

CAVALORRY CHIEF? ALAS! NO, SAYS ONE PRISONER

"Honestly," Declares Perez Devera, "I Never Was the Head of Anything"

Moreover, He Feels Flattered at Being Considered Person of Distinction

VITERBO, Italy, April 20.—Perez Devera, accused of being the head of the amorra in Porto Capuana, a district of Naples, contributed to the entertainment of the audience in the court of the assizes today with a humorous touch that came as a relief after the agonizing exhibitions of those who preceded him on the stand.

MOCK GRAVITY IN SPEECH

He spoke in mock gravity, winding up his speech thus: "I know nothing of the murder of Gennaro Cuccolo and the beautiful Sorrentina. It is said that I was the head of the camorra of Porto Capuana. Alas! no, I wish that I had been; but, honestly, I never was the head of anything."

The state does not accept Devera at his own estimate. It alleged that he was a dangerous man, and so high in the councils of the camorra that he was one of those who met at the Aida tavern in the Bagola five years ago and condemned their associate, Cuccolo, to death.

De Lucia, another of those said to have sat in judgment on the treachery of Cuccolo, was interrogated today. He said he was not connected with the camorra.

ADMISSION OF CRIMES

Gennaro Valcarel was next questioned. While denying the present charges he admitted that he was a criminal and had fallen into the clutches of the law 14 times. He had intended to go to the United States, but was unable to secure a passport.

The attorneys for the defense renewed their application for an inspection of the orders for the arrest of Ciro Vittozzi, the priest, and Giacomo Ascritore, asserting that these orders had been issued in blank, making it possible for the carabinieri to fill them at their discretion. President Bianchi again refused the application.

Convictions Admitted

Several other prisoners were interrogated at the afternoon session. Garoglio said that the accusations were based only on inventions of the carabinieri.

Fraumeno, who admitted having been convicted 14 times, said that he was out of Naples with De Martinis at the time of the Cuccolo murder, and therefore could have had no part in it.

Another, Amati, said he was nicknamed "the priest" and therefore could not be a member of the camorra. A fourth witness, Postiglione, when asked how many times he had been condemned, said so many that he could not remember, but like the others, he denied complicity in the killing of Cuccolo.

VITAL POINT REACHED IN VETO BILL DEBATE

LONDON, April 20.—The debate on clause 2 of the veto bill, which restricts the power of the house of lords over measures other than money bills, opened in the house of commons this evening. Both sides realize that there are many sleepless nights ahead of them, as the clause will be fought line by line, and so are bringing up their clients' names in the government holding reinforcements within half an hour of the opposition to spring a surprise. Meanwhile the ministers are satisfied to carry their points by majorities of from 60 to 80.

LEGISLATORS SALARIES RAISED

The house of commons voted yesterday to increase the salaries of its members. The principal reason advanced for the increase was that the direct primaries had caused a heavy increase in campaign expenses.

Captain of Barkentine Slashed With Own Sword

The gunner that hoist with his own petard has a place in his own mind. Captain Carlsson of the barkentine Lahaina jumped into fame yesterday as a warrior slashed with his own sword. The captain in the past grand hypothesis, or something like that, of the solemn and secret order of parallelism, or words to that effect. With the office goes a uniform and a sword. He was taking the sword ashore with him yesterday in Crowley launch No. 10, when the trusty weapon was given its bath in Carlson gore.

The launch went wrong with the steering gear. The launch, which was going at full speed, made a sudden swerve and, before the engineers could reverse the engine, the boat struck squarely against the unyielding side of a lumber barge.

At that particular moment the captain, sword in hand, was going through one of the drills at which the grand hyp. must be an expert. Bang went the launch, over went the skipper. The sword flew out of his hand and when he fell his chin encountered the steel blade, which carved a crimson furrow around the starboard side of his lower jaw.

The launch was badly strained, the captain will look like a graduate of Heidelberg for the rest of his life, but the sword emerged from the encounter blushing with the glory of having at last accomplished the purpose for which it was forged.

