Tveitmo, Clancy and Johansen and Munsey of Salt Lake City Give Bail

Parks' Testimony Unshaken and Davis Says It Is Dangerous to Connors

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—Olaf Tveitmo, E. A. Clancy and Anton Johansen of San Francisco and J. E. Munsey of Salt Lake City were arrested here today on two new federal indictments which charged them with having conspired to bring to this city the dynamite used to blow up the Los Angeles Times building October 1, 1910, when 20 men were killed.

ARRAIGNED ON NEW BILLS

The formalities were accomplished this afternoon, and then the four men were arraigned upon the two new bills, which were filed with the final report of the federal grand jury on January 6.

As in the case of the first indictments the two new bills charge that Orlie E. McManigal, the McNamara brothers, now in San Quentin; David Caplan and Milton A. Schmidt were fellow conspirators of the men arrested today.

There were four counts in each of the two new indictments. Bonds were fixed at $2,000 for each of the four defendants.

The new bills set forth that McManigal had traveled from Riverside, Cal., to Los Angeles in December, 1910, as part of an interstate trip from Chicago and had carried with him 10 quarts of nitroglycerin; that J. B. McNamara, now serving a life term in San Quentin, had come here August 7, 1910, and remained some time in furtherance of the alleged conspiracy, and that McNamara brought to this city a dynamite from San Francisco to Los Angeles, September 29, 1910, two days before the Los Angeles Times building was destroyed.

Another allegation, not contained in the previous indictment, was that Munsey, in furtherance of the alleged conspiracy, had made a trip from Salt Lake City to Los Angeles in November, 1910. The letter Clancy was alleged to have written from this city to J. J. McNamara at Indianapolis, asking that Joseph Hoekin, an important contradiction was obtained on any point concerning the alleged conspiracy with which Parks swore not only Connors, but six other men were connected, and before the end of the day Leocompte Davis, one of counsel for the prisoner, said the witness' testimony was "dangerous to Connors." Court adjourned until Monday when the state announced that it still had 10 more or less important witnesses to call.

Seattle Furnishes New Clew

SEATTLE, Jan. 12.—The identity of two men and a woman who visited James B. McNamara, when he was in hiding in Seattle previous to the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building August 21, 1910, is being investigated by detectives.

It was learned today that a man answering the description of James B. McNamara lived six weeks in a room in a cottage in the rear of 1026 Sixth avenue, McNamara, who gave his name as Pete Petrovitsky, refused to allow a chambermaid to enter his room.

"My attention was first called to the peculiar actions of the man by the accumulation of mail postmarked Chicago and addressed to J. M. Boyce and J. B. Brice," said the owner of the place. "When I asked him if he knew to whom they belonged he said they were his."

"While he was there he had three callers, two men and a woman. The men called several times.

"When he gave up the room I made a search and found an alarm clock with wires fastened to the alarm. This clock is in the possession of District Attorney John D. Fredericks of Los Angeles. Several persons who were brought to me by Fredericks and from them I was able to identify my roomer as James B. McNamara."

Lawler Sees Wickersham

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Oscar Lawler, special assistant to the attorney general in the dynamite investigations, gave Wickersham today a detailed recital of the present status of the discussion related to the situation in Los Angeles, where several indictments have been returned. District Attorney Miller of Indianapolis will not be named a special assistant to the attorney general in connection with the dynamite matter. Lawler will go to Indianapolis to confer with Miller. He will then return to Los Angeles to resume active control of the inquiry and prosecution there.

Charles Greene, head of the big advertising firm, owned the land on which it stood and held a large interest in the corporation that built and conducted the rink. ALL CALIFORNIA MEETS AT SAN DIEGO

Los Angeles Mayor Says Differences Have Been Drowned in Boost Spirit

Rolph Replies for the Visiting Members of the Counties Committee

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—With Blanchard hall packed with a body of Californians, such as probably never before met at one spot in the state, the first session of the counties committee conference under the auspices of the California Development board was held today.

The attendance was far beyond the dreams of the fondest promoters of the meeting and included representatives from every section of the state.

