[Special Dispatch to The Call] RED BLUFF, Jan. 27.—It is not em-after breaking the engagement and marrying another, according to a local justice of peace. The decision was rendered in the case of Mrs. James Callahan, arrested a few days ago on complaint of E. Thorp, a Southern Pacific brakeman.

Thorp said that he gave Mrs. Callahan an engagement ring worth $200. He declared that she had the complaint kept the ring and was married a few days later to James Callahan.
Thorp demanded his diamond but Mrs. Callahan refused to return it.
Thorp then swore to the complaint charging embezzlement. Mrs. Callahan was acquitted.
