Aged Student Who Dropped Dead in Berkeley Classroom Left Valuable Estate

OAKLAND, Feb. 9.—A purported will of the late John B. Gregory, the aged British barrister who dropped dead in a classroom at the University of California, was filed today by Attorney Abe P. Leach, representing Public Administrator Mehrmann. The will was found in Gregory's effects, but inasmuch as it was undated and incomplete it is not certain whether it can be admitted to probate.

Gregory was a prominent lawyer in Australia. Domestic trouble led to his leaving his home and taking up the life of a wanderer. For many years he traveled from one seat of learning to another, studying philosophy. At one time he effected a reconciliation with his wife and she was to join him in this country, but the vessel that was to bring her brought instead a letter announcing her death. After that Gregory became a recluse. At the time of his death he was attending classes at the University of California.

After his death it was learned that he had left a large estate. He had about $4,000 in cash in this country and much valuable realty in Australia. The will was drawn up in Sacramento in 1902 by Gregory himself. He left blank spaces for the exact date and for the signing of witnesses, and never had them filled in.

The document directed that his daughter, Edith Louisa, is to get an annuity of 50 pounds. A number of unpublished copyrighted manuscripts dealing with metaphysical subjects are left to his friend, Robert Craig of Melbourne, with directions to publish such as seem of merit. The sum of 300 pounds is also left to Craig to pay for the publication of these manuscripts. The remainder of the estate is left in trust for the benefit of his two sons, Charles Clapham Gregory and St. John M. Gregory.

GRAND JURY WANTS FOR GRAFT CHANGE

San Mateo Inquisitors Delay Final Report to Hear Further Story of Corruption

[Special Dispatch to The Call] REDWOOD CITY, Feb. 9.—The expectation that the San Mateo county grand jury would complete its investigations and make its final report to Superior Judge George H. Buck tomorrow is not to be fulfilled. Application was made to the grand jury today by Adolph Jacobs of South San Francisco for permission to appear before the grand jury and address them upon the subject of graft in the northern end of the county.

Yielding to the desire of the grand jurors to hear what Jacobs has to say, Judge Buck has granted them further time for deliberation, and their report has been postponed. Jacobs will appear before them tomorrow.

The final report of the jury will give the board of supervisors a severe grilling for refusing to revoke the license of Maud E. Earl on evidence submitted by Foreman George A. Kertell.

The inquisitors' report will deal with the general gambling situation in the north end of San Mateo county. Constable Robert Carroll, who was grilled by the jury for alleged protection given to the gang of confidence men, will not be formally charged, although members of the jury have said that they believe him incompetent.

The accusation of malfeasance made by the jury against Justice of the Peace W. G. Loveland of San Mateo was filed in the county clerk's office this afternoon. The accused official was cited to appear before the superior court at 10 o'clock Thursday, February 24, to answer the accusation.

Three separate indictments on charges filed with preparing and filing a purported criminal complaint of Calogera Sirausa against W. D. Lindsay. The Northern Pacific is alleged to have caused the complaint to be filed. The accusation alleges that Sirausa never made the complaint.

Other specifications charge the justice with giving judgment to W. H. Chesbro in suits against C. L. Welton and other persons for amounts due the Early-Bekley grocery firm. They allege that Loveland and Chesbro, a collector, had a combine, in which the judge gave judgment and the collector received the proceeds from the defendants in the actions.

Governor Haskell's Secretary Is Examined

[SITHUPE, Okla., Feb. 9.—The legislative committee appointed to examine the charges against Governor Haskell and other state officials of spending public funds irregularly heard the testimony of two witnesses in the opening session today. One of them was O. T. Smith, private secretary to the Governor.

Governor Haskell is defending himself. Smith was questioned by the commission about work he did for Governor Haskell in taking depositions in a suit against William R. Hearst when in Ohio on state business in 1909.

Governor Haskell asked Smith if he did not recall that Governor Haskell, attorney in Lima, O., had rendered valuable assistance to the state when in the governor's employ and that he had paid Smith a private check, remarking to Smith that Haskell's services to the state would offset any of Smith's time lost to the state.

DECIDES CUSTODY OF VISITING TEACHERS

Donahue Settles Disposition of Money Collected in Oakland's Annexed Sections

OAKLAND, Feb. 9.—A tangle that resulted from the recent annexation to Oakland of many suburban districts was straightened out today by an opinion rendered by District Attorney Donahue as to the disposition of funds collected in those districts. The opinion was prepared by Deputy District Attorney Leon Clark.

