Hundreds See May Sutton Play
 Hazel Hotchkiss Makes Good Showing Against Former World's Champion

By Grant Smith

May Sutton drew a full house at the Hotel Rafael courts yesterday, and standing room was at a premium. The fact that Miss Sutton no longer holds the title of world's champion, she has not lost her drawing powers. Four or five hundred spectators forgot the sweltering heat, so fascinated were they with the clever play of the little expert from the southern part of the state. It was Miss Sutton's first appearance on the San Rafael courts in three years. It was on these same courts that Miss Sutton won her first championship when a lass of but 14. Many of the spectators present yesterday witnessed her first success and to them her wonderful improvement was apparent.

The match between Miss Sutton and state champion Hazel Hotchkiss resulted about as expected. The score in favor of Miss Sutton was 6-1, 6-2. Miss Hotchkiss did her best but she was outclassed, and at her best she was the semblance of a chance to win. However, the match was much closer than the score would indicate. Many of the games, particularly in the second set, were long and closely contested. Miss Sutton's poor condition was apparent from the start, and she was visibly distressed in the second set. She made a great deal more work of her game than in the past and only on one or two occasions did she take the net by a few inches. The state champion scored the few times she went to the net, and had she taken that position often would undoubtedly have made a better showing.

Miss Sutton did not serve as well as formerly, and while her driving was as accurate as ever her strokes seemed to lack their wonted speed. She showed to much better advantage in the first set when she was fresh and won most of the games with the loss of but one point. Miss Hotchkiss made a determined stand in the last game of the first set when the score stood 40-15 against her. She pulled up to advantage, but after going to deuce three times, Miss Sutton won the necessary two points.

Miss Hotchkiss appeared very nervous in the opening set and seemed unable to lose sight of the fact that she was opposed to the world's greatest woman player. Her nervousness wore off to a certain extent in the second set, and while she won only one more game she made a very creditable showing.

Miss Sutton will play today on the Hotel Rafael courts. An exhibition mixed doubles match will be played at 12:30. Miss Sutton and Coast Champion Maurice McLoughlin will be opposed to Mrs. Bruce and Carl Gardner. Mrs. Bruce is the eldest of the four famous Sutton sisters and is also a star. She plays especially well in mixed doubles and the match this afternoon should prove an interesting one.

Miss Sutton and her sister will also be seen in a mixed doubles match in the California club courts tomorrow afternoon. Just who will play with them has not been decided. It is quite likely ex-Coast Champion L. R. Freeman and McLoughlin will be the other participants. The match will be played at 2:30, and as it will be Miss Sutton's first appearance on San Francisco since the world wars, there will be a record crowd present.

Walhour's Triple Beats Fresno
 Oakland's Right Fielder Breaks Up a Great Game in the Eleventh Inning

ALAMEDA, July 11.—In the eleventh inning with the scoreboard reading 3 to 2 against his team, two men game and two others on bases, Davy Walhour of Oakland marched to the plate at Recreation park this afternoon and, with a pile driver swing soaked the first ball that Spider Baum of the Fresno nine shot at him square on the trademark for a spectacular three-sacker over the center fielder's head, sending in Heister and Goldy and winning the game.

It was a fan thrilling contest that was close all stages. Fresno plucked the first run in the second inning. Oakland tied the score in the sixth and put over another one in the seventh. Fresno came back in the eighth with another tally and once more the game was deadlocked.

In the eleventh inning Kelly walked, was sacrificed to second by Blankenship and registered on Kennedy's smash for a brace of bags. It looked as if Fresno had the game wrapped up and ready to carry away, but the unexpected happened.

Bliss hit safely for Oakland and was forced at second by Goldy. Schwartz flew to Mott and Heister poked a Texas leaguer into left field. Then came Davy Walhour and defeat for Spider Baum's minions. The same teams meet tomorrow afternoon. Miller will probably twirl for the Raisin Eaters and either Heister or Bloomfield will be in the box for Oakland. The score:

 SANTA CRUZ, July 11.—The "Sand Crabs" took the fourth game in Alameda today. Loucks for the locals pitched great ball, blanking the visitors in every inning. Schimpf made a great stop of a line drive over the center cushion in the second and had to retire the same inning, being spiked. Two hits in the fourth brought in three runs for Devereaux's aggregation, while in the next inning as many were scored through errors, when Sparks was replaced by Wilcox in the box. Score:

