

JOHNSON DENIES HAVING STOLEN BELL'S THUNDER

Republican Nominee for Governor Insists That Elimination of Herrin Is Issue

Railroadmen Declare They Fear to Show Open Friendship for Candidate

By W. RUSSELL COLE

[Special Dispatch to The Call]

REDDING, Sept. 21.—Hiram W. Johnson's tour of the northern part of the state led him tonight to the banner mass meeting of all that have been held since he opened the state campaign yesterday afternoon in Yreka. Here in Redding he met the largest audience and found the most spontaneous enthusiasm that has been his portion during the first two days of the journey through Siskiyou and Shasta counties.

That the Southern Pacific political bureau, which Johnson has attacked in both this and the primary campaign, is taking an active stand in opposition to him, and consequently is doing all in its power in behalf of his opponent, became apparent to the most casual political observer last night in Dunsmuir.

RAILROADMEN FEAR SPIES

The latter town is the railroad center of this section of the state and there were scores of railroadmen at the meeting held in the Dunsmuir theater. After the meeting a number of these men, including several leaders of the various railroad branches, visited Johnson at his hotel and stated to him that they and their coworkers had been less demonstrative than they wished to be through fear of displeasing the company upon which they are dependent for their livelihood.

They declared that they could not hope to show open friendship for the head of the republican ticket and still hold their positions.

Johnson was up this morning at 5 o'clock and on the road half an hour later. At the depot where he and his party left the train, they were met by W. P. Milburn and W. W. Middleton of the local reception committee and several other republicans.

VISIT TO BIG SMELTER

Johnson made the climb to the smelter of the copper mining company of Maine, and spent several hours going over the great plant which has given Kennett the name of the "Copper city." He was accorded the privilege of meeting scores of the workmen and talking personally with them.

At noon an order was given by G. W. Metcalf, general manager of the works, allowing employees from every department to remain in the smelter until recess until Johnson had finished speaking, and 50 or more of them took advantage of the permission and walked nearly a mile into town to hear him.

SPEAKING IN OPEN AIR

The Kennett meeting was held in the plaza of the town. Johnson and the other speakers standing in the blazing sun, with the temperature soaring toward the century mark, and talking from the unsheltered bandstand.

James H. Tibbitts, republican nominee for the assembly from the fourth district, acted as chairman and introduced Johnson. The other speakers were Alex Gordon, nominee for railroad commissioner from the first district, and Judge Albert C. Burnett, of Sonoma, candidate for re-election to the appellate court at the third district.

Reading sent a big delegation to Kennett to escort Johnson to the city where his night meeting was to be held. Among them were:

James H. Hoyle of the Lorenz hotel in Redding; H. L. Moody, editor and proprietor of the Redding Searchlight; E. E. Todd, general W. D. Ellsworth, R. E. Collins, George H. Gronwaldt, George W. Rush, Luke McDonald, Carl R. Briggs, M. E. Edgerly, J. H. Edmonds, L. F. Bassett, W. D. Egbert, A. F. Ross, James G. Essett, Dr. C. E. Reed, F. P. Primm, J. H. Hunter, W. E. Erwin, W. Lettinger, John Williams, William Coyne, D. H. Baglin, G. W. Metcalf, C. O. Vanvaler, Manuel Perry, V. E. Warren, L. Baw, L. Merrill, L. Parsons, D. G. Stuart, H. W. Brown, J. S. Smithson and Ferdinand Hurest.

The Redding meeting tonight surpassing in numbers the record breaking rally held here by Johnson in the early days of the primary campaign. This city, with its population of 5,500, sent 1,500 persons to the meeting tonight and packed the biggest hall in town to the doors.

PARADE AND RED FIRE

There was plenty of red fire before the meeting, a parade through the principal business streets and the firing of bombs at short intervals for half an hour.

A. Ross of the county committee called the meeting to order and introduced duced General W. D. Tillotson as chairman. Johnson made an address of nearly an hour and was followed by Judge Burnett and Alex Girdon after a five minutes' recess.

Swinging aside from his main theme Johnson answered decisively the democratic taunt that in the adoption of progressive principles the republican party had stolen as its platform one for which democracy alone had been laboring. He said:

"I shall also stand for a state law to prevent Asiatics from gaining ownership of land in this state, and, thirdly, I purpose to make it impossible for Asiatics to sit in the same schools with your child and my child. "I don't care whether it loses me a vote or not, but I'm against the whole bunch of them. I want to see this country for white men and populated by people willing to go out and fight for our flag."

The Watsonville meeting at noon and the Salinas meeting tonight were both very enthusiastic. From Watsonville five automobile loads of democrats sped five miles out the road to Santa Cruz to greet Bell and Timothy Spellacy, the candidate for lieutenant governor.

After a street concert by the Watsonville band, Bell and Spellacy were escorted to the plaza, where Chairman Hall introduced Spellacy as the first speaker.

