FOOTBALL MARKS WILD WEST SHOW

Huge Pigskin Rushed by Mounted Indians and Cowboys
Evokes Wild Applause

Prancing Horses, Screeching Redskins and Roar of Cannon Are Enjoyed

A football game that for pure excitement and display of dexterity has the intercollegiate article reduced to the second class is the biggest and best new feature of Buffalo Bill's wild west show. It is a game played on horseback by teams composed of Indians and cowboys, with the arena of the big showground as a field and a ball 10 feet in diameter as the bone of contention.

For the 15 or 20 minutes that the game lasted at the opening performance of the Wild West show last night the crowd of 10,000 people that filled the tiers of bleachers at the Twelfth and Market street showground went as wild with enthusiasm as any crowd of collegians ever did on California or Stanford field. It was a game in which horses as well as riders played an intelligent and strenuous part, and when the cowboys finally triumphed over the original American citizens by a score of 2 goals to 1 there was an outburst of cheering that could be heard for blocks.

The big Wild West show is even bigger and better than ever. Lovers of fine horses of skillful riders and rough, manly sport can nowhere else pass two hours of more complete enjoyment. From the opening review of the riders of the world to the last salute given in honor of Colonel W. F. Cody the performance is one long succession of thrills. Perfect equestrianism, magnificent military drilling, good tumbling, crack shooting and wild sport made the picture complete.

The Indians, in Salome costumes minus the breast plates and skirt but with the deficiency supplied by thick coats of paint, form the background for nearly every scene of the drama of outdoor life. Devlin's Zouaves furnish one of the best numbers of the whole program, their lightning drill and wall scaling being equalled in proficiency of military training only by the artillery detachment of troops. The riding of bucking broncos by a number of cowboys reached a climax of excitement, but for good measure a train holdup and three battles with the redskins are thrown in.

There was not a vacant seat nor an unoccupied bit of standing room last night in the immense arena, and two performances a day for the remainder of the week will not be more than enough to satisfy the demand.

COWBOY WINS BRIDE FROM WILD WEST RANKS

Henry J. Goodman, Who Rescued Wounded Girl From Arena, Marries Her

That a wild west show is not always devoid of romance, and that Cupid can shoot from the saddle with as true aim as Buffalo Bill himself, was proved conclusively yesterday, when a marriage license was issued by the county clerk to Henry J. Goodman, aged 23, and Ella Ginnett, aged 21, both members of Buffalo Bill's aggregation.

Three months ago the bride to be, who is a ranch girl with the wild west show, was thrown from her horse during a performance at Bangor, Me. Goodman, who is a cousin of Colonel Cody and assistant chief of the Cody cowboys, was the first to reach the unconscious girl and carry her from the arena. When she opened her eyes they looked into his, and from that moment the romance ripened.

Yesterday the marriage license was secured and today the cowboy girl is to become Mrs. Goodman.

Members of Company A, League of the Cross, Will Entertain Friends

A large audience will fill Golden Gate Commandery hall tomorrow evening, when the members of Company A, League of the Cross Cadets, are to give their long awaited minstrel show and dance. The program promises to be an unusually clever and interesting one from start to finish, and the end men have been supplied with all sorts of timely jokes and local hits, which will keep the audience laughing from the rise to the fall of the curtain. Captain Milo F. Kent will act as inter-locutor, and will introduce the soloists, who are Arthur Kernan, James Liddy, George Delehanty and John Steele. The fun makers will be Michael Donigan, Ray Broulett and Jack Kearny as tambors, and Edward Healy, George Murphy and James Doling as bones. A splendidly trained chorus of 35 members will make the most of all the refrains, and the very original finale promises to be a new note in minstrel affairs. The curtain will rise promptly at 8:15, so that there will be no delay in reaching the second attraction of the evening, the dance. Tickets may be had from members of the company or at the box office of the hall tomorrow night.

The Modern House Keepers' Exchange

Various Jellies From Apples.—(Mrs. Fred Whitney, 2 Fifth street, Petaluma).—Various jellies can be made, using apple juice as the body. And as apples are plentiful and cheap this season, it is well worth the trouble to put up a good supply. Make the jelly in the usual way and divide into as many portions as you wish jellies made. Wherever seeds are used they are tied in a cheese cloth bag and enough of each are used to suit each housewife's taste, who will be well pleased with results. They can be served with meats—hot or cold—or cut into small squares for salads, and are nice during winter months, when green things for salads are scarce.

A handful each of mint leaves and spinach leaves to color; the juice of a lime and the peel; horseradish leaves; celery seed and leaves; the juice and pieces of ginger that are preserved in jars.

The following can be used for frozen puddings, served with whipped cream after cutting in slices, or whipped up with fork and put between layers of cake.

Vanilla bean, orange peel, wintergreen, cinnamon stick, piece nutmeg, five or ten minutes. Let stand one hour; geranium leaves, and if the genuine maple sugar is used instead of white a delightful maple jelly is made. All must be strained before pouring into glasses.

Carrot Plum Pudding.—(Helen Montfort, 1211 L street, Sacramento).—Boil in a well covered pan for three hours one cup grated carrots, one cup grated potatoes, half a cup raisins, or one cup sugar, one cup flour, half a cup butter, one teaspoonful soda, half a teaspoonful cloves, half a teaspoonful nutmeg, one teaspoonful cinnamon, one cup currants, pinch of salt. Serve with hard sauce or brandy sauce, and the result will be a delicious plum pudding with but few plums.