Previous to annexation these funds were deposited with the county treasurer, who kept them pending legal determination of where they should go. City Treasurer Meese made a demand on them to hasten the matter to decision.

The opinion affects the following districts, where special taxes were levied: Fruitvale fire district, Melrose fire district, Library district, Fruitvale lighting district, Homestead lighting district, Pioneer lighting district, Fremont lighting district, Fruitvale sanitary district No. 1, Fruitvale sanitary district No. 2, Melrose sanitary district No. 1, Melrose sanitary district No. 2, Fitchburg sanitary district, Seminary park sanitary district, Elmhurst sanitary district, Redwood sanitary district, Fruitvale sanitary district, Upper Fruitvale sanitary district, Golden Gate sanitary district, Adeline sanitary district, Brooklyn road district, Claremont road district, Piedmont road district.

The law applicable to the various districts enumerated varies, according to the district attorney's opinion, and different courses must be pursued. In the case of the Fruitvale and Melrose fire districts, the opinion was given that the money should be held by the county treasurer until the residents of the districts shall have petitioned for the dissolution of the districts and the board of supervisors shall have acted favorably on the petition. At that time it will be the duty of the county treasurer to turn over the money to the city treasurer.

In the case of the Fruitvale, Berkeley, Claremont and Piedmont road districts, the supervisors will have to determine what part of the taxes collected were for those parts of the districts which were annexed to the city and what part had been done. It will be the duty of the county treasurer to turn over the amount determined to the city.

In the case of the lighting, lighting and sanitary districts are to be held by the county treasurer until the determination of suits now pending, which affect the validity of bond issues in those districts.

LAND WITHDRAWAL BLOW TO NEW LINE

Ballinger's Action Kills Plan for Electric Road to Pen-dleton

[Special Dispatch to The Call] WALLA WALLA, Wash., Feb. 9.—By the withdrawal of lands along the Walla Walla river by Secretary of the Interior Ballinger, the Washington-Oregon company, which proposes to erect an electric line from here to Pendleton in the county, is killed.

Why the Washington-Oregon company should be singled out for attack is difficult to surmise. It is but a short line, to be built through a country that would be actively served by it. The directors of the company intimate that there is "something" behind the movement.

"Something" behind, as figured out by local men interested in the situation, is something like this: The Northern Pacific has physical connections with the Walla Walla valley traction company, which is a local branch of the Northwestern corporation. It is known that there has been a deal for sale of the holding of the corporation here in the county.

It is thought that the Northern Pacific is the interested party in the sale. The Northern Pacific, it is said, is close to the secretary of the interior, and he has been passing influence. The Northern Pacific, it is said, has instigated an action to force its rival company from the field.

Prof. W. B. Rising, Of State University, Called by Death

NOTED EDUCATOR FOUND DEAD IN BED

Prof. W. B. Rising, Identified With University for 43 Years, Dies

BERKELEY, Feb. 9.—Prof. Willard Bradley Rising, oldest in point of service of the members of the faculty of the university, expert in chemistry and collector of works of art, was found dead at 6 o'clock this morning in bed at his home at 2293 Chapel street.

Professor Rising was 70 years of age. For many years he was head of the department of chemistry at the university. For several years he had been ill, a recent attack of grip hastening the end.

Mrs. Sarah Frances Lawrence Rising, his widow, is dangerously ill at her home with an attack of pneumonia and has not as yet been informed of her husband's demise. Her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Lawrence Rising Menicanti, wife of an Italian noble, and a trained nurse are at her bedside.

Professor Rising, who was born in New York in 1839, joined the faculty of the university soon after he received his degree of master of engineering from Michigan in 1867. He had previously graduated from Hamilton college with the class of 1864 and was a classmate of former Secretary Elihu Root in connection with the faculty of the university antedates the institution, as he was first an instructor in California college of Oakland and from which the university grew.

STUDIED IN GERMANY Following his appointment as instructor in natural sciences he went to Germany and received a degree of doctor of philosophy from Heidelberg. Returning he was made head of the department of mining and metallurgy of the institution.

He was a member of the jury of award of the Paris Exposition of 1889, and of the Paris Exposition of 1893 and at the Paris exposition of 1889. He held membership in the Berlin chemical society, the American society with the same purpose, the Paris chemical society, the Society of Chemical Industry of London and the Washington Academy of Sciences and many others.

He was a member of the Psi Upsilon fraternity at Hamilton college, the Sigma Xi scientific society and the Phi Beta Kappa scholarship organization of American colleges.

His collection of works of art was probably the best in the city. Professor Rising made several trips to Europe and brought back on each occasion statuary, bronzes and other antiques and works of art.

