MARCHED IN TRAIN
INTO SAN JOSE

Stanford University, Normal School and Lick Observatory Seen by City's Guests

Admiral Ijichi Returns Call of Captain Phelps at Mare Island and Then Rests

Except for a brief visit to Mare Island to return the official call of Captain Thomas S. Phelps, Admiral Ijichi and his staff kept strictly to their ships yesterday, taking advantage of the opportunity to secure a short rest in the week's whirl of pleasure. The other officers of the two vessels followed their examples.

But while the admiral and officers rested the cadets were out again in force. At 7 o'clock yesterday morning 185 cadets, with some of the warrant officers and enlisted men, formed up on the Mission street wharf and then marched to the depot at Third and Townsend streets and boarded a special train for a trip to San Jose and surrounding points of interest. They visited Stanford university, went through the normal school at San Jose and then returned to the city.

The Japanese will be the hosts today. In the afternoon there will be a formal reception on board the flagship Aso and at night Admiral Ijichi will give an elaborate dinner in return for the many compliments and courtesies he has received. Those at this dinner will be Collector of Customs F. S. Stratton, Governor James N. Gillett, Mayor E. R. Taylor, General John F. Weston or his representative, Admiral William T. Swinburne, Admiral Urie Sebree or his representative, Captain Girato Ishii, commanding the cruiser Aso, Captain T. Sato, commanding the Soya, Japanese Consul General Matsuzo Nagai, James McNab, president of the chamber of commerce, James Rolph Jr., president of the Merchants' exchange, and A. M. Davis, president of the Manufacturers' and Producers' association.

Admiral Ijichi's visit to Mare Island was informal. He was accompanied by Admiral Swinburne. The party was met at the gate by Captain Phelps and departed shortly after luncheon.

Portland Plans Fetes
PORTLAND, May 7.—The feting of 12 Japanese officers of the cruiser fleet visiting Pacific coast ports, in Portland June 7 and 8, is expected to furnish quite a possible evidence that a genuine entente cordiale exists between the United States and Nippon.

Will Go to Victoria
VICTORIA, May 7.—A telegram was received today from Admiral Ijichi, in command of the Japanese training ships Aso and Soya, accepting the reception proffered by the members of the local Japanese colony.

Unpleasant at Vancouver
VANCOUVER, May 7.—That Vancouver's celebration of the visit of the Japanese training ships Aso and Soya may be likely to be a badly mixed affair is shown by the marked opposition to the celebration arrangements in various circles here.

Two Men Fatally Hurt in Duel Over Woman
SALEM, Ore., May 7.—William Herve and James Sullivan engaged in a pistol duel at noon today at Gates, a settlement in the Cascades, 40 miles east of here. Herve was wounded in the neck and Sullivan in the abdomen. Both will die. The quarrel which led up to the shooting was caused, it is alleged, by both paying attentions to the same woman. Both men are under arrest, although they are expected to die at any moment.

Quarrel Followed by Fight With Pistols and Arrest
SALEM, Ore., May 7.—William Herve and James Sullivan engaged in a pistol duel at noon today at Gates, a settlement in the Cascades, 40 miles east of here. Herve was wounded in the neck and Sullivan in the abdomen. Both will die. The quarrel which led up to the shooting was caused, it is alleged, by both paying attentions to the same woman. Both men are under arrest, although they are expected to die at any moment.

Another Duel Over Woman
COACHELLA, Cal., May 7.—After quarreling over the selection of a mining district, Herve waited for him at the Gates hotel. Word was sent to Sullivan that Herve was waiting and when he stepped from the stage both men began firing. Each fired three shots.

ARMORY ACCIDENT
MAY CAUSE DEATHS
Assistant Adjutant General and Wife Among Victims
SEATTLE, May 7.—Although no fatalities have resulted from the accident in the new state armory last night, when the railing of the east balcony broke, precipitating the spectators at the athletic meet to the floor below, it is feared that at least four of the 60 victims will not recover.

Edwin O'Neill, Cecil Thornton, Marion F. Lewis and John Murray are in a critical condition tonight, and the hospital authorities offer little hope for their recovery. Captain Maurice Thompson, assistant adjutant general of the Washington national guard, and his wife are also in a serious condition. Thompson is a nephew of the late Maurice Thompson, the Indians' poet and novelist. No steps have been taken by the local authorities to investigate the accident, and it is probable that none will be, unless deaths result.

