

SOCIETY

BY THE OUTSIDER

THE PORTRAITS IN THE ILLUSTRATION ARE THOSE OF MRS. CHARLES STEWART (ON THE RIGHT) AND MISS MARION MILLS.

EVERY one has been celebrating the "glorious fourth" and this succeeding week end so vigorously that there promises to be a greater depression than ever in the social world and the coming weeks are to be a time of complete rest. Many of the society folk have made their plans to go to the quietest country places they can find for July or August. During the next two months it will be amusing to wander through the interior of California to meet constantly with the gayest of the matrons or belles of the city at dull little country places, where rest is complete and a wholesome supply of nerve force is being gained for the coming strenuous winter, for that is what it promises to be, socially, financially and in all other ways. The only important event of the past week in the city was the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Sheehan and Bernardo Shorb, which was the means of bringing back for the occasion any number of out of town people to witness the beautiful affair. Young Mrs. Shorb (who shares the honor of that title with three others, her mother in law, Mrs. J. de Barth Shorb, and her two sisters in law, Mrs. Campbell Shorb and Mrs. Donald Shorb), was a beautiful bride, and with her group of attractive attendants, made, indeed, a charming picture. The reception, which followed at the Fairmont, was one of the jolliest of occasions, and the bride's bouquet of lilies of the valley was caught by her sister, Miss Margaret Sheehan, who was one of the bridesmaids.

Two other brides, who have been among the most attractive of the season, Mrs. Oliver Kehrlin (formerly Miss Frances Coon) and Mrs. Orrin Rawson Wolfe (formerly Miss Mabel Watkins), have been visited with misfortune just on the eve of their return from their honeymoon journeys. Mrs. Kehrlin's trunks were broken into in the station at Menlo and rifled of their contents, some of her most exquisite gowns and jewels being taken by the thieves, while Mrs. Wolfe's beautiful wedding gown, nearly all of her jewelry, her handsomest wedding presents, including a large silver tray, a silver coffee service and a large silver dish and a great proportion of her trousseau, were destroyed in the fire that burned her father's home in Sausalito.

Mrs. James Makee Spalding (formerly Miss Georgia Lacy), who has been in Santa Barbara for the past year, was the hostess at a very enjoyable luncheon there last week in honor of Miss Amy Broome, who is also very well known here and who has but recently returned from a trip to Japan. The affair took place at the Casa de Brabo and the following were present: Miss Broome, Mrs. Harry Young of San Francisco, Miss Madeleine Lacy, Miss Eliza Elizalde, Miss Anacela Orena, Miss Delina Dibble, Miss Fulton and Miss Anna Fulton.

News comes from Paris of the recent serious illness of Mrs. Helen Horn, who has been there for some months past. She was taken with a sudden and alarming attack of pneumonia and for a time much anxiety was felt in regard to her condition, but she is now happily convalescent. Her son, Dr. Henry Horn, who went abroad at the same time, was with her during her illness. Dr. Horn enjoys the distinction, which it is said is very rare for an American, of being an assistant to Dr. Walb at the Bonn university.

From Del Monte comes the following news: On account of the departure of Mrs. Arthur Lord of New York and the temporary absence of Mrs. R. M. Loeser only four women took part in the fifth contest of the women's continuous handicap on the Del Monte links last Saturday. Miss Cornelia W. Arnsby played from scratch, but did not return so good a score as on the previous Saturday. Miss Alice Warner, who received a handicap of 24 strokes, won with a net score of 104. The other contestants were Miss Morgan and Mrs. H. R. Warner. Miss Morgan, determined to save her face and neck from the tanning influence of sun and wind, wore automobile headgear and a green veil, which almost completely disguised the identity of that popular young woman.

Eight women took part in the putting contest on the "clock green" near the clubhouse at Del Monte on Wednesday afternoon. Miss Cornelia W. Arnsby again proved the winner with a score of 24-22, total 46, for two rounds of the clock. Her nearest competitor was Mrs. R. M. Loeser, with 27-23, total 49. The other ladies who took part were Mrs. Weston, Mrs. Williamson, Mrs. Warner, Miss Morgan, Miss Cotter and Miss Warner.

Among the June brides was Miss Viola P. Truman, who was married Wednesday at noon to Frank Howard Abbott Jr. The bride, a charming brunette and a granddaughter of Banker I. J. Truman, was attended by her sister, Miss Lucille Truman, and Ceymour Truman was best man. The bride's gown was white crepe de chine and lace and was the gift of her grandmother, Mrs. I. J. Truman. Her attendant was also in white. A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony, at which were the immediate relatives of the bride and groom. There were many choice gifts from friends, the grandparents, who are nearing the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage, being most generous to the bride. Mrs. Abbott, besides being very beautiful and of charming personality, is a talented musician.

An attractive portrait appears today of Mrs. Charles Stewart, who is one of the popular young matrons of the city and who has a host of friends. She was formerly Miss Queenie Montgomery, and she, her sister, Mrs. Sturgis (formerly Miss Edna Montgomery), and their talented brother, Edward Montgomery, were a noted trio on account of their musical ability. Mrs. Stewart entertains charmingly and is as popular as a guest as in the capacity of hostess. She is also prominent in charitable work and does much among the children of the city, whose lives are made happier and better by her efforts. She is visiting friends near Healdsburg and will spend July with them.

A photograph is shown of pretty Miss Marion Mills, who is a charming and popular member of the younger set. She and her sister, Miss Gertrude Mills, are constantly together. She has great charm of manner as well as sweetness of disposition, which have won her many friends. She will spend the next two months at Carmel with her family, all of whom will return to town to spend the winter at their home at Devisadero and Sacramento streets.

An arbor, fashioned of bamboo, ferns and white roses, had been built in the conservatory which adjoins the large living room. It was a mass of red geraniums, while the library opening out of this was beautiful with pink carnations. A little after 4 o'clock, to the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin," the bride, escorted by her father, preceded by her only attendant, Miss Elise Mauch, came through the living room into the conservatory, where she was met by the groom and his best man, Kenneth Matheson. Together they ascended the steps to the arbor and under a marriage bell of pink and white carnations the ceremony was performed. A pleasing incident was the singing of dozens of birds in the aviary, which adjoins the conservatory. The bride's gown was an imported robe of Irish applique en princess.
