

STATE'S FUNDS SQUANDERED, ALLEGES REPORT

Board of Control Turns in Charges Against Examiners in Optometry to Governor

Illegal Expenses and Using Official Positions for Private Purposes, Is Asserted

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 25.—Startling charges of squandering money belonging to the state, making illegal charges against the state, giving banquets at the expense of the tax payers of the state, using the state's funds for private purposes, using their positions as state officials for private and business gain, ignoring the public, trifling with serious matters, keeping only superficial records, not attending to duty and many other charges are made by the state board of control in its report today to Governor Johnson upon the conduct of affairs of the state board of examiners in optometry.

Both the first board, consisting of Henry H. Cahn of Los Angeles, F. C. Chinn of Sacramento and H. H. Hart of Monterey, and the incumbent board, consisting of F. C. Chinn of Sacramento, F. W. Lauffer of Oakland and F. W. Lauffer of Los Angeles are soundly grilled in the report.

This report asserts that the state board of control compelled the members of the board of optometry to make restitution to the state of sums of money which they illegally paid to themselves or illegally allowed to be paid to others amounting to $2,570.60. The report also shows that for four years $1,628.95 mysteriously disappeared from the funds of the board, and that only a few months ago the amount after having been mysteriously missing for four years, was returned by Secretary Chinn, by check drawn from his personal account.

CHARGES AGAINST SECRETARY Another startling contention alleged by the board in its report to Governor Johnson is that F. C. Chinn as secretary, had complete charge of the funds of the board of optometry, and he often took himself as much as $1,500 from the state fund in his control.

It is also shown that equipment, instruments and material used by the first board were purchased from Henry S. Cahn of Los Angeles, president, who was in the optical supply business. It is also shown that Cahn sold instruments and equipment to prospective candidates for admission to practice in the state, in violation of the law.

The first board held meetings two and three times a day and charged the state for the expenses of these meetings, says the report. The members would gather in the morning and adjourn at noon; rather in the afternoon and adjourn at night, charging three days to the state for services.

LAVISH EXPENDITURES ALLEGED The second board did not go so strong in that line, but, according to the report, lavish and foolish expenditures were made—attorneys, politicians were hired and so were professional and amateur detectives when there was nothing to be done.

The report also details the irregularities of the two optometry boards would require a volume. The law was broken many times, and little, if anything, accomplished, it is declared.

The report alleges that the board gave banquets in Los Angeles and also in Fresno which were paid out of the state's funds, and when asked by the members of the board of control why the state should pay the bills the answer came that the board of optometry was endeavoring to smooth out trouble between local opticians in the communities. The report alleges that the control board forced the members of the board of optometry to pay back the money taken from the state for these banquets and entertainments.

GOVERNOR REFERRED TO BOARD It was this board to which Governor Johnson made reference at the conference he held with the assembly members prior to calling the legislature for a special session. He then said that a state board had squandered the state money and had met three times in one day charging the state for three per diems.

He did not mention the board by name and this report of the state board of control is the first to attempt to identify the identity of the offending board.

F. C. Chinn when seen this morning declared he did not desire to "get into any controversy" and that he did not desire to answer on the spur of the moment any charges that had been in the course of preparation for four months.

Teachers Investigate Needs of Rural Communities

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 25.—The establishment of gymnasiums, libraries and temporary theaters in the country schoolhouses, closer supervision of teaching, agricultural courses, uniform lines of study and the selection of teachers by experts among the subjects chosen for investigation by the National Education association's special committee named at the last convention.

The outline shows five topics the committee will investigate and report upon. They are: Sources of revenue, qualification of teachers, school organization and administration, social life in the school, and school equipment.

An 'Answer Book' to Aid Booklovers' Contestants

With One Copy of Each Picture You Can Make as Many Answers as the Rules Allow

The Call announces a brand new plan today for Booklovers' Contestants.

It is not necessary that contestants adopt the plan, but The Call believes that all contestants will do so because of its manifest advantages. The Call devised the plan to insure that this contest will not cost any contestant more than the price of a ticket to the theater, and in order that all contestants might stand on an equality when it came to making extra answers.

Wednesday a Booklovers' Contest Answer Book will go on sale. The Answer Book is somewhat like a stenographer's note book in shape. It opens from the bottom, like a note book, not from the side like a story book.

The top pages of the Answer Book are numbered from 1 to 77, and on these top pages the 77 contest pictures are to be pasted. The bottom pages of the Answer Book have 10 spaces marked off on them, where the answers to each picture may be written.

The rules, you know, permit you to make as many as 10 answers to each picture, if you desire to do so.

