occasion, after a dinner at Kingston, Beehold said Mrs. Gould took hold of a chair to steady herself, and she had to take a long breath before she could go to her stateroom.

On cross examination the witness said he had made an affidavit for Mr. Gould's lawyers and had talked with them about testifying.

"Now, you never heard Mrs. Gould curse or swear on that trip, did you?" asked Shearn.

"Oh, yes, I did," said the witness.

One night at quarantine he said he heard her swearing. On another night, when he was in the kitchen, the witness said Mrs. Gould started to open the kitchen door, mistaking it, the witness thought, for her stateroom door, which was a short distance beyond.

"She blushed and turned about and walked unsteadily toward her stateroom, and I followed her, thinking she wanted something," said the witness.

Mrs. Gould frequently shook her head at the witness' answers, and he smiled sarcastically.

Broker Takes Stand
Melville E. Chapman, a broker, who had been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Gould on the yacht Niagara on several trips in 1905, testified that Mrs. Gould frequently drank under the influence of stimulants and very abusive in her language to the servants.

He said that during a cruise to the West Indies he remembered several occasions when Mrs. Gould had been drinking and became dissatisfied with everything and everybody and would become greatly excited and say that she intended to run the boat and that no one should take orders from any one but herself.

He described two such outbursts, one in Santiago harbor, and the other in Havana harbor.

"What did Mr. Gould do and say on these occasions?" asked Nicol.

"He invariably tried to soothe and calm her and pass the incident off pleasantly," replied the witness.

In endeavoring to get several letters in evidence which Shearn contended would impeach the credibility of Melville E. Chapman, who had testified in the case, and which Justice Dowling would not allow admitted, a tilt occurred between opposing counsel which called forth a severe rebuke of Nicol.

"This is only a case of blackmailing tactics practiced from start to finish in this suit," shouted Nicol at Shearn, as he was presenting the admission of the letters.

He was at once sternly reprimanded by Justice Dowling and apologized, saying he meant no reflection on Shearn personally, but he believed it had been the attitude of others on the opposite side to extort money from his client.

Is Read Into Record
Counsel for Gould read into the record the deposition of a bellboy, James Clark, employed in the Hotel Carroll in Lynchburg, Va., where Dustin Farnum, the actor, was stopping in November, 1906, when Mrs. Gould arrived and stayed two or three days at the hotel on her way to Blue Gap farm, according to the deposition.

The bellboy said he saw Mrs. Gould sitting in the reception room waiting for Farnum on November 13, and after Farnum came they went to Mrs. Gould's rooms. On one of two occasions that the witness called to Mrs. Gould's rooms, the bellboy said, and each time saw Mrs. Gould and Farnum alone in the room, which was really a bedroom with a bed in it, but which Mrs. Gould used as a reception room, according to the witness.

Serves Meals for Two
Watson read the deposition of a waiter at the Carroll hotel, who told of serving supper for Mrs. Gould and Farnum in her room at the hotel on November 13, 1906.

The witness testified that Mrs. Gould instructed him to set the table with a chair at the end and the other chair on the side near the first chair. He said he left Farnum and Mrs. Gould in the room after he had cleared away the dishes.

The following morning the witness was called to Mrs. Gould's rooms and she ordered breakfast for two. She stood in the doorway and read the bill of fare which she could see, but a small part of the room. He noticed that a door leading into another room of her suite was closed. He served supper for them in her rooms during that night.

SACRAMENTO, June 17.—George B. Bittus, a wealthy butcher of this city, committed suicide early this morning by shooting himself in the temple.

Southern Pacific Main
Line Blocked by Wreck

Traffic Tied Up Near Redding by Freight Crash

SANTA FE SEEKS
RICH TERRITORY

Rumor of Traffic Agreement
With Sacramento Valley
Electric Railway Systems

[Special Dispatch to The Call]
SACRAMENTO, June 17.—A report is in circulation here today that when the new California traction company completes its line between this city and Stockton, an agreement will be entered into between it, the Santa Fe railroad and the Northern Electric whereby through freight and passenger rates may be made from all towns reached by the Northern Electric in the valley to towns along the line of the Santa Fe.

For years the Santa Fe has been desirous of reaching the towns of the northern part of California, but this territory has been held by the Southern Pacific and it would have meant the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars to build a line and then compete for the business. An arrangement with the new electric lines would accomplish the end desired.