Japanese Count In Navy as Midshipman

THOUGH the son of a marquis, and the only titled personage with the visiting Japanese squadron, Count Teijo Nabeshima, midshipman on the Soya, does not advertise the fact, and refuses even to carry his title on his visiting cards.

"I am a midshipman in his imperial majesty's navy," said he simply. The title does not help the young count in the navy. Like the others, he had to pass the civil service examinations and go through the naval academy. He is now awaiting his turn for a commission.

He is the second son of Marquis Nabeshima of Yokohama, who was in the Japanese cabinet at the time when Japan had crept out of its shell and was feeling its way into the wide world. He has two sisters in London and an elder brother, who manages the family estates in Japan and Korea. He speaks English fluently. He received special courses by a tutor, besides his regular studies of the language at the naval academy.

"As soon as I can arrange for a leave of absence, said he, I intend to travel through the United States on my way to London. There is a great deal here a young Japanese officer can learn. I like the quick way of the Americans. They don't waste time. They don't delay. Every man in this country seems to know what he has to do and he does it quickly, without asking questions or getting orders. That, I think, is the most striking feature of the United States."

The count's hobby is photographing children, and on all his jaunts ashore he has carried his camera with him. He is 23 years of age, and will be commissioned at the end of the year.

COUNT TEIJO NABESHIMA

LUTHER BROWN DESCRIBED AS A LAW BREAKER

Chauffeurs Tell of Kidnaping of Fremont Older by Calhoun's "Gumshoe" Operators

Banjo Eyed Kid Active in Steering Witnesses for Prosecution to Accused's Lawyers

Luthern G. Brown was pictured before a jury in the superior court yesterday as continuously breaking the law, before, during and after the kidnaping of Fremont Older, editor of the Bulletin. As far as the prosecution is concerned the picture was completed yesterday afternoon. Assistant District Attorney William Hoff Cook announced that the people had put in their case. Bert Schiesinger, attorney for Brown, would not say what defense would be offered Monday in behalf of Patrick Calhoun's facile gumshoe man.

"The Banjo Eyed Kid," rarely called Harry Lorentzen, a deputy gumshoe, was brought most directly into the case yesterday by George A. Wyman, one of the chauffeurs who aided in the abduction of Older. Wyman swore that within the last fortnight Lorentzen took him to Earl Rogers, the Calhoun attorney, who wanted to know what testimony would be given against Brown.

ROUTE OF KIDNAPERS
Wyman's cross examination was taken up in the morning by Attorney Schiesinger after William A. Smith of the city engineer's office had identified a blueprint map of the city which showed the route taken by the Older kidnaping party.

Schiesinger jumped at Wyman with a demand to know what happened in Earl Rogers' room at the hotel. The witness said that Lorentzen took him there and Rogers asked him what he knew about the case. Wyman swore that he showed Rogers a copy of his notes and indicated his intention to stick by the true story. Then he testified that he told Rogers that he (Wyman) wanted to sell his auto and Rogers virtuously referred him to Attorney Oliver Dibble.

BROWN GAVE INSTRUCTIONS
The first thing that was learned by the jury from Constable B. J. Cohn of Los Angeles was that the Banjo Eyed Kid escorted him from the courtroom the preceding day. Then Cook went into the details of the case. Cohn told how he came up from Los Angeles with the warrant sworn to by Luther Brown's brother, Eddie Brown, who Brown met him and Cochrane at the train and took the warrants from them to be indorsed. He said that after the warrants were served Older asked for an opportunity to give ball and the witness promised to take him before Judge Cook. However, Brown had fixed it with the chauffeur that another program was to be followed.

Constable Cochrane told much the same story. He added that during the trip to Redwood City he had tried to get the car in which Brown was riding to stop, but it would not, although he called to it frequently.

PERJURY WAS SUGGESTED
Pete Callender, the chauffeur of Brown's machine, testified that Brown engaged him, gave him definite instructions not to stop during the ride and pointed out Older in Van Ness avenue. He also told how Brown tried to get him to perjure himself before the grand jury and how later he had been persuaded to leave the city for Chicago and that Brown paid him $10 a month while he was in Chicago for his "services" in staying out of San Francisco.

When the court opened in the morning the trial of Luther Brown on a charge of subornation of perjury, on account of his effort to change the testimony of the chauffeurs Wyman and Callender, was continued by Judge Mahon, who is hearing the case.

