WOMAN WITH SHOOPING SHOULDERS AND WIFE DESERTER ARE WANTED IN SAN JOSE

OAKLAND, March 29.—Mrs. Edward House of San Jose, whose husband is suing for a divorce, is said to have eloped to Oakland within the last two days with Charles F. Goodrich, a bow legged clerk who is 10 years her junior.

The police have been asked by Sheriff Langford of Santa Clara county to arrest Goodrich for deserting his wife and six children, whom it is said he has neglected to support since he fell under the influence of Mrs. House.

The police description of the woman makes her no more of a Venus than it does Goodrich an Adonis. According to Sheriff Langford's circular Mrs. House is stoop shouldered, has a sharp nose, prominent cheek bones and a "rough skin."

Her presence in San Jose is desired by her husband so that summons may be served on her in his divorce suit. She is said to have accompanied Goodrich many times in their home city, but an elopement was not expected.

Chief Wilson has ordered his patrolmen to seek a woman with round shoulders and high cheek bones, accompanied by a blue eyed, bow legged man, and to arrest them.

STREETCAR CRUSHES FOOT OF SMALL BOY

Harold Williamson Rolls Under Wheels at Play

BERKELEY, March 29.—Playing with a number of companions in front of his home in University avenue this afternoon, Harold Williamson, son of L. M. Williamson of 2025 University avenue, was struck by Northbrae car No. 57 at 1 o'clock this afternoon and his right foot was so badly crushed that its amputation will probably result.

Mrs. Williamson rushed out of her home at the cries of her child and collapsed as she saw his form being lifted from the ground to an automobile, where he was attended by Dr. Robert Hector.

According to the statements of eye witnesses, the motorman made every attempt to stop his car when the child ran on the track, but was unable to do so before the boy rolled under the wheels.

Cecil Matthews, a student of the university living at university cottage No. 5, on the campus, was struck by an automobile last night at Haste street and Shattuck avenue, but was only bruised.

Miss P. McAllister, Who Plans a Tour of The Atlantic Coast

ASKS FEDERATION TO CHANGE RULES

Town and Gown Club Wants Notice Given of Motions on Public Questions

PATENT LAWYERS SHY IN STENOGRAPHER LINE

Difficult to Secure Women Who Understand Machinery

Patent lawyers say they will gladly pay from $25 to $50 a week to stenographers who can do their work, and as much as $50 a week is sometimes paid.

The work is hard and exacting, the stenographer must be familiar with law work. You should learn to read drawings, and as inventors generally want patents on machinery, a taste for bolts, screws and mechanism in general would be of great help.

A stenographer who is not a lawyer, but one of his wits much as follows, says the New York Sun:

"In the last four years we have tried about 100 stenographers. Many of them were of the ordinary lengths of time, seldom longer than two years. It takes nearly four hours to test a stenographer thoroughly."

He conceded that very few young women are capable of doing this kind of work under such circumstances; that an intelligent and well educated stenographer will not show what she is capable of until the first strangeness of work and surroundings has worn off, and he said he would gladly engage without trial any one who would come to him with references from another patent lawyer, but no one ever did. He could only conclude that when women left places with patent lawyers they either rushed into matrimony or took up quite another branch of stenographic work.

He showed some of the drawings which a stenographer would be called upon to read. To the uninitiated it would be a task indeed. A person trained in the work can read them as a musician reads a musical score.

In reading notes in patent work context does not help, as much as it does in dictation on ordinary subjects. For instance, in some systems of shorthand you would write "tap" and "top" not only with the same outlines, but in the same position. Yet substituting one of these words for the other in the transcript of a dictation might necessitate a patent lawyer, spending an hour hunting over his laboriously worked up notes to see which was right.

A woman who could do the work properly would be nearly priceless.

Women have so much less aptitude for machinery than men have that it might seem natural to employ young men as stenographers in a patent lawyer's office, but young men are not content to go on as stenographers. At the end of a few years they insist on graduating from the weary grind of the machine. On the other hand a woman, if her salary is judiciously increased, is willing to go on through the patient years taking notes and writing them up. Of course, there is the percentage of loss through marriage, but that is not very large.

The permanent international peace bureau at a recent session in Brussels took action in favor of the establishment of an international relief fund.

MARTINE PAROLLO FORGOT IDENTITY

Wealthy Peruvian in Hospital a Year While Friends Look for Him

OAKLAND, March 29.—His identity forgotten by himself as well as his name and the fact that he had valuable property bringing him in monthly rents only a few miles away, Martine Parollo, once one of San Francisco's most famous chefs, died March 19 at the city and county hospital in San Francisco. He had been there nearly a year, oblivious of everything in his life that had happened before a time when in this city his memory was snuffed out and he forgot who he was.

In the meantime anxious friends had invoked the aid of the police and a vigorous search for the missing man was made. The greatest publicity was given to his disappearance, but not until after he was dead was his identity learned. Then it was disclosed by his will, which was found on his person. It was filed for probate today by Attorney Fred L. Button, who had been looking for Parollo for nearly a year.

To the death of his little dog was due in great part Parollo's loss of memory. The old chef, who had done service in some of San Francisco's most famous restaurants, retired on a competence a few years ago, taking up his residence here, living very much alone. He had no relatives and few friends. His sole companion was his dog, and when the animal passed away nearly a year ago Parollo was disconsolate. He was out of his mind for a time, and although he recovered somewhat he never entirely regained his mental balance. He took to drink to drown his sorrow and contented himself with a few glasses of wine until his memory left him entirely.

