Thomas' Fight for Berkeley Post-office Shows Added Intensity

Wheeler and Knowland Oppose Each Other in the Conflict

BERKELEY, Aug. 20.—President Benjamin Ide Wheeler's fight to beat Charles E. Thomas in the latter's campaign for the Berkeley postmastership changed from a skirmish affair to a battle of big guns this evening, after Dr. Wheeler heard from Representative Joseph R. Knowland's lips the news that Thomas was to be recommended to President Roosevelt by Knowland at once.

President Wheeler issued a statement signed by himself late this afternoon, following his conference with Representative Knowland, in which he made it known to all that he was uncompromisingly against Thomas and would lead the opposition to him. He said that those who have followed the unique fight since its beginning last Saturday read between the lines of President Wheeler's manifesto the story of what Thomas may now expect in the way of 13 inch shells and 42 pound howitzers. Wheeler's fort upon the campus heights.

To President Roosevelt the case will go now, and there will be a test of strength in Washington between President Wheeler, personal friend of the chief executive of the nation, and Charles E. Thomas, recommended by Representative Knowland, backed by the republican organization of Alameda county and possibly by the state administration at Sacramento.

Friends of Thomas claim all this prestige and fighting strength for him. If the big batteries are all unlimbered on both sides politicians look for an exceptionally long list of casualties.

Dr. Wheeler's manifesto, issued from his office in California hall this evening, took form in the following words:

I have obtained from making any statement concerning the Berkeley postoffice, though I see that it is in the hands of the university against the appointment of Mr. Thomas in general has been labeled with my name. I am not in the least interested in the appointment, not because I have any personal dislike whatever of the man, but because I am opposed to the maintenance of a political agent. The university is very grave. I have not distributed that is what a postoffice is for. We have suffered in the past from the fact that there is a vacancy we make our protest and ask that we may have a postoffice again. I am not in the least interested in the business matter. In making such an appointment I have a right to take the public money and use it for the employment of a man who shall be in the interest of the university. The office exists for the benefit of the people, all factions and parties, and in that sense the people of Berkeley are not interested in the matter.

BENJAMIN IDE WHEELER.

Charles Thomas has made a proposition to Representative Knowland which is believed to have had weight in the making of Knowland's recommendation to President Roosevelt of the appointment of Thomas as postmaster of Berkeley.

Thomas proposes to write out his resignation as postmaster after he is appointed, and to resign to the Berkeley chamber of commerce. That body is to hold the letter for five months. If at the end of that time the postoffice affairs are found to be in an unsatisfactory condition, then the chamber may forward the resignation to Washington and Thomas will quit.

This proposal, with other arguments adduced by Representative Knowland this afternoon, as he conferred with President Wheeler, apparently found no favor in the mind of Wheeler. He had no difficulty in drawing the inference, from all of Knowland's talk, that the program was to recommend Thomas, despite his (Wheeler's) wish that Thomas be rejected.

Clarence S. Merrill, now assistant cashier of the First national bank of Berkeley, member of the class of '82, former town clerk, whose father was the first postmaster of Berkeley, serving for 12 years, will be held up by President Roosevelt as the man worthy to fill George Schmidt's shoes. Merrill's classmates, of whom Francis J. Heney is one, are to be asked to join in the fight at Washington to beat Thomas and win for Merrill. It is to be a merry, merry war, with President Wheeler at the head of the column for Merrill and Charles T. Thomas lined up with the republican organization of the county, and perhaps the state.

These friends of Thomas recite a story of conflict between him and President Wheeler, which has been carried on under cover for years.

Seven years ago the fight between Dr. Wheeler and Charles Thomas actually began. The latter was a university student, known as "Czar" Thomas, because of his skill as an organizer and "boss" in student politics. When he graduated in 1899, Thomas decided to be a candidate for the place of graduate manager of student affairs. The place pays $100 a month. Thomas was assured of Wheeler's support, he declared at that time, but instead of getting it was given to his friend, Reno Hutchinson, who was backed by the republican party.

Thomas told his fellow students in those days that Wheeler, then but recently arrived from the east, had sent for him and given him assurances of support. Thomas sailed along in blissful, trustful ignorance of the real state of affairs, only awaking when Hutchinson was found to have most of the votes enough to win. Thomas never forgot that experience, says his friend, Representative Knowland said tonight:

After due deliberation I have recommended Mr. Charles E. Thomas for postmaster at Berkeley and San Francisco in connection with the recommendation. I am convinced that Mr. Thomas possesses requisite executive ability and will devote his best energies toward maintaining the office in a highly efficient manner.

