

ARMED MEN MAY CLASH TODAY IN RAID ON THE SAUSALITO POOLROOMS

Leaders of Opposing Clans Make Declarations of Radical Action

BOYD SEARCHES LAWS

Says He Intends to Continue His Crusade to Close Establishments

"Should the forces of Sheriff Taylor attempt to commit an unlawful act they will be arrested by the town marshal and his deputies. These marshals will be armed and will meet any resistance, if necessary, with the extremes the law allows."—Statement of L. C. Pistolesi, town trustee of Sausalito and attorney for the poolroom men.

"My men will go to Sausalito tomorrow to make arrests. They will go armed."—Statement of W. P. Taylor, sheriff of Marin county.

SAUSALITO, June 28.—Threats of bloodshed, indignation meetings, criminal suits, actions for damages and above all a thorough organization of the forces of both the contending factions marked today's developments in the poolroom war. Town Trustee L. C. Pistolesi said that the town marshal's deputies would arrest any member of the sheriff's force who entered the town and attempted to commit an unlawful act. Pistolesi declared that if the deputy sheriffs should resist arrest the marshal's men would resort to force, and, if necessary, would go to the farthest extreme allowed by the law.

Although no poolroom raids were made today there was a tense feeling of unrest among the opposing factions. The forces of Sheriff Taylor and District Attorney Boyd remained away from the poolrooms all day, resting on their oars in San Rafael and making plans for further raids. The poolroom clan, under Trustee Pistolesi, Marshal Hannon and the owners of the poolrooms themselves, remained on the street corners and in the poolrooms and waited in vain for the expected onslaught of the enemy. At 4 p. m. a telephone message was received by Pistolesi from some secret source. Word was passed around immediately that proceedings for the day had been called off by the Boyd-Taylor force and the knots of men on the street corners dispersed.

BOYD SEARCHES LAWS

The cause of the delay, it developed later, was not tardiness on the part of the anti-poolroom forces, but resulted from a misunderstanding of the statutes, which diverted the attention of District Attorney Boyd until it was too late to take further aggressive action today. Boyd was informed early in the morning that at the last session of the state legislature a bill had been enacted repealing a section of the penal code which gave jurisdiction to the justice court. Boyd delivered into the matter, and after satisfying himself that it was a fact he immediately sought Judge Lennon of the superior court in order to secure a duplicate of the warrants for the arrest of Joseph Harvey and Frank Daroux, the poolroom owners, which had been issued by the justice court on Thursday.

Judge Lennon refused to believe that the legislature had passed a bill which practically annulled the justice courts, and took the matter under advisement. A search of the statutes which lasted until 4 o'clock revealed the fact that although one section of the penal code had been repealed a second section of the code was practically a duplicate of the first and that therefore the warrants in question were still legal. It was then so late that Boyd called off proceedings for the day.

Meanwhile Pistolesi and the other advocates of the poolrooms had not been idle. Marshal Hannon had scurried around and sworn in 21 of his faithful supporters as deputy marshals. During the day Harvey and Daroux retained a formidable array of legal talent and filed a suit against Sheriff Taylor and his bondsmen, the Metropolitan surety company, for $5,000 as damages, alleging that their business had suffered to that extent as a result of the recent raids. Papers for other suits were drawn up which will be filed in the superior court tomorrow. These documents include a request to remove both Boyd and Taylor from office on the alleged grounds that they had used their authority illegally and were guilty of malfeasance in office. Louis E. Devoto, constable of Novato township, also was included in the latter suit.

PISTOLESI ATTENDS MEETING

The school trustees and the public school teachers, spurred on by Pistolesi, met during the afternoon and discussed Archie Treat, one of the most active, morally, of those engaged in the driving out of the poolrooms. Because of a speech Treat made recently at Ross Valley, in which he referred to the Sausalito teachers in a manner which they consider was complimentary, he will be requested to appear before a meeting of the school trustees on Monday to prove the charges he is said to have made. Should he be able to do this the teachers will be discharged. If he fails to prove them a

A public apology will be demanded, and should this not be forthcoming a suit for damages for alleged defamation of character will be instituted. Pistolesi was present at the meeting of the teachers yesterday.

Although the poolrooms were crowded with ostensible bettors throughout the afternoon, few wagers were placed, and the men present acted as if they were being given a bonus to stay in the rooms. They were there, it was said, to do all they could to aid the cause of the poolrooms.

