"PUSH" REPUBLICANS AND MCCARTHY

Republicans who have any acquaintance with practical politics, know that the party defections are not all from the side of the republican party. They know, as every one knows, that some prominent independent republicans are working for Leland, and that most of them are so working with the conviction that he is either a stronger or a better candidate than William Crocker. They know, as the democratic managers know, what no honest man attempts to concede, that the "push" republicans, acting under orders from McCarthy, are working for him, and that the democratic managers attempt to conceal, that the democratic "push" is, in substantially an equal number, working for McCarthy. They know that men who have always stood close to the McNab machine and who made the fight for Fickert's democratic nomination for district attorney are fighting now for the election of P. H. McCarthy. They know that Nic Beban, machine republican assemblyman, is working for Tom Finn for sheriff on one side of the town; that John P. Hare, democratic state senator, is doing equally effective work for McCarthy on the other side of town among his democratic constituents. They know that while Walter McCauley, deputized head of the republican "push" in the twenty-eighth district, is marshaling his rifraff for McCarthy, John Geley, democratic leader in the same district, is endeavoring to deliver both the democratic rifraff and respectables of the district to McCarthy. They know more. They know that the democratic members of the last state assembly belonged to McCarthy and took their orders from him in the legislature, as they belong to him and take their orders from him now.

"PUSH" HOPES FOR DIVIDED VOTE

They believe, and none can question the honesty of the opinions nor the sincerity of their purposes, that a division of the independent republican vote between Crocker and Leland must inevitably result in the election of P. H. McCarthy supported as he is by both the democratic and republican "push" tenderloin and Barbary coast vote.

These independent republicans, in common with the thousands of earnest republicans who have worked and voted for good government through a clean republican party, fear a government by and for dive keepers. They are apprehensive of the kind of government sought by Dave Becker and Charlie Mitchell, dive keepers; Jimmy LeStrange, Jerry Dinan's go between; Louis Parent, lodging house keeper, whose number accompanies his photograph in the police bureau of identification; Jerome Bassity, promoter of the P. H. McCarthy liberty league and consorted with Commercial street brothels.

They, like thousands of other decent republicans, have studied the situation carefully and with no thought of partisan or personal advantage. They are capable men and honest. They are not unfamiliar with the politics of San Francisco. They believe that the city's safety depends upon a united stand of the decent republicans and citizens who love San Francisco, behind William Crocker.

ANONYMOUS ATTACK BASED ON BROWN CASE

Depositors of Defunct Bank Are Asked to Oppose Heney

An appeal for the election of Charles M. Fickert as district attorney, based on an attack upon the present administration of the district attorney's office and Francis J. Heney in particular, has been mailed in circular form to every former depositor of the California safe deposit and trust company. The circular cites the case of J. Dalzell Brown, former general manager of the defunct bank, as an example of "equality before the law as practiced under the present administration." The essence of the charge is similar to that made by Fickert from the platform, that the district attorney's office conspired to give Brown the lightest possible sentence because he secured Hiram W. Johnson as his attorney, and that after being sentenced to San Quentin Brown was allowed to spend most of his time outside the prison walls. The circular is signed "One of the Deluded Depositors."

BULLETS FLY BETWEEN OFFICIALS OF CUBA

Duel Without Injury or Bloodshed Satisfies Honor. HAVANA, Oct. 27.—The dispute between Secretary of State Justo Garcia Velez and Secretary of Sanitation Matias Duque, whose resignations from the cabinet were accepted by President Gomez late last night, culminated today in a duel with pistols. The men exchanged four shots, but neither was injured. The action of the president in suddenly accepting the resignations is believed to have resulted from the decision of the court of honor, to which the matter was referred, that a duel was necessary for the vindication of the honor of both, in consequence of insults passed during the discussion of matters connected with Secretary Duque's department. Senior Velez, it was said, either would be reinstated or appointed minister to Berlin.

SHERIFFS SEARCHING FOR MISSING STUDENT

Chester Kirkpatrick Disappears From Redwood City

[Special Dispatch to The Call] REDWOOD CITY, Oct. 27.—Chester Kirkpatrick, a first year student in the Sequoia Union high school of this city, disappeared from his lodgings Monday and has not been heard of since. His parents, who live in La Honda, are very much exercised over his absence, and Sheriff Chatham of San Mateo county and Sheriff Langford of Santa Clara county have their men watching for him. The missing boy and his older brother have been occupying rooms in Webster street while attending the local school. Last Saturday the two boys went to San Francisco to witness the parade, but returned to Redwood Sunday. The younger of the two youths was seen about town that day, but Monday he failed to appear. The young man is reported to have been seen in Palo Alto Monday, but no further word has been received as to his whereabouts. His mother came over from La Honda yesterday and has joined in the search. She declares that her boy must have met with foul play, as he would never run away.

