Society in Cities Across the Bay

OAKLAND, Oct. 9.—A betrothal of interest has been announced, that of Miss Mary Stalder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stalder of East Oakland, and Dr. William Wakefield. Miss Stalder is a talented girl, charming and with exceptional abilities. She is well known in local musical circles. Dr. Wakefield is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leland H. Wakefield, whose home in East Seventeenth street is known for its hospitable reception of prominent society, having lived in East Oakland for many years.

The Unitarian church in Berkeley was the scene of a pretty wedding this evening, when Dr. Harry Smith and Miss Daisy Cross plighted their vows in the presence of a large company of friends. The altar was tastefully decorated in ferns and pink blossoms, the same color being worn by the bridal attendants. Miss May Ridgeway of Los Angeles was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Madge Culver, Miss Ruth Feeley, Miss Emma Blanchard and Miss Lillian Kindred. The wedding dress worn by the bride was of lace, with which Miss Cross wore the conventional tulle veil and orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a beautiful crescent of diamonds and pearls, the gift of the bridegroom.

Charles Heeler was best man and the ushers were Charles Teller, Robert Cross, Frank Parlemo and Ira Lilling. The marriage service was read by Rev. John Howland. After the return from their wedding journey Dr. and Mrs. Smith will make their home in Alameda, where the bridegroom is established in his practice.

At a beautiful home ceremony this evening at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence S. Merrill in Bancroft way, Erdmann Frenzel and Miss Rosemary Merrill were married in the presence of 100 friends. One of the most charming of the October weddings took place this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Bred Melvin, when their daughter, Miss Sarah Maude Melvin, became the bride of William F. Frenzel, a well known young businessman. Several hundred friends witnessed the marriage rites, which were read by Rev. Charles Miel of Sacramento. The only attendants were Miss Irene Melvin, a sister of the bride, and John Mackay of Philadelphia, a cousin of the bridegroom. After a wedding supper Mr. and Mrs. Martin left on a honeymoon journey. The bride is a charming and clever girl. Martin is a well known young businessman.

The Oakland girl, who will leave shortly for the east to engage in important work, will be heard in an hour of interpretation.

Miss Alice Dray will come down from her home in Sacramento shortly to be the house guest of her sister, Mrs. George H. Perry, of Alameda. Miss Dray is one of the attractive brides-elect, whose engagement to a prominent Nevada physician was announced recently. The wedding will be one of the most brilliant events of the season in the capital city. Among the affairs which are being planned in her honor during her visit is the luncheon over which Mrs. J. J. Spieher will preside as hostess at her home in Ross. Miss Dray has a host of friends on both sides of the bay and is planning to make her stay delightful.

PRINCIPAL OF SAN RAFAEL Full Dress Tabooed at Coming Dance at University

Parents Criticise John S. Drew for Interfering With Dance

DENY BLOOMER STORY Say Their Daughters Did Not Wear Basket Ball Attire

SAN RAFAEL, Oct. 9.—Interference with a recent high school dance, after charging that the winsome members of the girls' basket ball team tripped the light fantastic with some of the high school boys who were near of San Rafael, and all, is one of the acts which has brought down on the head of John S. Drew, principal of the high school, a storm of parental antagonism.

At a meeting of the board of school directors last night charges growing out of dissatisfaction with his methods were laid at Drew's door, with the result that in school board practically upheld his management of school affairs, though a special committee, consisting of Directors F. S. Malone, George Hanson and George Murray, was appointed to make a thorough investigation of all charges made. Several fond mothers were present to testify that Drew's interference with the Army hall dance was unwarranted and that all the girls present had donned modest dresses, taking part in it. Drew insists that this formality was not complied with, and that many of the young women, still in bloomer attire, danced with the men who had paid to see the basket ball game.

The bloomer story, however, was not the only one referred to by the irate parents who attended the school board meeting. The basis of the trouble is a system of "tardy cards" which Drew recently instituted. The cards provide for signatures of teachers and parents in case of every offense and for short suspension as punishment for the culprit.

Several signs by many prominent residents of the city who have had "tardy cards" served on them by their children, was filed, asking that the system be done away with on the ground that it is humiliating and degrading.

Diale, who formerly was a contractor in Alameda, drew $700 from a bank, supposedly for the purpose of completing the purchase. Since that time he has not been seen or heard of either by his wife or friends. "We always lived happily together and my husband was a very fond of his children, so as he had no reason for leaving home, I think that he must have met with foul play," said Mrs. Diale.

The body was removed to the morgue. Death was due to epilepsy, the officials believe. Suspicions of foul play were dissipated by police inquiry.

Two months ago Biebersheim, whose mind had been falling as the result of brooding over losses in the fire, was left alone by his wife and child of 3 years. They journeyed to the clubhouse last Sunday in Barrett's motor car. In the party were Barrett's family and a chauffeur. On their return to Sausalito, Creed stopped the party by placing a revolver behind Barrett's ear. They arrested Barrett's chauffeur for speeding.

Barrett did not approve of having his driver arrested with the aid of a constable's heavy artillery, so he and Lindsay appeared in San Rafael today and obtained a warrant for Creed's arrest on a charge of "displaying a deadly weapon in a rude and dangerous manner."