Clarence S. Merrill, who is choice of opponents of Charles E. Thomas for postmaster of Berkeley.

Society in Cities Across the Bay

OAKLAND, Aug. 20.—Mr. and Mrs. Roger Sherman Phelps, formerly Miss Winifred Yelland, have come from Brookdale, where they have been spending the summer, and are the guests of Mrs. Phelps' mother, Mrs. R. D. Yelland, at her residence in Seventh avenue. They will return to their home in Willits next week.

After a delightful summer spent at Carmel by the Sea Miss Maud Lyons has returned to the Potter residence in East Oakland. Miss Lyons entertained at several informal affairs during her stay at the attractive seaside resort. On the evening of her departure for home she presided at a small dinner, Mrs. Austin and Mr. and Mrs. George Sterling were her guests of honor.

Mrs. Walter E. Nicholson has issued cards for Thursday afternoon, August 22, when she will entertain at an informal musicale at her residence in Richmond. Her husband, Mr. W. E. Nicholson, has invited her younger friends have been included in the invitations.

Mrs. T. G. Kingsland, Miss Pearl Kingsland and Miss Olive Kingsland will take possession of their attractive new home in Summit street next week. The Kingsland family home in Market street has been one of the most hospitable in that part of the city.

Mrs. Louis Risdon Mead, formerly Miss Mae Sadler of Alameda, and Miss Blanche Mead will be the guests of honor Thursday afternoon, when Miss Winifred Mears will entertain at her home in San Francisco at one of the prettiest teas of the season. Late in the week Mr. and Mrs. Mead, with their guest, Miss Mead, will go to Del Monte for a short trip. At present they are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Sadler in their Alameda residence.

ALAMEDA, Aug. 20.—At a pretty home wedding, marked by simplicity, Miss Helen Krauth, daughter of Mr. M. H. Krauth of 1621 Broadway, became the bride this evening at 8:30 o'clock of Winfield S. Ingram, a newspaperman of Oakland. Rev. Willis M. Martin, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, performed the marriage ceremony, which was witnessed by relatives and friends of the couple. The bride wore a gown of white voile over white silk. The party who were the pair plighted their troth was decorated with palms and lilies. The wedding was followed by a reception. Mr. and Mrs. Ingram will make an extensive honeymoon tour, which will carry them to Europe. They will first visit Los Angeles and from the southern metropolis to the Puget sound country. From the northern region they will travel to New York and from the latter city to Europe. They will be away for several weeks.

Mrs. Ingram is a talented young woman and as a writer achieved success in newspaper and magazine work.

DAVID STARR JORDAN TELLS OF THE EUGENICS

OAKLAND, Aug. 20.—Secession is rampant among the devotees of the new cult of eugenics in the bay district. Students of the esoteric have locked horns, so to speak, with their fellows who are taking what they call a more scientific view of the delving after facts and theories concerning the uplifting of the physical and the mental side of the human race. Following closely upon an original disruption of the original society for the cultivation of eugenics comes another uprooting among the seceders. Today the third society of eugenics followers has been formed.

Manifestoes in abundance have been sent forth by the several opposing factions, with the result that each proclamation of independence has lent fuel to the flame and has stirred no end of feeling among the cult.

P. F. Cook, a leader of one of the opposing clans, has the following from David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford Jr. university, in connection with the most recent schism:

Leland Stanford Jr. University, Office of the President—Filos F. Cook, Esq.: Referring to your kind letter of April 23, permit me to say that in forming a committee on eugenics in the American Breeders' association the association did not have in mind the formation of societies through the country to deal with the ethics of the subject. Their idea was that the committee should in time bring together the laws of breeding and applied to man so that public at large might be in possession of exact information in regard to what is possible in better development. The state society has no connection with this committee at Washington, nor so far as I know have any societies in this country, and the Washington association particularly repudiates all connection with societies dealing with sex questions, large, with the study of the alleged pre-natal influences, and with astrology or any other things that govern heredity and the formation of better types. The national committee has never yet held a meeting, so that we are not quite certain what it may ultimately do. Very truly yours, DAVID S. JORDAN.

WIFE DESERTS TO JOIN "LONG LOST FRIEND"

"He'll Treat Me Better Than You Have," Writes Mrs. Harry Rowling

TAKES BABY ALONG

Husband Believes That She Is Merely Trying to Frighten Him

OAKLAND, Aug. 20.—Harry Rowling, a teamster living at 862 Brush street, is searching for his 19 year old wife and 18 months old daughter. They have been missing since Sunday night and the only clue that the husband and father has thus far gained was a note that he received today through the mail from his wife, in which she wrote: "One of my long lost friends has turned up and will treat me better than you have. From one year, but no more."

