Difference of One Hour Defeats Conciliatory Conferences
AGREE ON OLD SCALE
Union Insists on 8 Hours, Owners Come Down to Nine

After a conference of a few minutes the committee of the laundry workers and the employers adjourned without reaching any settlement yesterday afternoon. The employees, who are as anxious as the laundry owners to resume work, offered to return at the former scale of wages, but with an eight hour day instead of 10 hours. This proposition was refused by the committee representing the employers, which in turn offered to pay the old scale of wages for a nine hour day. This the employers rejected. The conference came to an end without any further discussion.

Much satisfaction was expressed at the brewers' headquarters yesterday over the result of the agreement between employers and employees. Many delivery wagons were in the streets gathering up the empty barrels from various places and returning them to the breweries. It will be some days, however, before goods can be delivered as before the strike.

Plasterers' union 66, at a very largely attended meeting in Duboce hall last night, decided by an almost unanimous vote to assist the striking carmen a week to lead the striking carmen. A appeal was made by a committee of two from that organization. About $500 a week will be realized from the assessment.

The barbers' union met in the labor temple last night and assessed its 750 members $1 a month for the purpose of creating a fund to aid unions on strike. The union has to contribute $100 to the carmen, $100 to the laundry workers and $50 to the telephone operators. Four candidates were initiated and three applications presented.

The butchers' union announces that on Thursday, May 30, all meat markets and places where pork is sold will be closed, but that such places will remain open until 8 o'clock the evening previous.

Sheet metal workers' union 279, by a unanimous vote in Sheet Metal Workers' hall in Guerrero street last night, decided to parade on labor day. J. Dennis, A. P. Murphy, J. Leary, J. J. Doyle, E. Engler and A. Green were named as the committee of arrangements. This union has a membership of 800.

Branch 22 glass bottle blowers' union, at its last meeting, donated $150 to the second contribution in 10 days to the organizations out on strike. The union has a membership of 150 in good standing.

The new organization to be known as the retail grocers' clerks' union will be instituted at 1422 Steiner street next Thursday night by Vice President M. E. Licht of the International association. It will start with a charter list of about 100 clerks who are employed in groceries where liquor is not sold are eligible to membership.

The granite cutters' union has adopted a resolution to fine any member $40 if he rides on a nonunion car.

Typographical union 21 will collect 1 per cent of the wages of its members to be used to assist members of unions on strike. About $800 a month will be realized. Any member of this union riding on nonunion cars will be fined $100.

The carpet mechanics' union has joined the campaign against the United Railroads. A fine of $20 will be imposed on members caught riding on the cars during the strike.

The number of workers in the civilized world who belong to labor unions is given at 3,119,406, of which 1,494,300 are under the jurisdiction of the American Federation of Labor. The following table gives in detail the number of local unions and the aggregate membership:

Table with 3 columns: Country, Local Unions, Membership. Lists various countries including United States, Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, Denmark, Spain, Switzerland, New Zealand, Norway, and a Total.

Among the larger labor unions in Germany are the clothing industry, with 242,000 workers, receiving 80 cents a day; the Saxon textile industry, with 225,000 workers, average 75 cents; the glass bottle industry, with 124,000 workers, wages 65 cents; south German textile union, with 124,000 workers, wages 55 cents; and the tobacco industry, with 153,000, wages 40 cents. The lowest rate of all is paid to the textile union of Silesia, 42 cents. The Vorwarts says there are 2,500,000 skilled laborers in Germany earning between 42 cents and 75 cents a day.

Prominent union men of Pittsburgh, Pa., are agitating a proposition to form an organization that will have control of all workers in the glass trade, whether window, flint or bottle departments. Three organizations govern the glass trade at present, namely, the American glass workers' union, glass bottle blowers' union and amalgamated window glass workers' association. If the new organization is formed it will control between 20,000 and 30,000 men.

Depositions form a large part of the evidence of the prosecution in the case of Joseph B. Hubbard and George L. Hammar, now on trial before a jury in Judge Cook's court for the murder of Andrew Kellner, a union sailor, during the coast seamen's strike last June. The testimony of Gustave A. Johnson, second mate of the steamer National City; John Rossi, engineer of the launch Escort, and Alexis Forester, a sailor on the launch, were read yesterday to the jury. Johnson made oath that at the time of the shooting he heard some one say: "Take careful aim." The case goes on this morning.

