HERRIN MEN TRY TO DISCREDIT LEAGUE

Say It Is Full of Apathy When They Are Forced by It to Fight for Lives

Beasley's "Push" Is Promised Hard Swatting by Lincoln-Roosevelt Club

Mighty efforts are being made by the panic-stricken Herrin men to offset the work accomplished by the Lincoln-Roosevelt league by misrepresenting the conditions that prevail in the big districts of the city. If the Herrin men and the newspapers that echo their words could be believed, strife rends the league organization, while violence and apathy are killing it with their slow poison. Just how the league can be full of fight and full of apathy at the same time is not explained, but the "push" is not careful of logic in its statements.

The same misrepresentations have been made about the thirty-ninth, fortieth and forty-first districts, in all of which the league is giving the Herrin outfit the fight of its life. Now comes the story that the league is hopelessly out-generaled in the thirty-fourth, because "lost" Harry Beasley, "As goes Harry Beasley so goes the thirty-fourth" seems to be the "push" slogan.

As a matter of unadorned truth the thirty-fourth is one of the league's most reliable strongholds. It is a big district, thickly populated, and the republicans there are not to be fooled; they are all "from Pike county, Missouri" when it comes to primary elections and have to be "prowled" not once, but twice.

LAST PRIMARIES SHOWN

This was proved during the last primary campaign, when the ticket put up by the independent republicans on an anti-boss, anti-Herrin platform swept the district. There were three tickets in the field then—the ticket headed by William Strahl and financed by Maestretti, the ticket of Joe Tuite, who reported to Ruef until the curly headed boss went to jail, and the independent republican ticket, with men on it like Will Adams, Dr. Blaylock, John Ralph Wilson and David Girwood.

The independent ticket beat the other two tickets nearly two to one, polling a vote that almost equaled the total votes of the Strahl and Tuite tickets combined.

This independent club is still in existence and has entered the Lincoln-Roosevelt league in a body, pledging itself to carry on its fight against railroad and all other bossism under league auspices.

So thoroughly is this club organized that every precinct in the thirty-fourth has a captain who reports to the executive committee, which consists of Will Adams, president; James Saunders, first vice president; William Smith, second vice president; Dr. E. M. Bixby, third vice president; F. J. Brown, secretary; C. K. Orton, treasurer, and Herbert B. Magge, George H. Cross, David Girwood, John Ralph Wilson, Charles M. Lindsay, Robert S. Atkins and William H. Stewart. Besides being in the club, Wilson and Smith are on the campaign committee of the Lincoln-Roosevelt league and have Anton Olsen, also of the league, as their agent.

BEASLEY LINED UP

Against this formidable organization are lined up Harry Beasley and his much vaunted "eight reconciled factions," consisting of men who have taken orders from every boss from Herrin and Crimmins to Ruef and Maestretti, and who made the fight against reform last year.

So the league men in the thirty-fourth are not worrying. They are ready for the fray and have the utmost trust in the voters of the district. They are skeptical about the reconciliation of the eight "push" factions, but rejoice that there is only one organization for them to concentrate their fire on. They say that a large object makes the easiest target, and if the "reconciled" factions start squaring, as seems probable, so much the better for the cause of decent government.

A Lincoln-Roosevelt club will be formed in the thirty-fifth district tonight at a public meeting to be held in Yosemite hall, Twenty-fourth and Mission streets.

George R. Fletcher, who has been an active factor in organizing republican clubs in the Sunset and Richmond districts hostile to the Lincoln-Roosevelt league, has withdrawn as a result of the publication of his connection with them. "As I am at present engaged in public work that is purely civic and absolutely nonpolitical," he wrote in his letter of resignation, "I cannot permit myself to be connected with any disputes of any factional or sectional politics by which such work may be impaired."

STARTS WITH OBSCENITY

Eggers Campaign Is Opened by Singing of Ribald Songs

Fred Eggers gathered his followers together in Stegmann's hall in Valencia street last night and organized what he was pleased to call a "regular republican club of the thirty-sixth district." After accomplishing this work Eggers waxed enthusiastic about his achievements in the past and present and in the name of the "push" declared war to the death on the Lincoln-Roosevelt league.

Aside from the appointment of officers the principal event of the evening was the singing of ribald and obscene songs by "Buck" Esternan, one of Eggers' devoted followers. This was a remarkable achievement for a political meeting.

The singer was loudly applauded by a certain element which is always conspicuous at Eggers' meetings and which has a representation on the committees of his club, but many of the residents of the thirty-sixth who were present plainly resented the circumstance. Some who had evidently come to sign the roll of the club got up and left. The meeting started with the naming of the following temporary officers, who were afterward made the permanent officers of the club:

President Henry N. Beatty; first vice president, Daniel Tettenham; second vice president, Joseph J. Blamey; third vice president, John H. J. Seyden; secretary, Frank W. Burnett; treasurer, James J. Hanson; sergeant at arms, James O'Reilly.