When asked about the report, George W. Pettit, president of the California traction company, denied that any such agreement had been entered into between his line and the Santa Fe. He refused to discuss the probability of the future, when the new line is completed, but declared that as yet no overtures of any sort had been made looking to an agreement such as hinted in the reports published.

MANY WOMEN FLOCK TO THE TRIAL OF MURDERER

Defendant Makes Poor Showing
on Cross Examination

[Special Dispatch to The Call]
SACRAMENTO, June 17.—After setting all the women and several of the jury members of the trial of the first awful details of the manner in which he murdered his bride of six months, Floyd V. Carter, on cross examination today, got tangled up and took refuge behind a poor memory when asked pointed questions.

He explained that he bought the pistol used in the killing for the purpose of inducing the woman to give up another she had, but could not explain why he purchased a $15 gun and a box of cartridges.

The name of the girl, Carter claims he was engaged to wed in Los Angeles when Verna Phipps stole his affection, was given for the first time today. Her name is Ethel Stone, and Carter says she was employed as a telephone operator.

It is believed the Carter trial will consume the rest of the week. Two juries in the courtroom have been reserved for women spectators and are always full.

MINERAL WATER WELL
FREE IN SACRAMENTO

Mayor Plans to Pipe Spring to Heart of City

[Special Dispatch to The Call]
SACRAMENTO, June 17.—Sacramento may soon have a drinking fountain at which mineral water will be served to all just the same as regular river water and in as large quantities as desired.

Several months ago a local company in drilling for gas at Fourth and Q streets struck a mineral spring, and since that time the water has been flowing in a steady stream from the well. It has been used freely by the people in the neighborhood, and a short time ago the well was donated to the city.

Plans are now being made by Mayor White to have the water piped from the well to a fountain at Seventh and K streets in the heart of the city, where it may be used by thousands daily instead of hundreds at present. The flow of the well is strong enough to carry the water to the proposed new fountain with the use of a pump.

RESIDENTS OF VALLEJO
DENIED ELECTRIC LIGHTS

City Attorney Holds Company
May Refuse to Extend

[Special Dispatch to The Call]
VALLEJO, June 17.—K. Casper, owner of the local electric lighting and power system, has just won a victory over the people of the northern section of the city.

Casper's franchise has a short time more to run and he refused to extend his power lines to furnish a sparsely settled section with lights, despite a strong agitation by the North End improvement club.

The would-be consumers petitioned the city trustees for relief, but City Attorney Powers rendered an opinion that, according to its franchise, the power company may refuse to furnish the light.

TO SAVE HERSELF
WOMAN SHOTS MAN

Wife of Rancher Fires Full Charge of Shotgun Into Assailant's Face

[Special Dispatch to The Call]
SACRAMENTO, June 17.—To save herself from an attack at the hands of J. Orvina, an Italian laborer employed at her ranch near Galt, Mrs. L. Langue last night fired the full charge of a shotgun point blank at the intruder as he was breaking down the door to squeeze through into the house.

One side of Orvina's face was blown away by the charge of shot, leaving the tongue exposed. The wound, however, will not prove fatal.

Mrs. Langue was in her house waiting for the return of her husband when Orvina made his appearance. He first tried to get in the windows and smashed the glass. He later turned his attention to the front door and started to batter it down.

The woman warned him to stay away, but when Orvina succeeded in thrusting the door partially open and started to squeeze through the gap, the woman did not hesitate about firing.

The case was so clearly one of self-defense that no steps to prosecute Mrs. Langue will be taken.

PROMOTER McINTYRE IS JAILED IN CHICAGO

Arrested in East for Alleged Crimes in Sacramento

[Special Dispatch to The Call]
SACRAMENTO, June 17.—M. M. McIntyre, former newspaperman and a promoter of mysterious bonanzas, has finally been apprehended in Chicago by the officers of that city on two charges brought against him in Sacramento, one for obtaining money under false pretenses and the other for the publication of false accounts of a mine in order to sell stock.

News of McIntyre's capture was received this afternoon by District Attorney Wachor and County Detective Lamphrey who left at once for the east to bring the prisoner here.

McIntyre made his appearance in this section as a newspaperman claiming to have worked on the San Francisco papers. Having little success in that line here he took to selling stock for a mine in northern California and for a brick company.

R. M. Beebe, one of the officials of the Sylvester mining company, is one of the two who swore out a complaint for McIntyre's arrest.

Chance Discovery

[Special Dispatch to The Call]
PRINCETON, June 17.—While pumping sand from the well being drilled for the John Boggs memorial fountain yesterday George R. Hemstreet found a nugget worth about $15.