The missive in full reads as follows:

Dear Harry: I have come to say goodby. You will never see me nor the baby again. (One of my long lost friends has turned up and will treat me better than you have. When I arrived home last night you had the door and window locked, so I went to him. So goodby. Tell Mr. and Mrs. Shaw goodby for me, for I don't expect to see any of them or you again. Don't look for me, for I will leave tonight. From one year, but no more. MARGUERITE.

Rowling says that his wife left home Sunday evening after dinner with the baby, explaining that she was going to attend an early performance at a vaudeville theatre. She said that she would return at 10 o'clock. At 11:15 she was not back and Rowling says that he went out and searched for her but failed to find her. When he returned to the house he found the empty bed, the baby in the front of the bed, and the deserted husband declares that he has no knowledge of any male acquaintance who might have stolen his wife from him. He says that she was in the habit of going out occasionally in the evening and that he found no fault with her, as he believed that she was in good company. Mrs. Rowling is described as being 5 feet 4 inches in height, weighing about 150 pounds, with blue eyes, brown hair and a dark complexion. Rowling believes that his wife is attempting to frighten him.

White-Gaines Nuptials Are Attended by Several Hundred Guests

White-Gaines Nuptials Are Attended by Several Hundred Guests

MISS DAGMAR WHITE, WHO WAS MARRIED LAST EVENING TO CLARENCE AUSTIN GAINES.

OAKLAND, Aug. 20.—The wedding of Clarence Austin Gaines and Miss Dagmar White, which was celebrated this evening in the Methodist Episcopal church in Berkeley, was attended by several hundred friends of the young couple. The edifice was decorated with pink and white blossoms. Miss Edith Barrows, a club sister of Miss White, acted in the gown of pale pink, was maid of honor. She carried a shower of bridesmaid's roses.

Sixteen girl friends were bridesmaids, all members of La Solano club. They wore robes of pink and white, and each carried a wand, elaborated in pink satin ribbon. The bridesmaids were Miss Ruby Carver, Miss Sophia Burdoff, Miss Anna McKee, Miss Clara Stafford, Miss Milly Wright, Miss Derrick Brown, Miss Byrd Howell, Miss Dorothy Burdoff, Miss Leona Lane, Miss Claire Norton, Miss Ethel Loudon, Miss Elizabeth Wolf, Miss Elsie Williams, Miss Beatrice Board, Miss Mary Stafford, Miss Hazel Chism. Howard Gaines supported his brother as best man. The nuptial service was read by Rev. Hutsinpipler, pastor of the church.

Following the ceremony an elaborate reception was given in honor of the bride couple at the clubhouse. Mr. and Mrs. Gaines left later on their honeymoon journey. They will live in the college town upon their return. During her undergraduate years the bride was a popular coed. She has been in Fresno since her graduation. Mr. Gaines was a prominent collegeman. He is connected with an electric company.

COUNTY ROAD COMEDY AMUSES LARGE AUDIENCE

Trustees of San Mateo and Millionaires Have Second Tilt

SAN MATEO, Aug. 20.—The second presentation of the comedy, entitled "Trustees and Millionaires," was given last night and held the boards for three hours to the delight and amusement of a large audience. The men of wealth occupied seats in the front row before the trustees, and among the millionaires and the Rev. N. B. W. Galloway. R. P. Schwerin made a late appearance, arriving about the middle of the first act, but he soon changed from standing room near the door to the front row and got into the game.

Duncan Hayne, representing a great deal of frontage both for himself and the Howard estate, led off for the protestants as to why the county road, in the Cambridge road, should not be improved in a substantial manner by the city. Thereupon arose one Thomas Butcher, the owner of a $30,000 home on El Camino real and a contractor of note in the building line, and stated in a fed hot speech that he was surprised to hear a man of Hayne's caliber talk the way he did. Turning to Hayne he said: "Why, Mr. Hayne, you certainly ought not object to improving the county road in a substantial manner. I came by your place this evening, and if any one's sidewalk looks like a cow corral, it's certainly yours." Hayne had no reply.

All this time R. P. Schwerin had said nothing, but after he started in he belted the full depth. Schwerin expounded his theory of a good road without gutters, and as this did not receive attention, switched to talk of a bond issue for improving all the streets at once. When he found that he had missed fire here by about $400,000 as to the amount needed to repave all the streets in the town, he talked of competent engineers.

