

DICK FERRIS THE LATEST ASPIRANT FOR STATE OFFICE

Wealthy Los Angeles Promoter Enters Fight Well Backed but Unannounced

Will Have Much of Curry's Strength and Throw Many Votes to the Latter

Dick Ferris of Los Angeles, known throughout the state as a wealthy mining operator, theater owner and promoter, and as the man who made a success of the Los Angeles aviation meet, is the newest candidate for the republican nomination for lieutenant governor. Ferris' candidacy is to be formally announced today through the filing of nominating petitions in a dozen counties.

Once more the political situation has been thrown into turmoil by the entrance of an unexpected and disturbing factor. Ferris comes into the fight totally unannounced and with an assured backing that is reported to put all calculations concerning the running for the office of lieutenant governor. Moreover, his appearance as a candidate is likely to have a decided effect upon the contest for the gubernatorial nomination.

CANDIDACY A SURPRISE

The preliminaries in Ferris' behalf have been conducted so quietly that his name has never previously come before the public as a political possibility and the announcement today of his candidacy for the second place on the republican ticket will come as a big surprise in a good many campaign headquarters. For several weeks his friends have been exerting pressure to bear to secure his consent to make the race, but it was only a few days ago that he gave a grudging assent and the question was settled finally.

Ferris has been in the east, but is expected in Los Angeles today. In the meantime, his petitions have been printed and quietly circulated in several of the southern counties and in four of the counties about San Francisco bay. This is the last day, according to the rules of the local registrar's office, on which nominating petitions for state offices may be filed, and the same rule holds good in most of the other counties. With the little time at their disposal, Ferris' backers have made no attempt to secure more than the minimum number of signatures necessary to get on the ballot at the primary election, and have only gone into a few counties. They have been successful, however, and the petitions are all in shape to be filed for verification today.

SECURE SIGNATURES HERE

Most of the nominating petitions for Ferris have been secured in Los Angeles and the surrounding counties, where Ferris is best known, but the necessary signatures also have been taken in San Francisco, Alameda, Marin and San Mateo counties, and these petitions are to be filed this morning.

Ferris comes into the fight as an independent candidate, but with indications of stronger support than is possessed by any other candidate in the field. Undoubtedly, he will have much of the strongest support of any candidate for governor, and incidentally is likely to reciprocate by turning a good many votes to Curry. Not only will Ferris have the backing, but he ought also to draw largely upon the Lincoln-Roosevelt league voters who are dissatisfied with A. J. Wallace and upon the regular machine sympathizers who are unwilling to accept Bert Farmer.

CURRY GAINING STEADILY

At the Curry headquarters it was announced yesterday that a dozen papers throughout the state had swung to his support during the last week and that he has been gaining steadily in every direction. Curry is in Sacramento at present, but is expected in San Francisco within the next day or two.

The first real bona fide offer of a wager on the outcome of the primary election for governor came to light yesterday. E. E. Barnes, the Mission street dry goods merchant, announced that he had $1,000 to bet that Hiram Johnson would get 5,000 more votes in San Francisco than Aiden Anderson.

Not Ellery's managers announced yesterday that all the Ellery nominating petitions had been filed with the secretary of state and the fee paid. Ellery also has answered the letter of the state central committee asking the various candidates to pledge themselves to support whatever party nominee may be chosen at the primaries. Ellery wrote that he would do so. Anderson and Ellery are the only two gubernatorial candidates from whom replies to this request have been received up to the present time.

CONTINUE ATTACKS

Continuing their attacks upon the other candidates, Ellery's managers yesterday issued the following statement from the local headquarters:

J. J. McCarthy, who returned yesterday after a four days' trip to Sacramento, has been reported to be now in Sacramento county with the secretary of state and the fee paid. Ellery also has answered the letter of the state central committee asking the various candidates to pledge themselves to support whatever party nominee may be chosen at the primaries. Ellery wrote that he would do so. Anderson and Ellery are the only two gubernatorial candidates from whom replies to this request have been received up to the present time.

McCarthy claims that Curry's friends in Sacramento are much afraid of the Ellery attack at the present time, and says that it doesn't look as good as a month ago. Anderson has been heard of there now and many people say that the Ellery meeting took far more than his name. Anderson, they believe, will meet defeat at the polls in the August primaries, as he has shown no strength in his tour, and it is reported around Sacramento that he only intends to conduct his campaign around the bay cities and the southern part of the state.

