

STRICT INSPECTION RULES FOR MEAT.

Secretary of Agriculture Formulates a System to Carry Out the Law FULL SANITATION

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Secretary Wilson today made public the regulations under the new law governing the inspection of meat products for interstate and foreign trade. They do not, however, cover the subject of interstate transportation of meat or the microscopic inspection of pork for export. The regulations on these subjects, it was stated, will be issued later. The regulations issued today are stringent throughout and are in line with the best authorities on the subject of sanitation, preservation, dyes, chemicals and condemnation of diseased carcasses.

Buildings must be clean. Reinspection will be the rule wherever necessary. The sanitation regulations require that establishments in which animals are slaughtered or meats and meat food products are prepared, cured, packed, stored or shipped, be suitably lighted and ventilated and to be maintained in a sanitary condition. All work in such establishments must be performed in a clean and sanitary manner.

Employees of the establishments must wear outer clothing of a material that is easily cleaned and made sanitary, and all dressing-rooms are required to be entirely separate from apartments in which carcasses are dressed or meats and meat food products are prepared. Managers of establishments will not be permitted to employ any person, affected with tuberculosis in any of the departments where carcasses are handled. Employees are required to clean and disinfect their hands and implements before touching healthy carcasses. Employees who are unclean and careless of person will not be allowed to handle meats.

Shipper will benefit. Weekly reports on sanitation are to be made by the employees in each of the various departments to the inspector in charge of the station, who in turn must report weekly to the chief of the bureau of animal industry at Washington; but if any unsanitary conditions are detected by any department employee, such conditions must be reported immediately to the inspector in charge, who will report to Washington.

Under the new form of inspection, the shipper will be absolutely protected and will receive full price for all animals which pass the inspection.

HARTJE'S COUNSEL MAKES BLUNDER.

PITTSBURG, July 27.—Susie Wagner, formerly a maid in the employ of the Hartje household, was a witness for Hartje today in his suit for divorce, but by her testimony made an important point for Mrs. Hartje. Susie Wagner received three letters from Mrs. Mary Scott Hartje while Susie was in Germany was brought out. Hitherto only two letters had been mentioned, one of them being the disputed letter known as exhibit No. 6. Mrs. Wagner said she gave the second letter to "Ed" Hartje in New York. Mrs. Hartje's attorneys have contended all along that exhibit No. 6 was a forced reproduction of another letter. The admission that the second letter reached the Hartje side two months before No. 6 is regarded as important.

Susie Wagner, on cross-examination, admitted that she had received a letter from Mrs. Hartje which contained substantially the same things as are found in exhibit 6, and which she says she gave to Attorney E. G. Hartje in New York.

SAYS JURY IS GROPING. "The Grand Jury is groping blindly in the dark. I know not what for," said Quimby, as he emerged from the jury-room.

Evidently the jury wishes to determine your attitude toward your policyholders," was suggested. "So far as that is concerned, what is your attitude?" was asked.

"Well, only four of our unpaid policies are matured," was the answer. "Of these four we will pay every dollar on two and as to the other two we may not admit our liability."

Root Given Royal Welcome to the Capital of Brazil.

Greeted by Cheering Crowds at Rio Janeiro.

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 27.—The United States cruiser Charleston, with Secretary Root on board, entered the harbor from Bahia at 7 o'clock this morning and was saluted with nineteen guns from the forts. The American Ambassador, Mr. Griscom, and the Brazilian Ambassador to the United States, Senhor Nabuco, at 9:30 o'clock went on board the Charleston, which was soon surrounded by hundreds of noisy launches and ferry-boats crowded with people anxious to greet the American Secretary of State.

Secretary Root and his family, accompanied by Senhor Nabuco, landed in the thirty-ear royal barge John VI amid the salutes of the assembled warships, including those of Brazil, Germany and Argentina.

On landing Root was welcomed by General Rio Branco, the Brazilian Foreign Minister, as the representative of President Alves. A reception was then held beneath a floral arch at the landing place, which was surrounded by troops and crowds of cheering people.

