Amid Blossoms Miladi Will Be Received

Louise of New York Opens Manicure and Hair Dressing Parlors

Into a grove of cherry blossoms and wisteria, the women of San Francisco may go tomorrow for their manicuring and hair dressing, when Louise, just arrived from New York, opens her establishment on the fourth floor of the Sachs building, 140 Geary street.

When the doors swing open it is difficult to believe one's self in the heart of the city. Pale green tinted walls are lined with bougainvillee, wisteria, and other climbing plants, with great Chinese chairs, weirdly ornamented with oriental characters. Wisteria vines mingle with the fruit blossoms and the long purple clusters of flowers fall thickly.

All the woodwork is in white enamel and a unique feature is the construction of the manicuring and hair dressing rooms.

The Smart Set

OVER in Berkeley there has been an intellectual variety of the matinee hero in Professor Santayana. He is a scholarly gentleman, whose place is among eminent thinkers of the time, and it seems shockingly irreverent to discuss cold facts of his rather romantic vogue at the summer school. But facts must be faced.

Anyway, Professor Santayana should be used to it by this time. He has been lionized in Boston, and limousines from Beacon street line up for his lectures in Cambridge. Philosophy is, a fascinating study, and Professor Santayana, who holds the chair of philosophy at Harvard, discourses delightfully about it. His book, "The Life of Reason," may be accounted a best seller in its class, and they say it is quoted in Commonwealth avenue between dances.

Classes at the summer school are marked among attendants, as they are anywhere. There is the highbrow contingent, adding to an already heavy load of learning; the earnest students who come from country places and don't care what they wear, and the parol set. This includes young matrons of Berkeley and Claremont, who stroll to lectures in lingerie gowns, and clever girls of Greenway distinction, who cross the bay from town. Of these have been several belles of seasons ago, and some of the younger set with serious mental inclinations. Doctor Santayana has been the sensation of the parol and lingerie sets. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays in July and the early weeks of August were gay days on the campus with the Santayana classes.

In consequence, "The Sense of Beauty" will be referred to at Greenways next winter if unsuspecting men evoke it with harmless remarks about the "Platonic ideas" have been assimilated with discussions of the Transcendental Self, and instead of the latest Chambers novel, the clever set will read Aristotle, Plato and Spinoza, Croce, Payne and Windeband, and a few other unfamiliar authors recommended by Santayana. A discouraging prospect for bachelors who have not had advantages of summer school education.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Foss are expected to return later in the week from their wedding journey in the south. They have been visiting at the various places of interest in the south as far as Coronado and have had a delightful trip through the southern part of the state. Mrs. Foss was formerly Miss Dorothy Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Chapman, and her wedding to the young eastern man was one of the brilliant events of the month in Massachusetts, but the exact date will regret to learn that their stay in this city upon their return from their honeymoon will be brief. The young couple will leave next week for their home in the east. They are going to the home of Governor Foss on the Atlantic coast, and will make their plans later for their permanent home in Massachusetts, but the exact date has not been settled.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Cox Jr. have been spending their honeymoon in Del Monte and the southern part of the state. Mrs. Cox was formerly Miss Alice McDonald, and the wedding was an event of last week. The young couple are going to New York later in the season.

Mrs. Franklin K. Lane, who has been invited to so many recent affairs, will be again the complimented guest at an elaborate luncheon to be given tomorrow at the home of Miss Ethel Moore. Mrs. Lane will be hostess of the occasion.

City, State and Nation Needs Woman's Knowledge to Progress

By FRANCES SWETT GRANGE

The agitation for the enfranchisement of women is part of the great worldwide movement for the emancipation of womankind from the restrictions put upon them by their menkind.

Personal freedom the American women have, political freedom they want. The extension to the American woman of a greater degree of personal liberty than that enjoyed by the women of any other people has been the gradual and logical outgrowth of the American principle of full liberty of action to all, consistent with the well being of the community as a whole.

Granting that women are entirely capable of exercising this political function, and it is absurd to maintain otherwise in this country where women practice all professions and fill the business world, and where co-education is carried to such a high degree, it remains to be demonstrated why they should have the right to vote.

Going back to first principles, this country was founded by men who regarded the pay taxes in the levying of which they had no voice and over the expenditure of which they had no control.

In the olden days women were always in a position of wardship to some masculine relation, even women of independent means. Today, however, thousands of self-supporting women, administering the family affairs, are interested in the body of elective governors, who, to a great extent, may affect the value of their property, so we have taxation without representation for a large proportion of our American people.

WOMEN QUESTIONS
There is the increasingly important question of the employment of woman labor—a question affecting the nation itself in that it affects the proper maintenance of the home—and the two closely allied questions which present a problem to all communities, the liquor traffic, and the ever present social evil. And surely the women should have the right to assert in regulating and controlling the one and in exterminating the other.

Woman's 'Kattery' Is Unique Money Maker---By Ruth Cameron

ARE you fond of cats? If you are, whether you are moved to emulation or not, surely you will be interested to hear about the unique way in which one woman is trying to earn her living.

She has established what she calls the Kermit Kattery. It is, as the name has already suggested to you, a boarding home for pet cats. In addition to boarding the animals she also raises Persian cats, crates cats for shipping out of town, gives advice as to the care of well cats or treatment of sick cats, sells cat remedies and such cat specialties as flea combs, cat collars, cat baskets, etc.

The work has not been extremely lucrative so far, but she has reason to expect it will be much more so in the future.

Her story of how she happened to go into this unique work is as follows: "Some three years ago last December a friend of mine asked me to take care of a black Persian kitten while she went to New York. This I agreed to do and also to care for two of another woman's cream Persian males which she was going to show at a cat show and to comb them and brush them into 'show condition'.

"I think that the prime requisite for success in this particular business, which is certainly no payment for women, is that one must first, last and all the time be a passionate lover of cats; not animals in general, but cats as a class by themselves.

"To conduct a cat boarding business one must be ready to give up time and sleep and to eat when convenient and not on time. One must have plenty of antiseptics ready for instant use in case of bite or scratch, must eliminate fear absolutely from one's mind and put away rugs, cushions and all kinds of friar-a-brac, and find one's amusement and pleasure in the care of cats, and take for much of one's payment the satisfaction and pleasure that comes from knowing that one is preaching a daily sermon from the text about the 'sparrow falling to the ground' and knowing that in caring for the dumb animals that God has seen fit to create and place with us we are doing his work just as truly as if we founded million dollar libraries or hospitals."

Garden Party To Grow Votes For Suffrage

Under the auspices of the central campaign committee, a garden party will be given in the San Anselmo country seat of Miss Grace Livermore and Mrs. Lillian O'Hara, both of the College Equal Suffrage League, on Thursday afternoon, September 7.

She will also be included among the suffrage speakers, and will present her topic from the standpoint of a woman of her race.

Among the women who are working for the success of this undertaking are Mrs. C. M. Costigan, Mrs. Carl Ranz, Mrs. W. L. Neelands, Mrs. Arthur Flood, Mrs. George Marsh and Mrs. H. A. Hahn.