SUPERVISORS MAY STOP GEARY CARS

Loughrey Introduces Resolution Favoring Early End of Agreement

Just a hint of retaliation for the Geary street railroad company's persistent blocking of the city's project to build a municipal road was contained in Supervisor Loughrey's resolution yesterday, unanimously adopted by the board, asking the finance and public utilities committees to report on the wisdom of withdrawing permission to privately owned cars to operate over the route.

The Geary road has for many months run on the sufferance of the board, its franchise having long expired. The resolution, as adopted, reads: "Resolved, That the finance committee and the committee on public utilities be and they are hereby requested to report to this board as to the advisability of terminating at an early date the existing agreement between the city and county and the Geary Street, and the Geary street railroad company which the Geary street railroad is now being operated.

"The city has found itself hampered right along by Geary road company," said Loughrey. "We are receiving a sum not in excess of $750 per month for letting these cars run. It might be well to inquire just how much inconvenience would be caused by stopping the cars. That would take away the incentive to block the construction of the municipal line. The matter is one to be looked into. If the Geary company people were not allowed to run their cars they would have nothing to gain by their attempts to block the city line's construction."

Walsh wanted to know why the city attorney didn't get busy with the city's gas and water rate litigations. "If our city attorney can't move these matters along, why then let's appoint an expert to see if he can do any better," said Walsh.

Chairman Kelly elicited this by asking Walsh what he proposed to do and voiced his approval. The matter ended with a request to the clerk to write City Attorney Long and inquire how things were going. The construction of the Marshall primary school, to cost $50,000; of the Vista primary, $25,000; of the Peabody primary, $50,000; of the Grattan primary, $50,000; and of the Harrison primary, $22,500, was ordered by unanimous vote.

The expenditure of $20,000 for automobile as provided in the budget was authorized, after Supervisor Murdoch had mildly spilled the labor union man's wrath for coming around to the purchase of a car. The matter was Taylor board's extravagance in a similar direction, and the representative of a car passed over had cited the United States government and the Standard Oil company as patrons of the worth of his machine.

ARMED FOOTPADS ROB AND BEAT WAYFARERS

Money and Diamond Taken From Men at Night

Armed footpads held up T. J. Bidler and E. R. Fordyce of 1029 Mission street in Seventh street near Howard the night of the fourth. They took from Bidler $15 and from Fordyce $25 and a diamond ring. Bidler got away, but the footpads were seen by Manuel L. Eskew, 724 Leavenworth street, who was walking along Geary street when he encountered a footpad and gave him up $5 and a watch. The other threats of having his head blown off.

Albert Mars, 317 Folsom street, was held up by two men under the coal bunkers at the foot of Beale street at night, beaten and robbed of $42. Warner Vist, Union house, Sansome and Washington streets, was robbed of $5 by a woman in a saloon at 511 Pacific street and later Service Haxelton was arrested on suspicion.

Daniel Cameron, Lake View and Plymouth avenues, was robbed of a purse containing $130 and a Wells-Fargo money order for $50 while celebrating, but he did not know where. George Jacobson, 663 Fourth avenue, was relieved of a purse and $35 at the Chutes.

Burglars broke into the home of J. C. Melnbress, assistant superintendent of the Pinkerton agency, 1432 Devisadero street, Monday afternoon, and stole jewelry valued at $65.

ELECTRICAL CONTRACTORS HOLD BIG CONVENTION

Delegates Will Journey to Oroville Today

The California State Electrical Contractors' association began a three days' convention yesterday at the Palace hotel. About 100 delegates were present. W. S. Hanbridge, president of the association, presided. The day's session was confined to organization and business routine. In the evening banquet was served, about 200 attending. Today a trip to Oroville, the program for the delegates and Thursday an election of officers will be held.

EUROPE IN FAVOR OF SAN FRANCISCO

Sentiment in Spain Friendly to This City in Fight for Exposition

Seville Plans Spanish-American Celebration in 1914; May Ship Exhibits

Sentiment in Spain and the countries of the old world is favoring San Francisco as the city in which to hold the 1915 Panama-Pacific exposition. Bound by historic ties to the Pacific coast cities, Spaniards, official and civilian, are evincing unusual interest in the plans of San Francisco to hold a world fair.

