

by permission of Coroner Leland, was taken to the home at 1805 Franklin street.

Dr. John R. Clark performed the autopsy, which brought to light the fact that one of the ribs had pierced the heart.

Arrangements for the funeral will not be made until this afternoon.

Wienken, who was in the tonneau of the machine conversing with Lillenthal when the accident happened, declared that the shock was so sudden that his knowledge of the details was rather hazy.

"Our chauffeur, to avoid a clash with the animal and the cart, steered his machine close to the edge of the road.

"We hurried to the prostrate figure on the ground and I rushed to a nearby house to get a glass of water.

"We hurried to the prostrate figure on the ground and I rushed to a nearby house to get a glass of water.

"I saw the horse rear and plunge toward us," he said, "and thought that we had escaped injury.

"It is impossible to say how the accident might have been avoided and blame can be laid to no one.

"I turned just in time to see the figure of Mr. Lillenthal raised from his seat in the tonneau and tossed to the ground.

"I was not injured in any way. The machine was not damaged, either, except for a slight rimping of the leather on the side of the tonneau, where the shaft of the buggy struck the machine."

Lillenthal called for his two guests about 9 o'clock. He met William Friese, president of the California fruit canneries' association, and asked him to join his party.

"I was not injured in any way. The machine was not damaged, either, except for a slight rimping of the leather on the side of the tonneau, where the shaft of the buggy struck the machine."

"I flashed across me that this was some drunken man, injured in some way, and I stopped the car, and at the same moment, as it stopped, I turned to ask Mr. Lillenthal whether I should pick up this man and take him to the hospital."

"I turned to ask this—and Mr. Lillenthal was not there. The car had stopped now—I was sort of dazed, for Mr. Lillenthal had vanished. I looked out at this man, the man who had been riding along beside us—and that man was Mr. Lillenthal. I stood and looked for an instant.

"It was beyond my comprehension. And the others got out of the car with me. We were unable to control the stringency of it. The story came to me by bits—what we had seen. The horse had run at the car from right angles to its course, and it had hurled Mr. Lillenthal right across the seat to the ground."

After the news of the accident was communicated to Lillenthal's home, it was but a short time until the house was besieged by friends and relatives, none of whom seemed to be able to realize the dread truth.

Until midnight, there was a stream of hundreds of people entering and leaving the residence, and the telephone was kept ringing continually by friends inquiring for details of the tragedy and extending sympathy to the bereaved family.

Philip N. Lillenthal was born in Cincinnati, O., November 4, 1849, and was the oldest child of Dr. Max Lillenthal, one of the most noted rabbis of the nineteenth century.

Throughout his life Lillenthal enjoyed the best of health and presented a picture of ideal manhood. His physical condition declared last evening that prior to the accident the deceased was in perfect physical condition.

The estate of the deceased is estimated to be worth about $1,000,000, although it was generally believed that he was much wealthier.

Keller, formerly of the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria, Majestic and St. Regis of New York and the Hotel Marlborough of San Francisco.

Young Lillenthal displayed an unusual aptitude for banking business and advanced so rapidly that he was when only 20 years of age, he was sent to this city as manager of the Seligman branch here.

In 1872 the Seligman branch was founded by the Seligman brothers, and Lillenthal was retained as one of the joint managers.

A financial genius and endowed with a wonderfully happy disposition, Lillenthal made a friend of every one with whom he came in contact and his banking house soon assumed a leading position.

In 1872 he married Miss Bella Seligman, daughter of the late Dr. Seligman.

The Doctor Writes of Counterfeiters.

Dear Mr. Fletcher—I wish to congratulate you on your numerous victories over counterfeiters and imitators of Castoria, and trust the time is not far distant when these inferior and dangerous mixtures will be entirely suppressed.

You are right when you say in your advertisements that it is "Experience against Experiment."

I feel it to be an outrage, and an imposition upon the parents of little children that my name should be associated with imitations of Castoria, dangerous to the health and life of these little ones who too often fight their battles for life in vain.

Let me again commend you for the high standard you have maintained in the preparation of my prescription, and I confidently believe it is due to this scrupulous integrity you are indebted for the wonderful sale of Castoria to-day, and the steady growth it has had since I gave you the details of its manufacture in my laboratory thirty-three years ago.

Letters from Prominent Druggists addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Mansur Drug Co., of St. Paul, Minn., says: "We are not in the habit of recommending proprietary medicines, but we never hesitate to say a good word for Castoria. It is a medical success."

Hegeman & Co., of New York City, N. Y., says: "We can say for your Castoria that it is one of the best selling preparations in our stores. That is conclusive evidence that it is satisfactory to the users."

Myers-Dillon Drug Co., of Omaha, Neb., says: "Your Castoria is one of the best sellers we have. We cheerfully recommend it to our trade voluntarily at all times, and will testify to its merits at any and all times."

Weber Drug Co., of Indianapolis, Ind., says: "Fletcher's Castoria is an article for which there is no substitute. It is undoubtedly one of the most popular articles on the market to-day and our customers for it are numbered by the hundreds."

Parrish & Bailey Pharmacy, of Los Angeles, Cal., says: "During an experience of over 30 years in the retail drug business we have never found a proprietary remedy that has had such a large sale or given such universal satisfaction as your Castoria."

Theo. Metcalf Co., of Boston, Mass., says: "We have handled Fletcher's Castoria for years and consider it one of the best preparations made. Our sales are continually increasing and everyone of our customers have nothing but praise for Fletcher's Castoria."

W. H. Chapman, of Montreal, Que., says: "I have sold Fletcher's Castoria for many years and have yet to hear of one word other than praise of its virtues. I look upon your preparation as one of the few so called patent medicines having merit and unhesitatingly recommend it as a safe household remedy."
