

Bourbons Engage in Practical Politics

...voting even for Taylor on the democratic ticket. That is the practical politics of it from the Good Government league side of the question.

It has been suggested by some of the democrats that the most desirable way out of the difficulty lies in the circulation of new petitions by the Good Government league. These suggested petitions are to be put out after the democrats have nominated their ticket and are to include the names of all the candidates nominated by the democrats.

This suggestion looks to some of the Good Government people like a distinction without a difference. It is up to last night had not met with an enthusiastic response.

DEMOCRATS ARE BLUFFING

The Good Government league has completed its petitions for the independent nomination of Taylor and Langdon and called off its dogs yesterday. The canvass was discontinued to save unnecessary expense, and the league does not take kindly to a proposition which would involve a duplication of the expense already incurred and the assumption of a task admittedly more difficult than the one they have completed.

The democrats have not completed their slate and could not complete their ticket tonight, if they chose to go ahead with the nominations. It is undoubtedly true that they have not completed their list of supervisory candidates, nor have they finally determined upon their nominees for county clerk, treasurer and auditor.

The committee on supervisors will not have completed its work until it has secured the acceptance of 15 of the men whose names have been considered. That the ticket will include the names of both republican and democratic members of the board appointed by Dr. Taylor may be taken as definitely settled, and that despite statements to the contrary the incumbent board would not accept nominations on any other than a Taylor ticket.

Senator Richard J. Welch will get the nomination for sheriff. Dr. E. W. West's friends think he has the public administrator's place on the ticket sewed up, and Dr. W. C. Voorsanger will be nominated for coroner. With some of the other offices the republicans have gotten no farther than to decide what they would do. They will not nominate John McDougald for treasurer, and that despite the fears of some of McDougald's friends, who have insisted that the republicans needed a literary man on their ticket.

It is not true that you have serious considerations as to the majority content? I asked Ryan. "I never had any intention of withdrawing," was the prompt and emphatic reply.

RYAN IN FIGHT TO STAY

"Have no attempts to induce you to withdraw been made?" "Yes."

"Is it true that some of your friends in the regular republican league were identified with the attempts to secure your withdrawal?" "No."

"On the contrary, the rumors that attempts have been made to pull me out brought my friends down on me in great numbers and with considerable force. They demanded that I stay in the race, declaring that they would win. They declared that they had been elected to the republican convention by the best citizens of San Francisco; that they had of their own free will selected me as the candidate of the republican party and would not hear of me withdrawing. They also stated that they would under no consideration nominate Dr. Taylor. I assured them that they need have no uneasiness—"

FIGHT BETWEEN EXTREMES

"Do you consider the nomination of Dr. Taylor an arrayal of those extremes?" "Yes, these extremes would be arrayed in a fight between Dr. Taylor and P. H. McCarthy."

"Do you not believe that the nomination of Dr. Taylor by the republican and democratic parties would have been in the interest of good government?" "The nomination of Dr. Taylor by the republican and democratic conventions," replied Ryan, "would result in a repetition of the fight of two years ago. The idea would at once become prevalent that the fight was between capital and labor, and that is an idea that must be eliminated from the San Francisco situation. Apart from the purely personal qualifications of Dr. Taylor the circumstances under which he was appointed and the demand for his retention in office by certain classes of citizens will make the bulk of the people believe that his election will not mean government representative of all the people."

CONVENTION WAS UNBOSSED

"Why do you think labor has confidence in you?" "For the reason that I am of the plain people—because my nomination was secured from the people and the delegates making the nomination were unbosomed—absolutely free; because no political boss, no corporation and no single individual was responsible for my nomination. And further because I am personally well known to the working people of San Francisco. My family was and is known by the elders and a great many of the younger working people have been my associates and my school-mates."