An enormous procession, composed in part of cavalry, carriages, police and lancers, escorted Secretary Root through the streets to the historical Abrantes Palace. The palace has been given over to the occupancy of Root and his party, through the courtesy of the Silva family. Here the Americans were greeted by throngs of students and citizens, who enthusiastically applauded speeches by Secretary Root, Ambassador Nabuco and American Ambassador Griscom. Ambassador Griscom, who spoke in Portuguese, made a hit with his auditors.

Secretary Root and Ambassador Griscom visited President Alves at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

GOVERNMENT BUILDING, RIO JANEIRO, WHERE THE CONFERENCE IS BEING HELD.

WAR IS CONTINUED AGAINST JAPS. Western Addition People Secure Names of All Harboring Orientals

Tenants of the Western Addition who are warring against the encroachment of Japanese in their section of the city held a second meeting last night in Native Sons' Hall, Geary and Gough streets, and after listening to the report of the committee appointed to collect names of people renting houses to the Orientals indulged in a general discussion of the situation.

Dr. T. I. Jones, a property owner, declared that those owning the houses are not alone to blame, for in some cases the houses are rented to the Japanese by men who hold leases on the property. From another source it is learned that Japanese are buying houses, and in such cases the work of the tenants seems useless.

Several stirring speeches were made and in these landlords were branded as being not only greedy but heartless in crowding out people of their own race as to the line of defense to be put up in his behalf when he is called to answer the charge of killing Stanford White.

money and the committee is trying to withhold money that does not belong to it and which was donated for the very purpose to which the grocers ask that it now be put.

The Grand Jury also decided to consider the complaint of M. L. Gregg, a carpenter who did not enter the reconstruction of the Young & Swain bakery, Geary street, near Devisadero, which supplied refugees with bread during the first few weeks following the disaster. In a letter to the Grand Jury Gregg states that the claim of Young & Swain for bread baked had been paid and that out of the same sum of money representing the cost of repairs to the building had been held for the payment of the mechanics who repaired it, thus throwing the cost on Young & Swain. Notwithstanding this fact, Gregg says he and his fellow-workers have been denied payment for their services. The Grand Jury will find out why.

SCHMITZ WILL ESCAPE.

Assuming an air of pique over the fact that ex-Police Commissioner Thomas Reagan did not enter the walls of its forum to unloose the scandal involving the name of Mayor Schmitz, the Grand Jury has refused, in its own words, to proceed with the washing of the administration of Mayor Schmitz. The decision dismissing the charges against the Mayor as unworthy of attention is final, so far as the present Grand Jury is concerned, outsiders find satisfaction, though little bit, in its admission that within the municipal household there is indeed dirty linen.

The question as to whether or not the charges against the Mayor contained in the published letters of ex-Commissioner Reagan should be investigated with full solemnity was raised at yesterday's meeting of the Grand Jury by John C. McElroy, a member of the body. After a brief discussion of the charges a call for the opinion of the members as to what was proper in the premises was meekly made, but finally extracted the general view "that Reagan made his charges against the Mayor in order to 'get even' with the chief executive for removing him from the Police Commission." As the motive of the ex-Commissioner did not meet with the approval of the Grand Jury in the minds of the jurors, the charges were not considered, with the result that, so far as the present Grand Jury is concerned, the incident is closed.

If Reagan had first brought his charges before the Grand Jury and had not followed the means he did to make known his grievances we might have given them consideration, said a member of the Grand Jury after the close of the meeting. "This looks to me like a game of politics," the juror further hazarded after long meditation, "and you can bet we are going to keep out of this game."

Juror Farnsworth characterized the row between Reagan and Schmitz as a "political quibble," and his fellow-jurors agreed that he had properly named it. So it is that charges that the chief executive of the city is guilty of graft, that he sought to enter into a corrupt compact with the dismissed Commissioner to force whisky on the saloon-keepers of San Francisco at a profit of $50 a barrel, constitute a "political quibble," and a "political quibble" is a game with which the Grand Jury refuses to interfere.

Grand Jurors Matthew Nunan and Luther Wagoner, who were directed to investigate the complaint that the Registrar's office had been placed in the Mission High School for political purposes, and that there were not sufficient blanks upon which the names of electors could be registered, reported yesterday and exonerated the Election Commission and the Registrar. The committee said that the building was as conveniently located as any available, and that there was no shortage of blanks.
