

SEATTLE BANKER SUES FOR FAMILY

Divorced Wife Accused of Employing Nurse After Kidnaping to Defy Court

A. J. Henry Wins Fight Against Spouse He Had Charged With Unfaithfulness

Pearl Wyckoff, the San Francisco nurse in whose care Mrs. Iva May Henry, divorced wife of Albert J. Henry, the Seattle banker, placed her two children after kidnaping them, was directed by Judge Mogan yesterday to produce them in court Tuesday at 12 o'clock. W. H. Metson, the lawyer to whom the writ of habeas corpus was issued, spent the remainder of the day trying to locate the nurse to serve her with the writ. Miss Wyckoff's address is 2519 Pine street, but it was stated there that she was not at home and that she left no information as to her whereabouts.

In his petition for a writ of habeas corpus, Metson said the father of the children had appointed him to act as their custodian, but that the nurse had refused to give them up. Metson said he feared Mrs. Henry intended to spirit the children away in order to avoid the judgment of the Seattle court in awarding them to the care of their father.

Albert J. Henry, who is a clerk in the Seattle national bank, obtained a divorce March 30, 1911. He accused his

Railroads in Fierce Race in Stanislaus

[Special Dispatch to The Call] MODESTO, April 1.—The fight to see which railroad company will build the first electric railway through Stanislaus county promises to be interesting. At a mass meeting at Turlock last evening businessmen and bankers spoke in favor of aiding the road by a stock subscription of $75,000 and the securing of rights of way from Turlock to Merced.

Thayer, foreman of the construction crew for the Southern Pacific here. Smith was discharged by Thayer. He refused to leave and the two engaged in a fist fight. Activities of Women's Clubs

By MARY ASHE MILLER

NOW is the time when the test of women as they are will be made in the women's clubs of the city. Nominations for officers for the coming year are in order for this week in several of the clubs, and while tickets are sometimes prepared, nominations from the floor are the "real fun" of the occasions.

In the California club there is some little curiosity and perturbation as to what will be forthcoming. According to a well established precedent the president is elected for a year and re-elected for another. Last year there was one of the bitterest contests ever known in the club, resulting in the election of Mrs. Lovell White to the presidency. Mrs. Emilia Tojetti was her opponent. This year by all the stabilities appertaining to a woman's club, Mrs. White should ride unobstructedly on to victory. Maybe she will, though maybe she won't.

There are those who upheld the Tojetti colors last year who would like to upset all former rulings and make another effort to place her in the president's chair. No one knows what will be done. The political atmosphere is being busily sniffed for indications and if any of Mrs. White's adherents of last year can be found weakened and off their guard this year they will be dragged into the Tojetti camp. If, however, the White party has gained strength during the year, the Tojetti followers will wait with more or less patience until 1912 to give her the honor they so ardently desire for her.

The nominations take place on Tuesday and fluttering hearts will accompany many a California club member to the meeting.

The Mill Valley outdoor art club held a meeting of unusual interest on Thursday afternoon of last week, a program being presented by guests as well as members of the club. Chaplain W. H. Lloyd of San Quentin told the audience of his work in the prison and of his associates of all classes and creeds. Superintendent William J. Day of the California prison commission, told of the work and aims of the commission in aiding discharged prisoners. There were musical numbers as well.

The regularly monthly meeting of the Sunday assembly of the California club will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the clubhouse, 1750 Clay street, and all business women are invited to be present. Miss Frances Joliffe will give an address and C. H. Thayer will sing. Those present will be given an opportunity to see the paintings of Louis Grauer, of which 100 will be hung on the walls of the auditorium.

The Channing auxiliary will meet on Monday afternoon, the hostesses of the day being Mrs. Charles L. Cough, chairman; Mrs. E. A. Blodgett, Mrs. James A. Margo, Mrs. William Hood, Mrs. Edward Mills, Mrs. W. O. Raiguel, Mrs. Jonathan Sweigert, Mrs. W. B. Cotrel and Mrs. W. B. Judson.

Mrs. George H. Martin will read from her book, "Lead by the Light," which tells of her personal experience in traveling through the Holy Land. There will be music by Miss Alice J. Andrews, soprano, and the Misses Theresa and Lily Sherwood, mandolin and guitar.

To Kalon will meet on Tuesday at Jackson and Fillmore streets, and after a business meeting, a program will be given, opening with a travel talk by Mrs. E. G. Dennison, readings by Mrs. Will S. Pardy and Mrs. D. E. F. Easton; a recitation by Mrs. Dorothy Dempster; songs by Miss Virginia Cleary, Miss Louise Smith and Frederick R. Granle; piano solo by Miss Laura Ferguson and a violin solo by Miss Margaret Everett, accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Bull. Dr. H. J. Stewart will accompany Miss Smith.

There is to be no program at the California club meeting on Tuesday and no guests will be present. The order of business will consist of nomination of officers, directors and membership committee and the election of delegates to the annual convention of the state federation in Long Beach next month.

The drama study section will present a play "How the Vote Was Won" on Wednesday evening at the clubhouse, in which will appear Mrs. William Henry, Miss Mary Henry, Miss Charlotte Kett, Miss Irene Farrell, Mrs. Clinton Walker, Miss Cornelia McKinnis, Miss Florence Locke, Miss Ethel Moore, Mrs. John G. Howell and Joseph Rosborough.

The Women's assembly district meetings will meet on the first and third Wednesdays of each month hereafter in the Pacific building, instead of every Wednesday as was originally planned. On next Wednesday J. M. Izett will speak on "New Zealand and Ideal Government."

"Tolstol's Message to Russia and the World" will be the subject of an address by the Rev. William D. Simonds before the Laurel Hall club next Wednesday afternoon, when Mrs. H. J. Sadler will be the club hostess. Charles Neale will play a flute solo, accompanied by Mrs. A. T. Pinkham. The nomination of officers will take place on Wednesday, April 19.

The Papyrus club will meet on Thursday afternoon for a business
