CHRONICLE HIT BY RESOLUTIONS

Appomattox Post No. 50 Adopts Statement Condemning Paper's Attack on Veterans

OAKLAND, Nov. 19.—Appomattox post No. 50 of the department of California and Nevada, Grand Army of the Republic, unanimously adopted a statement and resolution at its meeting at Lincoln hall last night condemning the San Francisco Chronicle for its recent attack upon veterans of the civil war.

At a recent election the voters of California were called upon to vote on certain proposed constitutional amendments. Among those amendments was one which would exempt taxation property to the amount of $1,000 of persons who had served as soldiers or sailors in the war, who either died in the service or were honorably discharged, or the widows of such persons.

On the eve of said election a certain newspaper published in the state of California by name the San Francisco Chronicle, presuming to advise the electors of the state as to how they should vote on these measures, used the following words: "Vote No on number 22. Neither the state nor nation owe anything whatever to soldiers who were not disabled in the war."

Resolved, that we heartily appreciate the stand taken by the San Francisco Call in upholding the rights and interests of the men who were chiefly instrumental in furnishing the blood and sweat and prosperity now enjoyed by the writer of that unrighteous screed.

Use the order form under today's contest picture. Catalogues are 35 cents each, 40 cents by mail from the Booklovers' Contest Editor. The San Francisco Call, San Francisco, Cal.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The best way to get back pictures is to buy a catalogue and with it secure the seven certificates presented to each purchaser of a catalogue. These certificates entitle the holder to the first 35 pictures. Each certificate is good for any consecutive five pictures.

Thus the first two certificates can now be redeemed for the first 10 pictures. The balance become redeemable as soon as the pictures they are good for are printed. All are redeemable throughout the contest.

CHORUS GIRLS FAIL TO AROUSE MEMORY

erbocker hotel and the Hotel Turpin, where the man incurred bills. At noon Saturday he gave Miss Moore a sealed envelope and told her not to open it until the company reached Los Angeles, where he would rejoin her and they would be married.

The girl's curiosity was aroused, and she opened the envelope to find that it contained a check for $250. But when she cashed the check for the Pinkertons are holding it as evidence.

The time this check was given is important, for the police will hinge their theory that the man is faking. He admits remembering everything that occurred to him since Saturday morning, but fails to remember any visit to San Francisco or giving the check to Miss Moore.

After Detective Sergeant McGowan had brought him to San Francisco yesterday afternoon, he was questioned by Acting Captain of Detectives William Armstrong, by physicians and by newspaper men.

"I remember nothing except that I found myself in Oakland," he reiterated again and again. "I have a faint recollection of having known a woman and a little child. But where I knew them or how I can not recall."

The bearing of the unknown shows good breeding. His voice is well modulated and his choice of words discriminating. He wears a clean, neat, fine material. Yet no mark was found on any article except the hat that was purchased of Siegel at Los Angeles.

There was no name of tailor or clothing store on the clothes, not even a laundry mark on the linen. In a silken tie he wore a diamond shaped pin, apparently of Japanese make, but he said he had no recollection of having been in the Orient.

REMEMBERS NOTHING "I wish I could help you," he told his inquirers. "They tell me I am charged with crime. If I could prove who I am I might be able to explain my troubles. But I remember nothing. I remember nothing. Within my head there seems a numbness and a contraction that is difficult to explain."

"They tell me I signed a check in the name of Dr. R. C. Whalen. I don't know any such man. I may be he, but I can not tell. They say I was known as Doctor Evans."

Two women came to visit me at Oakland this afternoon. They said I was with them at dinner, but I don't recall them. They asked me if I remembered their names, but I could not. Miss Ella Lawton and Miss Rena Wellington of the Van Studdford company had been introduced to Hill at the hospital at Oakland before he was brought across the bay, but could not aid in solving Hill's mysterious past.

PROFESSION OF IGNORANCE J. C. Furness, manager of the Continental hotel, visited Hill at the city jail in this quarter. The pamphlet of the youth remember him although many conversations were recalled by the manager.

"I don't think I ever met any of these people," said Hill simply. "I only remember having awakened in a strange city that I learned was Oakland. I thought maybe some one would recognize me in San Francisco. That was yesterday (Saturday) morning. I came over here and walked up Market street and then decided to return to Oakland in the hope that I would find myself. I never visited the hotel at noon or gave any one a check so far as I can recollect."

"I returned to Oakland and made my way to the police headquarters, there I asked them to help me find out who I was and where I came from."

EXAMINED BY DOCTORS Captain of Detectives Petersen kept Hill at the Oakland Detention hospital Saturday night and Doctor C. H. Hamlin and W. H. Irwin examined him. The only definite result was that Hill knew nothing of medical terms and if he posed as a doctor he was assuming a part.

