STEAMER SONOMA RUNS DOWN SCHOONER ADVENT

Passenger Vessel Standing by to Prevent Sinking of Craft

ALL OF CREW SAFE Accident Occurs at Sea Off the Coast of Mendocino

Advices were received at a late hour last night that the schooner Advent, Captain Olsen, lumber laden from Coos Bay for this port, was run down by the steamer Sonoma yesterday morning 12 miles southwest of Mendocino City. The Sonoma, in command of Captain Cousins, was bound for Victoria with passengers from San Francisco. It tore a hole in the schooner's bow and carried away the fore and main mast.

Captain Cousins is standing by to prevent the Advent from sinking. The steamer Coaster, which arrived in port last night, heard the Sonoma's distress whistles and went to its assistance. Tugs will probably be sent to tow the schooner to this port. The crew of the Advent has been transferred to the Sonoma.

BERKELEY SCIENTISTS DEELING OF THE PAST

File Report of Investigation in Earth Mounds at Emeryville

TEN GRAVES FOUND Light Is Thrown on Life of Indians During the Early Days

BERKELEY, July 6.—The curtain that hid the past of these Indians tribes which once lived on the shores of San Francisco Bay is lifted in part by Professor Max Uhle, whose investigations into the mysteries of the earth mounds at Emeryville, near the mouth of the bay, are being brought to light by many facts hitherto unknown about these primitive Indians and their ways of living. The university today issued a bulletin, giving some of the results of Dr. Uhle's and Professor Merriam's work in the earth mounds. The excavating work was begun in 1902, with funds provided by Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst. The scientists regard the mounds as a question of central interest because they constitute almost the only witnesses of a primitive culture which obtained among the primeval Indians. Their report in part follows:

The mound, which was probably first observed by the famous Fagan brothers in 1775, now forms a conspicuous feature of the recreation grounds known as Shell Mound park, its top being crowned by a massive pavilion distinctly visible from the windows of the local hotels. It is situated originally upon the bank of a little stream, the exact location chosen by reason of the proximity of fresh water. The mound, like others, was not, as is often erroneously stated, a burial ground, but rather the site for dwelling places or abodes of the living.

Independence League All but Forgotten in New York Political Field

Hughes stood sponsor and which was distasteful to Wall street, the governor's veto of the 2 cent rate has brought about a complete reversal of sentiment. Now the battle by the corporations as one of the country's strong and safe men—one who has the courage of his convictions. There have come from Washington recently strong indications that the administration, fearing the effect of its policy on the general prosperity of the country, had adopted a less revengeful and a more conciliatory attitude toward the railroads. Politicians here are wondering what influence was potent enough to bring about this change of policy. Was it the sage advice of Secretaries Root and Cortelyou or Governor Hughes as a presidential possibility?

There are many indications that the railroads and other big corporation interests headed by William Rockefeller and the Standard Oil interests, J. P. Morgan and James J. Hill are lined up for a fight against President Roosevelt's choice for the presidency, Secretary Taft, or any one else supported from the White House. From the president have received definite information of the purpose of the magnates. They know that there has been a general agreement reached on the part of the chief manipulators in the world of finance and in the railroad pool to curtail deposits, restrict improvements and investments, talk gloomily of existing conditions under the policy of federal "uncertainty," pray for poor crops this season, and then put it up to the next congress whether the Roosevelt politics should be continued, and further remedial legislation to strengthen the regulation by the government of "looters and robbers" be granted.

ASKS CITY TO ABANDON SUIT ON WATER RATES

Merchants' Association in Favor of Confessing Judgment

WANTS BOARD TO ACT Course Is Necessary to Legalize the Extra Appropriation

The Merchants' association sent a communication to the supervisors yesterday suggesting that the city attorney be instructed to confess judgment in the suit pending whereby the Spring Valley water company is seeking to invalidate the rates to be charged for water as fixed last February by ordinance of the board of supervisors. The reason assigned for this course is stated to be on account of the largely increased expenses of operation incurred by the company. It is also suggested that the confession of judgment be under a stipulation which will safeguard the interests of the city in other pending suits affecting the rates of five previous years and which will not involve a confession as to the value of the property of the company.

Inasmuch as your board has seen the wisdom of appropriating an amount sufficient to cover the deficit of the company for the current fiscal year we submit that it seems desirable that such a stipulation be made. We are informed that the city attorney doubts the legality of the appropriations promised for the purpose of securing an adequate water supply through an additional water supply to be furnished by the Spring Valley company. We believe that such a stipulation is in the opinion of that officer might be removed in a confession in judgment in the suit pending in the United States circuit court. Therefore, we request that this result should be secured by such action as we have suggested to you.
