

ROPH'S CHARGES STRAINED WORD DESIGN

Just a Gentle Whisper, a Mere Hint, Might Save Some Small Bickering

Meanwhile a Clam Has Nothing on McCarthy Holdovers in Civic Commissions

Unless the resignation of James E. Power as a member of the board of education is in the hands of Mayor Rolph today or tomorrow it is probable that the city will be treated to its first exhibition of municipal house cleaning in the open through the medium of a public trial of a commissioner on the formal charges of misconduct in office and mismanagement of his department.

Mayor Rolph has not yet made public the name of any commissioner against whom charges have been filed, but has said that such charges are in his possession, and yesterday he added that he intends to call the commissioner in question before him today, if possible, and inform him of the nature of the accusations. It is generally understood that the charges in the mayor's possession are directed at Power.

I have charges against a certain commissioner in my possession, said Mayor Rolph yesterday, "but have had no time to investigate them. If possible I expect to ask the commissioner in question to call upon me tomorrow, and when I inform him of what is before me."

While the charges against Power include a multiplicity of allegations, City Attorney Long is said to have advised the mayor that a formal accusation, merely charging a violation of the section of the charter which requires a school director to give his entire time to the duties of his office, would afford sufficient ground for an investigation. Should Mayor Rolph pursue this method, the accused director might, as he has already done, assert that the more specific charges are "merely newspaper talk" and explain that it might be true that in the heat of a campaign he had "done politics" for the last administration and had failed to give his entire time to the duties of his official career to "political activity."

Mayor Rolph made no appointment yesterday for the resignation of the school board caused by the resignation of Director Vaughan, and no other resignations were presented to him during the day.

Dr. Guy E. Manning and Commissioners Arthur M. Sharp and Dennis J. Murray of the board of health and Harry E. Michael of the civil service commission are the only members of the question of resignations who are not discussed.

The formulation of specific charges may not be an easy task in all cases in which the mayor is expected to cause removal of holdover commissioners. Two other lines of action may be opened to him, though an investigation based on the report of the finance committee of the board of supervisors, which is to be ready Friday, or through possible recommendations from the grand jury, the removal of certain commissioners guilty of gross violations of civil service regulations.

FLAGRANT WASTE HINTED AT In making a partial preliminary report of the finance committee to the board of supervisors yesterday, Chairman William H. McCarthy of the committee hinted that numerous instances of flagrant waste of public funds by district commissioners had been uncovered, and recommended to the mayor that he take steps without delay to get a check upon them. McCarthy specifically named the board of public works, the fire commission, the department of electricity, the school board and the board of health.

Rolph acted yesterday upon Supervisor McCarthy by sending formal notes to the members of the board of public works, summoning them to a meeting with himself and the members of the finance committee Friday evening. With the finance committee absent before him, the mayor will question the members of the board of public works regarding any matters of waste or mismanagement shown therein, and it is possible that sufficient basis for action may be developed to make the bringing of formal charges unnecessary.

Following the meeting Friday evening with the members of the board of public works, the mayor will hold similar conferences with members of the other commissions on successive nights. Commissioners will be required to explain any evidences of mismanagement which may appear or to take the consequences.

As another lever with which to pry certain commissioners from their official positions, the mayor is likely to have before him a report from the grand jury recommending the removal of various office holders for violation of civil service regulations. The civil service committee of the grand jury has formulated a report containing such recommendations, and the report now awaits action by the grand jury itself.

The findings of the grand jury committee include charges against the McCarthy members of the civil service, police and fire commissions, the board of health, the board of works and the chief of electricity. It is set forth that the most flagrant violations of the law have been committed by the commissioners all have been offenders.

BENEDICT'S WIDOW ASKED TO ACCOUNT

Sisters Seek to Enforce Payment of Amounts Left to Her Discretion

Judge Thomas F. Graham granted a petition filed yesterday by Mrs. Lena Holly and Mrs. Arabella Baringer of Flatbush, N. Y., sisters of the late Courtland S. Benedict, who died January 7, and ordered that his widow, Mrs. Emma Hayes Benedict, appear in court Saturday and give an accounting of the estate of her husband, of which she was the sole legatee.