THREATENS WIFE AND CONSTABLE WITH GUN N. C. Goodwin Drives Better Half From Home in Mill Valley

Wife Barred From Her Own Palatial Abode Will Sue for Divorce

N. C. Goodwin, brother of Jerry Goodwin, the millionaire mining man of Yuba Bet, Nevada county, added the final chapter to the sensational story of his married life yesterday when his wife, the daughter of Fuiton G. Berry of Fresno, came to San Francisco, after being driven at the point of a revolver from the palatial home her father had built for her in Mill Valley. The handsome residence in the pretty suburb has been let to a tenant, and Mrs. Goodwin, whose matrimonial woes became public a month ago, when she caused the arrest of her husband for pawning the diamonds of a woman friend, will remain here until she has drawn a divorce suit which she intends instituting at once.

The troubles between the Goodwins reached a climax suddenly. Friends of Mrs. Goodwin thought a truce would continue after she had paid her husband's $100 fine and saved him from jail, but Tuesday afternoon Goodwin, who had not been living with his wife since the police court trial, captured the house while his wife was shopping, and not only kept her away, but also threatened to shoot Constable Melvin Staples of San Rafael, who tried to eject him. He held out until yesterday when he capitulated, but Mrs. Goodwin refused to make peace and at once started for San Francisco, whose missing gems were the cause of the first declaration of war between the daughter of the rich Fresno resident and her husband, who notwithstanding his wealthy connections, has been dependent upon her since the wedding.

Mrs. Goodwin went to the home of friends here, but admitted last night that she intended to begin divorce proceedings immediately. Goodwin, who said he was intoxicated when he took Mrs. Reynolds' diamonds, was again arrested in the influence of liquor when he went to his wife's home and made a fort of it Tuesday. Neighbors who knew the conditions under which he had gained clemency from his wife saw him enter and hurried to the police station, notified Mrs. Goodwin and she sent for Staples. As the constable mounted the steps Goodwin thrust a large army revolver through a window.

"I am going to shoot you," he shouted, "or I'll blow your head off." Staples vanished and sought out Mrs. Goodwin, who had remained down town. She went to the house and her husband also greeted her with an admonition to "beat it."

She discreetly retreated and Goodwin remained in the house all night. While he held out, however, his wife was making arrangements to rent it, and when he announced that he was ready to surrender if she would forgive him she said that the place had been leased to William Falley, one of the owners of the Mill Valley Road.

Mrs. Goodwin also informed her husband that he had exhausted her patience and that she intended to petition the courts to annul her marriage ties. She left the suburb shortly afterward. When her complaint is drawn up she will go to her father in Fresno to await the hearing of the case.

FATHER MCKINNON TAKES ISSUE WITH FATHER LYONS Defends Palo Alto, Stanford and Mayfield Against Attack of the Menlo Priest

PALO ALTO, Oct. 9.—Father R. J. McKinnon disagrees with Father Lyons of the Menlo Park Catholic church regarding the toppers at the latter town. In his address before the San Mateo county board of supervisors Monday regarding the granting of a new saloon license in Menlo to T. S. Harrington, Father Lyons did not mince his words regarding the people who went from Palo Alto to drink at Menlo.

He called the imbibers from this place "idle and vicious" and laid many of his charges regarding the insults offered women and children to Palo Alto visitors. In conversation last night Father McKinnon stated that there were "enough hoodlums in Menlo Park to cause all the trouble without making accusations against Stanford, Palo Alto or even Mayfield."

ELMHURST TAILOR PAYS $300 TO ALLEGED INVENTOR, THEN CHANGES MIND

OAKLAND, Oct. 9.—A desire to acquire a process whereby rolls of fragrant butter could be made in a few minutes from sweet milk instead of time honored thick cream led L. Hahn, a tailor living in Elmhurst, to pay $300 in cash and give a promissory note for an additional $200 to W. M. Clarke, the alleged inventor. Hahn reported the allegation to the district attorney's office today. He said he had every reason to believe the process genuine, for he claimed Clarke poured a quart of sweet milk yielded by the Hahn family cow into a churn and after two motions of the dasher removed the lid and showed butter floating like a golden cloud on the surface.

Clarke asked $500 and an agreement was drawn up for the sale of the secret. Afterward Clarke informed Hahn that cornstarch dissolved in milk and poured over four pounds of rancid butter, which he admitted were concealed in the bottom of the churn, wrought the alleged miracle.

Hahn was refused a warrant because it was believed impossible to prove Clarke's intent to deceive and in the absence of chemists the department was in no position to determine the merits or demerits of the scheme.

C.C.S. CHRONIC ULCERS Whenever a sore or ulcer refuses to heal it is because the blood is infected with poisonous germs or some old blood taint which corrupts and pollutes the circulation. Nothing is more trying than a non-healing, chronic old ulcer. The very fact that it resists all external applications, and ordinary treatments, is good reason for alarm, for the same germ which produces cancerous ulcers is back of every old sore, and especially is this true if the trouble be from an inherited taint. Surface treatment cannot reach the trouble—the blood is at fault and must be purified before a cure can be hoped for. In S. S. S. is a perfect blood purifier—one that goes directly into the circulation and promptly cleanses it of all impurities, poisons and taints. The ulcer can never heal while the blood discharges into it the noxious matter with which it is infected, but when S. S. S. has rid the blood of this cause and it should be healed and built up the circulation the sore will heal naturally, and of its own accord. S. S. S. begins at the bottom and heals the place as Sores and Ulcers and any special medical advice free to all who write. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.