Supervisors from every county, leaders in commercial organizations of every large city, exposition bodies, mayors of municipalities and just plain citizens whose interest in the success of the San Francisco and San Diego expositions was as great as that of any delegate, were on hand when Mayor George Alexander of Los Angeles arose to extend welcome to the visitors.

GATHERING UNPARALLELED

"This gathering is unparalleled in the history of California," said the mayor, and the crowd voiced its approval with a shout. "Never before was such a scene witnessed in this state. It is certain," continued the mayor, "that if there ever were any sectional differences they have been forgotten and we are all here to boost California, to get ready for the opening of the Panama canal and the two great expositions at San Francisco and San Diego. Old differences are forgotten and nothing remains but the boost spirit, and when we are all on the same side, in the upbuilding of this great state, we of the south are not unkind of the mighty undertaking of our northern metropolises."

President Jamesation of the local Chamber of Commerce added to the words of greeting, and Mayor James N. Rolph of San Francisco replied for the visiting members.

"ONE BIG FAMILY"

"I am deeply moved by this cordial greeting," said the mayor, "and it does the neighborly good feeling existing between the sister cities of California. We have learned one thing, and that is that when San Francisco and Los Angeles they expect a treat, and we have never been disappointed. This meeting illustrates the fact that the cities of the entire coast, from Seattle to San Diego, are partners. The position is not ours any more, than it is yours. We are simply guardians of it. We rejoice in the pluck you men of Los Angeles have shown, and which we also hope to see in our own aggressiveness, and we will work side by side for the success of the two expositions."

GILLET IN THE CHAIR

Former Governor James N. Gillett presided at the meeting. The call for the meeting was read by Secretary Robert N. Lynch of the California development board. He pronounced it successful beyond all expectations. "And I am glad to state that," he said, "it is that California by this gathering, proclaims itself a solid unit, without division of any kind, when it comes to boosting for the state at large, and her preparation for the opening of the Panama canal and the two great expositions. I have seen men from the far north and the far south shaking hands today in San Francisco, in the central sections of the state, and in California's most gratifying demonstration and one that the state can be proud to show the entire country."

The program for the day included addresses by M. H. Robbins, president of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce; Lieutenant Governor A. J. Wallace, former governor J. N. Gillett and former United States Senator Philip Flint, whose subject was "The Panama Canal." At 11 o'clock a symposium was held on California's preparation for (1) "The Southern Pacific," by E. J. Gibson, Los Angeles; (2) "Forestry and Natural Resources," by Colonel W. H. Holabird; (3) "Soil Products," by G. H. Powell; (4) "Manufacturing," by Fredrick Coster; (5) "Transportation," by W. R. Wheeler.

TALK ON IMMIGRATION

At 2 o'clock Robert Watchorn, former commissioner of immigration at New York, spoke on "California's Preparation for Immigration," and was followed by Secretary J. J. Byrne for the Santa Fe, E. L. Lom for the Western Pacific, and F. A. Wann for the Salt Lake.

"The Needs of Respective Sections," brought forth six addresses. E. L. Lom, former commissioner of the section north of the bay counties; S. Glen Andrus, Sacramento, for Sacramento county; George B. Flanagan of Nevada City, for the mountain counties; J. M. Eddy of Stockton for the San Joaquin valley; C. B. Booth of Los Angeles for southern California, and Joseph T. Brock of San Jose for the Central Clara valley.

Tonight a reception was given to the delegates and visitors at the Chamber of Commerce, at which an address on the "Panama Canal" was delivered by former Representative Duncan McKinlay.

Sisters to Become Brides on Same Day

Two Scrivani sisters, who will be married at their mother's home February 1.