By the holographic will of Benedict, filed January 12, leaving the entire estate to the widow, who was named as executrix, she was requested to pay $1,200 a year to the sisters. This payment was left to the discretion of the widow. Special letters of administration were issued to her the day the will was filed.

The petition of the sisters for an accounting sets forth their belief that unless Mrs. Benedict is restrained by the court the portion of the estate consisting of stocks and bonds will be converted into cash and applied to her own use.

A great part of the property, estimated to be worth $250,000, was received by the elder Benedict in a compromise effected two months before his death in a suit brought by him against Mrs. Emily Benedict, widow of his son, E. J. Benedict, the sole beneficiary under the will.

The points of law on which the sisters propose to base a contest of the will are: That the elder Benedict, during the former litigation it was said that great animosity existed between the elder Benedict and his former-nurse of Courtland S. Benedict, and Mrs. Emily Benedict, the widow of his son. Whether the latter will become a party to the threatened contest has not been announced.

"COME, SLEEP; FORGET SERMON," SAYS PASTOR

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 16.—Sleeping men will find a welcome at the Union Congregational church here, according to announcement by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Allan Stockdale. Doctor Stockdale heard recently that many men were unwilling to attend church services because of the fear that they will disgrace themselves by going to sleep.

"Let them come here. They may go to sleep if they want to. They will not worry me at all; on the other hand, sleepers often cause me pleasure. The sleeping man can't find anything to complain about in my sermon or write indignant letters to me afterward."

"There are many reasons why men go to sleep. Many of them have been hustling during the week, and when they come into a warm church and find a heavy pew they can't avoid sleeping. The music is soothing, too. Let the men fall asleep. The rest will do them as much good as the sermon, perhaps."

The valuables are being held by the custom officials pending instructions from the secretary of the treasury.

BERNHARD GETZ WILL IS FILED FOR PROBATE

Estate Left to Widow and Three Daughters

The will of Bernhard Getz, real estate dealer, was filed in the superior court yesterday, with the petition of the widow and three daughters for probate. The will was deposited in trust, for probate.

Rose Getz, widow, was named as executrix. The personal property is estimated at $1,000 and the real property at more than $10,000.

The will, dated April 12, 1907, with several codicils, leaves the entire estate to the widow and three daughters, Mrs. Blanche Franklin, Mrs. Sylvia Gordon and Miss Alda Getz, all of this city.

Fire Wagon Makes Good In Hard Test on City's Hills

By LEON J. PINKSON

San Francisco's first piece of motor driven fire apparatus, a chemical engine, will be put into service today by the fire department officials. The engine is one of three recently ordered by the city and is of the American La France type. The others, a Pope-Hartford and six cylinder Seagrave, are to arrive at an early date. The American La France engine, according to the present plans, will be given the downtown district to cover and is to be housed at the home of engine company 2 on Bush street above Kearny.

The adoption of the motor driven chemical engines by the city is doubtless the forerunner of a modern fire department for San Francisco, and it is quite probable that it will result in the installation of motor driven steamers and hose wagons within the near future, much the same as the big cities of the east are now using and finding them a big aid in fighting flames and reducing property loss.

The motor driven fire engine has a wheel base of 140 1/2 inches. Its motor is of the 4 cylinder type, cast in pairs, with a 5 1/2 inch bore and a 5 inch stroke. It is rated at 70 horsepower. The engine carries two 80 gallon Champion revolving chemical cylinders, two ladders, an extension and roof ladder, two hand fire extinguishers, 300 feet of one inch special chemical hose, in addition to fire axes, crowbars and tools. The equipment also includes electric lights and a large fire hose reel.

The body is built to carry a crew of five fire fighters, including the driver, who is now not compelled to watch out for the engine while the fire is fighting. The tire equipment is 38x4 1/2 inch United States tires, dual in rear and single in front.

