

PARDEE, ROWELL AND HENEY IN FAVOR OF POSTPONING LEGISLATION UNTIL 1913

SPECIAL REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE URGES CAREFUL INVESTIGATION TO AVOID MISTAKES

By GEORGE A. VAN SMITH That conservatism may be the dominant note in the conservation work of the coming legislature is suggested by the accomplishments of the special committee on conservation appointed by the state central committee, which met last week.

After the meeting of the committee, which includes in its membership former Governor George C. Pardee, Chester H. Rowell of Fresno and Francis J. Heney, it was intimated that the committee was disposed to make haste, slowly to the end that costly mistakes might be avoided.

It is not improbable that instead of presenting anything like a bill or series of bills designed to be the foundation for a conservation policy, the special committee will recommend to the legislature that it provide for a special commission charged with the preparation of a report to be returned to the legislature in 1912.

Apparently the special committee appointed by the state central committee was able to agree upon at least one thing, and this was that it could not be expected to present to the legislature anything like a well considered solution of California's conservation problem.

While all the members of that committee have many well settled opinions upon the conservation question, it appears that none of them is willing to stand sponsor for legislation developed over night and warranted to give the state the protection promised by the republican platform.

The recommendation for the appointment of a commission charged with making a thorough investigation of the state's resources and needs and the preparation of legislation to meet those needs, could not be construed in fair-minded confidence as a desire to do anything like a well considered solution of California's conservation problem.

It is suggested that the special commission that has been formed after the manner of holdover commissions of the past, it would probably consist of two or three members of each legislative house empowered to employ expert assistance, or, possibly, the membership would include one or more persons not members of the legislature, chosen by the republican party in or expert knowledge of the subject matter.

On behalf of this "make haste slowly" policy it is argued that a painstaking investigation covering a period of two or three years would result in adequate and proper legislation and enable the republican party and Governor Johnson fully to redeem the platform pledges.

Both George C. Pardee and Francis J. Heney have taken a keen interest in the national conservation work and they have been suggested as probable members of the holdover commission, if it be constituted to include any other than legislative members.

The present commission on conservation is one of the least desirable plums in the gift of the governor, but apparently few if any are more earnestly sought by the good citizens who are making it their business to see that Johnson's administration succeeds.

General Lauck, incumbent, is convinced that he could serve Commander in Chief Johnson as ably as any other candidate. Colonel W. G. Schreiber of Los Angeles and the Seventh regiment. He is said to be the favored candidate of some of the Los Angeles republicans identified with the last state campaign, and one of the uniform manufacturing concerns. It is also said that he exhibited democratic tendencies in the last campaign.

San Diego has a candidate in the person of Major Herbert R. Fay of the citizen soldiers of America and the Fifth regiment is said to be more than willing to exchange the unremunerated honors of his rank for the more solid rewards and larger cares of the adjutant general's office. Colonel W. K. Ritter is out after the place with a strong backing, but the military authorities say that he is charging into a mine and is a protégé of Dr. Fred P. Clark, superintendent of the Stockton hospital and has served as secretary of the San Joaquin county republican committee. Pardee has been regular in politics, but has some strong progressive friends who are expected to land him in the desired berth.

The Smart Set

MISS ENID GREGG has written from Honolulu that she will fly by Miss Elyse Schultz. Miss Schultz has accepted the invitation to aviate, so it is assumed that Miss Gregg will also make an air trip and lend eclat to a brilliant flying season.

However, if the pleasure must be vicarious this year, it is encouraging to reflect that every one will aviate in a few seasons. One may find biplanes in the New York department stores, where they are displayed as casually as are kites.

One San Francisco girl, who was among the graceful bridesmaids at a recent wedding, will hold the record for extremes. It is rather difficult to explain. She will have accomplished the longest perpendicular, when she flies, because she has already explored the ocean in a diving suit and has several fathoms to her credit in an air record.

The diving trip was an adventure of her subdebutante days in Santa Barbara, three years ago. Subdebutante is a term that is used to refer to girls who have not made their debuts. It is a hybrid, but accepted, and may be found useful. The San Francisco girl was very interested one summer in the daily descents of divers who wandered among indifferent fishes in the depths of Santa Barbara channel.

It was a difficult thing to do, but determination resulted in her descent. She wore the regulation rubber garments and helmet with windows. An air tube and rope to pull in danger completed the fascinating equipment. With several friends she rowed out into the channel and went down to its sandy floor.

A rather profitless excursion when she has explored the air, but one that will give her the record for perpendicularity, if there is such a word. The holiday season will be crowded with dancing parties for the younger set, and after the Greenway assembly Friday evening there will be a series of these delightful affairs, at which will gather the young people who are home for holiday vacations.

One of the most elaborate of the number will be given New Year eve at the Palace by Mr. and Mrs. William H. Crocker for their son, William Crocker Jr., who is home from school, and will be the feted guest among 200 young friends. Mr. and Mrs. Crocker will pass the holidays at "New Place," their Burlingame home.

Mr. John McMullin and her granddaughter, Miss Eliza McMullin, will pass the holidays in Washington, where they have been entertaining a visit of several weeks and have been delightfully entertained. They will remain probably until the return of Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond from Europe in January and will proceed to New York, where they will be entertained by friends.