He lost out again and City Engineer Bromfield sent Schwerin's talk of the boulevard without gutters up in the air by little speech of his own. City Attorney Kirkbride came forward with a talk of great length, and as everyone at once began to wonder what the time was, the matter was laid over for two weeks.

TRACE ACID THAT KILLED JAMES GLOVER TO MAN

OAKLAND, Aug. 20.—Investigations are being made by the district attorney of several incidents in the lives and relations of Olive Scully and James F. Glover that may throw some light on the cause of the quarrel of the couple which terminated when the woman threw acid in Glover's face, burning his eyes and inducing, the doctors say, cerebral meningitis, from which Glover died yesterday.

The district attorney says he has discovered the drug store where the acid was obtained. The district attorney declares that the liquid was not bought by Olive Scully, but was purchased by a man. It is the intention of the district attorney to have the clerk who sold the acid and also the buyer taken before the grand jury.

Olive Scully was visited in jail last night by a sister, who lives in Nineteenth street in San Francisco. The relative brought the prisoner news of the death of a brother last week. The district attorney has announced that if no relative of Glover will swear to a complaint against the Scully woman he will call a special session of the grand jury Friday to take up the case. An inquest will be held Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Glover's funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from the undertaking parlor of E. James Finney, thence to Saint Mary's church, where services will be conducted. County officials with whom Glover was associated will act as honorary pallbearers. The interment will be in Saint Mary's cemetery.

ACCUSE DIRECTORS OF BANKRUPT CORPORATION

Suit Begun to Prevent a Raid on Funds of Bay Shore Company

FRAUD IS CHARGED

Oakland Men Defendants in Action to Protect Creditors

OAKLAND, Aug. 20.—Suit has been filed by E. M. Wall and R. E. Mott against five men claiming to be directors of the insolvent Bay Shore lumber and mercantile company to forestall an alleged attempt to loot the company's treasury before its affairs are wound up. A. P. Holland, R. E. Stocker, D. E. Perkins, F. H. Ayers and B. R. Aiken are named as defendants.

Wall and Mott complain that following the forfeiture of the company's charter in December 1905, Ayers and Holland resigned the positions they had assumed as trustees. They formerly had been directors. Against the protest of Wall and Mott, it is said, Aiken and Perkins were elected to fill the places. Previous to this, it is charged, Holland had appropriated $1,376 from the assets of the company and later presented claims amounting to $7,667. The plaintiffs alleged these claims were fraudulent, but in spite of this, they assert, they have been allowed by the other trustees.

Wall and Mott ask to have Holland's claims declared invalid and they ask for a just division of the assets of the company among its creditors. The debts of the concern amount to more than $10,000, it is said.

PARK STREET OWNERS OBJECT TO IMPROVEMENTS

Declare That They Are Needlessly Being Put to Double Expense

ALAMEDA, Aug. 20.—Property owners in Park street, from Buena Vista avenue to the tidal canal, representing a majority of the frontage, have filed a protest with the city council against the proposed bituminizing and re-curb-ing of the thoroughfare. The land owners say that the street was macadamized and curbed once at their expense, but that for some reason to them unknown it was never accepted by the municipality. They now object to being called on to stand a second expense.

The protest of Mrs. E. G. Cohen and Henry Gibbons against the proposed improvement of High street from a point 1,100 feet north of Lincoln avenue to the tidal canal, a distance of 1,700 feet, has been overruled by the city council and the city clerk will advertise for bids for doing the work.

The bid of the Hutchinson company for improving Lincoln avenue between Fourth and Fifth streets has been rejected by the city council, the bid being considered exorbitant.

Many dealers for the additional profit invariably try to sell articles which they claim are just as good as the ones advertised. Protect your own interests and insist on getting what you ask for.

HOWARD ESTATE CENSURED

SAN MATEO, Aug. 20.—The verdict of the coroner's jury in the case of the marriage of William A. Sannbeck and Alwilda C. Tietjen, performed in the city by Justice of the Peace W. F. Magee June 1, 1907. Sannbeck, himself a shingler by occupation and the son of a swine herder, it is said, persuaded Miss Tietjen, a society girl and niece of former Adjutant General Barrett, to marry him after having represented that he was the owner of large estates and a man of the world.

Miss Tietjen, who is an exceptionally beautiful young woman of 19 years, testified that after one week of married bliss Sannbeck, instead of taking her to a mansion as promised, brought her to his father's home, which she characterized as a "diggery," evil smelling and occupied by people lower in life than the swine about.