"I observed the man carefully," said Doctor Hamlin, "and I will say that if he is faking he is doing it very cleverly. I asked him if his head pained him and where. He pointed to the base of the skull. That is where he would feel pain if he had a headache brought about by a shock. Several times I thought he was on the point of answering me, but he would stare at me almost beseechingly and then say he could not remember."

Captain Petersen found on the suspect a memorandum showing that a draft for $250 had been presented by a man giving the name of Howard A. Gardiner on the Crocker National bank in San Francisco. This memorandum was crammed in a combcase found on the man. He explained that the case was given him yesterday by a man he met on the Southern Pacific Seventh street local train. The stranger got off at Adeline street and he had been unable to return the comb to him.

Members of the Pinkerton agency said that the man was wanted for forgery in a number of cities, among them Detroit, Windsor, Montreal and Toronto. He had been traced to Los Angeles by the Pinkertons and is accused of passing a spurious check for a small amount there.

In discussing the enigma Captain Petersen said: "This fellow is either a prince of fakers or there is something actually the matter with him. It is probable that he has been playing the game a long time and knows just what to do, and it is also probable that with sweating he will confess to all the crimes he is said to have committed."

"If he is faking, though, he certainly made a mistake to come to the police station, because he would know that we would investigate and make every effort to learn his identity. It is one of the strangest cases I have ever had anything to do with."

BATTLE OVER WINE LASTS 75 YEARS

Modern Controversy Recalls Stirring Fight of the Seventeenth Century

The quarrel between the districts of Aube and the Marne recalls the still more ancient rivalry of the sparkling wine and burgundy. The battle between these two wines lasted from 1650 to 1720, nearly three-quarters of a century, and was started by an obscure doctor, who wrote a pamphlet declaring that the vineyards of the Beaune produced the healthiest wines in France. All the other vineyards of France were aroused to indignation by this treatise, and the vine growers of the champagne were loudly protesting against it.

The greatest danger to the quarrel reached its height when Fagon, the physician to Louis XIV, forbade the rival master to drink champagne and burgundy referred to this check to its rival. A Burgundian pamphlet was promptly issued denouncing sparkling wine as the cause of gout and bad rheumatism. Rheims promptly rejoined by a medical treatise which set out to prove that Beaune was the real cause of these evils.

Journalists, poets, statesmen, in fact, all the world, took part in this quarrel. The pamphlet of the French king all that he demanded. But was not his rather a proof of quantity that inebriates than of the quality that cheers?

RESIGN, MANCHU, FOR CHINESE IN EAR OF THRONE

Promises of Protection and Pension Accompany Suggestions of Abdication

Foreigners Are Massacred at Hsianfu, Capital of Shensi Province, by Rebels

PEKING, Nov. 19.—Demands for the throne's abdication are crowding upon Premier Yuan Shi Kai, who doubtless will be forced to make a decision within a week. It seems to be a case of fight or ask the court to depart from the capital. Every suggestion for abdication is accompanied by promises of protection and ample pension.

It is reported that the premier has ordered a renewed attack upon Hanyang and Wuchang. If this is true it signifies his choice.

The government has succeeded in ridding the Manchui troops of both revolutionary generals, Chang Tao Sang and Lan Tien Wei. The former is now at Tientsin. The latter, who was dismissed and is proceeding southward, not as Yuan Shi Kai's envoy to submit further proposals to general Li, the rebel commander, as in the previously reported, but to join the rebel forces.

UNION GOVERNMENT WANTED

There has been an unexpected display of patriotism during the last day or two. Instead of rivalry among the provinces there have been evidences of remarkable unanimity in an effort to establish a union government quickly in order to prevent the dangers from foreign complications.

An edict published today announces that the regent, representing the emperor, will November 26 swear before general Li at Wuchang. The commander of the insurgents has determined not to yield in the slightest degree.

The foreign banks practically have decided to establish a banking committee at Shanghai, with headquarters at Toronto. He had been traced to Los Angeles by the Pinkertons and is accused of passing a spurious check for a small amount there.

In a letter which General Li's emissaries are bearing to Yuan Shi Kai, the rebel leader says it is impossible to put any reliance in the promises of the Manchui government, and he instigates the wholesale execution of reformers.

General Li urges that the choice between republicanism and a constitutional monarchy be left to a future conference, but insists that Manchui must not participate in such a conference.

All foreign residents of the concessions complain of the meager forces sent to defend them. Eleven gunboats are in the harbor and small landing parties have been dispatched from them.

The gunboat El Cano is the only American warship here. The Helena is down the river getting supplies, but is expected to return soon.

The greatest danger to the railway is cut, that the imperialist army will be deprived of supplies and grow desperate.