Oppose the Adoption of New Liquor Ordinance

The organizations named below have, by resolution, opposed the adoption of the proposed liquor ordinance, which will appear on the ballot November 2, and endorsed the following protest against it: Vote Against the Liquor Ordinance Election Tuesday, November 2

- BECAUSE— 1—This ordinance is prepared and presented by the saloon keepers. 2—Every member of our splendid police commission is opposed to it. 3—If adopted the supervisors could never: (a) Raise the liquor license above $500 per year. (b) Nor prevent the saloons from running perpetually 24 hours per day. (c) Nor remove a saloon located within 150 feet of where a school, church or fire engine house was afterward built; nor increase the distance from such buildings within which a saloon could not be located. 4—It takes from the supervisors all power to amend this ordinance. 5—It takes from the supervisors all power to regulate the liquor traffic. This is revolutionary. 6—It takes from the police commission, contrary to the city charter, the discretionary power to refuse to grant a permit for a liquor license. 7—It compels the police commission to grant a permit to any applicant not convicted of a felony, if he presents a petition signed by the owners of a majority of the property fronting on the same side of the block where the saloon is desired. 8—It takes from the police commission the power to revoke a license, except on verified, written charges and a trial, at which it must be proven that the offender both conducts a disorderly house and has violated some city or state liquor law. 9—No protest of citizens, even though they lived across the street from the proposed saloon, could prevent it being opened if this ordinance is adopted. 10—This proposed ordinance repeals the present law requiring all applicants for a saloon license to post on the building notice of their intention. 11—It also repeals the present law, which requires the license to expire concurrently with the permit, and would allow a saloon condemned by the police commission to run three months after the permit to run had been revoked. 12—It repeals all existing liquor ordinances; and this ordinance could never be amended, except by a vote of the people at a regular election. THIS IS VICIOUS. 13—Will you vote for an ordinance that prevents the board of supervisors and police commission from regulating the liquor business in San Francisco, and permit the saloon keepers themselves to regulate it as they will? 14—Although you favor fixing the license at $500, which is the amount charged by the present law, vote against this ordinance, because it contains many other provisions which are evil and are contrary to the charter. Vote AGAINST the ordinance with an (X) THE SAN FRANCISCO REAL ESTATE BOARD. THE DOWNTOWN ASSOCIATION. THE SAN FRANCISCO CHURCH FEDERATION. THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE. THE CALIFORNIA CLUB. THE SOCIAL SERVICE COMMISSION OF THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

HENEY EXCORIATES DE YOUNG METHODS

Says Publisher Sent to New York Money Owed Local Contractors

The direct charge that M. H. de Young had sent $50,000 to New York as a part payment on real estate purchased there while owing many men Francisco contractors for work done in this city was employed by Francis J. Heney yesterday in an address at the builders' exchange to demonstrate to the members of the exchange the character of De Young's interest in San Francisco and her industries. TWO ROUSING MEETINGS Francis J. Heney held two rousing meetings yesterday noon. At the Third street bridge he addressed nearly 500 persons. Later he had a large audience at the builders' exchange in Jessie street.

The graft prosecutor branded as lies the stories his opponent, Charles M. Fickert, had been repeating to the effect that Heney had secured a light sentence for J. Dalzell Brown, and that William D. Wasson and Hiram W. Johnson had gone to Fickert with a proposition to support him for mayor provided he would appoint Heney his assistant with full power to run the office.

Heney told his hearers that Fickert, while in Stanford university, had signed the roll enlisting in the California volunteers at the time of the Spanish-American war, but that when a couple of days later the enlisting officer went around to administer the oath Fickert refused to be sworn in because he was a candidate for the office of treasurer in a society which carried a salary of $50 per month. Fickert was not elected, and he tried then to organize a company of rough riders, said Heney, of which he was to be the captain. In the meantime the election of treasurer was declared void and the second election Fickert was chosen treasurer. Heney said that after that nothing was heard of Fickert's rough riders.