OFFER TO BUILD ROAD

REDWOOD CITY, Aug. 20.—The Frank tannery people have offered to build a good road to Steinger creek past their place if the city trustees will accept it instead of the present bridge. The offer will undoubtedly be accepted, as the present approach to the creek, where the schooners deliver their cargoes, is unsafe and expensive to maintain.

Woman's Club of Burlingame Working Hard to Insure Success of Carnival

Woman's Club of Burlingame Working Hard to Insure Success of Carnival

MRS. GEORGE B. MILLER OF THE BURLINGAME WOMAN'S CLUB AND ONE OF THE PROMOTERS OF THE STREET CARNIVAL.

BURLINGAME, Aug. 20.—Saturday will be a banner day in Burlingame, when a carnival under the auspices of the woman's club will take place. A safety waiting station is proposed near the electric car tracks, and the money derived from the fair will aid its erection.

The fête will begin at 1 o'clock and continue to midnight. Cars from San Francisco will run until midnight and buses to and from San Mateo. Among those who are prominently identified with the undertaking is Mrs. George B. Miller.

A supper will be served between 5 and 7 o'clock. Frank Joaquin, a noted Alaskan trader, will have a tent filled with souvenirs and furs that he has gathered in the north and will also have two young Eskimo lads with him that he recently brought here to be educated, and a continuous vaudeville will be given in the afternoon and evening.

A balloon ascension and drop will take place in the afternoon, during which time the Columbia Park boys' band will be in attendance. The boys' band will also play in the evening, and for the amusement of those who wish to dance a platform has been erected.

Donations from members of the Burlingame club set, outside of those belonging to the woman's club, have been very liberal, and the local tradespeople have also furnished quantities of supplies free, so the financial success of the carnival is assured. Burlingame avenue will be lighted in the evening with 2,000 Chinese lanterns.

SHINGLER AND SOCIETY GIRL CLOSE ROMANCE

Special by Leased Wire to The Call

SAN RAFAEL, Aug. 20.—Superior Judge Thomas J. Lennon today announced the marriage of William A. Sannbeck and Alwilda C. Tietjen, performed in the city by Justice of the Peace W. F. Magee June 1, 1907. Sannbeck, himself a shingler by occupation and the son of a swine herder, it is said, persuaded Miss Tietjen, a society girl and niece of former Adjutant General Barrett, to marry him after having represented that he was the owner of large estates and a man of the world.

Miss Tietjen, who is an exceptionally beautiful young woman of 19 years, testified that after one week of married bliss Sannbeck, instead of taking her to a mansion as promised, brought her to his father's home, which she characterized as a "diggery," evil smelling and occupied by people lower in life than the swine about.

RAILROAD EMPLOYEES PLACED UNDER ARREST

Said to Compose Gang of Clever Thieves With Long Record

FOUR ARE CAPTURED

Claimed They Perpetrated Unique Swindle on Company

MARTINEZ, Aug. 20.—B. Patterson, Fred Williams, J. Fallow and Yardmaster W. N. Walcott, employed in the railroad yards at Port Costa, are under arrest here, charged with looting freight cars. Detective J. A. Butler of the Southern Pacific detective bureau, who swore to the complaints, alleges that the prisoners have repeatedly worked one of the cleverest tricks ever turned by freight thieves.

The quartet went so far as to divert cars and send them to distant points, consigning to fictitious names. At these destinations the contents were easily disposed of and the profits divided among the four men in Port Costa and such other accomplices as might have aided them.

On August 4 a carload of galvanized iron disappeared from Port Costa and Butler was sent to investigate. He found that it had arrived in the yards and had been detached from the end of a long freight train bound for Richmond, the destination of the shipment. A switch engine shunted the loaded car to the side of an empty and the iron was transferred to it. The then empty car was sealed up and again attached to the freight train which took it in due time to Point Richmond. The car was opened there and found to be empty.

Meantime the plunder had been re-consigned and sent to Napa, where it was sold.

MORE BOOKS FOR STANFORD

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Aug. 20.—Payson J. Treat, instructor in the history department, has returned from a nine months' trip around the world, during which he made a study of economic conditions in various countries, gathered a large collection of books for the university library and made arrangements for the acquisition of more books, which will give the university one of the finest historical collections in the world. Treat traveled through England, France, Italy, India, Australia, New Zealand, China, Japan, the Philippines and Hawaii.
