WILL OF LATE EDITOR DARGIE PROVED IN COURT

Executors Not to Give Bonds, According to Wish of Testator

OAKLAND, March 8.—The will of William E. Dargie was admitted to probate today, and M. C. Chapman, John F. Connors, and J. C. Amund were named executors without bonds by Judge Brown, in accordance with the wishes of Dargie.

No opposition was made by Mrs. Erminia Dargie and her attorneys, A. A. Moore and Stanley Moore, were not in court, and the proceedings were entirely formal. The law allows Mrs. Dargie a year in which to begin a contest.

Attorneys Eugene E. Trefethen and William S. Wells Jr. testified that they saw Dargie sign the will. The executors testified that they knew his handwriting and that the codicil, which was written while Dargie was in Japan, was in his handwriting.

The executors also testified that the real property belonging to the estate was worth about $150,000 and brought in a revenue of about $20,000 a year, that the personal property was worth $500,000 and that the entire estate was worth more than $650,000. With the caution that has marked all their moves they declared that they were not prepared to say how much of the estate, if any, was community property, and that they were not prepared to admit that Mrs. Dargie was an heir at law.

Mrs. Dargie's petition for a family allowance of $1,500 a month will be heard tomorrow morning in Judge Brown's court.

WOMAN WIELDS WET UMBRELLA ON MAN

Mistress of Students' Boarding House Gives Horse Trader Dripping Blow

OAKLAND, March 8.—Resenting remarks made by Dan Happ, one of the proprietors of a horse market at Second street and Broadway, Mrs. R. Saulages, keeper of a students' boarding house at 2144 University avenue, Berkeley, is said to have hit Happ in the face with a wet umbrella. Happ retaliated today by swearing out a warrant for her arrest on a charge of battery.

Policeman Conroy served the warrant on Mrs. Saulages at her home. She gave $50 bond and will appear in the police court tomorrow morning.

Mrs. Saulages bought a Shetland pony from Happ a few days ago, and the trouble resulted. She was dissatisfied with the animal, which suddenly disappeared. Thinking the pony had gone back to the stables at Second street and Broadway, Mrs. Saulages went there in the rain. The quarrel with Happ and the blow with the wet umbrella followed. Today the Shetland was recovered.

UNIVERSITY ISSUES TREATISE ON WHEAT

Prof. George Shaw Tells How to Increase Crop

BERKELEY, March 8.—Methods to be utilized for the maximum crop of wheat, prepared after five years' experimentation on the part of the university and federal departments of agriculture, have been announced by Prof. George W. Shaw, chief agronomist of the university. His bulletin on the subject is entitled "How to Increase the Yield of Wheat in California."

Professor Shaw has disclosed ways of increasing the yield of wheat per acre, without deteriorating the soil. Old methods are still in use despite instructions issued to ranchers advising them how to get the largest returns from their fields. Deep plowing for wheat, with a green manure of peas, rye, horsebeans or vetch, is the secret of the new system. In his report of the experiments, given out in pamphlets, Professor Shaw shows a yield of nine bushels per acre through deep plowing over the yield by shallow tillage, causing permanent beneficial results in the wheat fields.

He said in part: "It appears that it is rather the mass of green stuff that can be introduced into the soil that rather than the character of the material."

Professor Shaw claims that one of the factors which has tended to reduce the yield of wheat in California is the mistake in continually selecting small wheat for seed, pointing out that large, heavy grains are the best.

Loss of production by smut is prevented to a large degree by the use of a bluestem mixture, tests carried on at Yuba City showing the mixture very efficient.

The report concludes with a comparison of the representative values of the new seeds which have been imported from abroad, tabulated results being furnished on white Australian, Washington bluestem, Sonora, Propo, little chisel and chisel wheats, the latter an importation from Russia, which has proved high in protein, and forming bread of close texture.
