

WHEEL OF CHRISTMAS FOR POOR OF NEW YORK

Thousands Made Happy by Generosity of the People of the City.

Dinner Served to Vast Throng in the Metropolis of the Country.

NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—Christmas day in New York was marked by the customary suspension of business and the usual family reunions and generous outpouring of public and private charity. Fully 200,000 poor persons partook of the bountiful Christmas fare provided in all the city hospitals and asylums, in missions and other benevolent institutions supported by private charity and at the annual distribution of dinner to the Metropolis Army and the Volunteers of America.

At the Grand Central Palace the distribution of Christmas dinner baskets by the Salvation Army began early in the morning and continued until the needs of many $200 families had been attended to. In addition to this numerous bundles of clothing for children and adults were distributed.

At the Bowery Mission more than 2000 human cerebels were fed, and as many more were entertained at the city lodging-house. Five thousand newsworthy of the East Side feasted at the expense of Randolph Guggenheimer at the Newboys' Club house in East Fourth street, and the usual dinner for the little fellows was served at the newboys' lodging-house.

Congressman Timothy D. Sullivan dispensed Christmas cheer and presents of pipes and tobacco to nearly 6000 men at his headquarters in the Bowery.

A tragic interruption of the Christmas festivities occurred at the home of Mrs. Paul Raymond, when her stepbrother, John M. Muscov, and his friend, Andrew Casman, who had been invited to join a family reunion, were found dead in bed this morning. The men, who had recently arrived from Russia, were unacquainted with the use of illuminating gas, and blew it out when they retired last night.

In accordance with the naval custom of observing Christmas day as a holiday, all work was suspended at the yards of the Massachusetts, Massachusetts, Iowa and Maine at the Brooklyn navy yard and the cruisers Brooklyn and Galveston at Tompkinsville. About 200 bluejackets and marines received shore leave for the day.

Atlantic coast there was also sent a Christmas greeting by means of wireless telegraph, which incidentally proved an elaborate and practical test of this auxiliary of the navy. The wireless message was by direction of Admiral Manney, chief of the Bureau of Equipment, and the results were most satisfactory to him. The message contained the greetings of the wireless station at the Washington navy yard, and were relayed from place to place. Early responses came from the officers nearest Washington, but before midnight many of the wireless stations at the Washington navy yard, and were relayed from place to place. SERIES OF CHRISTMAS TRAGEDIES
Five Deaths the Probable Result of Holiday Misfortunes.

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 25.—Two men were fatally burned to-day while impersonating Santa Claus; two children were killed, one child was fatally wounded and the other was seriously injured in accidents due to the holidays.

Sidney Anderson, head blacksmith in the Southern Pacific shops, arose early to take the part of Santa Claus and to complete the decoration of a Christmas tree. He dressed in an improvised costume made of tufts of cotton, and with a long flowing wig and beard of hemp. While lighting the Christmas tree his beard was fired and in a moment he was in flames. He was fatally burned before assistance came.

Roy Ramer was fatally shot by Vera Egan, the 12-year-old daughter of his landlord. He had presented the child and her mother with gifts, and the girl, while skipping about in excess of joy, picked up a revolver and snapped it, saying: "I will show you how good an aim I can make."

W. H. Osborn, a South End grocer, while distributing presents was burned from head to foot before the flaming garments could be torn from him.

Thelma, the 4-year-old daughter of J. L. Tulpepper, was burned to death with a coal lamp.

Edward Carter, aged 15, lost an arm by the explosion of a toy cannon and received other injuries from which death is expected.

Joe Milano, a Mexican boy, had not a candle in his pockets and placed firecrackers in his pockets. He was mounting his horse to ride to his home when some one fired the crackers. The horse ran away and he was thrown and killed.

WHITE HOUSE FESTIVITIES.
Archie Roosevelt Plays Santa Claus in Executive Mansion.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—Official Washington celebrated Christmas by a general suspension of Government business. Only matters of urgent importance were considered, no routine business being taken up. All of the Government departments were closed, but the most important matters at their desks for a time attending to important mail and telegraphic advices.

President Roosevelt appeared at his office for only a brief time—just long enough in fact to dispose of a few matters of importance that required his attention. He did not attend church service, remaining during the morning hours with the members of his family. A few intimate personal friends called at the White House, but for the most part no guests were received.

During the morning there was a general gift-giving at the White House. This exchange of presents was confined principally to members of the family. The President's son, Archie, who, incidentally, had a Christmas tree in his own room and from that he distributed his gifts to the family and the household people. Mrs. Cowles, the President's sister, entertained the members of the family with gift-giving at her home.

During the forenoon the President and Mrs. Roosevelt went for a long ride. A family dinner was given at the White House later in the day. Among the guests was Representative Nicholas Longworth, the fiancée of Miss Roosevelt.

The President has notified the members of his Cabinet that during the present week there will be no regular meetings of the Cabinet. He will take up during the week only matters of the most urgent importance and will receive no callers or visitors unless their business is imperative. It is his purpose to make this truly a holiday week and to give as little time as possible in the transaction of routine business.

NEW YORK. Dec. 25.—Jacob H. Schiff, banker, gave his cook, Lena, a $5000 check for a Christmas present to-day.

