LIFE IMPRISONMENT FOR FRUIT SALE

Young Blaker Is Sentenced by Oakland Judge.

Trial of His Boy Accomplices Is Now in Progress.

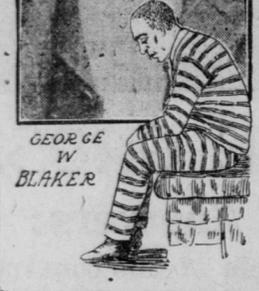

OAKLAND, Nov. 24.—To spend the remainder of his life in San Quentin was the sentence imposed this morning by Judge Melvin on George W. Blaker, a 16-year-old youth, for complicity in the murder of Thomas W. Cook at Fruitvale last July.

A final word over the courtroom when the final words of Judge Melvin announced the term of punishment, but there was no scene. Within the rail sat Captain Charles Blaker, the lad's father, and beside him his mother, Mrs. Jennie Blaker. The face of the father was before the court scene, but his emotions were controlled, and the audience that had filled the courtroom with life and noise before the sentence had been pronounced now left the room quietly.

FIRST TO BE SENTENCED.

Blaker is the first of the three youths charged with the murder of Cook to feel the heavy hand of the law. Waiting in another department was Percy Pembroke, and as soon as District Attorney Allen had heard the sentence, Pembroke was taken to the jail. The trial of Pembroke, which is now under way, Blaker was also brought into the trial of the case, and the judge stated to the stand and tell the story of the crime.

CRUSADE AGAINST THOSE WHO HIRE CHILDREN BEGUN BY STATE LABOR COMMISSIONER.

FRED BECKER ACCUSED

ALLEGED TO HAVE VIOLATED LAW IN EMPLOYING H. THOMPSONS, WHO WAS KILLED.

OAKLAND, Nov. 24.—The local representatives of the State Labor Bureau began their crusade against the violators of the new child labor law this afternoon, when two warrants were issued for the arrest of Fred Becker, a prominent meat dealer and member of the Butchers' Board of Trade. Becker is accused of employing Henry Thompsons, aged 13 years, who was killed in an elevator accident November 14 last.

The child labor law, enacted by the Legislature, makes it a misdemeanor to employ youths under 14 years of age during school terms without an order of the Superior Court. In vacations the child must have a certificate from the Superintendent of Schools before he may be lawfully employed. The law further provides that no child under 16 years shall be employed in a dangerous position. Becker is accused of having violated both these provisions.

Young Thompsons was crushed to death by an elevator which he was operating in Becker's meat market, and the Labor Commissioner decided to prosecute. Pursuant to this decision, John M. Echeator, Deputy Labor Commissioner, today swore to the warrants against Becker, on orders from Labor Commissioner W. V. Stafford.

PROMINENT MERCHANTS SAY FIRE CHIEF IS NOT COMPETENT TO HOLD HIS POSITION.

CHARGES ARE GRAVE

ALLEGATIONS OF NEGLECT OF DUTY ARE DENIED BY HEAD OF THE DEPARTMENT.

OAKLAND, Nov. 24.—Charges of incompetence were filed against Chief Engineer N. A. Ball, of the Oakland Fire Department this morning, in a petition filed with the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners by Frank Matthews, president of the Bay City Iron Works, in which the signers of the document, fifty-three in number, ask that the chief be removed from his position, on the ground of inefficiency in the handling of the recent fire in the manufacturing district at Third and Clay streets.

In his reply to the charges, Chief Ball, who has always been rated as a thoroughly competent officer, declares that the allegations are "absolutely false, and are either the result of misinformation, or are caused by personal or political animosity."

The chief says that, so far as the charges themselves are concerned, he knows of no difficulty in disproving all of them, and that he courts a full investigation by the Commissioners.

The petition, which Chief Ball says, was circulated at the instance of President Matthews of the Bay City Iron Works, which were badly damaged at the fire, and at other places, among other things, that Chief Ball did not turn in a general alarm on his arrival at the fire, and that he took time to carefully remove his coat and vest, and fold them on the seat of his buggy before turning in a second alarm.

CHARGES ARE GRAVE.

The chief is also charged with having refused to allow the firemen to turn a stream of water on the Burnham Standford-Company's mill, on the south side of Second street, and that employees of the mill forcibly took a hose from the firemen, and used it to extinguish the fire which had spread to the lumber piled in front of the company's mill on Second street. Charges are also made that when a representative of the Burnham-Standford Company asked for assistance to spread the fire, Chief Ball was abusive and profane in his refusal.