William M. Bunker, honorary commissioner of foreign commerce, representing the San Francisco chamber of commerce, who is now in Spain, has written to President William L. Gerstle telling him of the situation there.

Seville, from which city he last wrote, is planning a Spanish-American fair in 1914 and is willing to send to this city a part of the exposition exhibits as well as other exhibits which would be of interest to Americans and South Americans. The historic exhibit would be of particular value, for in the archives of Seville are found the documents relating to the discovery by Don Gaspar de Portola of San Francisco bay. Other papers relating to Pacific coast discoveries are on exhibition there.

SEVILLE IS FRIENDLY

Bunker writes in part: "The alcalde and Don Cayetano Luca de Vena and other leading men of Seville, with a view to interesting the city in the projected Panama-Pacific exposition in San Francisco in 1915, for historical and sentimental reasons Seville has a friendly feeling for San Francisco and is therefore in a receptive mood."

"The city of Seville is 54 miles from the mouth of the Guadalquivir river. Because of a bend in the stream just below the city steamers having a greater length than 250 feet can not make the port. To open the port to the world a canal through the city is being long and costing $5,000,000 is being cut across the bend. The canal will reduce the steamer trip by nine miles, enable 10,000 ton vessels to reach the city and provide space for unlimited docking facilities."

"The completion of the enterprise will be celebrated with a Spanish-American exposition in Seville in 1914. The people of Seville are anxious to make the exposition educational as well as attractive and interesting. All the countries of America that were once Spanish colonies will be specially invited to participate in the exposition. Handicrafts will necessarily be prominent. The people of this region will illustrate the development and expansion of arts from the Arabic period to the present. The exhibition of hand made Spanish lace and the hand made laces of the former Spanish colonies will be the pride of the exposition. The process of fabric lace making dating back to 1214 and still in vogue in Seville will be another feature of the exposition. In brief, the arts that made Seville famous in the days when the city was the envy of the other great cities of Europe and which still survive will be conspicuously demonstrated in 1914."

WANT CALIFORNIA EXHIBITS

"The official promoters of the exposition are eager to see California represented in the American section. If feasible these gentlemen would be pleased later to send the most important exhibits of the Seville exposition to the Panama-Pacific exposition in San Francisco."

"An added cause for Sevillean interest in San Francisco is the fact that the documents relating to Don Gaspar de Portola's expedition to the Pacific coast, the discovery of San Francisco bay, are in the archives of Seville. These documents include a detailed account of the equipment of the famous expedition. "One can not see these and other papers relating to Seville's discoveries without being impressed with the logical fitness of San Francisco for the Pacific-Pacific celebration. So many varied records on the Spanish and the enterprise that their analysis will furnish research work for the next 20 years. The historical bonanza has hardly been scratched."

NUPTIAL KNOT IS TIED DOUBLY FIRM

Willie Collier and Wife Remarry in Order to Satisfy Law's Demands

Actor Wants to Be Certain That Spouse Will Get His $100,000 Estate

OAKLAND, July 5.—William Collier, the actor, whose real name is William Henry Morenos, and his pretty young wife, Mrs. Paula Marr Collier, who were married in the Episcopal church of Davenport, Ia., May 10, went through a second marriage ceremony at the Metropole hotel this afternoon at 3 o'clock, when the nuptial knot was more securely tied by Justice of the Peace James G. Quinn.

Mrs. Collier was formerly Mrs. C. W. Gall. She obtained a final decree of divorce from Gall in this state May 5, becoming Collier's wife at Davenport five days later. The ceremony which took place today was upon the advice of Collier's attorney, I. L. Bamberger, who advised Collier to have a second ceremony performed somewhere in the state of California to avoid any technical question as to Collier's bequeathing of his large estate to his wife in the event of his death.

The actor was desirous of leaving all his property to his wife should he die and papers were drawn up after the church marriage at Davenport in which Collier willed his estate valued at $100,000 or more to his wife. It was then that the question of a possible contest in the division of the estate was raised. Numerous cases of a similar nature were cited by Bamberger, including that of Mrs. E. H. Harriman, wife of the dead railroad magnate, who became involved in a United States supreme court case, in which Mrs. Harriman's right to the estate left her was contested.

