$493,945 Spent for Fair; Record Is Made

Statement of the Expenditures Up to Date Refute Extravagance Gossip

The preliminary cost of the Panama-Pacific International exposition from the time of its inception up to the close of business on November 30 of this year has been exactly $413,345.97, according to a detailed report just made by Controller Allan Pollok to President Charles C. Moore and issued by the latter for publication yesterday.

Pollok's financial statement finally sets at rest the rumors which have been current in some quarters that millions of dollars had been expended in the preliminary work. It shows that less than $500,000 has been used, not only in the fight to win the exposition for San Francisco, but in all that has been done in laying the foundations for actual construction work upon the exposition grounds.

RECORD IS MADE Compared with the records of other expositions, the financial showing made by the Panama-Pacific International exposition during the preconstruction period is a record breaker. No other great exposition ever has shown a smaller expenditure during the similar era of its existence. Pollok's statement covers the entire period from the commencement of business in December, 1909, up to the last day of last month. In addition to the $413,345.97 which has been expended, there is at present a cash balance in the exposition treasury of $884,080.83. The total subscriptions amount to $7,551,410, in addition to which there are the state and local bond issues of $5,000,000 each and the amounts raised for county participation.

The report shows that the fight for congressional recognition cost $117,112.58, while California legislation expenses, including the cost of the extra session of the legislature, for which the exposition paid, amounted to $21,844.01.

Accompanying the detailed report on finances, Pollok sent the following letter to President Moore:

WORK IS REVIEWED December 22, 1911. Mr. Charles C. Moore, President Panama-Pacific International Exposition—Dear Sir: I herewith hand you a statement of receipts and disbursements from the commencement of business, December 1, 1909.

You will note that the total cash received to date from subscriptions and other sources, amounts to $1,297,426.90. The total disbursements of every nature and description to date is $413,345.97, leaving cash in the hands of the treasurer $884,080.83.

The item of preliminary organization expense amounted to $361,150.45, and was entirely all incurred prior to the act of congressional recognition San Francisco as the exposition city. This item is large, but when there is taken into account the enormous amount of expense incurred in the nation-wide campaign to arouse the interest of the country, and through their constituents, to get recognition from members of congress, it can be understood that it was difficult and expensive.

As the opposition to San Francisco grew stronger we were the more determined to win, and the telegraph campaign alone involved an enormous expense, but was warranted by the publicity value and its effect on the public desired, which is an asset to-day. The southern states, of course, were not committed to New Orleans, but we had delegations and representatives in the most important states in the union that offered us any opportunity for interesting their congressional representatives.

We were aided without expense to the exposition in this work by the efforts of the citizens of this city, through their friends and connections in other states. During the time that the congressional action was undecided we were represented at every convening of congress that was held in the country, urging the adoption of resolutions in our behalf. As you see by the report there was considerable expense incurred by us by reason of the special session of the California legislature, the cost of which was paid, entirely by us. While this expense is large, it can not be regarded as wasted money, for in addition to securing the important state and city amendments adding $10,000,000 to the fund of the exposition, we obtained a nation wide publicity, the benefits of which will remain for the advantage of the exposition, thereby making the publicity work, which must continue, easier and relatively less expensive.

I wish to call your attention particularly to the preliminary executive expenses for the 22 months, amounting to $7,189.95. I think in this particular matter the exposition has made a record in comparison with other expositions of similar magnitude. The current expenditures of the different departments is set forth at length and are self-explanatory.

SUBSCRIPTIONS GIVEN I also hand you a statement of our subscriptions to capital stock, which is a remarkable record. You will note that 42 subscriptions in sums of $2,500 and over amount to $4,869,480, or an average of $116,426. Each subscription amounts to $689,725 in sums of $500 to $2,500 and 15,211 subscriptions amounting to $100, amounting to $469,495, making a total of subscriptions of 14,290 subscribing $6,338,975. The capital stock subscription, which you will notice calls for a large amount of money, is being taken up by the city of Oakland, part of which have not yet been signed up, make our total subscriptions signed up and pledged as per accompanying sheet, $7,551,410.

The collections to date have been surprisingly satisfactory. The history of all exposition cities show that payments come much easier after work has actively started and the public can see evidence of progress. The necessary preliminary planning or foundation building offers to the public no evidence of activity, and frequently creates the impression that the work is not proceeding with diligence. Notwithstanding these conditions and that no pressure has been brought to bear with subscribers, payments having been practically voluntary, 21 1/2 per cent of the signed subscriptions to capital stock has been paid and the number of payments that are delinquent are surprisingly small.

You will note that we have reason to feel somewhat disappointed by reason of the fact pledges made by officers of the Royal arch and San Francisco Hotelmen's association have not yet been converted into signed subscriptions.

I call this to your attention and think that steps be taken to expedite action by the necessary officials of those organizations. I understand that action is promised at an early date in the matter of the operation of the company's business under my control is progressing rapidly to a condition of satisfactory organization with increased efficiency. Very truly yours, ALLAN POLLOK, Controller.

ISHI PERSUADED TO WEAR SHOES

"Last of His Tribe," After Attack of Pneumonia, Dons Modern Footwear

Ishi, remnant of an extinct tribe on exhibition at the museum of the Affiliated colleges, is wearing his first pair of shoes. They are second hand and large, but Ishi says they are comfortable and will not wear out the pavements as much as new ones would.

When Ishi first came to the Affiliated colleges after his 40 years of wanderings in the wilds of Tehama county, he took kindly to coat and trousers, but balked at shoes. He insisted they would wear out the sidewalks because of their hardness, whereas his feet were soft and would have no appreciable effect upon the concrete.

Ishi has added two or three words to his slender stock of English, and now when in a playful mood he calls his visitor "Dutchman," which he seems to think is the current American term of endearment.

The Indian has recovered from an attack of pneumonia, brought on through going barefooted, and has resumed his Sunday afternoon exhibitions at the museum of the Affiliated colleges. He is still gaining weight at the rate of 10 pounds a month, and his avoirdupois threatens to become a problem.

BOARD OF HEALTH IS SHARPENING THE AX Heads of Two City Doctors Are Endangered

City Physician George Goodale and Chief Emergency Hospital Surgeon E. S. Howard are the two heads of departments in the health board's service marked for slaughter. For their posts a small army of applicants are willing, as Barkis.

Goodale, though not referred to by name, was criticized by Commissioner Somers in the open board, and has received a great deal to do, and Howard expects no quarter.

Dr. J. T. Watkins, formerly chief officer and later city physician, has entered the race for chief of the emergency hospital service. Dr. Charles B. Pinkham, formerly chief surgeon, and Dr. Edward Topham, who has the recommendation of having left the service rather than "come through" with a campaign contribution to the San Francisco Social club, are also candidates.