Angels Ring Up Runs Till They Tire

Sympathetic Fans Shed Tears for Southpaw Hardy and His Slow Ball

By W. J. Slattery

The Oakland boys were again led to the slaughter by the Angels yesterday afternoon in as ragged and rough a game of ball as any fan ever stuck up his two bit piece for the privilege of viewing. The score was 10 to 6, but it is no way to tell the tale of the bone headed work, fierce pitching of Hardy and general all round stupidity of the Oakland nine. If there was a redeeming feature it was so badly smothered by the bush ball that it slipped by unnoticed by the multitude.

Southpaw Hardy was at his worst and anybody who has ever seen him pitch some of his three star rotten games knows about what this means. He did not even have a smile. If he put the ball over the plate and simply allowed the Angels to slap it, nobody would kick hard, but everybody became sore when the left hander passed man after man till nine had gone the route three times. There is some excuse for a pitcher's wildness if he wades in and does the mystifying act in the tight places. How about Hardy? Not there. Those 12 rounding bingles which the Angels hammered out during the afternoon will show at a glance that whenever they felt inclined to rap the sphere the champions accomplished their purpose.

Los Angeles started the day well, collecting two runs in the first three innings. This lead looked pretty fat, but Oakland came back at them in the third with three. Even with a nice lead like this the Oaks could not do any good, but went down the line at the first opportunity and tossed the game off before leading half an hour.

The Oakland rally was started by Altman who worked a pass. Lewis landed on Smith's boot and Hardy put little Dutch over with a hit to center. Lewis was forced by Van, after which Cook also grabbed a pass. Here Heime Heitmuller did the most noble stunt of the afternoon, swinging in to center with a fine two cushion swipe that put Hardy and Van through.

But the lead was of short duration, for Hardy tossed it off in the fifth, when he let the Angels tie the score again. With two in the hole, Hardy passed Dillon and Brashear, and Dillon came right on home as soon as Ellis tore off a ripping single to the center garden.

The fifth might have passed unnoticed had the seventh been wiped off the map, but this was a terrible round and deserved attention. Brashear opened up with a hit, Smith bunted and they were back safe on a fielder's choice. Delmas lifted a long fly to Van, which registered Brash. Then Happy Hogan rang a slow one for two bags and Hoss singled over third, so the grand total was four for the Angels when the awful agony at last ended.

The Oaks managed to gather one in their half of the seventh, but the Angels very mercifully allowed the eighth to pass without action. But in the ninth, made up for lost time and capped the glorious climax with three more tallies. Everybody on the team seemed to office up to those slow boys of Hardy's. It was bingle, bingle and sweat right down to the line till the fans shed tears for Oakland.

The fielding on both sides was very sloppy, especially with men on the bases. Hoss pitched rather a good game, but was lousy at times and also suffered from poor support. The game was another long drawn out affair, requiring more than two hours to play it. The score:

PORTLAND 5, SAN FRANCISCO 4
 PORTLAND, July 11.—Portland won an eleven inning game from San Francisco on pure luck today. Groom was on the slab for Portland and for five innings did not have a chance to break on his ball. He got good after that and except for a wild streak in the ninth, when he walked a man and forced in the tie inning run, he pitched great ball. The Beavers drove Salsbury out of the box in the second inning. The winning run came off the bat of McCredie hit, stole second and reached third on a bad peg. He scored when Williams dropped a throw from McArdle. The score:

Gov. Hughes to Raid Brighton Track

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE CALL
 NEW YORK, July 11.—Governor Hughes today received the reports of 29 of his own personally appointed detectives, who have been at the Gravesend, Sheephead bay and Brighton beach racetracks, submitting absolute evidence of violations of the anti-betting law. As a result it is now believed the governor will raid the Brighton beach track and close it up tight.

In connection with this expected action on the part of the governor it is expected he will make it not for Police Commissioner Bingham for permitting betting at the tracks. Taken in conjunction with the declaration of acting Mayor Bingham that the police were Kings county, that the police were making no report whatever to stop betting, the efforts of the governor's detectives make a strong case against the police commissioner.

Reports of the governor's detectives not only presented evidence of bets openly made at the racetracks, but also contained evidence that the police and deputy sheriff stationed at the track made practically no effort to stop the violation of the law.