Circumstances surrounding the Collier proceedings making it possible for a contest based on a point similar in character to that raised in the Harriman case, Bamberger advised Mr. and Mrs. Collier to have a second marriage performed. The ceremony, it was said, should take place in the same state in which Mrs. Collier had received papers divorcing her from Gall. "The marriage was to be a civil one, with a justice of the peace officiating," Bamberger outlined this policy to conform with the recent Haggart vs. Haggart decision of the United States supreme court, which he said, would prevent any successful contest of Collier's will.

Consequently, Mr. and Mrs. Collier decided to be married all over again as soon as the theatrical company in which both appear as the stars reached California. Los Angeles was the first city of the state in which they appeared, but the ceremony was not performed there owing to lack of time.

Shortly after noon today Collier and his wife, accompanied by A. E. Morgan, Collier's manager, obtained a license from the county clerk. Collier is 39 years old and Mrs. Collier is 25. Both gave residence at St. James, Suffolk county, N. Y. The ceremony was witnessed by several of the couple's friends and members of the theatrical company. Collier said today:

"I can't see anything particularly unusual in this case. The technical point upon which this second ceremony is based related to the distribution of my estate, which I desire to leave in the hands of my wife after my death. My lawyer advised it. His reasons were adequate. The thing has happened."

NAT GOODWIN TO RETURN TO STAGE

New Comedy by Broadhurst Lures Star From Speculation and Sports

Nat Goodwin is going to forsake his speculative operations and return to the stage, George Broadhurst, the farce writer, has written him a comedy called "The Captain," which will be produced in the New Amsterdam theater, New York, next October.

Goodwin arrived yesterday from Reno and registered at the St. Francis. After a stay of three days, here he and his party will go to his Los Angeles home for a visit. Broadhurst lives in Los Angeles and the actor and writer will confer there.

Besides his new play, which will receive a sumptuous production, Goodwin intends to revive some old time favorites. Among them are "Rip Van Winkle," "Lend Me Five Shillings" and "The Bivouac."

Goodwin's party includes George Considine, a New York sporting man; Senator A. J. Clements, political boss of Jersey City; Philip Hyans, the biggest book maker in Australia; William Corbett, a Chicago politician; Tom Hanton, a sporting man of Chicago, and George F. Kerr, a New York theatrical manager, now with the Morris circuit.

MAN ON MOTORCYCLE KNOCKS DOWN WOMAN

Cleve H. Froelich, cigar dealer, Midway, Pacific street, came down Sutter street on a motorcycle at a terrific speed yesterday morning and collided with the Kearny street crossing with Mrs. H. C. Hunter of the Gabriel, Clara and Larkin streets, knocking her down. Policeman R. M. Silver shouted to Froelich to moderate his speed, but he paid no attention. Mrs. Hunter was led to a drug store in Kearny street and later taken home by her friends. She was bruised and suffering from the shock. Froelich was arrested on a charge of battery and released on bail.

PRAYER TAKES SURGEON'S PLACE

Wife Refuses to Permit Doctors to Set Fractured Leg of Husband

Divine Healer Hustles Groaning Spouse Home for Her Own Treatment

John Ludwig is doing the highland dling today with the leg he broke yesterday. If his wife's estimate of her power as a divine healer is true, Mrs. Ludwig rejected surgical aid for her husband.

Ludwig, whose home is at 2919 Greenview street, fell 15 feet from a scaffold yesterday at 116 California street. When the doctors at the harbor hospital examined him they found that his right leg had been fractured in two places. They explained to Ludwig, who is a painter, that his injury was serious and that he had better arrange for a few weeks' stay in a private hospital. He asked that his wife be notified and when she arrived Mrs. Ludwig announced that no doctor would be allowed to lay a hand on her husband.

"I am a divine healer," she said, "and will have my husband cured by prayer. He once cut his hand and was foolish enough to go to a doctor, who bandaged up the hurt. The wound did not heal until we removed the bandage and prayed. He was cured in a few days. A friend of ours, a member of our faith, fell from his wagon and broke his leg. He uttered a prayer and climbed right back on the wagon with a leg as sound as ever. John will have no doctors."

It was Mrs. Ludwig's intention to take her husband to a "faith cure" hospital, but a telephone message brought the information that the institution was already overcrowded. She engaged a private ambulance and into this Ludwig, groaning with agony, was loaded and taken home to be cured by his wife.