Body Interred in Mountain View Cemetery in Oakland
Rev. Bradford Leavitt Is Officiating Pastor at Services

All that is mortal of William H. Mills, late land agent of the Central Pacific company, and one of California's best citizens and warmest admirers, was laid to rest yesterday in the presence of a throng of friends, public and social, and grieving relatives. "We need have no doubt, no fear of future need oppress us; the life of him who lies asleep is blessed in peaceful rest and will go on through eternity," said the preacher, and the hearts of all present were touched at the words of the preacher, whose warm personal friend William H. Mills had been. The funeral ceremonies took place at his late residence, 2555 Pacific avenue, yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. Bradford Leavitt officiating. All departments of the Southern Pacific company were represented, as was the state board of trade and the Chit-Chat club. Prominent men of public life from all over the state were there to join with relatives and friends in paying a last tribute to a good and wise man.

The library, wherein the body lay, was bright with blossoms sent by many friends. Rich floral pieces and clusters of flowers almost hid from sight the casket.

After a quartet from California lodge, F. and A. M., had sung "Lead, Kindly Light," Rev. Mr. Leavitt read the Unitarian burial service and pronounced a fitting eulogy. He spoke of the sacred memories of close association with the one who had passed away and of the days just preceding his death. "The pure in heart shall see God," he said one day when, peeped up at his window, he took in the mountain peaks and hills that stretched before him.

"That was typical of the man," said the minister, "for he was ever alert to the beautiful and keen to perceive the good. His was a nature of peculiar sympathy and culture. Into the walks of commerce he carried a high appreciation of morals, an unswerving integrity and a pure soul."

His devotion to duty was touched upon. Certain projects in connection with his work," said Dr. Leavitt, "led him to a trip to Nevada a few weeks ago. He was urged not to undertake the journey, and his physician warned him that his health was in a precarious condition. But he felt it his duty to go, and he went in response to duty."

Interment was in Mountain View cemetery, on the slopes of the Contra Costa hills, across the bay. The funeral procession wound its way from the home on Market street to the foot of Broadway, where a ferry provided by the Southern Pacific carried the funeral party to Oakland. The honorary pallbearers were: Fairfax Wheelan, E. E. Calvin, Judge McFarlane, James Denman, Dr. Henry Gibbons, E. B. Pond, Arthur R. Briggs, J. K. Wilson, John P. Irish, George B. Toy, H. Weinstock, P. N. Lillenthal, Robert Watt, Stephen P. Gage, George Crothers, G. E. C. Gage, J. B. Corey, William E. Dargie, Judge Beatty, E. B. Rodgers, J. H. Sharp and L. Radcliffe.

DISTINCTIVE SKETCHES OF SEASIDE RESORTS
Lure of the Beaches of State Picturesquely Described in June Edition of For California

A budget of attractive sketches of California's seaside resorts constitutes the number of For California, the monthly magazine published by the California Promotion committee. This issue completes the resorts series, the April and May issues having dealt respectively with the mineral springs and the mountain resorts of the State. The frontispiece of the present number is a half tone showing the beach at Santa Barbara. An article on the seaside resorts of San Diego county is contributed by John S. Mills, and E. P. Cannon writes of the shores of San Luis Obispo. J. A. Wilson has an article on the Orange county beach resorts, and Walter J. Kenyon contributes a sketch entitled "About the Golden Gate."

Santa Barbara is described by J. L. Hurlbut, and Washington Davis tells about Monterey as a seaside resort. A page of the magazine is given to promotion paragraphs. Three descriptions are furnished by state residents, entitled respectively "Coast Resorts of Los Angeles County," "Santa Cruz and Thereabouts" and "Santa Catalina, the Anglers' Paradise."