The university chemist was one of the old school of professors of the university who are gradually passing out of the faculty ranks. These men, one of whom was Prof. Irving Stringham, who died October 5 of last year, were makers of the university and upholders of its high standards.

Professor Joseph and John J. Conte, whose memories are still revered by the faculty, were intimate friends of Professor Rising.

WELL KNOWN AUTHORITY While well versed in all branches of mining, metallurgy and chemistry, Professor Rising is best known as an authority on the chemistry of heat of the so called thermal chemistry. He was also known for his work with powders and other explosives and the properties of their gases.

While not given to writing of his investigations, his few works on thermal chemistry are masterpieces and are regarded as authorities on the subject by men of science.

Professor Rising leaves a widow, Sarah Frances Lawrence Rising, to whom he was married at Groton, Mass., in 1872. There are also three children living, Ruth Menicanti, Alice Stewart Rising and Lawrence Rising. The latter was the best known.

Professor Laige, acting for President Wheeler, has appointed the following committee of university professors as a committee on resolutions and memorial exercises: Edmund O'Neill, Bernard Moses, Eugene Hill, Cornelius Bradley and William Carey Jones. The funeral will probably not be held until the return of Alvin and Lawrence Rising from New York.

SWEETS BEST FOOD FOR GROWING CHILD

Mrs. Meyer E. Jaffa Raises Ban on Candy and Adverses It as a Dessert

BERKELEY, Feb. 9.—In a lecture delivered before the South Berkeley mothers' club this afternoon Mrs. Meyer E. Jaffa, wife of the well known university professor and state pure food expert, raised the ban against candy for the children and the club endorsed her views.

She advocated candy for dessert; more food for the boy than his parents get, plenty of molasses, meat substitute and bran coffee. She cautioned the mothers not to indulge in plenty of sugar for their children. She said:

"Give Johnnie candy for dessert—nut candy especially—and see how he warms toward you. Honey and syrup are classes as sugars. He needs a fair proportion of bulky and concentrated foods each day. Do not be appalled at his appetite. He is probably studying more than his parents, exercising more and growing by leaps and bounds."

He can make good use of all he manages to stow away. If he does not eat candy, he will be able to handle the quantity of food his age demands. There is a strain somewhere in his system or his routine which should be corrected at once.

Everything should take second place to the question of nourishment. Fruit and vegetables have a hygienic value in the system, but after the necessary amount has been used for this purpose they are expensive forms of nutrients. Bread is excellent, as its organic phosphates are very important elements in the body. It is not a great tax on the kidneys. Give him plenty of meat substitutes for breakfast and lunch and he will not demand so much meat for dinner as most growing boys do.

Remember that milk, eggs, cheese, beans and nuts furnish large percentages of protein. Also that oatmeal and macaroni come next in order of value. He needs foods more than his father and mother do. Soup meat has all the growing materials still in it.

FEDERAL STEAMERS ON PACIFIC COAST

McLachlan Bill Will Be Given Hearings by Senate and House Committees

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The bill introduced by Representative McLachlan of California providing for a government owned and operated line of steamships on the Pacific coast between the isthmus of Panama and ports on the western coast is to be given hearings before the senate and house committees before which the bill is pending.

W. R. Wheeler, manager of the traffic bureau of the merchants' exchange of San Francisco; Seth Mann, attorney for that body, and A. P. Fleming, secretary of the harbor board of Los Angeles, arrived in Washington today and will advocate the bill before the committees.

The proposed line is designed to operate steamship line with the government and with the railroad, owned by the United States, bisecting the isthmus of Panama. It would make possible the transportation of freight from New York to the Pacific coast and return entirely by government owned lines.

OAKLAND FOOD GLOBE WITH CARDS

"Post Card Day" Will Mark New Era in Municipal Advertising

OAKLAND, Feb. 9.—With only three days in which to prepare for postcard day, the big advertising festival which the chamber of commerce has arranged for next Saturday, Oaklanders are beginning to compile lists of addresses to which the little boost cards may be sent.

The cards, which bear artistic colored drawings of Oakland, with a return division addressed to the secretary of the chamber of commerce, will be for sale on every street corner in the downtown district, on the cars, the ferry-boats, at the news stands and stores, at many downtown business offices and in the chamber of commerce headquarters. There will also be a big corps of pretty girls patrolling the streets to see that no pedestrian who makes his home in Oakland gets through the day without sending out at least one of the cards to advertise his home city.