After a short talk, the candidate for lieutenant governor gave way to Bell, who held his audience of 500 persons for an hour and a half in the noonday sun.

BELL PURPOSES TO EXCLUDE ASIATICS

Democratic Nominee for Governor Announces His Attitude and Is Applauded

Five Hundred Persons Stand in Noonday Sun to Hear Long Address

[Special Dispatch to The Call]

SALINAS, Sept. 21.—Theodore Bell, democratic nominee for governor, was heartily applauded at his meeting in Watsonville at noon today, when he announced himself as unequivocally opposed to Asiatic immigration. There are several thousand Japanese engaged in agricultural pursuits in Santa Cruz county, but considerable hand clapping was evoked by Bell's remarks.

"The Panama canal will bring much new immigration to the state," said Bell. "If I am elected governor there are three things that I shall stand for: I purpose to use all the power and influence I possess as governor of this state to secure the passage of a federal law that will exclude from our shores every Asiatic, be he Japanese, Chinese or Korean. I want to prevent the invasion of the yellow, brown and Hindu hordes."

"I shall also stand for a state law to prevent Asiatics from gaining ownership of land in this state, and, thirdly, I purpose to make it impossible for Asiatics to sit in the same schools with your child and my child."

Return of Miss Smith Expected to Throw Light on Approaching Trial

Police Searching for Mrs. Marian Derigg, a Former Nurse at the Sanatorium

[Special Dispatch to The Call]

SANTA ROSA, Sept. 20.—Since the presence of Miss Lu Etta Smith is assured at the approaching trial of Dr. Willard P. Burke of Burke's sanatorium, charged with exploding dynamite under a bed occupied by the woman and her child while they were asleep in a tent on the sanatorium grounds, interest turns to developments concerning the woman's disappearance, which are expected to become public on her arrival here Friday.

District Attorney C. F. Lea, Sheriff J. K. Smith and Court Reporter H. A. Scott will meet the vessel as soon as it is released from quarantine and take Miss Smith and her child, who are traveling as "Mrs. I. L. Long and child," from the vessel.

The authorities are very desirous of getting from the woman's own lips the story of how she was persuaded to leave the country and who provided her with the funds to go abroad and travel without any thought of the expense.

The police are looking for Mrs. Marian Derigg, a former nurse at Burke's sanatorium. They want her testimony.

TIMBERMAN'S WOUNDS POINT TO FOUL PLAY

Bryan Cogger Undoubtedly Victim of a Murderer

SEATTLE, Sept. 21.—A stab wound in the back of the neck of Bryan Cogger, the wealthy Hood Canal timberman, whose body was found under an unoccupied house, makes it certain that he was murdered. Cogger's throat was also cut.

Cogger and his wife came to town and collected $8,000 for logs sold. Mrs. Cogger gave her husband $400 and he disappeared. She reported his disappearance to the police, but they found no trace of him until the body was accidentally discovered yesterday. The corpse had been looted of watch and money.

Cogger was the father of Mrs. Maude Emel of Redlands, Cal.

DICKINSON AND PARTY BANQUETED IN CHINA

PEKING, Sept. 21.—Officials of the Chinese foreign board gave a banquet tonight in honor of Jacob M. Dickinson, the American secretary of war, General Clarence R. Edwards and other members of Dickinson's party. W. J. Calhoun, minister to China, and the staff of the American legation, were present.

In responding to an address of welcome, Dickinson said the United States could look with gratification on the strides which China was making in the development of its commerce.

Some of the prominent Chinese evinced disappointment that the secretary did not make stronger utterances concerning Chinese affairs. He did not mention Manchuria.

CRIPPEN AND HIS TYPIST COMMITTED

Dentist Held on Capital Charge and Girl as Accessory After Fact

Police Court Proceedings Are Concluded and the Trial Properly Ordered

[Special Dispatch to The Call]

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Dr. H. H. Crippen and Ethel Clare Leneve today were formally committed for trial for the murder of the former's wife, Cora Belle Crippen, known on the stage as Belle Elmore.

The magistrate in the Bow street police court, at the conclusion of the preliminary proceedings today, announced that he would hold Crippen on the capital charge and, without expressing an opinion on the evidence against Miss Leneve, added that he felt that it was sufficient for him to commit her for trial as an accessory after the fact.

The inquest into the death of the person, parts of whose body were unearthed in the cellar of the Crippen home in Hilldrop Crescent, has not been concluded and another session of the court will be held next Monday.

The crown has attempted to show that the parts found were of the body of Belle Elmore, but its medical experts have not been able to establish anything regarding the sex of the victim. At Monday's session Emily Jackson, at whose home Miss Leneve lodged up to March 12 last, recited a conversation which indicated that the girl expected to marry Doctor Crippen after his wife had left him.

This testimony was the cause of a hostile demonstration when the accused girl arrived at the Bow street station today. Her cab was followed by a crowd of hooting women and their taunts were echoed by the throng in the vicinity of the court.