Campaign, finance and resolution committees were then appointed.

"I have always been a demo—I should say republican," declared First Vice President Daniel Tettenham. He then declared that Eggers and he had "saved" the party in the thirty-sixth for years, but admitted that their efforts had been criticized.

"Our delegation won't be thrown out of the convention this year," quoth Secretary Burnett, who seemed to know the program.

The executive committee promised to "take charge" of Samuel Stone's straw vote in the district.

Then Fred Eggers spoke. He attacked the Lincoln-Roosevelt league, supplementing this with an attack on the present municipal administration. The meeting ended with more ribald singing.

ADVISES CLERKS TO CHANGE PLAN

Labor Council Recommends the Abandonment of Early Closing Movement

A great deal of the time of the San Francisco labor council was taken up last night in the discussion of the recommendation of the executive committee that the retail clerks should abandon the present system for 6 o'clock closing and try to secure minimum hours and maximum wages. The recommendation was concurred in. It will now remain with the clerks to decide whether they will abide by the decision of the council.

On motion of Delegate W. P. McCabe the chairman of the council was authorized to appoint a committee of 15 to make arrangements for the next celebration of Labor day. He will name the committee next Friday.

The labor committee reported an amendment to the constitution to the effect that one-fourth of the reserve fund dues be set aside for the purpose of propagating the union label and that a secretary, who shall devote his whole time to the union label, be appointed. This will be the special order of business at the meeting May 2.

The council indorsed a proposition to secure a large appropriation for education and referred to the American Federation of labor a suggestion to have the educational department represented in the president's cabinet.

It was decided to declare a boycott against the Standard dairy.

The committee on the mass meeting to be held tonight reported that the expense will be about $500 and presented a series of resolutions to be submitted to the meeting. These relate to the cause of complaint, suggest reforms in the labor contract against injunction proceedings and decisions under the Sherman anti-trust law.

The organizing committee reported that all but two of the cemeteries have reduced wages from $3 to $2.50 and $2 per day and that something will have to be done to save the cemetery workers' union. A further report, with recommendations, will be presented at the next meeting.

A communication from the state federation of labor requesting unions to support the oligarch makers by demanding the union label when asking for cigars was read. The unions were requested to take notice.

An invitation to the officers of the council to view the gold and silver testimonial that is to be presented to the cruiser California was referred to the executive committee to ascertain if the work was done by union labor.

MONTEREY COAL COMPANY'S MINES SHOW IMMENSE DEPOSITS OF A1 COAL

Samples Just Taken From the Various Veins Prove to Be a Splendid Variety of Bituminous Coal

H. W. Turner, formerly for eighteen years with the United States Geological Survey, speaks very highly of the property.

Wm. Irelan Jr., formerly State Mineralogist and State Engineer, says the company has all it claims and more.

From the latest reports on the coal taken from the mines of the Monterey Coal Company it is evident that California is to have developed another great industry within her borders, and one the product of which is more sorely needed than any other of her varied resources.

Following are analyses of various samples of coal taken from the mines:

I—Samples from Trafton mine by H. W. Turner, taken at a depth of 70 feet and 110 feet. The average is as follows:

ANALYSIS BY GEO. A. JAMES & CO.

Monterey Coal Co.'s Coal. April 13, 1908.

Moisture	12.92
Volatiles	33.26
Fixed Carbon	40.72
Sulphur	3.5
Ash	9.6

II—ANALYSIS BY SMITH, EMERY & CO.

Monterey Coal Co.'s Coal. April 16, 1908.

Samples by H. W. Turner, from same location as above.

III—ANALYSIS BY GEO. A. JAMES CO.

Samples by Wm. Irelan Jr., E. M. Monterey Coal Co.'s Coal. April, 1908.

Moisture	12.91
Volatiles	36.08
Fixed Carbon	38.99
Sulphur	3.2
Ash	8.1
British Thermal Units	13,813

IV—ANALYSIS BY GEO. A. JAMES CO.

Samples by J. D. Hoff, M. E. Monterey Coal Co.'s Coal. April 3, 1908.

Selected samples, air dried.

Moisture	1.08
Volatiles	35.79
Fixed Carbon	51.53
Sulphur	8.39
Ash	34
Silica	2.21
Iron Oxide	1.11
Alumina	3.37
Alkalies	3.10
Sulphur	99.89%

Professor Turner calls attention to the fact that the various tests thus far made do not adequately represent or do justice to the quality of the coal in these fields because of the lack of development of the various veins, the samples having been taken from near the surface. He states there is no question that the coal will become firmer and better as the depth is increased. This is proven in many instances of coal mining, the following being a good example:

U. S. Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, Geo. Otis Smith, Director; Economic Geology Bulletin No. 316, 1906.

Analysis of Coal from Stone Canon Mine.