Roofer Painted

Joseph Jones, a roofer, was the victim yesterday of an afternoon of accident, more grotesque than serious, when a ladder on which he was mounting to the top of the two story Redding school, at Pine and Larkin streets, slipped, throwing him to a scaffold 15 feet below and completely wrapping his head in coal black paraffine paint, spilled from a bucket he was carrying. The paint quickly dried and those who rushed to his aid were not sure whether Jones was a negro or white man.

Jones was taken to the central emergency hospital, where the paint was removed and a few minor bruises treated. Jones was able to go, unaided, to his home, 1919 Persia street.

Iron Worker Falls

Shortly after noon yesterday Charles Davis, an iron worker, who lives at 315 Mississippi street, had his left wrist broken, was cut, bruised and possibly internally injured when he fell from the first story of a building being constructed at Third and Mission streets. The injured iron worker was conveyed to the harbor emergency hospital in an auto driven by William Blainfame, who volunteered his services.

Struck by Car

Conrad Richter, a jeweler, who resides at 1104 San Jose avenue, while crossing Mission street near Twenty-third yesterday morning, was struck by an automobile, Richmond and Cortland avenue car and knocked senseless. It is believed he sustained a fracture of the skull. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital. W. A. Lucas, the motorman in charge of the car, was arrested and charged with battery.

Talks on Teeth

REX DENTAL CO. INCORPORATED

Her Thousand Dollar Teeth.

In nearly every case when we receive a testimonial from persons who have enjoyed wearing the Rex Dental Co's Alveolar Teeth (without plates) for any length of time, they make use of some such expression as this:

"Money could not buy these teeth if I couldn't replace them." There is nothing that has a more direct bearing upon good health than good teeth. They are absolutely necessary to prepare the fuel which is to run the human engine. It is even necessary that there should be a complete set of teeth, for where there are gaps in the line the food is apt to be ground up unevenly and part of it will then slip down into the stomach unchewed.

We make it a point to follow up the work we do for our patients, and where we are allowed to do so, we publish from time to time the replies we receive.

The following letter from Mrs. A. R. Bowers of Sacramento has a direct bearing upon the value of these teeth in individual cases. Mrs. Bowers' letter follows. Will you kindly read it.

REX DENTAL CO. Dear Doctors—I wish to write and offer you a token of my appreciation for the beautiful Alveolar teeth that you inserted in my upper jaw without any pain or unpleasantness. I covered the roof of the mouth like the old fashioned teeth. There is no more soreness or anything of the kind. My articulation and mastication have been fully restored to normal again and I consider the work you have done for me as a dental act. I would not take $1,000 for them if they could be replaced.

Wishing you every success, I am, Very respectfully, (Signed) MRS. A. R. BOWERS, 514 K. St. Road.

We wish to make it plain that there is no surgery connected with this work—no boring into the gums or cutting upon the pulp. The teeth are nothing to be dreaded—and it is not to be regarded, in any sense, as something in the nature of an operation. You come here, and a careful examination is made of your mouth. There is a consultation between the examiner and the dentist who is to undertake your work, and a specific plan is worked out for your particular case.

It is work that calls for individual attention and individual treatment. No two cases are alike, and each case is carefully worked out in advance before it is started.

After we have agreed upon the best plan to follow, you spend an hour or two in the chair, and upon your next visit the work is placed in your mouth. It is then a matter of careful fitting and adjustment. But when it is completed we tell you to go out and begin to use their teeth immediately, without fear or favor.

You will experience, for the first time, the joy of masticating your food with a perfect and complete set of teeth. We will note a change for the better in your health. If you have been troubled with dyspepsia you will have removed the cause, and having removed the cause, the ailment will disappear. The only experience we have to make is that you do not conduct your investigations regarding the REX DENTAL CO. from the very first in the office of another dentist. Be fair and let us prove our own case in our own way. The benefits of this marvelous method of restoring missing teeth.

Free book on request. Send today for our free book, describing the method of our work. This is a book of 40 pages, freely illustrated, and one of the most valuable ever written on the subject of teeth in general. The reading of it will bring you to us, no matter where you live.

AN UP-TO-DATE DRUGGIST

says it is surprising how many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old, time-tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy, nothing equaling our grandmothers' "sage tea" has ever been discovered. Nowadays when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulfur. This preparation is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price. For sale and recommended by The Owl Drug Co.