Take picture No. 1, for instance. It is pasted on the top page of page 1. Beneath it, on the bottom page of page 1, the answer or answers are written. You can write down one answer to each picture, or three, or six, or the full limit of 10 answers.

And so on for the whole series of 77 pictures.

Thus, you see, you need have only one copy of each picture, which you can secure without cost, of course, by clipping them from The Call each day. Yet you can make as many as 10 answers to each picture!

That is the virtue of the Answer Book. At present, you know, for every answer you make you must have a separate picture and coupon. If you want to make six answers to picture No. 8, for instance, you have to secure six copies of picture No. 8 in order to submit each answer on its separate picture and coupon.

And, under the old plan, if you want to make several answers to each picture, the cost begins to mount up. The wealthy contestant can make eight or ten answers to each picture in order to increase their chances of getting the right answer. But the poorer contestant might be at a disadvantage. The Call feared.

So the Answer Book was devised, and the Answer Book has changed all this. It is fully explained in the announcement in today's issue.

And remember this: Even though you do not want to make several answers to some of the pictures, even though you will make only one answer to each picture, the Answer Book is a mighty good thing to have. It is of convenient size, so that it can be carried around in the satchel or handbag or pocket, with the pictures pasted within. Instead of having a bulky package of pictures, you will have a neat booklet. And instead of having your pictures becoming soiled or wrinkled or torn or lost, you have them safely protected from harm.

Neatness counts in this contest in case of a tie!

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

No, do not send in all of the seven free certificates with the contest catalogue now. Send in the first three now, or wait until the twentieth picture is published tomorrow, and then send in the first four certificates. Each certificate is good for five of the first 35 pictures, but you can not get all of the 35 pictures now, for the very simple reason that they have not yet been made. You can not get them in advance of their appearance in this paper. Why, some of the first 35 pictures have not yet been drawn!

U. S. BATTALION MAJORIS RECALLED

In Future Only Lieutenants Will Be Detailed as College Instructors

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Under the policy adopted by the war department some months ago deciding against detaching majors or captains as military instructors at colleges, Major E. M. Lewis of the infantry corps, stationed at the University of California, will be relieved from that duty and be replaced by a lieutenant of the army.

Many officers of the rank of major are destined to be supplanted by lieutenants at the expiration of their terms of duty within the next few months.

The period of this duty ordinarily is three years, but lieutenants under existing regulations may have their term extended to a fourth year, provided continuance of their service is required by the colleges and their efforts have been followed by marked success.

CUSTOM OFFICIAL ACCUSED OF PLOT

Government Employee Named as Organizer of Opium Smuggling Operations

SEATTLE, Nov. 25.—In the trial of Sam Winnigrass and Ben Goldsmith, accused of smuggling opium in trunks from Vancouver, B. C., government counsel yesterday ignored the allegations of the men's attorneys that they were victims of one Mueller, also known as Callison, who put the smuggling idea into their heads, induced them to go to Vancouver, lent them a false bottom trunk and procured opium for them.

A smuggler now serving a term in the county jail testified that Callison put him in the business, and a fourth man, yet to be tried, testified that Callison initiated him. Winnigrass was acquitted and Goldsmith convicted. On the witness stand Chief Customs Inspector Frank P. Loftus testified that Callison was a government employee.

Counsel for Goldsmith in his address to the jury declared that the opium seized by customs officials was not destroyed. He said that false bottom trunks containing opium passed from Vancouver to Seattle frequently, and that the arrests made occasionally were intended to give the appearance of great vigilance on the part of inspectors. Regarding the allegation of a conspiracy, government officials declared that if proof could be furnished it would be proved to the bottom.

"I will prosecute any customs man who is guilty of such an offense," declared Assistant District Attorney Hutson, "and it is true that I have heard rumors of this charge before. However, we must have definite and tangible proof brought to us first."

Cornwell shot Courtney after a trivial quarrel and his attorneys sought to mitigate the sentence chiefly by dwelling upon testimony that he was intoxicated. Two of the prisoner's sisters testified for the prosecution, Courtney's widow being an eye witness to the crime.

PRESIDIO HOSPITAL NAME LETTERMAN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The general hospital of the Presidio of San Francisco has been named the Letterman general hospital in honor of Surgeon Jonathan Letterman, who was medical director of the army of the Potomac in 1862 and 1863.

Dr. Letterman perfected for the army of the Potomac a scheme of medical department administration which was afterward adopted by other armies, including that of Germany.

For some reason Stanton, then secretary of war, failed to promote Dr. Letterman, although other staff officers were fittingly rewarded. He finally resigned from the military service.