Hunters Ready for Deer and Doves

Game Reported Plentiful and Hundreds of Sportsmen Will Join Chase

By Lawrence Lavers

That day to which all hunters have looked forward with great longing for many months is about here. The open season for both doves and deer begins next Tuesday, July 15, and all indications point to a day of royal sport. Today, tomorrow and the next day nimrods will be starting for their favorite hunting grounds. Daylight, Wednesday will find them either squatted near some open place, blazing away at the startled doves, or ambushed near a watering hole or behind a log on some hill pointing in wait for the wary deer. The deer hunters will predominate in the number leaving today, as their hunting grounds are not so readily reached as those of the shotgun bearers. The latter will begin their hegira probably tomorrow and some will not go until Wednesday.

Every one looks forward to an unusually good day's sport on opening day. Only one thing can spoil the shooting and that is a heavy wind-storm. Barring wind, the one day's limit of 25 doves should easily be obtained. Many hunters also will kill their season's limit of two deer on the first day, for deer this year are more than usually plentiful from the high Sierras to the lowest hills of Marin county reports of deer and deer signs have been coming in. Through all the interior valleys the doves for two weeks have been preening themselves for the hunter's gun.

Trotters of Class for Oakland
 Meeting in August Will Bring Together the Best Horses in Training

The sensational trotters of each year usually burst forth full fledged from the green classes. Sonoma Girl and Highball, the speed marvels of last season, were without records when the racing opened, but the great California mare trotted to a record of 2:06 1/4 and the gelding to one of 2:06 1/4 in July. Sonoma Girl afterward reduced her mark to 2:05 1/4, winning nearly $30,000, and being sold for $25,500. It was the big purses and stakes offered for the slower classes that brought these two wonderful trotters to the front. The same thing is true here in California, where the sensational horses of the circuit rush out of the woods as if they were right into the spot light in an effort to win the largest stakes.

The first big stake for trotters on the coast this year will be the Greater Oakland, which is to be decided at the meeting across the bay next month. The stake has a value of $2,500 and is for horses of the 2:20 class. It received 27 original entries and the best prospects, from Los Angeles on the south to North Yakima, Wash., on the north, are in training for it.

The outlook at present is for one of the largest fields seen on a trotting track in California in years, and it will not surprise horsemen if 15 or more are lined up for the word when the race is called at the Oakland track next month.

Southern California always is to be depended upon to furnish some of the new stars each year. It has three representatives in this stake in Emily W. a James Madison mare, named by that excellent reinsman, Fred Ward; Jenia, a Zoelock mare, owned by G. A. Pounder of Los Angeles, and Judge Dillon, a son of Sidney Dillon, that is the property of Mrs. L. J. Hastings, also of Los Angeles. There has floated up from the city of Angels a story that Ward's mare has been trotting right around 2:10 in her work, that Wajna has been doing about as well, and that the southern contingent will be able to land one of this trio of trotters close to first money is more than probable.

From the far north will come one lone candidate, the bay mare Irene, by Florida, trained by Robert Prior. Little is known here of her abilities as a trotter, but if she is shipped this long distance and scores for the word it will be because she has shown her unusual speed to warrant the expense.

Among the horses in training near the field of battle are seven or eight that have speed enough to bear watching from now on that they may not jump into fame entirely unheralded, leaving those wise persons in the lurch who work their watches overtime every training day that they may give out information early and be enabled to say after the race, "I told you so."

James B. Smith of this city is the owner of one of these trotters. She is a small bay mare, pretty as a picture and one that the experts who know a horse call sweet gaited. The popular trainer, Joe Culicello, has this little mare in training at Pleasanton, and so far she has done everything asked of her, she has been a mile right at 2:18 and quarters at a rate of speed to place her in the 2:34 class were she able to put four of them into one mile. Her name is Lady Inez and she is by Nutwood Wilkes, 2:16 1/4, the horse which sired John A. McKerron, 2:04 1/4, the fastest trotting stallion bred in California and the second fastest stallion in the world.

Lady McKinney is another mare that seems to have a decided "look in" for first money in this stake. She is owned by F. J. Kilpatrick of San Francisco, a most enthusiastic amateur horseman, who will start his horses in regular racing events for the first time this year. Kilpatrick owns the sire of this mare, Washington McKinney, one of the