LIGHTNER MINE SALE IS STOPPED

First Payment of $45,000 Attached by J. C. Coleman on Judgment of $140,000

[Special Dispatch to The Call] STOCKTON, April 20.—The affairs of the Lightner mining company, whose property at Angels has produced $2,000,000 in gold, are involved in litigation. A jury in Calaveras county recently gave John C. Coleman judgment for damages in the sum of $140,000. For years the Lightner company, many of the stock holders of which live in Stockton, worked properties in which Coleman claimed partnership.

Attorney McGee of Jackson brought suit for Coleman and a jury gave his client judgment. In the meantime more than two-thirds of the Lightner stock holders had voted in favor of selling the mine. A deal was closed whereby the stock holders were to receive $150,000 net.

Attorney McGee has levied an attachment on the first payment, amounting to $45,000. The money is on deposit in the Calaveras County bank at Angels, tied up by the legal action. The stock holders, in order to appeal the damage suit, levied an assessment of 5 cents a share, raising a sum amounting to $5,000. This also has been attached by Coleman's lawyer.

Officers Say Lads Broke Into School Building

OAKLAND, April 20.—Arrested last Saturday night for burglary and released on probation by the juvenile court, Joseph Piva and James Johnson, 8 and 9 years old, were arrested again today by Detective McSorley, and accused of robbing the Cole school at Tenth and Union streets last night.

The police found the boys in a vacant lot near the school. Their parents had reported them as missing this morning. Both were sent to the detention home that Saturday night by James Riley, 10 years old, broke into Mrs. W. H. Price's home at 932 Linden street.

YOUNG STOWAWAY WAS A BON VIVANT

He Stowed Away Siberia's Best Viands Lavishly Until Discovered

When the passengers on the liner Siberia sat down to dinner the day the ship left Hongkong they all noticed an imperious youth, 12 years old, who kept the celestial waiters on the jump. At the first dinner the passengers take whatever seats they like and the boy, Harold Alexander Peter Clifton, had the choicest seat in the big salon. He ordered like a veteran and did not hesitate, when a dish did not suit him, to express his opinion of the chef who would allow such a blurb, or whatever it was, to leave the kitchen.

About 2 o'clock in the morning a watchman found him wandering about the deck. He could not find his mother's room, he said. He had forgotten the number. He would not for the world have anybody disturbed by making inquiries at that time of night, and if the watchman would just order him a cup of coffee and then show him any old room he would turn in and locate his mother at breakfast time.

Before breakfast time, however, the ship's clerical force had all the passengers tagged, and there was no tag that fitted Harold Alexander Peter Clifton, who was taken before Captain Zoeder and asked to explain his whereabouts and why he was aboard the Siberia.

His home, he said, was in Shanghai. He had been visiting friends in Hongkong and had decided to stow away on the Siberia and make the trip to San Francisco. He had an aunt, he said, in Oakland, and he wanted to see her. He had no ticket and no money. He had expected, he said, to get through as "somebody's little boy."

He made the rest of the trip in the steerage, and was turned over to his folks at Shanghai.

ASSOCIATE OF CHRIS BUCKLEY IS INSANE

Jacob Rudolph, Pronounced Unbalanced, Demands Jury

Jacob Rudolph, former political associate of Chris Buckley, "the blind boss," was adjudged insane by Judge Van Nostrand yesterday on the complaint of his wife, Annette Rudolph. The law gives Rudolph the right to demand that he be now tried before a jury to determine his mental condition, and this right he demanded. In the meanwhile he will be restrained of his liberty.

The testimony showed that Rudolph had suicidal tendencies, and that on three occasions he has been committed to a state lunatic asylum. Rudolph called as witnesses a number of his friends, who testified that they had never seen him act as if insane, but Judge Van Nostrand held that this negative testimony was of no weight against the evidence of his unusual behavior on many occasions.