He was arrested for drunkenness a few weeks after his dog's death. While in the city prison he tried to commit suicide by sitting on the articles of his wrists. He was taken to the receiving hospital in time to save his life. From that time he disappeared completely.

When he was arrested, Button, at the instance of some of the old man's friends, applied for his medical certificate, as it was evident that he was unable to take care of himself and his property. Before the legal papers could be served on Parollo he had dropped from sight, and no further step could be taken in the guardianship proceedings.

Parollo owned property here that brought him in a rental of about $100 a month. He was a native of Peru, and it would therefore seem that he should go to Mrs. Louisa Arata Minetti, wife of J. F. Minetti, a friend.

NEW FRENCH GAS LIGHT PRAISED BY CONSUL

Recent Invention Declared to Be Cheap and Practicable

Deputy Consul General Bartley F. Yost of Paris transmits to the bureau of manufactures two circulars in French and English illustrating a new gas light invention, which he thus describes:

The Bec Economique Gallie gas lights invented by M. Gallie of Nancy, France, are enjoying a large sale in this country. It would therefore seem that American manufacturers of gas lights would be greatly interested in this new invention and would find ready sale for the lights.

A number of different models of these lights were on display at the exposition of illumination recently held at Paris, where they attracted much attention. A gold medal was secured for one of the lights at the exposition de Nancy the last summer. The lamp is of medium size, and may be attached to an ordinary gas fitting. Instead of having a mantle suspended from the gas burner, as with the ordinary gas light, the pastille is placed upon a perpendicual metal bar which is placed parallel to the gas feeder, the latter being bent and pointing toward the pastille at right angles. The feeder is perforated and may be shifted back and forth at will, according to the amount of gas desired to employ.

The pastille, instead of being round shaped, is a disk about one-fourth inch in diameter and is stretched across a tiny metal frame. The feeder is operated by a thumb screw. A disk will wear five or six months, and may be purchased at 40 cents per dozen. The small amount of gas consumed by this light is the special attractive feature, five cubic feet being sufficient for one hour's use. At this rate the expense of the light would be reduced to a minimum of one-fifth of 1 cent for 12 hours.

The light casts a soft white light, and is perfectly safe and odorless and always ready for use. It is sold at 65 cents.

The other light to which reference is made, the Bec Combine Gallie, has an ordinary large mantle in addition to the pastille, and produces a much stronger light when both pastilles are used, the larger one is in use. If desired, only one at a time may be used. This lamp is designed for kitchen use, hotel offices and other places where a continuous light is unnecessary. The regular price without the globe is $1.65, with an additional 10 cents for the globe. This light was invented only a few months ago and is apparently not known in the United States.

Iowa has 1,629 hawks, or one for every 1,350 inhabitants. Kansas is not with one hawk for every 1,500 people.

THE BRADFELD CO., ATLANTA, GA.

CAT ENTERTAINS OFFICIALS

Public Works and Police Departments Spend Morning Rescuing Feline

BERKELEY, March 29.—The entire staff of the department of public works, from Engineer J. J. Jessup down, backed by the members of the police department, headed by Chief August Vollmer, spent several hours this morning digging out a cat which has been confined under the steps of the new $140,000 city hall for the past six days.

The plaintive cries of the imprisoned animal reached the ears of Police Sergeant Thomas A. Wooley last night at midnight, and he at once ordered an investigation.

The matter was reported to the street department and City Engineer Jessup ordered a number of men to drill a deep hole in the concrete, and after considerable coaxing the cat was persuaded to leave its hiding place. It was thin and emaciated in appearance and with ravenous appetite. It is believed that the animal was chased into the hole by dogs and was fearful of coming forth.

BERKELEY COUNCIL CHANGES SALARIES

Chief of Police Vollmer Given Raise

BERKELEY, March 29.—Chief of Police August Vollmer's salary was raised from $175 to $200 a month today. Commissioner Christian Hoff, who made the motion, declared that Vollmer was now receiving the same salary as he had under the old charter, when he was also entitled to certain fees which now turned into city treasury.

The salary of City Assessor Harry J. Squires was lowered from $175 to $125 on account of economy. Squires will now receive less money than his assistant, A. C. Tabor, who was raised to $150 on account of the fact that he was doing extra work during Squires' illness.

The council dismissed J. C. Ray, a sewer inspector, on the recommendation of Commissioner W. F. McClure.

TRYING SEASON TESTS HARDINESS OF HARES

Prove Among Toughest of Wild English Animals

Hares must surely be accounted, writes H. A. Bryden in Country Life, among the hardest of all the wild fauna of our country to be able to withstand, as they have done, such a season as the present, in England. They had a wet, sunless, and very trying breeding season last year, and since that they have been subjected to one of the wettest winters on record. In East Sussex they have got through a most trying winter extraordinarily well and have stood up before hounds with plenty of stoutness and staying power. When it is remembered that, unlike foxes and rabbits, hares have no burrows of which to avail themselves, but during the severest weather lie out on open ground, one must marvel at their hardihood.

Manila's city budget for 1909-10 fiscal year amounts to $1,950,470. Of this $141,075 is for public schools and $225,000 for public works and improvements.
