

APPEALERS WIN FIRST SKIRMISH

Mrs. R. J. Waters, Federation President, Rules on Equal Rights Resolution

Constitutionality is Upheld, Indicating Strength of Franchise Seekers

By MARY ASHE MILLER [Special Dispatch to The Call]

LONG BEACH, May 15.—At last the suffrage bomb has burst, but the multiple detonations which followed its explosion by no means exhaust its capabilities in that line. It will continue to splutter and pop vigorously until tomorrow morning, when the final gaffling gun discussion and vote on the matter takes place.

It is decided by the convention that the introduction of the suffrage question is constitutional and that the resolution will be presented to the members tomorrow as scheduled. Mrs. Russell J. Waters, the state president, attended this morning for the first time during the convention. Her husband is recovering from illness. She was greeted with an outburst of applause, which moved her to tears.

Mrs. W. W. Orcutt, chairman of the resolutions committee, announced that a resolution for the indorsement of suffrage had been presented to the committee, but that they wished ruling from the chair as to the constitutionality of it.

She and her committee, Mrs. Orcutt declared, felt that the right to decide a matter belonged to the convention as a whole. So she moved that it be made the order of the day that directly after the civil service reform report in the afternoon the chair render a decision.

There was a flutter, some gasps, a magnetic current of excitement, excited whisperings and heads together for brief murmured comments. Some quickly seconded the question, some put and passed without any dissenting voices and it was "up to the president."

The civil service reform report having been made, the president, pale but composed, announced that the critical moment had arrived for her decision. Pale, tense faces surrounded her, the proverbial pin would have had its chance, one woman fainted herself excitedly, the rest sat rigid.

Mrs. Waters said that, after much thought and careful consideration of the matter she had reached the conclusion—and through all of these words and a few more said with deliberation she gave no indication of how she was going to close her sentence. She was nearly silent.

Finally she concluded that she was unable to find anything in the constitution to prevent the presentation of a suffrage resolution. Immediately Mrs. E. C. Bellow, president of Los Angeles, Ebell, a club of 1,200 members, moved an appeal from the decision of the chair, which was promptly seconded by Mrs. F. H. Robbins of the Wednesday Morning Club of San Diego.

The four objects of the federation, as stated in its constitution, are matters affecting women that are educational, moral, civic or social. Whether suffrage is any of these was the point. At last a vote was taken and Mrs. Waters upheld.

This can hardly be taken as a forecast of what the vote on equal suffrage will be tomorrow, for many of the women opposed to suffrage voted to uphold the constitutionality of its introduction.

Tonight a suffrage rally was held at the residence of the president, and the "antis" are quite as busy seeking to convert the wavering.

Article II of the constitution was amended to eliminate "which all indorse," and to read "its objects shall be to unite the influence and enterprise of California women, to promote educational, moral, civic or social measures, and to compare methods of study and work."

The other prepared a balm for the feelings of the "antis" if the suffrage measure passes, in that it reads "clubs may adopt the press campaign and are in no way committed to work for suffrage votes for at state or district meetings, such measures to be suggestive, not mandatory."

At the morning session the chairman of the press committee, Mrs. M. H. Webster, made her report and an address on "Press Problems" was made by Mrs. Ella Hamilton Durley.

The report of the chairman of history and landmarks committee, Mrs. George H. Taylor of Fresno. In the afternoon Mrs. Imogene of Philadelphia gave a logical talk on civil service reform and Mrs. A. E. Osborne, chairman of the department on her estate, gave a comprehensive report.

Miss Harriet G. Eddy of the state library spoke on the county library, urging that it be not neglected.

This evening Mrs. Cora M. Jones read her report, followed by brief speeches as follows: Civic leagues, Mrs. S. C. Borland; Los Angeles civic association, Mrs. Oliver C. Bynum; State Play-ground association, Mrs. Ethel Moore; Federated Mothers' club, Mrs. H. E. Rowell; Child Welfare League, Mrs. H. L. Eastman.

The Down and Out club, composed of the past state officers, held its annual banquet tonight, which proved to be one of the most brilliant social events of the convention. Over 100 members and guests were present. Mrs. Florence Collins Porter was toast mistress. The president, Mrs. L. F. Darling, was in the chair. She will be succeeded by Mrs. E. D. Buss tomorrow morning.

The Young Women's sodality of St. Rose's church will entertain this evening in St. Rose's hall, Brannan street, between Fourth and Fifth.

The Misses Kotterman will give a piano duet by occupying number, following which the sodality will sing in chorus.

Among the other entertainers are: Mrs. William Kent, Mrs. Lawrence, Mrs. Mary Stewart, Mrs. Evelyn Jones, Mrs. Edward Cole, Mrs. J. O'Connor, Mrs. Mary Manning, Mrs. Charles Garrity, Mrs. Theresa Galbally, Mrs. Irene Hannan and Mrs. May Leach.

Thousands of Boys in Line to Help in the Strenuous Campaign

Elaborate Commencement Exercises Are Being Held This Week

OAKLAND, May 15.—A unique feature of the strenuous campaign for the school and auditorium bonds, which will be voted Tuesday, was a parade today more than a mile in length and in which 5,000 boys of the Oakland schools, including those of the annex, took part.

The long line of march was witnessed by thousands of onlookers and the turnout was probably the largest of its kind ever seen in the Oakland streets.

A number of school bands and drum corps were at the head of the different platoons of the various schools and a large number of banners were carried urging the importance of the bonds and asking for a large vote for them.

Under the direction of J. W. McClymonds, superintendent of the Oakland schools, the marchers formed at Clay and down Clay to Thirteenth street, from there to Washington street, down Broadway, and on to Fifth street, back to Broadway, to Twelfth street, east to Lakeside park, where the boys disbanded.

Among the schools in line were the Oakland high school, the Manual training and Commercial high school, the Fremont high school, the Lincoln, Cole, Melrose high, Clawson, Bay, Peralta, Tompkins, Lockwood, Piedmont, Manzanita, Franklin, Garfield, Elmhurst, Grant, Highland and Durant schools.

A luncheon to boost the bonds was held at the Forum today which was attended by several hundred men. H. C. Capwell acted as toastmaster and among the speakers were: F. E. Reed, A. A. Denison, C. Ruess, G. R. Wardell, Judge P. B. Ogden and Irving Kahn.

It was pointed out that there was no open opposition to the bonds, but that it was for the best interests of the city to get out a vote which would carry not only the school bonds, but the separate item of $500,000 for a municipal auditorium, which was equally as important and would prove a splendid investment.

Meetings were addressed today in different parts of the city and mass meetings were held tonight in many schools, among them the Garfield, Durant, Grant, Manzanita, Elmhurst, Franklin and Piedmont schools. Among the speakers were W. E. Gibson, R. D. Holmes, Dr. T. B. Holmes, A. A. Denison, Rev. W. D. Simpson, J. W. McClymonds, Miss Tessie Wood, F. F. Rosetter, Harry L. Boyle, F. B. Cook, P. M. Fisher, Kenneth Millican, F. M. Smith and others.

All arrangements have been completed by the progress and prosperity committee and workers will be in every precinct tomorrow to obtain the passage of the bonds. Assisting them will be members of different fraternal and civic organizations. Particular activity has been shown by the Child's welfare league and the Mother's clubs of the various schools. Picnics will be distributed in every part of the city tomorrow in the English and Portuguese languages urging the voters to vote for the bonds.