Other cities on the coast have displayed a great deal of interest in the outcome of the experimental postcard campaign, and they are watching to see whether Oakland will prove its boast that civic pride and public spirit are stronger within its confines than anywhere else in the United States.

"If every citizen of Oakland does not buy and send away at least two cards on Saturday," said a prominent union labor man today, "I shall be very much disappointed. I am sure that every union man in the city will be willing to spend at least 10 cents to help boost his city over the whole world if he will only stop to think of the importance of his individual assistance. If a working man can do it, then the average business or professional man ought to be able to do at least twice as much."

The chamber of commerce should be supported in its great advertising campaign, which postcard day is but a detail. If laboring men and other workers will but stop and consider this advertising campaign will undoubtedly attract a large amount of capital to Oakland, and that every increase in capital means an added degree of prosperity for the city. It is no difficulty in seeing that the campaign will actually benefit them."

TRACKS OF ENEMY END IN THE BUSH

General Vasquez Promises President of Nicaragua to Go After Revolutionists

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 9.—The prisoners taken at Las Garitas have arrived at Managua. They include several officers of the revolutionist forces. The column sent from Boaca in pursuit of Chamorro reports that he is retiring toward Granada and is now within 15 miles of the city where the Chamorro family is all powerful.

"This victory of the Madriz troops reminds me of one of Mark Twain's descriptions of a fight," declared a representative of the Estrada faction, "when he said, 'I inserted my nose between his teeth and pinned him firmly to the ground.' Chamorro broke through the Vasquez forces and fled, but he fled in the direction of Managua."

He will be charged by Madriz with using the telegraph lines of the country to further the political aims of the enemies of the government.

Doubt Thrown on Victory WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Such details of the battle of Boaca as have been able to get through to Washington indicate to Latin-American diplomats here that Chamorro, by what was reported as his flight, has simply changed positions with the Madriz commander, Vasquez, who now finds himself between two insurgent forces, one in front and General Matia in the rear.

The strategists make the deduction that, when Chamorro broke through the lines of Vasquez, he hastened on toward Granada and is now within 15 miles of the city where the Chamorro family is all powerful.

CLARK HOWELL UNDER KNIFE FOR APPENDICITIS ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 9.—Clark Howell, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, Georgia member of the national democratic committee, and a director of the Associated Press, who was operated in the afternoon for appendicitis, rallied well after coming from under the anesthetic.

Howell was stricken this morning and suffered so much pain that no attempt could be made to get him to a hospital. Dr. Floyd W. McRae performed the operation at the editor's home.

The operation was pronounced a success. Howell will probably recover.

AGED MISER LEAVES LEAVING FORTUNE

ALAMEDA, Feb. 9.—J. B. Batchelder, a local character, and who was long supposed to be a pauper, died yesterday in a sanatorium at St. Helena, leaving an estate valued at $13,000.

For years Batchelder was a familiar sight in Park street. He roamed about begging food and clothing and when finally overcome by illness and old age was befriended by Justice R. B. Tappan, who learned that the man who had passed himself off as a pauper had a fortune in the bank.

When arrangements were being made by friends of Batchelder to place him in a sanatorium, where he could receive the care he required, the old man remonstrated against going and when a great deal. Upon being told that his death might result if he was not given treatment, the aged miser consented to go to the hospital.

Batchelder, who was 89 years old. He leaves several nephews and other relatives living in Exeter, Vt. His body is to be cremated and the ashes sent to Vermont.

Vibrant Nerve Force Supplied to Man.

(From "Man's Maladies.") Without stamina, man is a failure. What is stamina? It is constitutional vigor-health. It is the responsibility, the moral force, that gives wonderful inner strength of will, sustains a sound body, supports a wise mind, and makes a man a success in life.

Keen, strong, sensitive nerves make stamina and give it its power. They are the foundation of every man to correct the condition responsible for failure and unhappiness, for it can be done by the simple fulfillment of nature's law that the nerves receive their nourishment through the blood. The blood is made of fluids to recover the daily waste which is constantly taking place. The nerve fluids and body tissues undergo constant changes, and unless the supply is equal to the demand the stream of health ebbs low and misery prevails.

Astonishing strength, nerve force and poise is quickly restored by the following valuable formula, which anyone can prepare in the privacy of his home. First, obtain three ounces of syrup sarsaparilla compound in a six ounce bottle; add one ounce of compound fluid hair rest, shake well, and let stand two hours. Then add one ounce tincture of cod liver oil (tea spoonful after each meal and one when retiring).

The above ingredients, except the syrup, are concentrations of purest drugs without opiates and are used for various prescriptions.