THREE JAPANESE HELD FOR STABBING AFFRAY
Chased From Scene by Two Detectives to Lodging House, Where They Take Refuge

Three Japanese, M. Sugimura, Niki Kelljre and S. Hamada were arrested early yesterday morning at 1509 Gentry street by Detectives Ryan and O'Kea in connection with the stabbing of Joseph Meriwether, an electrician, and Horace Hazell at Gentry and Buchanan streets. The detectives happened to be within a block of the scene and chased the Japanese into the house, where their names were placed on the detinue book.

Both Meriwether and Hazell were stabbed in the back and Meriwether's wound is considered dangerous. He told the police that Sugimura was the one who struck him first and Sugimura's hand is cut the police believe he is the one who used the knife. The Japanese declare they were going home peacefully when the two men attacked them and they had to defend themselves.

REFUGEE YOUTH TELLS PITIFUL TALE IN JAIL
Boy Dying of Consumption Is Arrested for Having Thrown Stones at a Passing Streetcar

A pitiful tale was told the police yesterday evening by William Fraser, a 16 year old youth, who was arrested at Sixth and Mission streets charged with having thrown stones at a streetcar. The lad is dying from consumption and claims that he buried his mother last week. According to his story he was on his way to a drug store to purchase some medicine when one of the strike breakers pointed him out to an officer as a stone thrower and his arrest followed. He denies that he hurled a missile.

May Fraser, the boy's 14 year old sister, walked from a Mission street camp in the Mission late last night to catch the release on bail. She was forced to make the rounds of the camp before she succeeded in collecting the $10 necessary to procure his release.

"SWEET WATER BILL" WINS
CASE AGAINST MARKS

Federal Court Holds That Contract in Issue Was Unjust
Large Sum Involved
Property in Alaska Valued at $750,000 Owned by Prospector

The United States circuit court of appeals yesterday affirmed the decree of the lower court dismissing the suit of Isaac L. Marks against William C. Gates, alias Swiftwater Bill, and Howard Turner, holding that the contract between the parties was unjust, oppressive and inequitable. On April 27, 1905, Gates contracted with Marks in this city to convey to Marks a 20 per centum interest in any and all property which Gates might, either by location, purchase or otherwise, acquire in the territory of Alaska. Marks claimed in the suit that the real consideration of the contract was the cancellation of a prior indebtedness of $11,225 due to him from Gates and the payment by the appellant to Gates of $1,000 cash; and that in pursuance of the agreement Gates went to Alaska and acquired mining claims in the Fairbanks mining district the value of which is more than $750,000.

Circuit Judge William B. Gilbert in delivering the opinion of the court said: "For aught that appears in the complaint to the contrary Gates purchased this property and paid full value for it. If the appellant now has the right to such relief it follows that he may hereafter sustain suits to acquire a life interest in all property of every nature and description which Gates may obtain at any time in Alaska, and that such life will end only when the appellant dies, and where the consideration is grossly inadequate, as it is in the present case, and the contract is made without any knowledge at the time of its making on the part of either of the parties of the nature of the property to be affected thereby, or of its value, no equitable principle is violated if specific performance is denied and the parties are left to their legal remedies if any they have."

QUARTET OF MECHANICS
INJURED WHILE AT WORK
Carpenters and Iron Workers
May Die as Result of Accident

Yesterday was an unfortunate day for workmen employed on various buildings in course of construction throughout the city. Two carpenters and two iron workers fell from heights of them receiving injuries that will probably result fatally. John Lawson, an iron worker employed on the Cluett & Peabody building at Fourth and Howard streets, fell 20 feet, suffering a fracture of three ribs and internal injuries that are likely to prove fatal. Lawson resides at 2955 Mission street.

Leon Pelliss, a carpenter residing at 29 Dolores street, fell from the second story of a partly constructed house at Tremont avenue and Frederick street. One of his hips and his shoulder blade were fractured and he suffered a severe shock to his nervous system that the physicians at the central emergency hospital fear will cost his life.

John Nickelsen, an iron worker living at 3813 Army street, lost his balance while at work on the third floor of the Wells-Fargo building, receiving injuries that are expected to result in his death. He is now in the emergency hospital at the harbor emergency hospital.

M. Wickham, a carpenter, fell from the second story of the new Hopkins Art building, suffering fractures of the right and left wrists. He was picked up in an unconscious condition and taken to the central emergency hospital. There is little hope of his recovery.

