STOCKS TUMBLE IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, March 28.—The extent of the price declines suffered in the stock market today was regarded ominously. Sales were not heavy and the wide concessions which had to be made to effect them had a disquieting effect on sentiment.

The upturn in the wheat market directed attention to another phase of the market. The coming to hand of winter damage to wheat have been initiated heretofore with assurances of the possible restoration of good conditions by timely moisture in the threatened regions.