"Well, why should capital feel safe with you?" "Let us consider eastern capital first."

replied Ryan. "If I am elected, the republican nominee will have been elected. I shall go into office with the indorsement of the republican party—the party that stands for good, conservative government—the party that enjoys the confidence of the east, and the confidence of the east is what we require. Any capitalist knows that I am an conservative and will see that I can in a great measure bring capital and labor together on a common and harmonious ground. Furthermore, it is known that I am familiar with conditions in San Francisco and that all my activities in politics have been on the side of and for good government."

Registration Figures Point to Large Vote in November

Difficulty Is Experienced in Securing Clerical Help

The immense registration of yesterday assures a full vote at the coming election, and that taxed the standing room capacity of the registration office in the city hall surged until nearly midnight and it was estimated that not less than 4,000 names were added yesterday to the list of the city's voters. If this estimate is correct an army of 77,000 men may march in November to the polls and exercise their franchises. Up to 7 o'clock 1,900 new names had been added and 365 changes had been recorded, but the crush began after that hour and continued until October 1 was about to begin.

Difficulty was encountered in securing sufficient assistance in the office. The entire force of civil service clerks was exhausted and as many outside clerks were secured as was possible, but the pay offered was not sufficient, said Election Commissioner J. F. Jewell, to attract men.

It was estimated that fully 3,600 men registered during closing time, and some of the clerks asserted that 5,000 would be nearer the number. At closing time Saturday 73,725 names had been enrolled, of which 2,382 new names came in that day, besides 637 changes and an equal number on the books. Up to the day prior to the last primaries 60,440 names were on the list of voters. No segregation of the partisan registration was possible last night and none of the officials would venture upon an estimation of how the votes were divided between the three parties.

Two years ago the great register included 88,000 names, but this list included the added registration, which always falls on presidential election years, plus the local registration which the sharp contest between Partridge and Schmitz elicited. One year ago, after the register had been freed of thousands of names of voters who had left the city since the 1905 registration, the total number of names on the city's book of citizens was about 60,900.

J. Egan, who is representing Los Angeles capital in an effort to secure charter amendments which will permit rail companies to operate on the rails of the United Railroads for a distance of 31 included 10 blocks, said last night that he had secured more than 100 signatures to the petition. Blank signature rolls were displayed on corridor walls outside of the registration offices and citizens stood in long lines in order to reach the petitions and affix their signatures.

UNION OFFICIALS PURGED

Richard Cornellius and James H. Bowling, officials of the carmen's union, were purged of contempt yesterday by Judge Hebbard in connection with the refusal of the union to reinstate George Dingwell to membership, as ordered by the court. It was shown that Dingwell had voted for reinstatement, while Cornellius, as president, has not voted at all. The question of whether or not the carmen's union is guilty of contempt will be argued on Friday.

POLICEMEN TO BE WATCHED

A new rule requires the police department to keep a record of the movements of each member, similar to that in the fire department, was considered yesterday by the board of civil service commissioners and will be presented to Police Chief Bigley for his approval at an early date. Under the present system a record of the demerits only is kept by police captains, and when examinations for promotions are held the commission has no method of getting a line on the contestants. It is thought that the proposed method will greatly increase the efficiency of the department.

TRY TO ASSASSINATE SHERIFF WITH DYNAMITE

BAKER CITY, Sept. 30.—An attempt was made at 10:30 o'clock tonight to assassinate former Sheriff Harvey K. Brown at his home in this city by blowing him up with a dynamite bomb. Mr. Brown is at the hospital in a critical condition. One of his legs was blown off, one of his arms badly mutilated, and internal injuries caused by the explosion. The outburst was similar in manner of execution to that which resulted in the death of former Governor Frank Steenberg at Caldwell, Idaho. Mr. Brown was returning home and as he opened his gate the bomb exploded, wounding Mr. Brown and blowing in the windows of his house. The explosion was heard in the center of the town a half mile away. The chief of police and county officials are wholly unable to fathom any cause for the deed, and they are also unable to obtain any clue to the perpetrators of it.
