PROFESSOR'S WIFE GARNER PROBABLE AT OPEN SHOP.

A disposition that does not make for peace was manifest yesterday in the conferences of the labor leaders with Patrick Calhoun. The men feel that some person perfectly familiar with the habits of Mrs. Perch had stolen the gems. Chief Vollmer and Detective Jamison of Berkeley said, "A woman," and the Oakland police admitted the soundness of the suggestion. Suspicion at once fell upon Mrs. Souch. Her manner was not perfectly composed. She gave signs of nervousness.

The watch kept upon her movements bore fruit almost at once. Her first trip to Oakland with a diamond ring, which she pawned for a little less than $50, was her undoing. Detectives watched her enter the pawnshop, and after waiting long enough to make sure that the transaction had been completed, they entered, charged the woman with her guilt and she confessed at once. The diamond ring was taken from the pawnshop and restored to Mrs. Perch.

The remainder of the stolen diamonds, the entire collection complete, was unearthed by Mrs. Souch. She had hidden all the diamonds in an unfrequented part of the house.

The scene that followed in the mansion on Henry street when Mrs. Souch's guilt was made known, was, according to the detectives, indescribably pathetic. Mrs. Souch was like an insane person and all of those concerned agreed that she suffered from a mania. Her actions were not those of a sane person and it was because of her peculiar appearance and movements that she was so quickly suspected.

Mr. and Mrs. Perch were almost equally affected with Professor Souch in the revelation of Mrs. Souch's extraordinary actions.

The conference found themselves face to face with the closed shop question. The linemen had not returned to their jobs when the carmen returned to their cars is explained differently by the two unions.

Calhoun holds that the appointment of Worthington as an arbitrator is not a wise selection, as he would have preferred a board made up of men unconnected with either side, but he will offer no protest. He indicated yesterday that if the selection of Worthington was confirmed he would name Thornwell Mullally as the representative of the company on the board.

In reference to the rumor that Mullally would succeed him as president of the union, Calhoun said: "It has been known for some time that I was educating Mullally for that office, but there is no truth in the rumor that he will take the office now. In his own mind he is waiting for me to appoint him, possibly, as vice president of the road. The fire and this strike have been pretty good training."

Receiver of the Traders Now Offers to Abdicate

DIRECTORS of the Traders' Policy-holders' Company have been given a chance to appoint a receiver and assistants. The offer hinges on their ability to get $2,000,000 in policies pledged to act together.

Policy Holders Given Chance to Nominate Their Own Man.

A proposition from Chicago was submitted to the Traders' Policy-Holders' Company yesterday that occasioned a sensation no little surprising. This was, in substance, that the San Francisco policy-holders of the Traders' Insurance Company should appoint their own receiver to take charge of all the assets of the company, to select their own receiver in San Francisco to deal with the policy-holders who are fire losers and, generally, to undertake the administration of the affairs of the corporation as its principal creditor.

While the Policy-holders' League is trying to assist the policy-holders of the Calumet Fireman's Fund, Home Fire and Marine and Pacific Underwriters' companies, an intimation was made that it will be necessary for the policy-holders to act more promptly than they have and with greater unanimity to meet with success.

Coming as it did after a series of meetings of the directors, several of whom are lawyers, did not know what to make of the latest development. For more than an hour they sat in John S. Partridge's office, held an enthusiastic meeting on Thursday night, when the final details were arranged. Special boats and trains will be run at short intervals in order to accommodate the big crowd that is expected.

Games for young and old will be on the programme and valuable prizes will be awarded the winners. Gate prizes will also be distributed. A novel feature of the programme will be an address by Rev. Father Nugent, formerly attached to St. Rose's. A band of music will accompany the merrymakers to the park.

More damaging testimony was adduced at the investigation of the Grand Jury yesterday afternoon in the affairs of the Eagle Insurance Company. The entire blame was attributed to the policy-holders who had not taken sufficient pains to look after their own interests.

Several of the witnesses asserted that from 300 to 3000 inspections of buildings had been made, but none of them remembered any particular building he had inspected. They testified that they had never taken any signed or sworn statements and were instructed not to interview any owners of buildings or ask them any questions as to whether their property had been damaged by the earthquake. Some of the witnesses declared, according to a member of the Grand Jury, that they knew the reports were not made out for the benefit of the policy-holders.

The members of the Grand Jury believe that if they can get hold of these reports they will be able to land some of the ring leaders of the company in the penitentiary.

G. G. Fauss, who is one of the chief clerks for the Eagle, and who employed many of the inspectors, was sulky when he first went on the stand, but after a few threats he became very meek. He would not say whether these reports had been called for by other insurance companies. He was subpoenaed to appear at the next meeting of the jurors and furnish them with these reports.

The witnesses who testified were E. J. Platt, R. C. Schindler, G. G. Fauss, W. C. Datch, G. F. McCormack and J. Shinaber. Because they failed to respond to the subpoenas served on them James Farrar, A. Comstock, F. Pagnello and J. H. Roberts will be cited to appear before Judge Graham and show cause why they should not be cited for contempt.

The Grand Jury has started a crusade against policy-holders who have made out false proofs of losses and have succeeded in getting more money from insurance companies than their actual losses amounted to. Several cases have been brought to the attention of the jury and it intends to start an investigation at once.

HILL'S GREAT FOR CLUB HOME.

Pacific Union Members Are in Favor of Buying Site of the Old Flood Mansion

OWNER IS WILLING

Where the ruins of the once palatial Flood Mansion on the California-street hill now stand silhouetted at night upon a starry background, there may rise the new and magnificent home of the Pacific Union Club. Although negotiations for the purchase of this valuable property have not yet been started, the members of San Francisco's aristocratic organization have been given to understand that it is possible that a deal may be effected within the next few days.

The Pacific Union Club still owns the site of its former clubhouse on the northeast corner of Post and Stockton streets, but the majority of the members are said to be opposed to rebuilding there and have been looking for another and more inviting location. There is a feeling in the club that we should not relocate on the old property, but should go into a more desirable neighborhood, and the one on the hill naturally would be most acceptable to the majority of the club members.

"It is a little too early to say whether or not we will purchase the Flood site, but we understand it can be obtained if we want it."

EMPIRE EXPEDITION INQUIRY. W. J. Shellers, second mate of the steamer Empire, and several other witnesses were before the Grand Jury yesterday testifying as to the facts connected with the reported expedition of that vessel to Guatemalan waters to aid the revolutionists. Shellers is being used as the Government witness and will not be prosecuted for whatever share he may have had in assisting the expedition. The inquiry will be resumed next Tuesday.

COFFEE CLUB FOR SANTA CRUZ. SANTA CRUZ, Sept. 7.—The Santa Cruz Coffee Club, organized principally by the temperance workers, was opened in Santa Cruz tonight.