In a series of tests made last Saturday before Mayor James D. Murphy, President Brandenstein and other members of the fire board and hundreds of citizens, the chemical engine was tried out on the steep grades of California street from Montgomery to Mason, and on the level stretches in Van Ness avenue. From a standing start at Montgomery street and stopping at Dupont, the engine climbed the steep California street hill at a 21 mile an hour clip, reaching Mason street in 1 minute and 20 seconds. On Van Ness avenue the machine ran at 40 1/2 miles. On all the trips the machine carried a crew of five men.

Chalmers Coming to Coast.—E. P. Benedict, president of the Pioneer Automobile company, who is at present in New York, has telegraphed to Calvin C. Ebb of the Pioneer Automobile company, head of the big Chalmers factory, plans visiting the coast during February. Benedict is a keen enthusiast in the Panama-Pacific exposition and in the opening of the Panama-Pacific road. He has these two events near to California in a business way. He is coming here to study these conditions more closely.

Exposition Car Makes Good Showing.—E. S. Luther, driving a new R. E. Panama-Pacific car, finished the first five days of the contemplated 15 day, 1000 mile a day contest, last evening in Santa Cruz, having negotiated the required 200 miles yesterday. The mileage covered in the five days is as follows: First day, 200 miles; second day, 196 miles; third day, 210 miles; fourth day, 245 miles; fifth day, 204 miles. This mileage was negotiated between here and Redding, on both sides of the Sacramento valley, between San Francisco and Santa Cruz via San Jose, Gilroy, Watsonville, etc. Luther reports the road in the north part of the state to be in bad condition, with the exception of the western slopes of the Sacramento valley, through Glenn, Colusa and Butte counties, where they are in excellent shape considering the recent rains. The road to Santa Cruz are only fair. The people en route are very enthusiastic over the prospects of the great 1915 Panama-Pacific exposition, and they are as well much pleased with what has been accomplished up to date by the Panama-Pacific exposition company.

The case was continued until Saturday.

LAMP, FUMES KILL WOMAN AND A MAN

Bodies Found in House; Fire Burned Hole in Floor, Then Smoldered Out

With evidence that they met death through suffocation from the fumes of an overturned lamp, the bodies of Mrs. Gus Sonberg and Edward Conners were found in the Sonberg residence at 2700 Diamond street early yesterday morning.

The couple evidently had been dead since Saturday night, as neighbors say there has been no indication of life in the dwelling since that time. Mrs. Sonberg was found lying on the floor, and with burns on her face and body, which indicated that the lamp had exploded in her arms or that she had made a desperate effort to fight her way through the flames outdoors. Conners' body was stretched on a lounge in an adjoining room, the floor of which was burned through for four feet.

Policeman Speck and a coal dealer named Page discovered the bodies when they forced an entrance to the dwelling.

Neighbors say that Mrs. Sonberg and Conners had been drinking in the house Saturday night, and cries of "murder" were heard from the house. The police are not inclined to believe that any violence was committed, and further investigation has been stopped.

Mrs. Sonberg was the wife of an engineer on the steamship Santa Maria. Sonberg is in Honolulu. Conners was a laborer who had boarded with the Sonberg family for about three years.

JURY IS DRAWN FOR TRIAL OF A. H. MARTEL

No Testimony Taken in Case of Indicted Banker

A jury was impaneled yesterday before Judge F. P. Duran in the superior court for the trial of A. H. Martel, former president of the old Market Street bank, indicted for the falsification of a statement to the state board of bank commissioners. No testimony was taken, and the case will continue today.

A specific charge is that Martel signed a statement representing the capital stock of the bank to be $60,000 in excess of the actual figures, the difference afterward being found to conform with worthless notes of the bank officials.

W. E. Nash, cashier of the bank, who was convicted a few days ago on the same charge, is now awaiting sentence, pending a judgment on a motion for a new trial to be made before Judge Dunne today.

RABBI MARTIN MEYER LECTURES ON TALMUD

After a program of music, dancing and recitations, Rabbi Martin Meyer addressed the members of the Mills club yesterday afternoon on the Talmud. He spoke of the difficulties of its study, saying that it was a great sea of knowledge that provided great possibilities of losing one's self.

