SHERIFF FEARS I. W. W. JAIL BREAK

Guards With Shotguns Ready to Prevent the Escape of Prisoners

[Special Dispatch to The Call] FRESNO, Oct. 27.—Fearing an attempted jail break on the part of the 144 members of the industrial workers of the world, who are confined in the Fresno county jail, Sheriff Chittenden has had an armed guard around the outside of the jail for two nights, each man having orders to shoot any persons seen coming out of the jail without permission.

The placing of these guards, armed with sawed off shotguns, around the jail, followed the discovery of several Jimnies and other appliances in the cell and torn screens on the outside of one of the windows. Brick dust was found to have been scraped away from the side of the building.

Sheriff Chittenden received the following letter today from the members of the industrial workers of the world, who are now in jail:

"To jailor or sheriff: We, the free speech prisoners, ask for the following improvements in our condition: Proper and sufficient bedding, regular jail rations, tobacco, both smoking and chewing, our friends be allowed to visit on visiting days and bring our literature, hot water and disinfectant to remove vermin and keep clean."

Upon the receipt of this letter, Sheriff Chittenden said that he recognized the organization and he declared that unless the I. W. W. men acted like the other prisoners, they would be severely punished. They have already been treated to several cold water baths.

Senator Boynton attacks the amendment on the following grounds: That it is too restrictive; that it impairs California securities in favor of interest securities; that it raises the interest rates; that the university fund would be repealed and the school fund impaired; that municipal ownership would be rendered difficult; that it is possible that the plan has resulted in gross corruption and abuse in states that have similar provisions; that corporations would have no interest in keeping down county and city taxes, and so would endeavor to be extravagant with the cities and counties wherever possible.

According to the story he did not run away from Yountville but was given $10 and placed on board a train for Stockton by one of the attendants.

TEAM OF AVIATORS DEFIES WIND GALE

Johnstone and Hoxsey Go Up for Altitude and Bring Down Distance Record

[Special Dispatch to The Call] NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Such are the caprices of October weather that Ralph Johnstone and Arch Hoxsey of the Wright team of aviators went up for altitude at Belmont park this afternoon and brought down the record of the day for distance.

The fifth day of the international aviation meet opened full of promise and closed in a howling gale that filled the air with whirling autumn leaves, slammed down the benches in the grandstand, ripped out the canvas screens that bar the view of those who have not paid, but hope to see, and sent such a skirlish line of dust dancing around the track that the lamps had to be lighted outside the hangars for the mechanics to find their way about the closed airfield.

A day of postponements, disappointments and scattered feats of the most daring airmanship that has yet been witnessed by an American crowd.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Such are the caprices of October weather that Ralph Johnstone and Arch Hoxsey of the Wright team of aviators went up for altitude at Belmont park this afternoon and brought down the record of the day for distance.

The fifth day of the international aviation meet opened full of promise and closed in a howling gale that filled the air with whirling autumn leaves, slammed down the benches in the grandstand, ripped out the canvas screens that bar the view of those who have not paid, but hope to see, and sent such a skirlish line of dust dancing around the track that the lamps had to be lighted outside the hangars for the mechanics to find their way about the closed airfield.

A day of postponements, disappointments and scattered feats of the most daring airmanship that has yet been witnessed by an American crowd.

Officially, flights for the Gordon Bennett elimination trials, to pick a team for distance, will defend the international trophy won at Rheims last year by Glenn H. Curtiss, opened at 9 o'clock this morning, but nobody open to paid, but hope to see, and sent such a skirlish line of dust dancing around the track that the lamps had to be lighted outside the hangars for the mechanics to find their way about the closed airfield.

At half past 1 o'clock the special prize of $10,000 offered by Thomas F. Ryan for a flight from the field to the Statue of Liberty and return was open to all aviators, but none of them dared try it.

That narrowed the program down to one hourly event for distance and altitude. Latham, in an Antoinette monoplane, for distance and Hoxsey and Johnstone, of the Wright team, for altitude, were the only ones to brave a gale of from 20 to 25 miles an hour.

Johnstone and Hoxsey tried to set their wings and hop into the gale without effort, but they showed that the way of an eagle in the air is still one of the things men do not understand.

GALE BEATS ENGINES They kept their pose beautifully, but also kept the speed of the blades they were flying in normally 35 miles an hour, and their engines were running wide open, they were pushed steadily out of view and down over the edge of the horizon. The upper gale they were jamming must have been more than 40 miles an hour, but neither was willing to come down before the other and they stuck it out until forced to land by sheer compulsion of the elements.

Both were driven miles off the course. Word came from Hoxsey first, that he had landed safely at Brentwood, L. I., about 25 miles distant. Johnstone carried 55 miles to Middle Island Village, L. I.

For the first hourly distance event, the only routine number remaining on the program was the flight of the Antoinette, in an Antoinette. He finished the hour with only 14 laps, 21.7 miles, in 55 minutes 24.5 seconds; and the figures show how persistent was his battle with the gale; but he was not beaten out by his beautiful maneuvering.