The date for their return home has not been decided upon. Miss Anna Peters was hostess at a luncheon given yesterday at the Palace, when Miss Harriet Stone, a debutante of the season, was the honored guest. The decorations were in the holiday greens and brilliant berries. Among the girls who met Miss Stone yesterday were:

Miss Evelyn Barron, Miss Kathleen Farrell, Miss Ella Sontag, Miss Eibel Shorb, Miss Marie Louise Tyson, Miss Helen Leavitt, Miss Jane Hotelling, Miss Florence McLean, Miss Amalia Simpson, Miss Marguerite Doe, Miss Mabel Green, Miss Lurline Matson, Mrs. Harry Wiehe, Mrs. Robert Hayes Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Spreckels Jr. will receive their friends Christmas day from 3 until 6 o'clock at their home, 2099 Pacific avenue. Nothing in the house was missed. Because her jewelry was cheap, in the estimation of a thief, Mrs. A. Rempp of 1277 Geary street has her rings and pins, but not her purse. Monday night she noticed a person in the yard. She went out to investigate, and found it was a thief, who took her rings and pins, but after an examination he returned them, contenting himself with her purse.

Two youths entered the home of A. Farrell, 77 Nelson street, near Mission, Monday afternoon. They went in the front door by means of a pass key and ransacked the house. They were seen by neighbors.

The board of education at its meeting yesterday, on motion of Director Payot, decided to establish a free lecture bureau for the pupils during school hours, and for adults in the evening; the proposition is explained in the following:

Whereas, the board of education believes that a system of free public lectures for school pupils and adults is desirable, said lectures giving the results of the latest developments in science, history, political science, etc., thereby encouraging reading and study to definite ends and developing a wider and deeper interest in the schools on the part of the people by making said schools and their equipment centers for the present at the following school buildings:

- Lincoln - Monroe
Girls' high - Sheridan
Yeha Buena - Spring Valley
Frank McCoppin - Suro
Burnet - Japigia Honda
Mission high - Junipero Serra
Mission grammar - Mission

Resolved, that the following named persons interested in all that is being done to improve conditions in this city be invited to act as advisory commission to this bureau of education in carrying out the purposes above mentioned, namely:

- J. P. Young - Raphael Weil
Walter MacArthur - Dr. C. Rosenberg
Willis P. Wood - Harris Winstock
E. S. Simpson - James Prof. Jr.
Thomas E. Hayden

Resolved, that Prof. M. E. Blanchard, Ph. D., of the Mission high school, and Prof. G. O. Mitchell, of the Girls' high school, be and they are hereby appointed secretary of the lecture bureau and director of lectures, respectively. Each in his own line to arrange for and carry out all details necessary for the proper and successful outcome of the system hereby instituted, and each to serve for such time and at such compensation as the board of education may determine.

The first of a series of lectures will be by Lieutenant Beck, U. S. A., in the Mission high school, Wednesday, January 4, on aviation. Leave of absence was granted to the following teachers on account of illness: Nora T. Fogarty, Lena Booth, Adrienne Spzdini, Margaret McGraw, Eleanor G. McEwen and Mathilde B. Conway.

The resignation of Mathilde Adams Spozio and that of Rose Ryan as teachers in the department, were accepted. Leopold Maries was assigned from the substitute list to the Irving M. Scott evening school, and the following transfers were ordered: Miss G. A. McGinness from the Sunnyside to the Moulder school, vice Mrs. Cora Tompkins, dead; Miss Mary Boyle from the James Jack to the Roosevelt school, vice Miss Sutherland; Miss A. B. Boyle from the Dudley Stone to the Jean Parker school, vice Eleanor G. McEwen, on sick leave.

Mrs. Margaret C. Kelly was appointed head of the department of mathematics in the Mission high school, vice Rose Ryan resigned, and Miss Alice H. Lande was designated to serve as vice principal of the Roosevelt school during the absence of Miss A. E. Sleator on sick leave.

The board of supervisors is to be asked to appropriate $3,500 for the equipment of the Longfellow school; $2,000 for the Fragnat school, and $1,500 for a fence in front of the Mission grammar school.

The mayor was authorized to sell by public auction the shacks in which the Sheridan school was held, also to sell the buildings on the two lots recently purchased and adjoining the new Sheridan school, so that the site may be used for an additional school yard.

Mrs. M. Benson was appointed janitress for the Ocean side school. A request from the socialist party to permit pupils of the high schools to conduct a prize debate on socialism was denied on the ground that the pupils were not sufficiently mature age to take up such subjects.

President Bannerman declared that he, for one, would not permit anything like politics to be discussed by the pupils of any school in the department.

THREE POWELL STREET MANHOLES BLOW UP

Christmas shoppers were startled by the blowing up of three manholes simultaneously in Powell street near Sutter early yesterday afternoon. The covers were thrown nearly 20 feet in the air and narrowly missed striking several persons. The explosions were caused by sparks from electric wires igniting escaped gas.

PRICE OF RATS IS EXPECTED TO FALL

HUMAN HAIR MARKET GLUTTED BY TWO HUNDRED MILLION QUEUES

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 21.—The date set for the removal of the queues from the heads of male Chinese was December 5, and when the steamship Ayerwick left China a few days before that time more effective measures were being generally obeyed.

Assuming that nearly 200,000,000 queues will be cut off, the human hair market will be glutted. The prevailing style of hair dressing in the United States calls for much artificial hair, but not nearly so much as is available. Human hair may be woven into cloth, but the fabric is stiff and unworkable.
