

WAS ROBBED THREE HOURS THREE REVOLVERS CAUGHT

Intoxicated Teamster Holds Up 14 Men in Saloon at Revolver's Point

Woman's Cries for Help Frighten Bandit, Who Is Captured After Auto Pursuit

Crazed with liquor and bent on robbery, George Smith, a teamster, masked and armed, rushed into the saloon of Giovanni Ghiotto at 4534 Mission street at 4:20 o'clock yesterday morning and commanded the 14 men in the place to throw up their hands.

After a chase in an automobile by Policemen A. W. Hextrum and M. E. Mitchell, Smith, who had thrown his mask and revolver aside, was captured while endeavoring to escape in a mission street car and was booked at the Inglefield station on one charge of attempted robbery and three charges of assault with intent to commit murder.

FIRES INTO CROWD

By giving his command to the inmates of the saloon to "lie up," Smith discharged his pistol at Ghiotto, who sustained a scalp wound; Salvador Basso of 805 Edinburgh street, who was wounded over the right eye, and Frank Sullivan, who was slightly cut across the chest by a 38 caliber bullet. It was at this juncture that Mrs. Ghiotto came upon the scene and frightened Smith into flight.

The would-be holdup man dashed out of the place, up Mission street to Onondaga street, and was closely pursued by a number of his intended victims in an automobile. The policemen jumped into the auto and, sighting Smith, ordered him to stop. He cast aside his handkerchief mask and his pistol, and made a final effort to catch a car, but was overtaken and placed under arrest.

All three of Smith's victims were taken to the Mission emergency hospital, where their slight flesh wounds were dressed. That none of the men was fatal was not the fault of the man now in custody, for he shot deliberately at the line of 14 men as they stood before him.

BUSHES INTO SALOON

According to the story told to the police, Ghiotto was behind the bar at the time and was serving drinks to a number of milk wagon drivers who were in the place. With no attempt to take a preliminary survey of the Smith, he rushed through the swinging doors and, with pistol drawn and his face shielded behind a large white handkerchief, commanded all in the place to hold up their hands. There was immediate confusion and to emphasize his command Smith fired deliberately at Ghiotto and turned the weapon on the group of patrons. As soon as it was clear that a holdup was taking place all present put their hands above their heads and waited for the search. With Ghiotto bleeding and Basson also wounded, Smith completely cowed the group and was moving forward to take their valuables and money when the woman appeared from a rear doorway. Smith turned his pistol on her, but she turned and fled. He then discharged the revolver at the group, cursing as he did so, and dashed back through the front door of the saloon.

PLEADS INTOXICATION

At the central station Smith declared that he knew nothing of the matter except that he had entered the saloon and discharged his pistol while under the influence of liquor. He insists that he was not sober and knew little of what he was doing at the time.

The witnesses who were commanded to stand up by Smith were Leo Dondero, Gus Maria and Tony Pochela of 276 Bartlett street; C. Fabronio, Petito Fortini and Shes Mass, 42 Huntington street; J. W. Murray of 234 Paris street, Elzi Mario of 276 Bartlett street, H. E. Bover of 437 Lisbon street, Tortill Muesanti of 311 Paris street, and those injured by Smith's wild firing. All declared that Smith was intoxicated at the time.

GOVERNOR GIVES REASONS FOR CALL

Says Extra Session of Legislature is Necessary to Change the Amendment

[Special Dispatch to The Call] SACRAMENTO, Oct. 2.—Governor Gillett returned late last night from Humboldt county, where he has spent the last two weeks, and gave his reasons for changing his mind and calling an extra session of the legislature, as follows:

"I was given wrong information at first, and did not think it necessary to put the state to the expense of the session. I was told by attorneys that the measure was valid as it was.

"It was pointed out by others that there was danger in passing the amendment in the present form, and saw the uncertainty in the language. The state had spent money in the commission and securing the data, and all this would be lost if the amendment was not drawn up properly.

"The session should not last more than one day, as the insertion of three words is all that is necessary for the members to do."

PROOF OF LECTURE IS HIS OWN BODY

Christian Science Speaker Says Religion Cured Him

The doctrines of the Christian Science faith illustrated by a cure effected in himself were outlined in a lecture given at the Columbia theater yesterday afternoon by Frank H. Leonard, C. S. B., of Brooklyn, N. Y., a member of the Christian Science board of lecturership.

The speaker said that the work which Christian Science is doing is enabling the world to eliminate from consciousness and belief that there is any other than the spiritual life. "To be a Christian," he said, "means to be a follower of Christ, and to be a follower of Christ one must be a doer of the word, and must bring out all the fruits which Jesus said should be brought out by those who followed him in spirit and in truth."

Speaking of his own case he said that in 1885, when a boy, he was afflicted with a disease declared by physicians to be incurable and, as a last resort, sought the aid of Christian Science, with the result that he recovered.

"Since then," he said, "I have seen little of every description met and named by Christian Science. I have seen men and women made well morally and physically and my continued study makes me sure that Christian Science both practically and transcendently is the most precious of all the good of which human consciousness may conceive."

The speaker praised Mrs. Eddy highly, saying that as a religious reformer she occupied a unique position in the history of the world.

"She is unwavering in her trust in the goodness of God," he said, "and unquestioning in her obedience to his commands."
