"YANKEE DOODLE" SING BY WIRELESS

Patriotic Notes Float on Ether Waves From Stockton to San Francisco

"Yankee Doodle Dandy" rode through the air from Stockton to San Francisco yesterday, waves of ether. He was started on his aerial flight from the Poulsen wireless telephone and telegraph company stations at the Slough City and was carried in his travels by the ready antenna of the company local station in the block of land bounded by N and O streets and Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth avenues east of the great highway.

The improvement in the Poulsen system over the spark system, said President Elwell, "is that it can be operated day or night, over land or sea, at any time, and for great distances. In less than two minutes the messages were received simultaneously on two telephones in the station. Then the program was varied by songs sang by the distant operators.

Transmission by the ticker was then demonstrated. Jensen, working on a small three-key instrument, punched on a narrow paper ribbon in the Morse alphabet the question: "How is the weather in Stockton?" He placed the tape in a rapid transmitter and it went to Stockton in the space of two words a minute. The message at its destination was received on a similar machine. In a few moments the answer new back: "Hot, goodly."

It is intended to establish 450 stations in this country, 25 in the states of Washington and Oregon, and one at Honolulu. It is expected that the system, which will cost $1,000 for each station in the larger cities, will create a revolution in telegraphy, as it will be possible to send messages to Honolulu at any time and in any kind of weather at a 19 cent per word rate and to ordinary points all over the United States for a cent a word.

Sick New Yorker, Told Result, Groans

RENO, Nev., July 5.—A New Yorker who came out to see the fight was taken ill and was operated upon while the fight was going on. When he came to his senses his first words were: "Who won?" He was not told until today, and when he heard the name of Johnson he turned over with his face to the wall and groaned.

Excitement Among Blacks PORT OF SPAIN, July 5.—There was considerable excitement here over the Jeffries-Johnson fight. Large crowds awaited the news at the telegraph office. On learning of Johnson's victory the colored population became wild with excitement.

One mart Set

THE excitement created by the fire on Pacific avenue a week ago was nothing compared to the excitement Saturday when Mary Jolliffe's pet dog disappeared. Miss Jolliffe left her dog on a doorstep while she made a very brief call, and was horrified to find that during her visit it had vanished, although she whistled and called repeatedly for it.

Whether to go up or down the avenue she could not decide until some one who saw her perturbed volunteered the information that a young woman had just passed who, evidently pleased with the dog's appearance and friendly ways, had encouraged it to follow her. Inquiries along the blocks revealed the fact that the magnetic person was in no way annoyed by the animal straggling behind her, as it was observed that its occasional reluctance was immediately overcome by her playful demeanor.

Miss Jolliffe was truly agitated and enlisted the services of several friends, who willingly hunted the avenue up and down in hot pursuit after the cherished pet. Door bells were rung promiscuously and inquiries made without success. Finally a clew reached the group through a small boy, who had seen "a girl with a dog" go into one of a row of houses, but it was impossible for him to be more explicit.

Whether she resided there or was making a call could only be determined by a patient vigil. Almost disconsolate, Miss Jolliffe watched and waited. Her big black eyes were snapping, and with each snap a tear splashed on the cement sidewalk. Her friends were doing everything within their power to assuage her grief when a door opened, a young woman emerged, and out came the lost dog, which at one familiar whistle bounded toward its mistress.

A most plausible explanation of the incident was offered and Miss Jolliffe is now convinced that her valuable pet possesses a trait of fickleness that is not mentioned in its pedigree.

The social program has been filled for the last day or two with the affairs of the service set. A forecast of the week shows the same fascinating monopoly. The officers and their wives are constantly entertaining, and there is a bridge or tennis for almost every afternoon. The improvement in the Poulsen system over the spark system, said President Elwell, "is that it can be operated day or night, over land or sea, at any time, and for great distances. In less than two minutes the messages were received simultaneously on two telephones in the station. Then the program was varied by songs sang by the distant operators.

