"CALIFORNIA BEING COME TO BEING"

Fine Display of State Products Begins Auspiciously With Addresses and Music

OAKLAND, Sept. 28.—"California City," the Home Industry league's big exhibition of state products, was formally opened at Seventeenth street and Broadway this afternoon at 1 o'clock, when several hundred prominent businessmen of both sides of the bay participated in appropriate exercises conducted under the joint auspices of the league and the Oakland chamber of commerce.

Walter S. Mackay, president of the Oakland chamber of commerce, presided and opened the exhibition with a brief speech, in which he explained the object of the Home Industry movement and praised both the league members and businessmen of Oakland for loyal efforts in a loyal cause, which had resulted in such a splendid display and would attract the attention of thousands to the richness and advantages of their own state.

MAYOR MOTT SPEAKS

Mackay then introduced Mayor Frank K. Mott, who delivered an address of welcome on behalf of the city. The mayor said in part:

Oakland welcomes "California City," recognizing the importance of the movement, not only for herself and the state, but for the whole of this great western slope. The people of this state have always been active in establishing new manufactures and new industries as fast as development would warrant, and the time has now come for them to be brought into closer touch with the world. Through the opening of the Panama canal and the development of Alaska, the Philippines, Hawaii and the orient and by reason of the facilities she can offer through her oil fields and hydroelectric power, California is bound to become one of the great independent manufacturing centers of the world.

Frederick C. Parker of San Francisco, president of the Home Industry league; A. A. Denison, secretary of the chamber of commerce; R. E. Queen, A. C. Rufouson and E. L. Baldwin of the Home Industry league; C. F. Gorman, C. Wood, D. E. Taylor, Daniel Crowley, Wilbur Walker and others made appropriate short speeches. An orchestra gave a splendid program throughout the exercises, and during the afternoon hours of the exhibition, the matter of the opening of the Home Industry city, the third enterprise of the league, which has grown since its organization a short time ago with but eight members to more than 500. The display, which was arranged by D. J. Albers, is one of the best ever seen in this city. It is modeled after a great city and the streets are named after cities of the early days. There are nearly 200 booths, constructed in mission style and overflowing with mission bells and elaborate decorations.

The officers of the league who are directing the exhibition are: President, Frederick C. Parker; first vice president, J. Koster; second vice president, A. C. Rufouson; treasurer, Louis Saron; secretary, H. M. Patrick; assistant secretary, Frank J. Seaton; secretary-treasurer, G. V. Manning; sergeant at arms, J. Bell.