A surprise will be sprung with the opening of the gambling houses tomorrow, according to a statement tonight by District Attorney Boyd. "The poolrooms must close and close at once," he said. "We will continue to make raids and drive away the patrons of the places, but it is not on this that we rely entirely to win our fight. We have another plan on which to operate tomorrow. Just what it is I am not at present prepared to state."

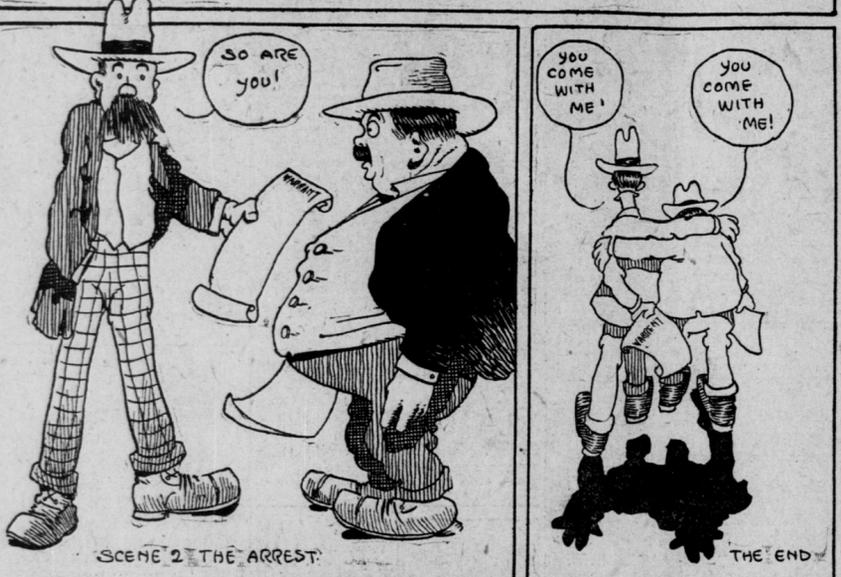

A conference between Boyd and Sheriff Taylor will be held tomorrow morning, at which the plan will be perfected.

SCENE 2 THE ARREST

WELL KNOWN RED MAN IS REPORTED MISSING

Mother Fears Jefferson D. Lee Has Met With Foul Play

The police are searching the city for Jefferson D. Lee, treasurer for the Mission branch of the Red Men. The young man disappeared mysteriously last Thursday night while on his way to a meeting of his lodge, and because of the fact that he had about $200 and valuable jewelry in his possession his mother believes that he met with foul play.

Lee has been prominently connected with the Red Men for several years. His mother claims that he never remained away from home over night before, and that when he left home on Thursday night he informed her that he would return before midnight.

The woman is frantic with grief over the absence of her son and spent yesterday searching for him. When night-fall came and she was unable to find him she notified the police and detectives were put to work on the case.

So far as is known, Lee's affairs were in good shape. He has always borne a good reputation and, his friends say, never drank nor gambled. Besides the money he wore a handsome gold watch and chain and a diamond pin and pearl ring. Lee is described as being 23 years old, dark hair and eyes, about 5 feet 7 inches in height, and when last seen was wearing a suit of dark gray clothes.

Hovey was arrested on Thursday night for being drunk.

CIVIC LEAGUE ISSUES CALL FOR A GENERAL CHARTER CONVENTION

City Attorney Burke Asked to Take Charge of Assemblage

PLAN MASS MEETING

Special Election and Extra Session May Be the Result

Members of the Civic league called upon City Attorney Burke yesterday and requested him to call a meeting of all those committees of local organizations which have framed charter amendments in order that they may be harmonized and the way paved for a general election on the proposed amendments. The Civic league has also made preparations for a citizens' meeting to be held August 10, when the question of good government in San Francisco will be discussed.

After an agreement has been reached on the charter amendments an election will be called, and if the amendments are adopted Governor Gillett will be petitioned to summon the legislature in extra session in order to ratify the action taken by the municipality.

Amendments will be proposed which will make it possible to carry through with dispatch the improvement of the streets, the construction of a salt water system and other public works. One of the amendments now under consideration in the Civic league provides for the extension of the life of franchises from 25 to 50 years, with the proviso, however, that any time after 20 years the city may acquire the utility at an appraised valuation.