WITH THE BUILDERS At the builders' exchange Heney explained why it had been necessary to extend immunity to some of the grafters. He also grilled M. H. de Young there while owing many contractors for work on his building in this city. In response to a question from one of the audience Heney explained at length what made criminals. His answer was that the public service corporations were largely responsible.

COLMA PLANS BOND ISSUE FOR SCHOOLS

It is stated upon good authority that if the bond election is successful two school sites will be purchased and buildings erected thereon. One school will be erected at Vista Grande and the other in the Crocker tract.

MUST ANSWER FOR SHOT PRO IN AMBUSH

Halfbreed Who Won in Fierce Game of Blood Caught by the Government

Arrest Recalls Desperate Feud Fought to a Finish in the Humboldt Wilds

James Donnelly, a half breed Indian of the Hoopa valley reservation in Humboldt county, has been arrested by the United States authorities and is confined in the Alameda county jail to answer to the charge of murdering Chickasaw, an Indian, more than six years ago. The murder was the climax of a feud, far reaching and as fierce as any that Kentucky or Tennessee ever knew.

Murder was followed by murder until at length all those who had ranged themselves as partisans of one side or the other were killed except only the Indian, Chickasaw, and his never sleeping enemy, the halfbreed, Donnelly, who, combining with his native cunning the cunning of the white man, nursed the blood feud and kept alive the flame of hate.

LIFE AGAINST LIFE For years the hills and remote, almost unexplored valleys that hide away among the mountains of Humboldt county formed a hunting ground where Indian against halfbreed played the game of life and death—a game that meant finally for one of them. The game was played alone, the other Indian, Chickasaw, and his never sleeping enemy, the halfbreed, Donnelly, meant but to furnish fresh fuel to the fury of the feud. And halfbreed skill and cunning, the loss of woods from Indian ancestry and the cold calculation of the Anglo-Saxon mind, determined who should win the game.

From a far mountain side, where sheltering trees made a close ambush, a rifle bullet sped one day, and then an Indian lay below the pitying skies, the Indian, Chickasaw, striking his last fall of the game, wide evidence that the blood feud had been wiped away with blood.

For years the murderer kept in hiding, but finally his caution lost its edge and he returned to the Hoopa valley reservation, where the Indians sheltered him, through fear, perhaps—perhaps not caring to fan the feud again into an active flame. But in the end the law of blood for blood called for accounting and demanded life for life.

MANY SUBSEQUENT MURDERS The federal officers whose duty demands that they keep peace on Indian reservations were called to Humboldt county by what seemed almost an epidemic of crime. Near Porter, a saloon keeper on the reservation, had been murdered in cold blood and shortly following Bert Porter, a white man, and Joe Viera, a Portuguese, had yielded up their lives to the gallows. This was in December of last year.

Slowly but surely the government cast and drew its net and when the meshes filtered all the suspects the murderer of the long slow passing years came to call for blood atonement. A mere hint here, a mere breath there, and threads gathered into a rope that bound the halfbreed to the corpse that lay before the California gallows. Slowly but immutably the law built up its case and now, before the halfbreed whose stealth and cunning carried him through all the dangers of his long and desperate hiding, he was led through the stern and unforgetting justice of the white man's law.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE CHEERED BY WOMEN

Leland Addresses League Meeting at Lyric Hall

Dr. T. B. W. Leland, democratic candidate for mayor, discussed yesterday the principles of good government before a large meeting of women held under the auspices of the Women's Leland-Heney nonpartisan league in Lyric hall at 3 o'clock. An audience of more than 350, which included a fair sprinkling of male listeners, gave close attention to his extemporaneous address and accorded him an enthusiastic and evidently very sincere reception.

"In this campaign, I realize that I have personally but a very small part to play," said Doctor Leland. "You are not here to endorse me as an individual or Mr. Heney as an individual, but to extend your sympathy and assistance to a principle for which you all stand, and which we have been chosen to represent. It is for decent municipal government, honest dealing and equality for all men that we stand. We are for protection for our homes and our children as well as for our city, and I feel that you feel that if I am elected the city will be better managed and the great responsibility rests upon the man who aspires to be mayor of San Francisco at this time, but I pledge you that if I am elected to that office, you will never have cause to regret the choice."