Advertising Talks

There are merchants who do not think very much of advertising—do not believe in its power to attract and hold custom. Yet they want big show windows in their stores and pay big salaries to men to dress those windows and make them attractive.

Ask them why they do this and they answer: "Why, to attract the attention of the people who pass here every day—to advertise my store."

How many of the 400,000 people in San Francisco pass a given point during the day?

And of those who do pass, how many of them stop to look at the window display?

People in the street are there for a purpose, usually; they are going somewhere—to a store, probably whose advertising in the newspapers has attracted them.

And if all the people in San Francisco should pass your store, and every one of them stop and look—would that induce them to come in your store and buy?

No, sir, it would not. People want to know something about your goods before they spend their money with you—want to know more than can be learned by gazing through a plate glass window—and the only way you can tell them is through the advertising columns of their home newspaper.

We are not saying a word against advertising show windows, mind you; they are important and they are good advertising as far as they go—but they don't go far enough.

You may have a fine building, a big stock of merchandise and beautiful show windows—but what good will they do you if you do not let more people know about them than just those few who pass your store?

To reap the fullest success in business you must reach all of the people all of the time.

How else can that be done except through the daily newspapers? The Call has 62,000 home subscribers. One hundred and fifty thousand people in their homes read it every day.

Ring us up, Mr. Merchant, and let us tell you more about this matter of advertising—also we want to show you a service of copy and illustrations which will attract, interest, convince the readers of The Call.

ACCIDENT BRINGS COUPLE TOGETHER

Prominent Attorney Breaks Leg and Wife Goes Back to Nurse Him

Vista avenue, he having broken his leg last Sunday while returning from church with his children. Back with her mate and her little ones, his suffering and their sorrow and helplessness overshadowing all real or fancied grievance, the wife and mother has found renewed happiness, and for all time.

"I have come back to nurse you, Charles," she said simply. "You need me, and the children need me. As for me, I have needed you."

There were tears in Reed's eyes, when, in court, he pleaded that a woman's whim be not permitted to wreck his home and that of his children. There were tears in his eyes, and his voice trembled, when last night he told of the reconciliation. The past had all been forgotten. "Be kind to her," was all he said. His wife smiled and the children nestled closer to her.

It was in October of last year that the first commotion was caused in the ranks of the many friends and acquaintances of the Reeds by the rumor that the wife had left the handsome family home, in Buena Vista avenue with her youngest daughter, Constance, and had gone to live with her mother, Mrs. C. S. Wilson, at 2630 Channing way, Berkeley. January 19 of this year Mrs. Reed's divorce complaint was filed.

Mrs. Reed asked for a division of the property and the custody of her youngest child, stating her willingness to leave the four older children, Gladstone, Kathryn, Elsie and Earl, in charge of their father.

FOUGHT DIVORCE SUIT

Reed bitterly contested the divorce suit, which was tried by Judge Cabanis behind closed doors. To Mrs. Reed's assertions that his love for her had grown cold, and that his life had become a mere pander to selfishness, Reed responded that the burden of blame for their domestic difficulties lay upon her shoulders alone. He asserted that he did not believe in divorce and throughout the proceedings reiterated the declaration that he was willing and anxious to take her back and make their home once more a happy one.

During the trial Reed's attorney, George D. Shadburne, produced in evidence a large number of letters regarding the family differences, which Mrs. Reed had written to her husband. These letters teemed with epigrams and were surcharged with passionate complaints of discontent, mingled with sighs of regret for her departed "husband lover." Among them was the letter quoted above, the sincerity of which Mrs. Reed has now proved.

CHOKED ATTORNEY

Reed himself caused several violent commotions in Judge Cabanis' court room during the hearing of the case, several times breaking into hysterical tears, and once jumping from his chair and choking Mrs. Reed's attorney, J. J. Dunne, until they were separated by the judge and several court attaches. For the latter display of temper Reed was fined for contempt of court.

Judge Cabanis, in summing up the case and holding that the plea of desertion had not been proved, took occasion to express the hope that the Reeds, for their own sake and for that of the children, might yet be reunited.

A test of nickel steel riveted joints made from four different kinds of commercial nickel steel showed the strength of nickel steel to be about two to two and a quarter times as high as that of joints riveted with wrought iron or mild steel rivets.

Children's Shoes

Providing proper shoes for the youngsters presents a ticklish problem. There is first the consideration of correct orthopedic last, so the young foot may grow naturally and the little toes not be pinched or cramped—this we consider most important of all.

Then, there is the matter of wear; children are much harder on shoes than grownups. And style, as well, has to be considered; the little frocks must be becomingly matched with shoes.

We believe that nowhere can you find these essentials for children's shoes so well combined—and at a reasonable price, too—as in the merchandise we offer in our juvenile departments.

We carry a line of children's and misses' shoes of which we are especially proud. We consider them the best values sold in this country; they are made of the finest, well extended, hand-waited edges of fine but strong and durable materials.