The tea given yesterday at the Presidio for Miss Marie Lundeen, the fiancée of Lieutenant Edward Pritchett, was a charming affair. The pretty bride elect shared the honors on that occasion with Mrs. A. U. Faulkner. The hostess at the affair was Mrs. Elizabeth Furnival, mother of Lieutenant Richard Furnival. There were less than half a hundred army matrons at the informal tea that followed an hour at bridge. The bids were done in clever verse and the responses were in the same facetious vein, so that there was a touch of originality to the reunion. Miss Lundeen will leave next week for the east, accompanied by her parents, Colonel and Mrs. John Lundeen. The Lundeen-Pritchett wedding will be an event of August in Minneapolis. Mrs. Faulkner will leave for the east on the same day, and is going to Newcastle, Del., where she will pass the remainder of the summer. The party yesterday was essentially a farewell affair.

Miss Helen Jones is in Seattle, where she will remain for several weeks longer as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Webb Ballard. The young visitor from this city is the center around which many entertainments are planned this month, and the younger girls are giving her a cordial welcome. Miss Jones was the guest of her sister during most of last season and stayed for an extended visit instead of the brief trip that she expected upon leaving here. During her daughter's absence in the north Mrs. Clinton Jones is staying at Castle Crag, and the family home in Buchanan street is closed for the season.

The Oscar Coopers recently enjoyed a motor trip through the south, accompanied by Miss Ethel Cooper. They are again at their Burlingame home.

Dr. W. A. McEnery and Miss Therese McEnery have been out of town on a brief visit to Del Monte. They were seriously burned when some firecrackers exploded in his pocket. It is believed that he placed the lighted punk in his pocket, where he was scuffling the crackers. His clothing caught fire and the upper portion of his body was badly burned.

Imagine, 50 new styles, soft and straw hats. Tom Dillon, app. call big.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sea Jr., who was Miss Loretta Barnes, have returned from their wedding journey in the south and are established in their new home in Mill Valley.

NORWEGIAN MINISTER BURIED—Baltimore, July 5.—The body of Ole Gude, late Norwegian minister to the United States, who died suddenly at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., last Friday, was cremated yesterday at Loudon Park cemetery here.

ADEE BACK FROM EUROPE—Washington, July 5.—Assistant Secretary of State Adee returned to his duties here today, after making a tour of portions of Europe on a bicycle.

NEWELL TO FEEL BALLINGER AX

Basket Said to Be Ready for Head of Director of Reclamation Service

Government to Attempt to Give Imperial Valley Permanent Protection

BEVERLY, Mass., July 5.—The reorganization of the reclamation service was discussed today at a three hours' conference between President Taft and Secretary Ballinger. Although no official information could be obtained, it was reported that the future plans for reclamation do not include the retention of Frederick K. Newell as the director of that service.

Ballinger would not discuss this phase. It is known, however, that the secretary has long regarded Newell as inimical to his plans for the reclamation service. Newell has openly opposed Ballinger, and Ballinger in return has publicly stated that he did not regard Newell as the man for the place.

Ballinger left for Washington tonight. He will remain there a few days and then start on a long trip through the west, during which he will visit a number of Indian reserves and probably look over some of the reclamation projects now under way. His trip, including a brief rest at his home in Seattle, will occupy from six weeks to two months.

When Ballinger alighted from the train here this morning he was met by the usual crop of resignation rumors. "I am not a quitter," he said, "and never have been. I did not bring a resignation with me and will not leave one."

The recent withdrawal of water-power sites, phosphate and petroleum lands by the president, covering more than $7,000,000 acres in various states and the two territories, were discussed with the president by Ballinger.

"Dealing with these lands," said the secretary, "we will continue the conservation policy in every essential detail. Once the classification is completed, we will be confronted by the task of getting special legislation through congress for the disposition of the lands on a fair basis."

As to the expenditure of the $1,000,000 fund placed at the disposal of the president to protect the Imperial valley in southern California from the Colorado, Ballinger said that all immediate danger seemed to have passed and engineers would be sent to report on the situation before any work was ordered. An effort will be made to devise permanent protection of the banks of the Colorado and the Laguna dam.

President Taft's "real vacation" will begin tomorrow. No more business engagements will be made for him for 10 days.