Every one in the Schiff family has the highest regard for Lena. There is only one dyspeptic atom in the dinner she prepared. Indeed, it is said that the only reason Schiff wanted to give Cornelius N. Bliss at that famous meeting of the Equitable directors was that Mrs. Schiff was late for a dinner Lena had cooked.

Mrs. Schiff gave Lena a cluster-diamond ring. Mrs. Felix Wernburg, Schiff's daughter, presented the cook with a gold watch and a neck chain and Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Schiff sent Lena a handsome check.

Lena came to this country to teach German, but found it more profitable to cook in German fashion. Twenty-five years ago she fell off into the Schiff household. Now she is independent financially. She cooks for love of the Schiffs and of her art.

CHRISTMAS TREE IN PULLMAN.
New York Banker Plays Santa Claus While Train Speeds Eastward.

DENVER, Dec. 25.—Emil Custer of New York, largely interested in Colorado, was playing Santa Claus to-day on his suite in the Metropole Hotel to-day on the arrival of his wife and two children from California. Summarily to New York post haste by telegraph he called on his family at the railroad station. With the consent of General Agent N. L. Drew of the Rock Island, he placed his Christmas tree in the stateroom of a sleeper of the Mountaineer Limited and started eastward with his family. The tree was stripped at 3 o'clock this afternoon while the limited whirled across the prairie. A dinner to his fellow Pullman passengers followed.

CONVICT CHOIR SINGS.
Mass Is Celebrated for Benefit of San Quentin's Inmates.

SAN QUENTIN, Dec. 25.—Rev. Father Walsh said two Christmas masses here this morning, one in the prison and the other in the prison library for the convicts. A choir consisting of Mr. and Mrs. V. Gilardi, Rose Gilardi and Ella Mann with Miss Gorman as organist, rendered the service. Many convicts attended the service at the prison. A male convict choir of twelve voices rendered excellent music.

ST. VINCENT, Dec. 25.—Seventy-five trained orphans sang the "Holy Angels" in the mass held in the Church of the Holy Rosary at the Orphan Asylum this morning. The altars were decorated with the boys. Rev. Father Gallagher spoke on the birth of our Saviour. It was gala day for the poor orphans, as their friends and the friends of the institution had contributed liberally. They gave thanks to the gifts and sat down to a fine Christmas dinner.

SAN RAFAEL, Dec. 25.—The Christmas services this morning at St. Paul's Episcopal Church will long be remembered by the congregation. The music was by a full choir of twenty-five voices under the leadership of C. Goldfarb, the organist. Holy communion was served to many communicants. Rev. Dr. Bradley delivered the sermon. At the manger service held last evening many Christmas presents for the poor and needy children of the district were donated.

Services were held at St. Raphael's Church in honor of the birth of Christ this morning. The children's choir sang at the 9 o'clock mass. Professor Drew was in charge of the music. Rev. Father Egan delivered a very interesting sermon on the nativity.

Rev. Father Phillips said two masses at the chapel of the Dominican Convent this morning. The altar was tastefully decorated with flowers and evergreens. The first mass at 6:30 a. m. was a low mass and the second at 7:30 was a high mass. Loesch's Mass in F was sung by

CHRISTMAS JOY WARMS MANY HEARTS

Every son of man is therefore enabled because the Son of God became sharer of his nature.

Shall we go forth in the knowledge of this fact—the orphans, the sick, the afflicted, those suffering from the headache and the heartache of earth. He came to seek and save that which he became man. He came to seek and save.

The babe of Bethlehem is no longer with us in the flesh, but his representations are here—the orphans, the sick, the afflicted, those suffering from the headache and the heartache of earth. He came to seek and save that which he became man. He came to seek and save.

A musical entertainment in which children were the performers afforded plenty of amusement. The Volunteers saw that none of the children went home without a toy. Strong effort was made on the part of the organization to bring every poor child there to get a Christmas present. A Santa Claus was on the stage distributing the toys. This organization did some noble work also in the distribution of baskets of food to the poor. All last Saturday members were kept busy sending Christmas dinners to the poor.

CROWD WOULD DEAL HARSHLY WITH JAP FOR STABBING BOY

Through Surges About Hospital in Effort to Get at T. Opeo, Who Stabbed James Irwin.

Policeman Ropp, with the assistance of the members of the Central Emergency Hospital staff, prevented T. Opeo, a Japanese, from being harshly dealt with by an angry mob that crowded around the doors of the hospital last night and fought to get a hold of the Oriental. The mob was driven into an angry mood over Opeo's cutting a boy named James Irwin, of 254 Clementina street, in front of the Alhambra Theater.

Young Irwin and a number of other youths were fooling with Opeo in front of the theater, when suddenly he drew a knife and plunged it into the boy. As soon as he had done the deed he ran for his life, with an angry crowd after him. He ran into a house on Stevenson street, near Fifth. Special Policeman Alvarado went into the house and placed him under arrest. He was taken to the hospital to be identified by Irwin.

As he was about to be taken inside the angry crowd made a desperate effort to take him from the policeman and considerable resistance was necessary to get him to the hospital.

The Jap was robbed of a gold watch and chain, a locket valued at $6 and $26 in coin.