Mrs. Emil Pohl, chairman of the meeting and Mrs. Elizabeth Gerberding and Mrs. Lillian Harris Coffin were among the speakers. Others who addressed the gathering were Max J. Kuhl, James D. Phelan and John W. Sweeney.

IMMUNITY PLAN OPPOSED BY LOEB

James Donnelly, Indian Murderer

Collector of Port of New York Issues Official Statement Defending Position

Men Who Confessed and Testified in Weight Fraud Cases Retained in Service

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—It takes a grafter to catch a grafter in the United States customs service, says William Loeb, Jr., collector of the port of New York, in an official statement issued tonight. Notwithstanding Federal Judge Holt's opinion, the four weighers who confessed and testified in the trial of the Musicas, cheese importers, which was concluded today, will hold their jobs.

Judge Holt before disposing of the case today, which resulted in the father's acquittal and the son's incarceration in the Tombs for sentence, denounced the retention of the four weighers as a discredit to the government and an injustice to the honest men of the service.

Mr. Loeb quickly said in reply: "The views of such a distinguished judge are entitled to the highest respect, and it is not my purpose to make the subject one of controversy, but it seems to me Judge Holt can hardly have understood the situation. It was deemed imperative to get the truth from somebody on the inside who knew; to get in an entering wedge and break down this system. It was then decided to secure the testimony of several weighers by promising them immunity and retention in the service. "It was not a question of choice between having all honest men in the government service and keeping four men admittedly dishonest in the service, but the choice was between keeping four dishonest men in the service where they could be easily watched or allowing a great many dishonest men to remain in the service and have them and all the corrupt merchants who had bribed them escape punishment at the hands of the criminal law. The administration decided on the former course, and its decision was based upon the highest motives. "It is deemed only just to the administration that the public should have this statement when it reads Judge Holt's opinion."

IMPERSONATES GARMAN—A man about 25 years of age, stockily built, called at the residence of Mrs. A. F. Rooker, 817 Ashbury street, Tuesday, representing himself as a gas inspector. Mrs. Rooker refused to allow him to enter the bedrooms, but allowed him to go into the bathroom and had him discovered that he had stolen the gas fixtures.

CHANEY JAILED FOR FRAUD—George B. Chaney, wanted here for fraud since 1905 and recently arrested in Philadelphia, arrived here yesterday. He was held on $5,000 bonds and taken to the Alameda county jail. Chaney organized the Standard oil investment company of San Francisco, and is charged with swindling the public out of some $15,000.

FICKERT AUDIENCE BOOS QUESTIONER

Candidate Declares He Has Been Hounded by Gumshoe-men

Boos, hisses, cries of "Put him out" and "gumshoe man" made a pandemonium in the Novelty theater last night when R. E. Baines, a Mission merchant, tried to put a question to Charles M. Fickert. The question in the end remained unasked, for Fickert was not allowed to proceed until Baines subsided and took his seat. Then after three cheers for the candidate had been proposed by a booster and given, and Baines, in final defiance, had shouted, "This is what I call a fine, fair minded audience," Fickert paid his compliment to the gumshoes.

"These fellows have been following me at the city's expense since the first of June," he declared. "I say Heney and now my opponents will tell you that Mr. Heney has sacrificed his wealth to prosecute graft."

"So he has," yelled an unknown in the rear of the hall. Then there were more boos and cries of "gumshoe." But Fickert continued to a close without further interruption.

Fickert began his campaigning for the night in his home district, the fortieth, at Folk and Vallejo streets, Fickert said.

"My opponent, by reason of his long association with Chinese servants, is resorting to a Chinese method of warfare, namely, with stinkpots. The reason Heney is so bitter against me is because he is in the position of Ruff in the matter of receiving bribes, as was shown in court when Rudolph Spreckels admitted paying him $25,000 for office expenses, I say Heney and those with him are desperate. I have been hounded by gumshoe men employed by the city, some coming from Ohio and some from San Quentin, doing the dirtiest kind of politics."

The meeting in Brewery workers' hall in Capping street was marked by another interruption similar to that in the Novelty, where again the questioner was met with boos. Fickert had an opportunity to answer this query, which he referred to Hiram Johnson's statement that Fickert lied when he said Johnson had asked him to endorse Heney. Fickert's answer was that Johnson had not spoken to him, but to Attorney James Brannan, then on the platform.

Fickert spoke also in new Washington and Garibaldi halls.