The records of the Fire Department show that a general alarm was turned in from box 65 on the day of the fire, which destroyed the buildings in the block bounded by Second and Third and Washington and Clay streets, and that seven of the eight engines of the city were used on that date in fighting the fire. In response to the charge that he refused to turn in a second and third alarm Chief Ball says he can prove that the second alarm was turned in the moment he reached the fire, and the third as soon as the second had ceased to sound. Regarding the charge that he took time to carefully remove his coat and vest, the chief says that a dozen people can prove it false.

The charge is also made that the hose couplings on the battery of the Fifteenth street hose wagon, called "The Water Tower," were missing, and that a messenger had to be sent to the engine house to get them before the battery could be put into action. This charge proves itself false, as the couplings of the battery are a part of the hose wagon, and to remove and replace them would take an hour's work by the machinist.

CHIEF FEELS CONFIDENT.

Chief Ball said to-day that an officer in the San Francisco Fire Department present at the fire in question made an observation as to the number of engines which would have been used to subdue a blaze of the same magnitude in San Francisco, and commented upon the excellent work done by the local department in preventing the spread of the fire from the block in which it originated.

Chief Ball also proved by disinterested persons that the entire center of the block was in the grip of the flames before the alarm was turned in.

Among the signers of the petition for the removal of Chief Ball is W. J. Emrick, who some time ago was awarded a contract for repairing one of the city's fire engines. When the work was completed Chief Ball refused to approve it.

Chief Ball, when asked what his action would be in regard to the petition, made by the signers of the petition, said this afternoon:

"The charges made against me in this petition are false in every particular, and I shall request the board to make a thorough investigation into the matter. I can easily prove by disinterested witnesses that the allegations are without foundation. In one way or another, the charges made against me are very much, for it shows that during the days that it has been in circulation, I have been secured by those interested in having me removed from my position. If, during the eight years that I have been at the head of the Fire Department, I have made no more enemies than this would indicate, I think I should be very well satisfied."

The proposed system will cost between $250,000 and $300,000, and the plans will be ready within sixty days. The intended improvements include sewers in Adams Market, Magnolia and Canning streets and Cemetery Creek; the improvement of the main lake sewer and outlet sewers in the various wards.

DOUGHERTY ENTERS A PLEA OF GUILTY.

Illinois Educator and Banker Sentenced to Term in Prison.

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 24.—Newton C. Dougherty has pleaded guilty to five of the forgery charges against him and will be taken to the Joliet penitentiary. He appeared before Judge Worthington to-day, pleaded guilty, and was given a sentence of from one to fourteen years on each of the five counts, the terms to be concurrent.

When the prisoner, accompanied by W. T. Farin, one of his attorneys, left his son Ralph and a Deputy Sheriff, left the jail for the courtroom, Dougherty said to the jailer: "Well, I guess I'll have to do it."

In the courtroom there were 200 spectators. Attorney Farin addressed the court. He said that Dougherty had turned all of his property over and had given him the power to settle the affairs of the prisoner. He added that Dougherty's property would amount to more than the school board's defaultations. He admitted that Dougherty had been careless and that he stood willing to take his punishment.

Judge Worthington replied as follows: "I find it necessary to send him to the penitentiary, as the law provides. It will be a severe punishment."

While the Judge was speaking Dougherty looked straight ahead and did not move a muscle. He said nothing when the sentence was pronounced, and was taken back to jail, escorted by his attorneys.

This marked the closing scenes of the most astounding school fund robbery brought to public notice. For twenty-five years Newton C. Dougherty, as City Superintendent of Education and for nearly twenty years as secretary of the board, had almost absolute control of the school funds. He issued scrip and handled notes and checks as if they were his own property.

As president of the Peoria National Bank, Dougherty was enabled to cover up his peculations so well that from June 30, 1904, to June 30, 1905, the school fund shortage amounted to $24,000. While all the books of the board have now yet been examined by the special auditing committee, it is currently believed that the aggregate amount of money taken will reach $100,000.

He corresponded with her, but she met Thomas Azavedo during her husband's absence, and because she liked him better than Raulino they assumed marital relations, living as husband and wife until lately. They went through a marriage ceremony in Crocker Plant, Cal., in 1889, although she was not divorced from Raulino until 1892.
