G. O. P. MAJORITY IN SENATE TO BE REDUCED

ELECTIONS throughout the country yesterday resulted in a political convulsion of far reaching extent, similar at many points to the famous tidal wave of 1892, and apparently more widespread in its effect.

The national house of representatives was carried by the democrats, reversing the present republican majority of 43.

The United States senate will probably have a reduced republican majority as a result of legislative elections held in many states.

In New York John A. Dix, democratic candidate for governor, is elected over Henry L. Stimson, republican, by about 55,000, reversing the republican plurality of 70,000 in 1908 for Governor Hughes.

Wilson Elected

In New Jersey, Woodrow Wilson, democratic candidate for governor, is elected over Vivian M. Lewis R., by about 15,000, reversing the previous republican plurality of 8,000 for Governor Fort.

In Massachusetts, Eugene N. Foss, D., has defeated Governor Eben S. Draper, R., for re-election by about 30,000, reversing Governor Draper's former plurality of 8,000.

In Connecticut, Judge Baldwin, D., is elected governor over Charles A. Goodwin, R., by about 4,000, reversing the previous republican plurality of 16,000.

In Ohio, Governor Judson Harmon, D., candidate for re-election, appears to have carried the state by about 15,000 over Warren G. Harding, R.

Bass Leads Democrat

In New Hampshire Robert P. Bass, republican candidate for governor, is leading C. E. Carr, democrat, by about 6,000.

In Pennsylvania the election of John R. Tener, republican, for governor is claimed by a large plurality.

In Rhode Island Governor Pothier, republican candidate for re-election, is slightly in the lead of Lewis A. Waterman, democrat, with a plurality much reduced from that of 1909.

In Tennessee the fusion candidate, Ben W. Hooper, is apparently elected by 15,000.

Democratic governors have been elected in Alabama and South Carolina.

Election in Doubt

In Iowa the democrats claim the election of Claude R. Porter for governor, but this is not yet conceded.

In Wisconsin the election of the republican candidate for governor, Francis E. McGovern, is claimed by a reduced majority and the return of Senator La Follette to the United States senate is assured.

In Michigan Charles S. Osborn, republican candidate for governor, appears to have a safe lead over his opponent.

HIRAM W. JOHNSON,
The Next Governor of California

Disreputable Politics Is Defeated, Says Johnson

By Hiram W. Johnson

I think there is no question now of the result, and that by a majority of considerable extent I have been elected governor of California. I began this contest for a great cause. The cause is with me tonight in my success, and the work I started to do more than eight months ago I shall accomplish within the government of this state.

California's government no longer shall be an asset of the Southern Pacific company and William F. Herrin, but shall belong to the people—to the people alone.

The victory is a remarkable one when the odds we fought are considered. The alignment against us has been so recently exploited that it is now thoroughly understood, and for the first time in California and among the first times in the United States alignment of special interests and disreputable politics has been overcome and triumphant by defeat.

To the people of the state of California—the common people—I extend the thanks of all those who have made the good fight with me and my heartfelt gratitude. My debt to the state I will repay by keeping the faith.

MELVIN AND SLOSS POLL LARGE VOTE

Panama Fair Proposition and All Harbor Improvement Schemes Are Safely Carried

Democratic Minorities in State Legislature and Senate Reduced—Socialist Vote Will Probably Reach 50,000

ROOSEVELT PLEASED WITH NEWS FROM CALIFORNIA

[Special Dispatch to The Call]

OYSTER BAY, Nov. 8.—When Colonel Roosevelt read the early bulletins from San Francisco indicating Johnson's election a broad smile expanded over his face. "Capital, capital," he said. "This is good news."

HIRAM W. JOHNSON was elected governor by a plurality that may exceed 20,000.

With Johnson the entire republican state ticket was elected by pluralities ranging from 10,000 to 50,000.

California returned a solid republican delegation of eight congressmen.

The republicans made substantial gains in both branches of the legislature.

The democratic minority in the assembly was reduced from 20 to 8 members.

In the state senate the democratic minority was reduced from 9 to 7 members.

PANAMA FAIR TAX RATIFIED

California ratified the Panama-Pacific exposition tax and the San Francisco fair bond amendment by overwhelming votes.

The San Francisco and San Diego harbor improvement bonds were ratified by big majorities.

All the constitutional and bonding propositions were ratified, with the apparent exception of the $18,000,000 bonds for the proposed state highway system.

The republican victory was complete and crushing in its proportions.

Justices Henry A. Melvin and Max C. Sloss were elected to the supreme court by pluralities of from 30,000 to 40,000 over Judge Lawlor of San Francisco and by probable pluralities of 50,000 over Judge Bledsoe of San Bernardino.

REPUBLICAN JUSTICES CHOSEN

Republicans were elected in each of the three appellate court districts.

The board of equalization and state railroad commissions will be composed entirely of republicans.

In the first appellate court District Judge Thomas J. Lennon, republican, of Marin county defeated Judge James V. Coffey of San Francisco by a comfortable margin. Judge Lennon ran better than his friends expected in San Francisco, and the big republican vote in the nine outside counties of the district was lined up behind the Marin county jurist.

LOVELAND WINS EASILY

In the first railroad commission district Harvey D. Loveland the only republican renominated, won from Barclay Henley, democrat, by a topheavy majority.

The foregoing is based on the incomplete and partial returns available at midnight. Those returns were sufficiently comprehensive to be considered conclusive as to the election of the individuals, if not to their respective pluralities or majorities, as the case might be.

The vote for governor was full of upsets and surprises. On the face of the unofficial and incomplete returns Johnson carried San Francisco by from 1,200 to 2,000, in spite of the fact that the democrats confidently claimed this city by from 5,500 to 10,000 and its concession to Bell by the republican campaign managers. Los Angeles county, which was counted on by the republicans to give Johnson at least 15,000, swung back to a probable 7,500 for the republican standard bearer.

The big surprise of the poll was found in the vote cast for J. Stitt Wilson, socialist candidate for governor. The official returns will probably show a total of approximately 50,000 for Wilson.

In San Francisco the socialist candidate beat Bell in three assembly districts, and the official returns are expected to show that he gave the democratic candidate a hard run for second place in San Francisco. Wilson beat Bell in several election districts in Oakland.

Wallace, republican candidate for lieutenant governor, was decisively beaten in San Francisco by Spellacy, democrat, and ran behind his ticket in the state generally, but has apparently a safe plurality.

On the face of the incomplete returns Supreme Justices Melvin and Sloss, Attorney General Webb, Treasurer Williams and State Printer Shannon lead their ticket. Controller Nye had no democratic opposition and in consequence will poll the largest vote given any candidate.

Justices Melvin and Sloss ran neck and neck in San Francisco and Alameda