It was due largely to the study of the Talmud between the ninth and fifteenth centuries, he said, that the law was characterized as among the greatest of the world had seen, being divided into two elements, the law and the saga or narrative.

The law, he said, was not the pleasant, he said, but the saga was homiletical, dogmatical, ethical and delightful, being filled with legends that give "glint lights" on great personalities.

The other features of the program, which was under the direction of Mrs. E. H. Folsom, were: Song, Mrs. Grace Elinor Butcher, accompanist Mrs. C. G. Dall; dance, Isabelle Miller Luchsinger, accompanist Helen G. Gallagher; reading, Mrs. Walter Winkle.

FURMAN AGAIN ON TRAIL OF "WHITE SLAVE" GANG

Policeman Thomas Furman has been reinstated in the detective bureau by order of Chief of Police White. Furman will do duty on the white slave detail. Furman and Maurice Behan were detective sergeants under Chief of Police Seymour and distinguished themselves on this detail, obtaining seven convictions in six months. When Furman was made chief by Mayor McCarthy he told Furman and Behan to go back to patrol duty. "We have no white slavery in this city," said White in discussing the change at that time.

COURT DENIES FORMER WHARFINGER'S PETITION

Judge Seawell in the superior court yesterday handed down a decision denying the petition of W. A. Brown, formerly a wharfinger stationed at China basin for a writ of mandate to compel the state board of harbor commissioners to restore him to the position from which he had been discharged. The complaint alleged that Brown had been illegally removed on the charge of irregularity in office hours and neglect of duty.

BARBER HUSBAND LISTENS TO SIREN

Mrs. Elsie McCurdy, Content With Fickle Spouse's Ridance, Declines Alimony

When love grew cold after several years of married life in the quiet confines of Ferndale, Humboldt county, John B. McCurdy, a barber, Mrs. Elsie McCurdy declared, in testifying before Judge E. P. Mogan yesterday in the superior court in her suit for divorce, listened to the song of the siren and, with Mrs. Bertie Donnelly, departed for Los Angeles, where he has since become a prosperous "real estate" man. She declined alimony, content, she said, to be rid of him. An interlocutory decree was granted.

An uncontrollable rage that led him to chop her seakink, sacque into shreds and demolish the family piano is charged against William J. Hanna, a plumber, living at 1112 Tennessee street, by Mrs. Annie Hanna, who also charges that his exhibitions of temper forced her in fear to seek safety with a neighbor. She asks for the custody of their seven children and $100 a month alimony.

The interlocutory decrees of divorce were granted as follows: By Judge Van Nostrand—Evelyn J. from John E. Hackenbruck, desertion, and Margaret E. from John Ratzinger, cruelty. By Judge Graham—Margaret from William A. Mahoney, desertion; and by Judge Mogan—Minnie C. from George W. Ackerman, desertion; and by Judge Samuel against Rosa Rosenbloom, desertion; D. J. against C. M. Bruce, desertion; Rosa against Augustus A. Baker, cruelty; Allan G. against Phillippe L. Moran, cruelty; and Bertha against Homer N. Youngs, cruelty.

PROSECUTION RESTS IN TRIAL OF P. PRANTIKOS

Policeman's Slayer May Plead Self-Defense

The prosecution yesterday completed its testimony in the case of Poolos Prantikos, on trial for the killing of a policeman. The defense will be begun this morning.

Hubert Schwartz, Willard S. Pladwell, Alex R. Stewart, John Vailier, J. W. Mansfield, Patrolmen William Doran and Patrick J. Campton, Sergeant of Police Peter K. O'Keefe and Detective Sergeant Dave Sullivan, all of them witnesses of the shooting, or the events immediately succeeding, gave their evidence. Joseph A. Rock, assistant bond and warrant clerk, who took the dying statement of Policeman Fenelly, read the contents of the affidavit. Curtis M. Moss, who saw the shooting from a nearby bootblack stand, and pursued and captured Prantikos, also testified.

From the character of the cross examination it is believed that counsel for the prisoner will base their case on a plea of self-defense.

