

MISCHA ELMAN TO BE HEARD TODAY

Russian Violinist Returns to San Francisco After Absence of Two Years

Reinhold von Warlich, Muscovite Basso Cantante, to Appear Here in April

Mischa Elman, the young Russian violin virtuoso, will make his reappearance on a local stage after an absence of two years at the new Scottish Rite auditorium this afternoon.

Elman is a prominent member of a group of five world great violinists. In certain qualities of tonal charm he stands alone.

At the age of 20 Elman has astonished the world with his art. If he plays as well now, what will be his achievement when he reaches the age of 35 or 40?

Among the interesting items on today's program are the artist's own transcription of Tchaikovsky's mournful number, "No. 10, 'Adieu, Adieu'."

The last concert in this city will be played next Sunday afternoon, when an entirely new program will be presented.

During the week the box office will be maintained at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s. An Oakland concert will be given at the Liberty theater Friday afternoon.

In accordance with a policy which has usually been justified artistically but not always financially, of bringing to us every season an artist unknown in the west, Manager Greenbaum offers this year a new vocalist, Reinhold von Warlich, a Russian basso cantante.

Adding interest to the announced recital of the young singer will be the statement that with him comes Uda Waldrop, who was a well known pianist and musician when he left a pupil of Wallace Sabin, and an artist of great promise and talent.

The first concert to be given by this twain will be presented this evening, April 6, at the Scottish Rite auditorium.

Von Warlich was born in St. Petersburg, where his father officiated as the German conductor of the city orchestra.

At the age of 15 years the lad was a proficient performer on both the violin and piano. He was then taken to Genoa to study composition. There he developed remarkable singing voice and then went to Italy, where he placed himself under the guidance of the masters of bel canto.

An interesting feature of the concert of the Loring club next Tuesday evening at Christian Science hall will be the first appearance of Miss Fanny M. Lehmann, soprano. She will sing "Liza Lehmann's" setting of the song "Endymion" and Richard Strauss' "Zueignung."

The list of compositions for men's voices to be presented by the club includes an attractive setting of "Rise, Sleep no More," composed by Dr. H. J. Stewart and dedicated to the Loring club, this composition and Alexander Staeger's setting of the song "Liza Lehmann's."

Other notable numbers are Billette's "At Sunset," for chorus of men's voices with tenor solo and Ludwig Lieber's thrilling "Choral of Leuthen," being a setting of the story of the victory of Frederick the Great's army. Two Swedish folk songs, "The Song of the Soldier" and "The Song of the Soldier," are also included.

Wallace A. Sabin will direct the concert, the accompanists being Frederick Maurer, piano, and R. Fletcher Hubbard, organ.

There will be a recital of Passion music at the chapel of the Church of the Advent, 1011 Broadway, between 11 and 12 o'clock, Friday evening, March 31, at 8:15 p. m.

Miss Anita Parker, who will be remembered as the promising pupil of Anna Miller Wood, who was heard in a recital across the bay under the auspices of that noted teacher two years ago, has been sojourning for a few weeks in California, resting before her return to the east to continue her studies.

For the past two years Miss Parker has been in New York under the tutelage of Mrs. Emma Thursby.

Her voice showed remarkable promise and expressiveness, and she possessed in abundance that temperament which the artist must have in order to carry the message of beauty in song to the hearer.

Youthful Virtuoso Has Splendid Program Ready

Mischa Elman, Russian violin virtuoso, who makes his reappearance here this afternoon after an absence of two years, and Uda Waldrop, who comes to San Francisco in April as accompanist of Reinhold von Warlich, a Russian basso cantante.

promised the complete instrumentation of the Russian symphonies.

Four vocalists will also be brought from New York to supply the song portion of the week's festival of music, which is promised to begin Sunday afternoon, April 23, for one week, with two special programs at the Greek theater under the auspices of the University of California.

Herman S. Heller's big orchestra will present at the St. Francis hotel tonight a very promising program. The selections are made from Russian composers. This is the list:

- Oratorio, Solomon, "The Messiah"
(a) "Chanson Triste" Tchaikovsky
(b) "Chanson Sans Paroles" Tchaikovsky
(c) "Russian Fantasy" Tchaikovsky
(d) "Serenade" Moszkowski
(e) "Tosca" Respighi
(f) "The Opera 'Eugene Onegin'"
(g) "Andante cantabile" Tchaikovsky
(h) "Kamomet Ostrom" Tchaikovsky
(i) Suite from the "Casse-Noisette" Tchaikovsky

The Zech orchestra under the direction of William Zech will give its first concert of the season Tuesday evening, April 25, at Scott's Rite auditorium.

Among the numbers to be played will be the prelude to Wagner's "Meister-singer" and the "Egmont" overture, and the fifth symphony by Beethoven.

Mme. M. Bardellini, who has brought from the east an excellent reputation as a trainer of voices, presented a sample of the results of her work last Sunday night at Miss Heard's school, when her pupils were heard in a recital of excellent song.

"Quo Vadis" was presented last night for the first time in America in grand opera form at the Metropolitan opera house in Philadelphia.

The trial of Daniel E. Blackburn, the San Mateo supervisor accused of agreeing to accept a bribe to vote favorably for a claim of the H. S. Crocker company, was set for May 10 by Judge Cabanis yesterday.

Contributions for the Chinese famine sufferers swelled the total of the fund being raised by the chamber of commerce to more than $5,000.

There will be a recital of Passion music at the chapel of the Church of the Advent, 1011 Broadway, between 11 and 12 o'clock, Friday evening, March 31, at 8:15 p. m.

Animated Models AT CITY OF PARIS

Harem Skirts and Empire Waists Parade Amid Tropical Flowers and Feathers

All the latest modes from Paris, hinting with more or less fervor of the harem as regards skirts, of the empire as regards waists, and of the birds and flowers of the tropics when it comes to colors, were shown at the City of Paris yesterday.

Nothing attracted more attention than the "fresco" harem skirt, the first which has made its appearance in San Francisco.

The empire waist is made in surplice fashion, and fastened in the back with an exaggerated large hook and eye of brilliant, from the center the skirt is gathered into bands of rhinestone embroidered chiffon, slashed up at the outside, producing the effect of an Egyptian skirt rather than Turkish trousers.

Street gowns of silk and satin are shown as well as some very handsome one piece street gowns in dark blue serge with elaborate garnitures of black in satin, braids and embroideries.

A gang of workmen digging a trench in the center of Sansome street, north of Bush, are bringing up load after load of sand that was used early in 1852 to fill in the street, which at that time ran for several blocks north, sloping toward Battery street and the waters of the bay.