The pump is operating at a depth of 106 feet and it is proposed to wash the sand and ascertain if there is gold in it. If it proves of value, the well will be abandoned and a mine shaft sunk.

This is not the first nugget taken from deep wells here. The people here are much excited by the find.

GRASS VALLEY, June 17.—Another rich strike in the Alleghany district has been reported here. It is stated that a thousand pounds of ore was taken out of one of the mines yesterday, and is estimated to contain $50,000 in gold.

The find was made in starting an appraisal for an air chute, and it is believed the pay streak runs to the surface.

SAYS SOCIAL PACE
SAPS RACE VITALITY

Housewife Is More a Victim of Conditions Than Smart Set
Leader, Is Claim

Easterner Makes Remarkable
Statement About Women of Today and of the Past

Novel theories about modern social conditions and the cause for them were advanced yesterday by the Cooper "stomach man" who is making his headquarters at the Owl drug store in the Phelan building. Cooper is the young man who has aroused such a storm of comment in the bay cities by his extraordinary ideas about disease and its causes. He claims that 90 per cent of all ill health is caused by stomach trouble and nothing else and has undoubtedly converted thousands of people to his beliefs during the time that he has been here. Cooper said yesterday:

"Modern social life is a tremendous tax on the vitality of the nation. The woman of that splendid physique of our pioneer days who was the mother of the west is fast disappearing from our recollection. The woman of today is an anemic, sickly, always tired and exhausted type. She lacks in life, nerve and healthy ambition. The reason for all this is very simple. The call of social duty has imposed on the woman of today responsibilities that take too much of her time and sap her vitality. Now it is a very common thing to point to the 'helpless woman' as a dreadful example of what our modern times have led us into, but this is not what I mean at all.

"I claim that the woman of moderate means—the wife of the businessman, artisan, clerk or working man—has just as many social responsibilities of the kind that tell on her health as the pampered woman of fashion. The fact that she has housework and other domestic duties to perform tends to make her life the harder.

"Women come to me every day who are suffering from all kinds of diseases, they think, but in reality they don't know what is the matter. They have headaches, scores of them have nervous prostration; they suffer from gas on the stomach, foul breath, constipation, kidney and liver trouble, anemia and hundreds of other complaints. In nearly every case their stomachs are impoverished as a result of their mode of life. They eat too much, too irregularly and do not take healthful outdoor exercise for nature demands. The digestive organs are stuffed up, clogged and can't work. The food lays heavy on the stomach, sours, and—it's harsh to say, but it's true—it literally rots. Gases form and poisons are pumped into their blood. All kinds of diseases, of course, are bound to follow.

"My medicine is nothing but a stomach remedy, but it will tone up the digestive organs, cause proper assimilation of food and in nine cases out of ten restore a run down, half sick, anemic person to the full bloom of health in four to eight weeks. I am ready to meet the people of this city face to face and prove my theories to them."

One of the most convincing of the many statements that have been made in Cooper's belief by San Francisco people was given yesterday by M. J. Homburg, who is a pilot on the steamer T. C. Walker, well known in San Francisco bay. Mr. Homburg said:

"I have been a sufferer from stomach trouble for the last three years. I had catarrh of the stomach and all the terrible troubles that result from that dread disease. I had gas on the stomach, belching, diarrhoea, headaches and dizziness. Life was a burden to me. I tried everything without result until taking Cooper's New Discovery treatment, and now I am a well man."

CONTRACTS FOR BETTER
MAIL SERVICE TO NOME

Alaska and Pacific Coast Steamship
Companies Compete

SEATTLE, June 17.—Contracts were awarded yesterday whereby the Alaska steamship and Pacific Coast steamship companies will carry the mails from Seattle to Nome and St. Michael during the season of the year trip. The St. Michael-Hamilton steamship company still holds a contract which calls for payment of 8 cents per pound.

The new contract contemplates an improved service and a sailing every third day. As such a schedule can not be maintained on this route each steamer leaving will take the mail, unless two depart within three days, in which event the first gets the contract.

The Alaska steamship company had the contract last year, but it was based on payment by the post.

WOUNDED MEN RECOVERING—Portland, June 17.—Bernard H. Trumbull and John S. McLaughlin, employees of the Illinois central railroad who were shot yesterday at Shauko by a drunken negro porter and who were brought to this city for medical treatment, are doing nicely. Trumbull will be up and about in a week. McLaughlin will be slow on account of the nature of his injuries.