$40,000 IS AWARDED TO WARATAH OIL COMPANY

Contention of Defendant Corporation Is Disallowed

A judgment for $40,000, the full amount sued for, was awarded in a decision handed down yesterday by Judge Trout in the superior court to the Waratah Oil company against the Reward Oil company for balance due on a note for $80,000. The court's payment of the purchase price of a tract of oil land near Baker's field, the plaintiff showed that only $35,000 had been paid. The Reward Oil company contending that by reason of its inability to shut off the water during its drilling, and the consequent impossibility of obtaining oil in commercial quantities, it was entitled under its contract to surrender the land without further payment on the purchase price. This contention was disallowed by the court.

CHINESE INDICTED BY FEDERAL GRAND JURY

The federal grand jury returned indictments yesterday against Chong Mon, alias Jew Chong Mon, for falsely impersonating an Anglo Island, November 3, 1911, a person named in the certificate of residence of a Chinese laborer; Tom Curley, alias Tom Bang, for sending opium through the mail from this city to Eureka on November 3, 1911, and George Elliot for causing the same to be sent to him. The bail of the Chinese was fixed at $1,000 and of the two other defendants at $250 each.

THOUSAND DOLLARS NOT AS GOOD AS FREEDOM

Andrea Ginnini, charged with grand larceny and out on bail of $1,000, failed to answer his name when the case was called by Police Judge Seawell yesterday, and the bail has been ordered forfeited and a bench warrant is out for Ginnini's arrest. Ginnini is accused of bunking John Mosell, 743 Seventh avenue, out of $900 in a box switching game.

DEMONSTRATOR NOT TO BLAME FOR MAN'S DEATH

The case against Earl Cooper, the demonstrator charged with manslaughter in that he killed P. Patemadame, a vegetable wagon driver, in Sloat boulevard on the morning of December 3, was dismissed by Police Judge Deary yesterday on the ground that it was an unavoidable accident.

BOARD TO PREVENT LEAK IN CITY BARREL

Efficiency Committee of Supervisors Considers Plans for Economy

Supervisors Murdock, A. J. Gallagher and Ginnini of the efficiency committee discussed with Expert H. A. Mason yesterday general plans for increasing the effectiveness of all the city departments and took up some specific instances where economy might be practiced.

One small department of the city government, yet unchosen, is to be overhauled scientifically to see what can be done to stop waste and to increase its usefulness. This for a beginning. The office of the board is being subjected to such a reorganization.

Mason was instructed to continue the work of boiling down the city printing. As legal publicity costs the city $25,000 or more each year, it is hoped to save $5,000 or $7,000 by cutting out verbiage.

The services of experts may be needed to reorganizing some of the larger city activities, such as street cleaning and repairs, policing, tax collection, care of indigents, support of the fire and police alarm systems, etc.

MASKED MEN HOLD UP THREE "BEARS" IN ROW

Two Shunted Into Boxcar, the Other Puts Up Fight

Two armed masked men committed three holdups near pier 42 late Monday night, but obtained little loot. W. D. Clemens, waiter on the steamer Bear, was coming from his ship when the two strangers stopped him at Second and Townsend streets. They searched him and took $2.75.

The bandits then lifted him into a box car. "Don't you make an outcry or we will kill you. We are going to attack up the next fellow who comes along." They then shut the door of the car.

Michael Toomey, fireman on the steamer Bear, was the next man to be held up. They did not find anything of any value on him, so they placed him in the box car with Clemens and repeated the same warning. Jesse F. Woods, wireless operator on the Bear, then was held up. Instead of complying with their demands, he kicked one of the masked men and ran in the direction of the ship. When he returned with several of the crew the masked high-wire artist disappeared. Toomey and Clemens, locked in the box car, cried for help and were released by the crew. The police have no clew to the daring thugs.

Yee Jew, a Chinese, 1039 Stockton street, was held up by three men at Post and Leavenworth streets early yesterday morning and relieved of $38.

Pickpockets robbed A. Greenberg, 349 Golden Gate avenue, on a Fillmore street car of a diamond pin valued at $85. Mrs. Mary Wentworth, 301 Stanyan street, was robbed of her watch on a Union street car.