White and Gold Will Be Color Scheme at Scrivani Double Wedding

At a pretty ceremony in the home of their mother, Mrs. Clementina Scrivani, Miss Teresa Scrivani and Miss Virginia Scrivani will become the brides of Luigi Brotrati and Antonio Scrivani on February 1. All the details of a double wedding will be minutely carried out. The Scrivani residence will be attractively decorated in greens and cut flowers in a color scheme of white and gold. Both brides will be gowned in the approved white satin robe embellished with rich lace and will carry shower bouquets of white bride roses. Their veils, fashioned in Juliet caps, will be confined with a semiwreath of orange blossoms and similar flowers. They will also appear as a corsage bouquet on their gowns and will be used to loop the square court train. To carry out the idea more completely there will be no attendants for either party, but instead the brides will enter the room on the arms of their fiancés and proceed together to the improvised altar before which the marriage service will be read. Only relatives and a few invited guests will witness the impressive ceremony, after which an informal reception and wedding supper will be held.

Whether or not a double honeymoon will follow the wedding has not been made public, but the probabilities are to the contrary.

The Misses Scrivani are the daughters of Mrs. Clementina Scrivani and are prominent in the younger social circles of the local Italian colony, where they are also interested in church work. In spite of the similarity of names, Antonio Scrivani, who is to marry the younger daughter of the house, is in no way related to the family of his bride to be. He is the son of Mrs. Celestina Casazzi, while Brotrati is the son of Mrs. Angelina Brotrati and is well known in San Francisco business and lodge circles.

SAN FRANCISCO WOMAN IS JAILED IN DENVER

She Is Charged With Shipping Dealer's Piano

DENVER, Jan. 12.—Mrs. Ruth Cosgrove Smith, who is here with her husband, M. E. Smith of San Francisco, was arrested here today as she was returning from the funeral of Mrs. Smith's mother.

She is charged with shipping out of the state a piano belonging to him. She was unable to produce bail in Justice Gavin's court and was taken to the county jail. Mrs. Smith came here from Los Angeles, where she was recently detained on a charge by her husband that she was fleeing with $1,900 of his money.

Mrs. Smith Took $1,900

Mrs. Smith was arrested in Los Angeles just as she was about to board an overland train after having fled from her home in San Francisco. Her husband accused her of taking $1,900 of his money and he put the local police and private detectives on Mrs. Smith's trail. Smith, who is a railroad conductor, dropped the case against his wife as soon as she returned to San Francisco. At that time Mrs. Smith explained her going away with her husband's money by saying that she loved his clothes.

FRANKWORKHEIRS VIOLATE HIS WILL

The Twins Sail for Europe in Defiance of Grandfather's Bequest

Others Said to Have Agreed Not to Take Advantage of Their Act

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The sailing this week for Europe of Maurice and Frank Burke-Roche, grandsons and heirs of the late Frank Work, in defiance of his will, has made known the existence of an agreement between the late multimillionaire's heirs which nullifies the provision of his will.

The two young men are the twin sons of Mrs. Frances Burke-Roche by her first husband, James Boothby Burke-Roche, Irish soldier of fortune. There was also a daughter, who, with her husband, Arthur Scott Burden, is accompanying her brothers on their visit to St. Moritz, Switzerland.

After his daughter and Burke-Roche were divorced, Frank Work, who died March 16 last, in his 93rd year, expressed his opinion of the Irishman by adding four caustic codicils to his will. He was accustomed to declare to his friends that, in his opinion, international marriages should be punished by hanging.

According to information given out here, the young men have signed an agreement binding themselves not to profit by any action which Mrs. Burke-Roche or her children may take in violating the will.

JAPANESE WAR SCARE WAKES UP COMMITTEE

Nipponese Soldiers Said to Be Lurking in Hawaii

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—A statement that there were 35,000 former Japanese soldiers in Hawaii who would support Japan if that country and the United States went to war created a deep impression on the house committee on military affairs today, when Major General William H. Carter, assistant chief of staff of the army, made the assertion. He urged the creation of an American army reserve.

Almost all of the 69,000 Japanese in Hawaii are said to be subject to reserve duty for their government in case of war.

General Carter attacked the Hay bill for reorganization of the army in strong terms. He said the plan to lengthen the enlistment period of five years would make it more difficult to secure men. He estimated that if the permanent list of 76 officers in the consolidated supply department were created, it would be 1943 before the youngest of them could reach the top grade.