An Economical Way to Make Plum Jelly and Marmalade.—(Mrs. R. F. Partridge, 6446 Regent street, Oakland).—Put nine pounds of red plums in a bag made of the muslin, in a piece of a sugar sack is good; put them in enough hot water to cover, and cook five or ten minutes. Lift out of the water and to each pint add one gallon of older vinegar (more if liked very sour), two cups of sugar, four red bell peppers, two tablespoonsful flour, salt to taste. Soak onions and cucumbers in salt over night. Cook onions and cauliflower tender and drain. Slice cucumbers in small pieces, and cook tender in vinegar. Mix flour, mustard and sugar with a little vinegar and cook with cucumbers. Add tumeric powder and peppers chopped fine to cauliflower and onions. Then mix all lightly together and lastly one pint

Fashion Notes

This is an era of exaggerated simplicity in the costumes of fashionable ladies at foreign resorts.

The old fashioned, close fitting sleeve is a distinguishing feature of the bridal gown of the moment.

Squirrel, dyed a brilliant brown, promises to be a popular fur this winter.

A hat of contrasting color harmonizes with the gown is now more popular than ever. To match the delicious shades of the black hat of immense proportions.

Green will have a tremendous vogue in costumes this winter.

Every woman who can afford it should have a full length mirror, in which she can see her whole figure at once.

A person who has not a good figure should try to dress such a way as to soften its defects rather than to display them.

It is impossible for a woman who is pinched at the waist with tight corsets, throttled around the neck with a tight collar, and to wear high heeled shoes, to walk gracefully.

OLYMPIC AUTO CUPS AWARDED

Big Gathering at the Clubhouse When Trophies Are Distributed to Winners

By R. R. F'Hommedieu

The racing automobilists gathered in the fruits of their labors last night when they were awarded the cups they won at the races held on the Tanforan track. The occasion was an informal smoker given by the officers of the club. President William Humphreys presented the trophies with well chosen remarks. The hero of the occasion was Fred Wiseman, who in the Stoddard-Dayton car carried off three of the cups. A cup was presented to the Pioneer automobile company for having the most automobiles in the parade, the company being represented by 32 Thomas motor cars. Each car that was registered was represented by its state number, which were put in envelopes. The Kansas city number were numbered and corresponding numbers were put in a hat. President Humphreys drew out three. The first two were discarded and the third was declared about Portland I hired the entire crew. They were not much with the pick and shovel, but I managed to make some use of them.

GOOD WORK OF RAMBLER

L. H. Bill, head of the local branch of the Thomas Dayton company, received a letter yesterday from the home office in Kenosha, Wis., saying that after the finish of the eight day reliability run of the automobile club, which in which the 1908 Rambler roster finished 394 points credit, announcement was made of the opening of the business of the new company. Of the 41 cars entered the Rambler was one of the best of the seven or eight days' contest without a penalty. Only 20 of the entrants finished. The Rambler went through without a puncture.

ENTRIES FOR GRAND PRIZE RACE

The first of the French entries for the grand prize race were completed recently by mail from the Automobile club of France. NOTES OF THE AUTO

W. F. Culberson, head of the mobile carriage company, has received word that Forbes S. Deane, who has been associated with the George N. Pierce & Co. car company, has decided to take a name for himself as a driver in the Golden State endurance contests, has resigned his position with the company to enter business for himself. He will deal in Pierce Arrow cars in Kansas City.

Dr. J. G. Sheldon of Kansas City, in making a trip of 1,200 miles to Mason City Iowa, and return in his Franklin automobile, broke the record for the distance in 1 hour and 10 minutes, the best previous record being 1 hour and 27 minutes.

Edward Hulme had his new seven passenger White steam car for the first time Saturday and took his family on a cruise to the coast without the slightest mishap. He made the down trip in 4 hours and 20 minutes and the return trip in 4 hours and 20 minutes. During the trip Hulme did not leave his car to make a single adjustment.

Gossip of Railwaymen

"A sailor does not make a good railroadman," observed an old time engineer, "though at one time I thought I had struck a streak of good luck when I hired a band of British tars who had left a ship because they believed they had been maltreated. The consul sustained them in their contention, and as they were wandering about Portland I hired the entire crew. They were not much with the pick and shovel, but I managed to make some use of them.

"One day I discovered where they could be extremely useful, so I imagined, they had to be brought up river in a barge for the teams employed on the construction of the portage railroad, so I told six of the sailors that they would be entrusted with the task of bringing the fodder up stream. Their eyes brightened and they went to work to overhaul the barge. One of them came to me shortly after and said: "Sir, she is flat bottomed and how shall we work her up river if the wind changes?"

"That is easy; I answered, you will have to cordelle her."

"Do what, sir?"

"Cordelle her. Four men will have to haul the boat up stream, while two men will stay on board and guide her."

"Aul'er hup, sir," he asked.

"Yes, you will rig up a harness of rope, put it around your shoulders and haul her up river."

"Do I 'ear you haright, sir?"

"Yes."

"What, sir, 'aul hup that sanguinary barge like her sanguinary 'oss. No, sir, we are British sailors; we ain't no 'osses."