Moisture	7.13
Volatiles	44.47
Fixed Carbon	37.03
Ash	11.37
Sulphur	4.60

Analysis of Coal from Stone Canon Mine by Andrew C. Lawson, Professor of Geology, State University.

Moisture	4.4
Volatiles	46.9
Fixed Carbon	38.2
Ash	10.1

Professor H. W. Turner further states: "Undoubtedly with slight interruptions the coal bearing formation extends across the entire length of the property of the Monterey Coal Co., a distance of over twenty miles. The coal formation extends still farther to the southeast across the Stone Canon property, which immediately adjoins. It is quite possible that the Trafton seam, the lowest seam in Oat Creek Canyon, and the Stone Canon seam are identical."

This statement is in accord with the report found in California State Mining Bureau, September 15, 1894, Twelfth Report of the State Mineralogist, page 52.

PRIEST VALLEY COAL FIELD

By far the most important discoveries of coal ever made in the State are in the neighborhood of Priest Valley, in the Coast Range. The beds extend through T. 22 S., R. 14, 13 and 12 E., T. 21 S., R. 14, 13 and 12 E., T. 20 S., R. 13 and 12 E., T. 19 S., R. 12 and 11 E., and through R. 10 E., T. 18 and 17 S., in San Benito Fresno and Monterey counties. The coal occurs in soft, dark bluish gray, cretaceous sandstone several thousand feet thick, lying on both sides of a high ridge of metamorphic rocks, which traverses the county in a N. W. and S. E. direction.

It forms the divide between the San Joaquin and the Salinas rivers from the south line of T. 22 S., R. 14 E., to about the center of T. 20 S., R. 12 E., thence it swings more to the west and crosses Lewis Creek about three miles above the mouth of Oat Canon. It includes the Stone Canon and the Drabble Mine workings on Carey and Warthen creeks and extends through Priest Valley into San Benito County.

AN INEXHAUSTIBLE SUPPLY

Professor Wm. Irelan Jr. is quoted as saying that the coal and clay beds of the Monterey Coal Co. are practically inexhaustible and that the coal is as good as any of the coals used on the Pacific Coast for domestic or steam purposes.

He attaches great importance to the immense deposits of clay which he states is of the finest variety for making fire brick, pottery, etc.

The above named gentlemen have just returned from a trip to these coal fields and both appear very enthusiastic over the quantity and quality of coal found on the Monterey Coal Co.'s property. Complete reports made by Messrs. H. W. Turner and Wm. Irelan Jr. can be seen at the offices of the above company.

The development of such an industry should be of interest to every citizen of the State and this company should be encouraged in its work of development, for without question it will redound to the interest and welfare of the whole State. The company invites any one who may be interested to visit the properties and thoroughly examine both the coal mines and the clay beds.

Call at 41 Montgomery Street to examine the coal exhibit and for any further information you may wish.

An Announcement of Importance

In our business of selling HIGH CLASS RESIDENCE property we have found some people who preferred our lots to any other, but who were unable to raise the necessary cash.

Some of these people have bought lots elsewhere that they knew were less desirable than our offerings simply because the first payments on these inferior tracts were very small.

Others have delayed buying until the condition of their finances would permit the acquisition of a thoroughly choice and satisfactory home place in one of our tracts.

As is natural under the circumstances, we have had continual and urgent requests that we establish the plan of small first payments and small monthly installments on our high class properties.

Especially in the past few months we have found scores of people eager and anxious to buy in our choice tracts, but who were handicapped in doing so by lack of funds.

In view of the existing conditions, we have at length decided to comply with these requests and make, as an experiment, and for a limited time, a radical change in policy.

Until further notice we will sell, without reservation, any lot in our two great tracts, EAST PIEDMONT HEIGHTS and FOURTH AVENUE TERRACE, on terms of one-tenth down and one per cent a month, no interest or taxes until 1910.

This is an absolutely unprecedented offer for us with property of such high class.

EAST PIEDMONT HEIGHTS is without exception the most desirable high class residence tract offered for sale in the west today. To a natural situation of supreme and unparalleled beauty, on rolling hills, with a view of the bay and close to the parks and the lake, is added the charm of splendid boulevards and driveways following the contour of the hills and accessibility to the shops and theaters of Oakland—eight minutes by car.

This offer also includes FOURTH AVENUE TERRACE, in the same superb Lake Merritt district, and the center and focus of building activity in Oakland at the present time.

Both of these places for homes are absolutely without competitors, and with the added attraction of this small payment plan they are bound to sell out almost at once.

Remember that in EAST PIEDMONT HEIGHTS there are less than 200 lots left; that they are selling fast, and that no tract of such character will ever be upon the market again at such prices.

We advise you to see these tracts immediately if you want a matchless site for a home of your own or a profitable and safe investment.

Remember, it now requires only a very small amount of cash to get the very best residence lot that money can buy.