MENLO PARK SALOONS WILL FIGHT NEW LAW

To Keep Open After July 1 and Make Test Case

[Special Dispatch to The Call]
MENLO PARK, May 7.—Menlo Park's saloonmen have decided to fight the anti-liquor law passed by the last state legislature in favor of Stanford university to the bitter finish. Every saloon within the restricted area has agreed to keep open after the law goes into effect July 1, and of the arrests that are made one case will be selected for the purpose of a test by the lawyers for the saloonmen's association. James T. O'Keefe of Redwood City and James W. Cochrane of San Francisco have been retained by the liquor dealers to protect their interests. The defense is backing its ability to have the law declared unconstitutional by carrying the fight to the highest court.

FISHERMEN RESCUE YOUTHS FROM ROCK

Boat is Smashed in Raccoon Straits and Carried Away

SAUSALITO, May 7.—Their boat smashed and carried away in the swirling currents of Raccoon straits, E. M. Cline, Carl Burgerson and Ostin Laughlin, young men from Mill Valley, would have been washed from the Tiburon rock and lost in the bay this morning had not women living on Bellvedere point seen their predicament and signaled to fishermen in Richardson bay to go to the rescue. When the fishermen arrived the youths were almost exhausted. They were taken from the rock and brought to Sausalito. The youths started for a fishing cruise in the bay early in the morning. The tides were running swiftly through the straits, and they found themselves helpless against the current. They were working toward shore and running in the trough of the waves when they were captured. They managed to hang to the skiff until it struck Tiburon rock.

JURISDICTION THE QUESTION AT ISSUE

Colton Estate Securities Are the Bone of Contention in Contempt Proceedings

On contempt proceedings, the question of whether the superior court of San Francisco or the superior court of Santa Cruz county has jurisdiction over the $400,000 worth of cash and securities belonging to the Colton estate and deposited with the California Safe Deposit and Trust company, was threshed out before Judge Seawell yesterday and taken under advisement.

The administrators of the estate, Messrs. Dahlgren and Creswell, last January secured an order from Judge Lucas Smith of Santa Cruz county directing Receiver Le Breton of the insolvent bank to pay over the cash and securities to them. Upon Le Breton refusing to obey the order, they had him cited for contempt of court. Le Breton's reply to that move was an order citing Dahlgren and Creswell, as well as their attorneys, Charles W. Slack and J. F. Riley, to show cause before Judge Seawell why they should not be punished for contempt for proceeding against Le Breton in Santa Cruz county.

Attorney Magee, attorney for the receiver, argued yesterday that the administrators of the Colton estate should have litigated their claim to the property in San Francisco before Judge Seawell.

Attorney Slack in reply, set up the contention that the Colton securities and money were deposited with the California Safe Deposit and Trust company under the terms of the act of 1891, and that the property therefore remained under the control of Judge Smith of Santa Cruz county, in whose court the Colton estate was probated. He claimed that the superior court of San Francisco has no jurisdiction over the property.

NOT DRUGS Food Did It. After using laxative and cathartic medicines from childhood a case of chronic and apparently incurable constipation yielded to the scientific food, Grape-Nuts, in a few days.

"From early childhood I suffered with such terrible constipation that I had to use laxatives continuously, going from one drug to another and suffering more or less all the time. A prominent physician whom I consulted told me the muscles of the digestive organs were partially paralyzed and could not be restored to work without help of some kind, so I have tried at different times about every laxative and cathartic known, but found no help that was at all permanent. I had finally become discouraged and had given my case up as hopeless when I began to use the pre-digested food, Grape-Nuts. "Although I had not expected this food to help my trouble, to my great surprise Grape-Nuts digested immediately from the first and in a few days I was convinced that this was just what my system needed. "The bowels performed their functions regularly and I am now completely and permanently cured of this awful trouble. "Truly the power of scientific food cannot be unlimited." "There's a Reason." TWO LITTLE WAIFS FIND HAPPY HOMES

Baby Day at the Associated Charities Is Great Success in Every Way

Baby day at the Associated Charities yesterday was a great success. Nearly 100 babies who had either been "out to board" or adopted were brought for inspection to Miss Catherine Felton, the great foster mother of them all; Dr. Annie Lyle, their official physician, and Dr. Adelaide Brown, assistant inspector for love.

There was not a sick baby in the lot—not even a peevish one. And to see the happy, smiling, prosperous foster mothers, many of them in sheath gowns and other evidence of affluence, one could find little cause for wonder at this.

There were two infants adopted by well to do women who had found the exact style of infant they had been longing for after months of searching at "baby days."