Doctor MacWilliam, president of the Red Cross society, reports that three-quarters of the city of Hankow has been destroyed. Twenty thousand inhabitants remain where formerly there were 700,000.

Mail advices just received from Chengtu, Szechuen province, which has been shut off from communication for several weeks, say that the rebels are active in every direction. The victory is concentrating for the defense of Chengtung and holds the country for a radius of 20 miles. A number of engagements have been fought and the loyalists have recaptured many cities. There were considerable losses on both sides. An expedition that was sent to retake Sintangchen, about 20 miles southwest of Chengtu, lost between 400 and 500 men.

The revolutionary movement in that district is largely in the hands of the lawless who are co-operating with the leader of the general movement.

Power of Yuan's Name Wanes

SHANGHAI, Nov. 19.—The situation in southern China is becoming more involved each day. The republicans apparently are determined to secure their independence from the Manchui dynasty, but there are grave doubts of their ability to establish a stable government in time to avoid the consequences of continued disorganization.

Rebel Attack Awaited By Nanking Garrison

SHANGHAI, Nov. 19.—Reports king say that all foreigners living in the city are safe. The consuls have recommended that all Americans in the Yangtze valley come immediately to Shanghai. The imperialist garrison at Nanking, under command of General Chang, number about 11,000 men, well trained, well armed and strongly entrenched and fortified. It is believed that all the republican forces are within one day's striking distance of the city. From Nanking, on the north side of the river, 4,000 revolutionaries, with 41 guns, are marching to Pukow, opposite Nanking. From Wuhai, on the south, 2,000 men are advancing. Above Chinkiang there are 8,000 revolutionaries, with 100 guns and 3,000 more are proceeding down the line of the Tientsin-Pukow railroad. Fifteen warships, now in the river under command of the rebels, are awaiting the signal for attack.

ACCIDENTS RUN RIOT IN SAN JOSE

Two Persons Dead and Eleyen Injured, Including Nobleman, Within Three Days

[Special Dispatch to The Call] SAN JOSE, Nov. 19.—The bodies of two people are being held at the morgue for inquests tomorrow and 11 other persons seriously injured are being treated in local hospitals as a result of a remarkable series of traffic accidents here within the last three days.

The dead: Mrs. Z. Spagnola, wife of Zachariah Spagnola, run down by an automobile driven by Miss Clara Simpson, daughter of Mrs. Annie E. Simpson, proprietress of the Telescope hotel.

M. Simeone, bicyclist, run down by an automobile driven by D. H. Ross, carriage manufacturer. The injured: Salvatore Santonocito, a Sicilian nobleman, run down by electric car; skull fractured.

J. J. Montgomery, same accident, army brocade. William Welch, same accident, face cut and body bruised. C. Brown, same accident, back sprained. Antonio Pichetti, runaway on mountain grade, ribs broken, internal injuries. M. R. Daly, auto wreck, bruises. M. Peel, same accident, bruises. Heyman Marx, fell over embankment in R. G. back broken.

Both of the fatal accidents were investigated by the police in preparation for the inquests which will be held tomorrow.

It developed today that Salvatore Santonocito, who was seriously injured in a street car accident, is in reality a ruined Sicilian nobleman.

When misfortune overtook Santonocito he was considered one of the wealthiest men of Palermo. His friends say that through the methods of a crowd of organized brigands he was despoiled of one large holding after another until he fled to Naples. His enemies pursued him there, and after having robbed him of practically everything he possessed, Santonocito took leave of his family and came to America. He lived near Boston for three years, then came west, and for the last four years has been making San Jose his home.

McNAMARA CASE LIKE THE BROOK

It Runs On and On and Lawyers "Knock Off" and Hike to the Mountains

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 19.—With five sworn jurors in the box and two talesmen passed by both sides, necessitating five more talesmen before the third round of peremptories can be exercised, the attorneys in the McNamara case forsook court affairs today for the mountains.

The examination of talesmen will proceed tomorrow from a new supply of veniremen. To date 455 veniremen have been called and about 500 names still remain in the jury wheel.

Efforts to speed the progress of the trial are manifest. Judge Bordwell has let it be known that he will endeavor to start court at 9 o'clock daily instead of 10. Whenever it appears that a venire is about exhausted the court will call another, so as to have enough veniremen on hand for examination.

During examinations of talesmen hereafter lengthy argument will be discouraged, as the court, it is said, expects to rule on each case immediately. Argument is desired to obtain a reversal he will receive it in writing, or at convenience of counsel, but not during the regular court hours.

Nearly everything I ate distressed me. I was constantly belching wind and had dizzy and nausea spells. One day I began to lose flesh, and did not seem to get any nourishment out of anything that I ate.