The Civic league has also appointed a committee to investigate the records of all candidates in the approaching primary election. It is the intention of the committee to publish these records on the theory that public opinion will bring about the defeat of the unfit. A special appeal will be made to the voters to visit the polls at the primaries.

The plans for the citizens' meeting have not been completed, but it is the hope of members of the league that by August 10, the date of the proposed meeting, the affairs of the city will be in such shape that an intelligent expression of opinion on the needs of the municipality will be generally beneficial. Among those who will be asked to speak at this meeting are Francis J. Heney, William H. Langdon, Lincoln Steffens and James D. Phelan.

TEACHERS MUST WAIT FOR JUNE SALARIES

Judge Seawell Issues Order Restraining Board of Education

Teachers in the San Francisco public schools will have to wait for their June salaries. Such is the meaning of a restraining order issued yesterday by Judge Seawell in response to the prayer of a suit begun by the Central trust company as trustee of merchant creditors of the school department to compel Superintendent of Schools Roncovieri to approve claims for merchandise and to prevent the payment of the salaries of teachers or janitors until all the bills of merchants have reached the city auditor.

Under the law only one-twelfth of the school money can be expended in any one month of the fiscal year and the merchants fear that the amount now on hand and set apart for June, the last month of the fiscal year, will be used in satisfying the demands of teachers and janitors. The teachers began suit last week to enjoin the school department from paying the merchants out of the teachers' salary fund. A restraining order was granted and the issue is now clearly joined.

In the complaint filed yesterday the plaintiff alleged that merchant creditors had performed services and delivered goods and had claims exceeding $100,000, which Superintendent Roncovieri in carrying out a conspiracy to 'hold back the claims of merchants refuses to approve. If the conspiracy is not checked, alleges the plaintiff, the merchants' claims will be depleted before the school year begins.

The principal claims of the merchant creditors are as follows: C. F. Weber & Co., $23,135.92; Schouten lumber company, $23,863.88; L. Brizolara & Sons, $4,875.06; Phillips & Van Orden, $5,909; L. E. Claver & Co., $3,824.49; Empire planing mill, $3,292.90; Grand Rapids furniture company, $2,787.50; San Francisco gas and electric company, $2,349.88; Taylor & Pritchard, $1,022.90.

A temporary order restraining the school board from using the teachers' salary fund for the payment of claims other than those presented by teachers is now in force. The suit begun yesterday is in the nature of a checkmate move. More than 1,100 defendants are named, the list including not only the superintendent of schools and the members of the board of education, but every teacher, janitor and clerk in the employ of the school department.

The hearing on the order issued by Judge Seawell was set for July 12.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE CLOSES ITS SESSION

Professor Suzzallo Blames Early Training for the Failures in Life

The third and last session of the annual institute of the teachers of the city and county of San Francisco was held yesterday afternoon in the Alcazar theater with an attendance as large as those of the previous meetings. Superintendent Roncovieri introduced the speakers for the afternoon.

Dr. Henry Suzzallo spoke on "The Function of Expression in Education." The lecture was along the same lines as his talk of Thursday afternoon, and treated of the development and rounding out of the emotional nature in the child to make him grow into a well balanced man. He dealt at length upon the methods of teaching children and placing the blame of uneducated men and women upon unevenly developed emotions and intellect.

He was followed by Professor E. P. Cubberly, professor of education at Stanford university. Professor Cubberly chose as his subject "Why Education in America is Difficult." He compared the educational systems of Europe and America, spoke of the uniformity of the foreign system of education and the problem that America has confronting it in the cosmopolitanism of its citizens. "The problem of education in this country is of peculiar significance," said he, "because of foreign immigration. The difficulty of the problem is to know how to make good men and women out of the riff raff of other nations; to show them that each one in a republic like America can carve his future and be master of his own fate."

Professor John Adams, professor of education in the University of London, then addressed the teachers in a scholarly and scientific talk upon "Ideas." He spoke of teaching being the architecture of ideas and laid much stress upon the activity of the childish mind. It was of much more importance, he claimed, to the child good ideas than to try to eradicate those already possessed. He spoke of the mistakes that children made and said that teachers should be ashamed instead of laughing at them, for it showed the effect of the pupils of the teachers' ideas; that it was their fault if the children answered wrong.

Superintendent Roncovieri then made a closing address in which he thanked the speakers for their instructive and entertaining talks; thanked the Alcazar management for its courtesy in extending the use of the theater and hoped that the teachers would have a pleasant and restful vacation.