ST. JAMES FESTIVAL PROVES GREAT SUCCESS
Large Crowds Gather Nightly at New Hall to Help Along the Cause

Despite the car strike, crowds nightly gather at the new hall in St. James school at Fair Oaks and Twenty-third streets, where a successful festival is being held for the benefit of the school. The second week of the festival opened last night in the presence of a large assemblage of members of the parish and many of their friends from neighboring parishes.

General interest was shown in the voting contest started Saturday evening for the most popular candidate. Miss Helen McMurray of the convent school is in the lead. The prize is a scholarship in a business college.

Each neighbor who wishes to be an entertainment and a reception by the women of the festival, each booth having an evening to itself.

The Knights of Columbus and other Catholic societies are expected to pay the festival a visit. Plans have been made for the reception of the knights and their friends and also for the children of the parish on different days during the week.

Rev. E. R. Lynch, pastor of St. James, congratulates the women on their success. He believes that the returns from the festival will wipe out the balance of the debt on the new school and hall building.

WE REVERE RELIEF WORK
REVIEWS IN REPORTS
More Than $143,000 Received and 1,662 Cases Attended To

The Hebrew board of relief held its annual meeting Sunday morning, and elected officers for the ensuing year and listened to the reports of President Henry Sinshelmer and Secretary Meyer H. Levy. These were of much interest as they reviewed the great amount of work done by the board of relief after the fire.

President Sinshelmer told of the hurriedly called meeting April 29, 1906, at which Simon Newman, Albert Meyer, Isaac Vassanburger, Otto I. Wise and Mrs. M. Davidson, together with Edmund Tausky, Benjamin Schloss and Lucius Solomons, representing the B'nai B'rith, and Rabbis J. Voorsanger, J. H. Nieto and M. S. Levy, representing the clergy, were present. The report continued:

The Independent Order of B'nai B'rith advanced us $9,000, which had been telegraphed from Chicago. An executive committee was formed, consisting of Drs. Voorsanger and Nieto, Otto Irving Wise, Simon Newman, Isaac Vassanburger and Benjamin Schloss, with myself as president. Our secretary was instructed to gather together his office force, and within a few days were once more actively engaged in relief work.

Our receipts the last year have amounted to $124,000 derived from the following sources: Hebrew benevolent society, $5,800.40; Jewish Relief society, $13,600.00; B'nai B'rith Hebrew benevolent society, $5,877.75; total, $25,278.15.

The rehabilitation committee of the relief and Red Cross funds, grants toward sundry cases, $79,800; contributions toward transportation of cases, $1,000.00; total, $80,800.00. I. O. O. F. in aid of B'nai B'rith cases, $6,000; loans granted applicants repaid, $1,200; contributions toward sundry cases, $2,000; grants returned by applicants, $22; grand total, $143,022.10.

The president discussed the rehabilitation work. He said, however, that had been the object of considerable adverse criticism on account of delay in attending to urgent cases. He said:

I blame eastern scientific charity workers for the unfortunate procedure of the destitute as paupers and surrounded the relief fund with an insurmountable barrier of red tape. After that matter passed smoothly. Our relations with the rehabilitation committee have been satisfactory; though we have been secured for the Jewish community poor but a small amount comparatively of the funds subscribed, and we trust that the rehabilitation committee includes its work will be able to secure sufficient funds to carry on what rehabilitation work it is necessary.

The president concluded by praising the work done by Rabbi Jacob Nieto and Rabbi Jacob Voorsanger, Abraham Haas, Mrs. Esberg, Meyer H. Levy and the Jewish relief committee of Oakland.

OPPOSES WIFE TO CARRY
TRUNK ON DAY OF FIRE

Divorce Complaint Charges Unique Cruelty
John L. Trout With Teamster's Wife, Married to Him Twice, Wants Second Divorce

John L. Trout, a lithographer, is accused of so far forgetting his chivalry on the day of the earthquake and fire as to order his wife, Grace J. Trout, to carry his trunk to a place of safety. This is merely one of numerous allegations of cruelty contained in a complaint for divorce filed yesterday by Mrs. Trout. The husband was charged with threatening his wife's life with a pistol, throwing her clothing down stairs, tearing up her pictures and driving her from his door.

