'd Sail Upon the Dog Star" and "When I Listen to Thy Voice," and several with words by Kipling. Then there were Irish airs, old and new, notably "The Emigrant" and "The Wear of the Green," and two very pretty things, "The Birds Fly South" and "The Pride of the Rileys," words by Patrick Bidwell (Mrs. O'Sullivan).

The success of the recital was shared by Frederick Maurer, whose accompaniments were masterful interpretations of the composers.