One paragraph of the complaint recites that when Marshall Trout, the minor son of the couple, came home from a hunting trip with a wounded arm the father called him a "lopped cripple" and threatened to throw him out of the house.

Lucy C. Baker married Frederick Baker, a teamster, twice. The first marriage lasted two years. The second marriage took place April 11, 1906, about a year and a half after the first. Baker filed suit yesterday for another divorce on the ground of cruelty. She charged that Baker told her he was a fool for marrying her again and threatened to dissolve the new bonds by killing her. It was alleged that once when Baker knocked his wife down he refused to let a stranger give her a glass of water. A loaded pistol displayed in a menacing manner also figured in the complaint.

John McDonald began suit for a divorce from Britannia McDonald on the ground of infidelity. He names John J. Schultz as corespondent. The couple have two boys, one aged 4 and the other 2.

Other divorce suits were filed as follows: Elmer E. Tappenden against Cora M. Tappenden, desertion; Pearl Smith against Isaac A. Smith, failure to provide; Lillian G. Harkins against Charles H. Harkins, cruelty; Victor B. Robinson against Florence J. R. Robinson, desertion.

Luella Henckendorff was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce yesterday by Judge Graham on the ground of cruelty. The wife alleged that her neighbors testified that Arnold Henckendorff, the husband, had cursed and beaten her on numerous occasions.

In the same court Sarah Mildred Rosell was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from Auguste Rosell. The testimony was to the effect that Rosell was often drunk and abusive and seemed to think he had a right to beat his wife.

WANT FLAG TO FLOAT
ON TELEGRAPH HILL
Club Women Plan to Have National Colors Flying by July Fourth

Contributions are being solicited by the members of the California League of Women Voters for a flag to be hoisted on Telegraph hill, and it is hoped that it will be possible to have the colors to the breeze for the first time on the fourth of July.

Donations for the purpose are being received by Mrs. Lovell White, chairman of the department, Mill Valley.

At the special meeting of the club held yesterday afternoon the new map of the city, recently completed by a city engineer, was gone over and the city was redistricted so that each member of the league may reach voters and influence them in the matter of saving Telegraph hill when the bond election comes off.

The question of acquiring possession of the Calaveras big trees was talked over. The league has given up all hope of Congress or the California legislature passing a bill to keep the material and plans are being devised by which citizens of the state may own the trees.

EMPLOYEES MAKE GIFT TO WEINSTOCK, LUBIN CO.
First Anniversary of the Big Store in Fillmore Street Is Celebrated

The firm of Weinstock, Lubin & Co. celebrated its first anniversary in Fillmore street yesterday. The occasion was made memorable and pleasant by the presentation to the managers by the employees of a floral offering of American beauty roses, heart shaped. In brilliant blossoms the words "First anniversary in the heart of the city" were embossed, and a card attached carried the message "Continued prosperity and success to the firm in the heart of the city is the wish from the hearts of the employees."

Relations between the members of the firm and their hundreds of assistants who have helped to build up their big business have always been cordial, and a strong bond of mutual interest exists among them. In thanking their helpers for the presentation, the managers expressed the belief that an even closer relationship of interests in the future would redound to the benefit and pleasure of all.

FIRST ARREST UNDER NEW ACT
Mr. Ann O'Kea, who lives in Mission park, was arrested yesterday under an act passed by the last legislature, accusing her of having become habitually drunk in the presence of her son, John O'Kea, 12 years of age.

Secretary White of the California Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children is prosecuting the case. The warrant was sworn to before Police Judge Cabanis.

MIX GOWNS AND ONIONS
Mrs. Catherine King told Judge Marzsky yesterday that her landlord or her own cook's mistake of her absence to move her evening gowns downstairs and cast them carelessly among onions and potatoes. She gave this testimony in a suit brought by her husband, William L. King, against Fourth L. King, who was always her husband, owns the premises known as 1051 Pine street. The Kings claim they have a six months' lease, but the Gambills, who want the place, deny the allegation. The present legal proceedings are for an injunction restraining the Gambills from turning off the gas or disconnecting the telephone.
